Booth Tarkington's Wife Sues.

Mutual Agreement of Incompatibility Leads to Divorce Action.

Efforts of Friends and Relatives to Reconcile Pair Are in Vain.

Author and Rich and Talented Wife Both Anxious for Decree.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The expected suit for divorce resulting from the strained relations between Mr. and Mrs. Booth Tarkington was filed by attorneys of the wife today and gives conclusive evidence of the fact that the many well-meant efforts of friends and relatives to bring about a reconciliation proved unavailing. The complaint is one of the briefest ever filed in such a case. She says in part:

"The plaintiff, Louisa Fletcher Tarkington, complains of the defendant and says that they were married on the 18th day of June, 1902, in the city of Indianapolis, Ind., that she is now a resident of said city and has been all her life, more than twenty-five years.

"That they lived together as husband and wife until in July, 1911, when she left him. That during their married life she has endeavored to conduct herself as a loving and dutiful wife. That, on the contrary, the defendant for more than five years past has habitually treated her with great cruelty. That as the result of said marriage there is a girl child, named Laurel Louise Fletcher Tarkington, who is 5 years of age and who needs a mother's care and protection.

"Wherefore she respectfully asks the court to grant her a divorce from the defendant and to grant unto her the custody and control of the said child."

GOOD-BY IN NEW YORK.

The time referred to as that on which she left her husband was on the occasion of bidding good-by in New York, Tarkington going on one of his nomadic rambles to Europe and the wife going to relatives' summer home in Maine. The husband and wife regarded the parting as probably final, but they corresponded regularly and when he returned to New York and she to her brother's home in this city they still corresponded, the letters,

HOW TO AVOID INTERVIEWERS

Sherlock Holmes Tells Maeterlinck to Try the Peg-Leg Stunt.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Maurice Maeterlinck's wager that he can land in New York and reach Boston without submitting to an interview, has led Punch to furnish its readers with a symposium on the matter from British literary celebrities. Dr. A. Conan Doyle strongly recommends that he disguise himself as a one-legged man. "This is painful," he writes, "as it means bending the calf of the other leg backward against the part above the knee and pushing the result into a truncated trouser, but it can be done. Nobody would expect Maeterlinck to have only one leg. A twisted lip would also be useful, but one must remember that interviewers have sharp eyes."

Manchus Appear Checkmated at Every Turn and Are Near Bankruptcy.

Republican Troops Hold the Passes and Imperialist Army Is Stationary.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PEKING, Oct. 21.—Gen. Yin Tchang, the War Minister, who is in the neighborhood of Sin Yang Chau, in Hunan Province, has completed the mobilization of 20,000 men, but the opinion is held here that he has no intention for the present to begin an advance against the revolutionaries holding the towns of Wu Chang, Hun Yang and Hankow.

The province of Hunan and Hu Peh are divided by a high range of hills, through which the only pass for many miles is traversed by the railway. It is reported that this pass is held by the Rebels, who have posted many guns. They are supposed to have cut off 3000 Imperial troops, which were going northward from Hankow.

The government first mentioned Kwang Shui, which is on the south slope of the hills, as the place of Yin Tchang's mobilization, but evidently the War Minister has been content to assemble his forces on the north side of the hills. The pass is believed to be impassable by the troops under Yin Tchang. Whether he will reinforce them is questioned because the growing feeling makes it necessary to maintain as many troops around Peking as possible. It is stated officially that Yin Tchang intends to perfect his organization before advancing on the rebels holding Hang Chow, which is some miles below Hankow on the Yangtse Kiang.

BRIGADE STAMPEDES.

A reliable report has reached here that on the morning of October 18 the third brigade of government troops arriving at the Liu Cha Miao station were fired upo nby rebels with thirty-six field guns, whereupon the whole brigade stampeded to the north.

The provincial troops hastened to their aid, but without avail, as the rout could not be checked.

The same advices state that the division had no option to do anything but return and await reinforcements. It is evident—if the report of the rout is true—that the government does not hold Kwang Shui.

The American consul at Che Foo reports to the legation that the Shangtung cities are quiet. The coasts, however, are swarming with pirates.

The Che Foo bank failed yesterday.

The Chinese government is so short of money that it is believed it will be unable to pay salaries of the metropolitan officials next month. The government has withdrawn all its customs receipts, amounting to 700,000 taels, from Tsing Tao.

Advices from Kaifening, Hunan, say that recruiting is going actively on. Most of the Manchu troops have left for the south and there appears to be no dissatisfaction among the men. Bandits are getting active in some Provinces. Troops attacked and killed several hundred of them in Loshu Province.

A dispatch received here from the British Consul at Hankow, dated noon, October 20, says:

"The railway station at Kilometren was evacuated by the Imperial forces Thursday. The Imperialists are now holding the station at Ten-Mile Creek. The Loyalist warships have retreated to a point out of sight of Hankow."

DARK OUTLOOK.

There was little in the news received at the capital today to reassure the government or relieve the general feeling of uneasiness.

The missionaries in this province, Chi Li, have been warned by students that there will be a revolutionary outbreak near Peking tomorrow. Considerable credence is attached to the warning as similar advance information reached the missionaries at Wu Chang prior to the rising there.

Evidently trouble is brewing in Tientsin and a telegram from there contains the ominous statement that the Yamen of the Viceroy at Tsi Nan, the capital of Shanghung province, has been burned.

Consular reports from I-Chang, which has been isolated for some days, confirms earlier rumors that the city is in the possession of the revolutionists. Thus far there has been no disturbance in I-Chang with the exception of an agitation on the part of the 15,000 coolies employed on railroad construction who demand

VIENNA, Oct. 21.—The Archduke Karl Franz Joseph and Princess Zita of Parma were married today in the castle at Schwarzau, Lower Austria, in the presence of the Emperor and the King of Saxony.

The bridegroom is next in line to become Emperor-King of Austria-Hungary. He is the elder son of the late Archduke Otto and a great nephew of the Emperor Franz Joseph. He also is a nephew of the Archduke Franz Ferdinand, heir presumptive to the throne. The latter made a morganatic marriage with the Princess Hohenberg and renounced all rights of succession on her behalf and of their children.

Princess Zita is the thirteenth child of the late Duke Rogert of Parma and his second wife, Maria Antonia, Princess of Portugal. She was born on May 9, 1892 and has twenty-three brothers and sisters. Fanny Bullock Workman Does Some Great Climbing in Esia and Photographs a Glacier.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Fanny Bullock Workman, mountain climber, telegraphs that she crossed Saltoro Pass in the Himalayas at the height of 18,200 feet on August 19, and descended to Siachen Glacier, the largest and longest in Asia. She explored upper portions of its affluents for three weeks.

The cold was excessive, owing to the lateness of the season, and the fact that all work had to be done at an altitude of from 17,000 to 20,000 feet. She ascended one peak to the height of 21,000 feet, whence a view of thirty-five miles of glacier was obtained, and she got a number of telephotos. The expedition returned safely over the icy Saltoro on September 19.

This is the first news received from Mrs. Workman's party since it left Serinagur, in Kashmir, last spring.

PRESIDENT TAFT GETS A BLACK HILLS GOLD BRICK.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DEADWOOD (S. D.) Oct. 21.—President Taft further qualified as a miner today when he was taken 1100 feet down in the famous Homestake gold mine at Lead. Two years ago Mr. Taft was taken down to the 1200-foot level in the Leonard Copper mine at Butte, Mont., and spent fully an hour groping about the drifts and tunnels and watching the men at work.

His experiences today were much the same, the principal difference being in the more precious quality of the quartz veins through which Mr. Taft was guided, with miners' lanterns lighting the way. The President began his trip to the mine by climbing a high flight of steps and crossing a long trestle leading to the mouth of one of the shafts.

The altitude at the entrance to the mine is just one mile above the sea level, and the President stopped to rest several minutes before allowing himself to be locked with several members of his party into one of the steel cages. It was a long, dark ride down the shaft. Mr. Taft went sailing down at a speed which carried him to the 1100-foot level in less than two minutes. Three-quarters of an hour later he was hoisted to the surface at a pace even faster.

All work in the mine had been suspended this afternoon, partly to give the men an opportunity to hear Mr. Taft speak in Lead, and partly as a precaution for the President's safety in visiting the mine.

LEARNS OF MINING.

The entire process of mining the ore and of smelting it was explained to the President. Outside snow was on the ground and there were flurries of falling flakes. Down in the mine the temperature rose to between 70 and 80.

"How are you, Bill?" a miner yelled from a level far above.

"Oh, pretty good," the President answered with a laugh; "how are you away up there?"

"Fine, old boy, glad to see you."

Mr. Taft also spent some time in the government assay office at Lead and watched the casting of a real gold brick. Later he was shown a room full of the bricks, each of which weighed 125 pounds and worth about $30,000 apiece. Some one "stumped" the President to lift a brick. He picked up one of the bars with the greatest ease.

In this city, where he spoke shortly after noon on the tariff vetoes, the President was presented with a small gold brick worth more than $300.

PRESIDENT GOLD-BRICKED.

"It is a great pleasure to gold-brick the President," Representative E. W. Martin said in presenting the brick.

"A great pleasure to be gold-bricked in this way," the President replied.

Mr. Taft received a noisy welcome both in Deadwood and in Lead. Practically the entire population of the two communities turned out to greet him.

Earlier in the day the President spoke at Edgemont and Custer. After leaving here he spoke at Sturgis and Rapid City, leaving the latter city at 10 p.m., for Pierre, where he will spend Sunday and Sunday night.

At Rapid City a delegation of Sioux chiefs met the President and presented him with a petition asking for the return of the Black Hills to the Indians. They declared that they never intended to give up the lane to the white men and they wanted it back "right now." If this were not convenient, they wanted fifty cents an acre "to put in our pockets."

When Mr. Taft promised to give the matter due consideration, the chiefs grunted "Heap good."

Destailleur and several men are charged with illegal collusion.

MEMORY IS RESTORED.

Mind Blank Nearly Fourteen Years.

Slugged in New York, Man Is Brought to Himself in Seattle.

Thrown Into Hudson River, but Doesn't Know How He Got Out.

Served in Navy, Married and Became Insane; Operation Saves Him.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE, Oct. 21.—S. Chandler Rogers, who was attacked by three ruffians at the corner of Eighth avenue and Sixteenth street, New York City, on the night of May 1, 1897, and thrown into the Hudson River, after his skull had been fractured, wandered about the world for fourteen years under the name of George Kelly, and was restored to himself in this city yesterday as the result of a surgical operation that removed pressure upon his skull.

Under the name of George Kelly, he served eleven years in the United States navy and was discharged at Bremerton, July 1, 1910. Then he went to work in a sawmill at Port Blakeley and was married there two months ago.

On October 10, he disappeared from his home and was found three days later in the dense forest, crawling on his hands and knees and snapping like a dog. On October 13, he was brought to a hospital in Seattle. He was unable to speak or see, and apparently was paralyzed. Last Sunday an operation was performed to remove a portion of the skull that pressed upon the brain.

Yesterday Kelly asked for pen an paper and wrote a concise and intelligent letter to his malf-sister, Miss Florence Douels, No. 418 West Thirty-second street, New York City, closing his letter by stating that he was in a hospital. He signed the name S. Chandler Rogers.

Rogers then asked for a newspaper and was dumfounded when a paper dated Seattle, October 20, was handed to him. He asked where he was and when told, he broke down and wept. On recovering his composure, he told this story:

"I do not know where I have been or what I have been doing for fourteen years. I was born in New York City in 1880. I lived with my grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Douels, No. 418 West Thirty-second street, New York.

"I was first a newaboy in New York and then a messenger with a big trust company. I used to box in a theater, to earn a little side money.

"May 1, 1897, I took a vacation. With a friend I went to a theater accompanied by two girls. I took my girl home and then started to walk to my own abode. At the corner of Sixteenth street, and Eighth avenue I met three men, who asked for a match. I told them 'I am no match factory.'

"Then one made a pass at me. I struck at him with my brass knuckles on my right hand—I always wore them at night—it was then near midnight.

"Another man of the three struck me with a blackjack and I fell to my knees. The next I knew I was swimming in the river almost stark naked.

"I remember catching hold of a pile and yelling for help. I can remember being dragged from the river and that is the last I know, except that I woke up here in this hospital in Seattle Tuesday morning."

Until Blood Came, Kept Using Horse. Could Not Sleep Nights. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment And the First Day They Relieved. Inching. In 3 Weeks Eczema Cured.

I suffered with eczema on my neck for six months, beginning by little pimples breaking out. I kept scratching till it came. It kept getting worse. I couldn't sleep nights any more. It kept itching for about a month, then I went to a doctor and got some liquid to take. It seemed as if I was going to get better, but after taking it for a few days, was even worse than before. The itching and scratching was awful. I went to a doctor and he said I had blood poison, but didn't do me any good. We have been in the house, up I decided to try them. I have been using Cuticura Soap, and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment, and washed the affected part with Cuticura Soap three times a day, and then I put on Cuticura Ointment. The first day I put on Cuticura Ointment, I felt relief at once, and the next day I put on Cuticura Ointment. It took about 2 weeks, when I was entirely well. I have been using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment for three weeks, and my eczema is entirely gone. I got his face burned with fire, and he used Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and thought he would have to have it taken off, but it was simply healed up. I have recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment to several people, and they have used it with success. (Signed) Mrs. Ida Bennett, Rosedale, Ark., Oct. 16, 1910. GREAT ISSUES IN PARLIAMENT.

British Lawmakers Will Assemble Next Week.

New Policies of King George on the Calendar.

Foreign Relations Likely to Hold Attention Long.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] When the British Parliament reassembles next week it will begin a session big with possibilities in the foreign and domestic policies of George V. The field of politics is becoming more and more crowded with unexpected factors that must be reckoned with carefully by the chief States, Great Britain, Germany and powers, and especially the United France, if the march of civilization is not to be checked.

These factors, according to the theory of Canon Henson in the much-talked-of sermon at Newcastle, are dangerously complicated by "economic issues arising out of the tendency to social anarchy apparent by so many sinister tokens every where."

FOREIGN RELATIONS.

In the conduct of foreign relations all parties in the United Kingdom are virtually one in demanding the firm pressure of a strong hand during the present crisis in North Africa and East Asia. Little, if any, reproach will be heard at Westminster regarding Sir Edward Grey's conduct at any point.

His programme, aiming at the detachment of Italy from the Triple Alliance and the frustration of Germany's ambition to be a Mediterranean power, is bold and broad enough to satisfy the most militant Tory now urging the annexation of Egypt during the proconsulate of Kitchener.

Grey is anxious over all else to go into history as the statesman who concluded a general arbitration concention between London and Washington, and the progress he has made in that direction is a tall feather in the cap of the Asquith administration.

FIRST RANK.

First rank in the list of domestic questions to be handled by the imperial legislature under the conditions created in the last session by the smashing of the Houseof Lords veto is given by Mr. Asquith to the Lloyd-George insurance bill. The hottest kind of a fight will arise over this measure, which the Tories denounce as "the most uniquitous of the socialistic wedge being driven into the framework of capital in England."

Labor will make a supreme effort to strengthen its position before the electorate during the session. Recognising the injury suffered by the working classes from the popular assumption that British labor leaders really approve the tactics of continental syndicalism as expressed in the general strike, Ramsey McDonald, than whom no labor chief is more highly esteemed for judgment and probity, trenchantly repudiates all sympathy with syndicalism methods.

POLITICAL INDUSTRIALISM.

He proclaims "political industrialism" as the salvation of the workingman. His attitude implies that the labor parliamentarians are at last fully committed to the plan of "working through an alliance of political action with evolutionary industrial tactics."

As a response to McDonald's plan the socialists having resolved to form a new organization, known as the British Socialist party, will press toward the collectivist goal "by fighting the class war through to the finish." Henceforth laborites and socialists will be less likely to march together.

MAY ADJOURN REICHSTAG.

Germany Wants to Close the Open Mouth During Pendency of Delicate Foreign Negotiations.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The government is considering the extraordinary measure of bringing about a ten-day adjournment of the Reichstag, so that the delicate diplomatic negotiations in progress may not be embarrassed by untimely parliamentary discussions. Unless some of the members of that body relinquish their intention to compel a debate on foreign affairs the government will most likely take this step.

Thus far the Reichstag leaders have acquiesced in Chancellor Bethemann-Hollweg's proposal that the discussion of diplomatic questions be postponed until the Moroccan negotiations are concluded. Popular patience, however, is becoming exhausted and loud demands that the government's conduct of foreign affairs be fully aired are coming from all over the country. The public as yet has no trustworthy information regarding the status of the Moroccan negotiations and confusion prevails as to the course the government is steering with reference either to the Italo-Turkish war or the Chinese rebellion.

BANDITS THREATEN A CITY.

SINALOA (Mex.) Oct. 21.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] There is great excitement here in expectation of a battle in this vicinity. Col. Ochea, at the head of the rurales, occupies the city, but Gen. Banderas, the revolting ex-revolutionist, is coming from Culiacan Rosales at the head of several hundred mutinous Federals and other recruits with a plentiful supply of gatling guns, rifles and ammunition. There appears to be a contest for authority between the recently-elected government of Gov. Renteris and his ally, Banderas.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "I am going to meet Nat Goodwin face to face or know the reason why," declared Edna Goodrich, the actress, yesterday, just before she and her mother sailed for New York on board the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria.

The pair registered as Mrs. Goodrich and Miss Goodrich. The actress left the Hotel Cecil with more trunks than any voyager since Sarah Bernhardt made her last trip.

The object of the return of Miss Goodrich is threefold. First, she proposes to defend the ante-nuptial contract made by Goodwin, giving her a large amount of property to induce her to marry him, a state of affairs similar to the Cavalieri-Chanler case.

The second object is the suit brought by W. E. D. Stokes, owner of the Hotel Ansonia in New York, against Miss Goodrich for more than $2000. This sum is claimed for rental and food furnished Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin when stopping there early last winter. Miss Goodrich insists that as the husband is bread winner of the family, he should pay for the board and lodgings as long as she was married to Goodwin.

The third object is to fulfill a vaudeville engagement.

Democrats Who Absented Themselves From Legislature on Witness Stand in Stephenson Case.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MILWAUKEE (Wis.) Oct. 21.—John T. Farrell and Silas A. Towne, two of the three Democratic Assemblymen who absented themselves from the Legislature on March 4, 1909, and thus gave Senator Isaac Stephenson a majority sufficient to elect him, denied before the Senatorial Investigation Committee today that they were influenced by money. One of the three members died since the election.

After the election, Assemblyman F. R. Zimmerman testified, he talked of the absentees to Assemblyman J. A. Domachowski.

"Domachowski told me he was offered $500 for his vote," said Zimmerman. "I asked him what he meant by that. He said that if he was offered that I could guess about the rest. Afterward, I understand, he testified, he intended the whole thing to be a joke."

It was announced that Edward Hines, the lumberman, would be summoned, and probably would be called upon to testify early next week.

New Theater Under the Management of Liebers Make a Gorgeous Picture of Robert Hichens's Book.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Century Theater, which has now passed with a change of name from its old title of the New Theater into the control of Liebler & Co., this afternoon gave the first production under its new management, the dramatic version of Robert Hichens's romance, "The Garden of Allah."

Today's effort was worthy of the spirit which has previously dominated the playhouse.

The stage version made by the author and Mary Anderson Navarro, who figured on the programme only as "a collaborator," is a glorified, extra illustrated edition of the story. George Tyler and his cohorts have converted "The Garden of Allah" in its stage form into a gorgeous stage picture.

CALTANISSETTA (Sicily) Oct. 21.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] An explosion of gas in a sulphur mine at Trabonella today set the mine on fire and caused many deaths. The bodies of twenty men have been recovered and some other miners who were working in galleries distant from the mouth of the pit were still missing tonight.

SEARCH ROOM OF MINISTER.

Police Find Richeson's Quarters Ransacked.

Try to Identify Host of Murdered Girl.

Witness Says Clergyman Took Her to Dinner.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—To strengthen the chain of circumstantial evidence upon which the Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson was arrested yesterday for the alleged murder of Miss Avis Linnell, the police today concentrated their efforts on ascertaining whether it was Mr. Richeson or another person who dined with the young music student last Saturday afternoon, a few hours before she took the fatal cyanide of potassium.

The police say they have evidence indicating that Richeson was her companion. They have worked on the theory that the man with whom Miss Linnell dined was the person who gave her the poison.

Police attempts to obtain from the room in Cambridge occupied by Richeson some article which might further connect him with the charge were frustrated unexpectedly today. Inspectors who went to the pastor's rooms reported everything in a state of chaos, the result of a general ransacking prior to the police visit.

It is not known who did this, but it has been given out that a newspaper reporter impersonated an officer and gained entrance to the apartment.

That the police have discovered the restaurant at which Miss Linnell ate luncheon Saturday, and that Richeson was the man who accompanied her, was reported from headquarters today. It was said a young woman at the Young Women's Christian Association building had been furnished this information. This witness, who is believed to have been the last person to talk with Miss Linnell before she took the poison, says the girl declared:

"I dined with Mr. Richeson."

In pursuing this line of investigation the police say they have learned from a Cambridge man that on Thursday of last week the minister was overheard to make an appointment by telephone for luncheon on Saturday with some person at the Young Women's Christian Association. John F. Danskin, the informant, said Mr. Richeson had called Miss Linnell on the telephone from the Danskin home on several occasions, and Mrs. Danskin heard this conversation.

It is understood Richeson wrote in his cell his resignation as pastor of the Immanuel Baptist Church, Cambridge. His parishioners were given to understand that this resignation would be forthcoming tomorrow.

The minister was visited today by Moses Grant Edmands, father of Miss Violet Edmands, his fiancee, at whose home in Brookline Mr. Richeson was arrested.

When Mr. Edmands left the jail he told newspaper men the prisoner was confident of acquittal and looked forward to the time when his name might be cleared of the charge which stands in the way of his intended marriage.

He added: "Mr. Richeson will have as good defense as money can buy."

This statement together with a further one that Mr. Edmands, with the members of his family, retains confidence in Mr. Richeson, was taken to indicate that the wealth of the Edmands family would be placed in defense of the pastor. It was announced tonight that the firm headed by Louis D. Brandeis, already had been retained.

RICHESON'S CAREER IN KANSAS CITY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Oct. 21.—The Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, held in Boston on the charge of having murdered Miss Avis Linnell, was pastor of the Bethany Baptist Church in this city from 1901 until 1904, when he resigned by request following the disclosures of three young women, each of whom accused him of being engaged to her.

A scandal arose among the congregation when the three girls, two of them members of the church, made their accusations against the pastor at the close of one of his Sunday morning sermons.

"All through the sermon," said a member of the congregation today, "the three sat together in the front row. The sermon was an eloquent one on 'Temptations of Young Girls in a City.' Just after the service the three women approached the preacher.

"'You promised to marry me,' said one. 'Are you going to do it?'

"'You promised to marry me, too,' said the second. 'Are you going to do that?'

"'And me, too,' said the other, crying. 'How about me?'

"The women all wept hysterically. The Rev. Richeson was calm, said there must be some mistake and left the church. Then he went to Liberty. The trustees wrote for his resignation."

ONCE A PASTOR OF EL PASO FLOCK.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Oct. 21.—Rev. Carence V. T. Richeson, the Baptist minister under arrest on a murder charge at Boston, is well known in this city, having served as pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church for one year.

Rev. Richeson came here from Cambridge, Mass., in 1906, and returned directly to Boston upon the close of his pastorate in the summer of 1907.

The little church here prospered under his management and he might be its pastor today but for his sudden determination to return East. His former parishioners declare it difficult to believe him guilty of the crime with which he is now charged.

HANG AN EFFIGY OF THE MINISTER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HYANNIS (Mass.) Oct. 21.—An effigy of the Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson was hung today from the limb of a tall elm tree in the yard of the Baptist Church, of which the clergyman was formerly pastor. On a board nailed to the foot of the tree were painted these words:

"Guilty—read Luke 17:2."

MISS IDA LEWIS A VICTIM OF APOPLEXY.

Only Woman in the United States to Have a License to Tend the Lamps that Beam for Mariners Lies at Death's Door in Newport. Post Dearer Than Matrimony.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEWPORT (R. I.) Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Ida Lewis, famous keeper of the Limerock Light, was stricken with apoplexy last night and cannot long survive, according to her physician. Limerock Light is in Newport Harbor. Ida Lewis is 72 years old. She went to the lighthouse when she was 15 years old. Her father was its first keeper. For a long while he suffered from rheumatism and she tended the light. Upon his death, when she was 17, she was appointed keeper, and she has filled the office since. From 1859 to 1870 she made daring rescues in the bay. For this Congress made her a permanent light keeper, the only woman to have such a position. The General Assembly of the State, thanked her and she received many handsome gifts and medals. Later she was given a Carnegie medal and she was made a participant in the Carnegie hero fund.

Miss Lewis had several romantic love affairs, but she always refused to consider matrimony unless her sweetheart would consent to live in the lighthouse.

All of her affairs of the heart were the result of her daring rescues. In 1863, she was instrumental in the rescue of the captain of the whaling ship "Fairhaven," one of the largest craft sailing from New Bedford. All the rest of the crew were lost, but Miss Lewis swam a mile with a life belt, and rescued the unconscious captain. Later he proposed to her, but she declared unless he would give up his sea life and make his home in her rocky domicile she would not consider marriage.

Twice within the following five years, she effected daring rescues which led to love affairs. Her refusal to leave her tower home prevented them developing into marriage.

Trees Still Luxuriant With Green Foliage Are So Weighted With the "Beautiful" that They Lose Some Branches—Ground White Over a Large Area.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SPRINGFIELD (Mo.) Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The first snow of this season fell this forenoon for nearly an hour. Snow beat the arrival of Jack Frost to the Ozark Mountain region, where it fell two hours. Today's snow fall was the first that this section has experienced in October since 1898 when an inch and one-half of snow fell.

At Mountain Grove, Mo., a heavy blinding snowstorm raged for two hours this morning. At least four inches of snow fell, spreading its white mantle over the city with such force that thousands of shade trees which were still luxuriant with green foliage were bent to the ground under the heavy load, which soon enveloped every sprig and branch.

HEAVY FALL IN LONE STAR STATE.

DALLAS (Tex.) Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Texas is in the grip of a cold wave. Snow, the earliest in the history of this section, has fallen over the Panhandle of Texas and northwestern New Mexico for the past twenty-four hours. At Amarillo the sight was novel and absolutely unheard of before. Tucumcari, N. M., Dalhart, Tex., Hereford, Tex., Plainview, Tex., and other Panhandle points had many trees and shrubbery killed by the snow which extended south within forty miles of Big Spring, Ward county.

The National Assembly will convene here tomorrow. As there is a sentiment in this body unfriendly to the throne, the approaching deliberations are looked forward to with some anxiety.

In view of the possible spread of the rebellion the foreign legations are taking the necessary military and commissary precautions in this city and at Tien-tsin for the protection of the legations and the citizens of the respective countries, which they represent.

Yuan Shi Kai, the newly appointed Viceroy of the province of Hupeh and Hunan, and Yin Tchang the Minister of War are at Loggerheads. The former is dissatisfied with the preparations made by the Minister of War, whom he characterizes as "boastful and incapable." It is understood here that Yuan Shi Kai is considering whether he will take supreme command of the army along the Yangtse River or concentrate his efforts on the recapture of Wu Chang. Should he decide not to carry out either of their proposals, it would be a crushing blow to the government.

A DEAD LETTER.

The orders issued recently for the dispatch of 60,000 troops now in Manchuria and Shantung to Hankow, appear to be treated as a dead letter. There is no sign of any such movement on the part of the army.

The news of the defeat of the imperial forces at the hands of the rebels at Hankow is gradually leaking out. The public is so excited that any possible inflammatory incident, such as the opening of the National Assembly tomorrow, is likely to be the signal for a crisis at Peking.

There is no doubt that more serious news than that of the defeat of the government troops by the revolutionists at Hankow Wednesday has been received at Peking, but not published.

There are persistent rumors that Admiral Sah Shah Ping's flagship was sunk or captured.

The foreign diplomats met yesterday and considered China's foreign financial obligations. The government has requested a postponement of the payment of the Boxer indemnity installments and is eagerly seeking a new loan.

A belated telegram from Chang Su under date of last Wednesday states that the fall of the city is imminent.

The rebels are reported to have posted heavy artillery in a strong position in the hills north of Canton.

REBELS FALL BACK ONLY FOR SUPPLIES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 21.—Refugees from Hankow state that when the revolutionists fell back to Wu Chang it was only to obtain a new supply of ammunition and that they at once returned to the fray and made a successful landing on the Hankow side.

The rebels are fortifying the hills at the rear of the Han Yang steel works.

Five British torpedo boats arrived here today from Wei Hai Wei and four Japanese torpedo boats came from Wu Sung.

Native newspapers state that after the retreat of the imperialists at Hankow 2000 surrendered and subsequently joined the revolutionary camp. This has not been confirmed from foreign sources.

REPUBLICAN FLAG SEEN IN PORTLAND.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 21.—The new flag of the Chinese republic has been flung to the breeze in Portland, and the old imperial flag is no longer in evidence on the buildings in the Chinese section of the city. The new flag is an immense red field, like an English merchant flag, while in the upper corner is a white sun on a blue field.

The banner was raised by the Chinese Empire Reform Society. At least 95 per cent. of the Chinese population in Portland is strong for the revolutionary movement.

TO ATTACK PEKING AND CANTON NEXT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—Sun Fo, son of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, president of the Chinese revolutionists, received a cablegram today announcing that the province of Shan Tung had fallen into the hands of the revolutionists.

Shan Tung is a province on the Yellow Sea, about 65,000 square miles in extent and containing 30,000,000 inhabitants. It adjoins the province of Chili, in which Peking is situated.

Cables received today by local Chinese newspapers stated that revolutionary troops were mobilizing for attacks on Canton and Peking.

A cable dispatch from Shanghai to the Cnung Sai Yat Po, a Chinese daily, confirms the report as to the defeat of Admiral Shah, who was in command of the imperial warships in the attack on Hankow. Shah is said to have retired to Kiuklang with his disabled vessels, except for one that was sunk, the sailors surrendering to the revolutionists.

Gen. Chang Piao, the military Governor, was executed and Suit Ching, Viceroy, was degraded by the imperial government for allowing the provinces of Hupeh and Hunan to pass into the power of rebels.

Over a million inhabitants of the cities of Wu Chang and Hankow are said to have already cut their queues in accordance with the proclamation issued by the rebel authorities.

Martial law exists in all places occupied by the rebels.

The dispatch places the imperial loss in the Hankow battle at 3000 killed, besides a large number of wounded now cared for by the Red Cross society of the revolutionists. But a cable to a rival paper said the government lost only 2000 killed.

AMERICAN FLEET GOING TO CHINA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—A fleet of American warships greater than the fleet of any foreign power, or even of China, will be in Chinese waters by Monday. Twelve vessels—three cruisers, two destroyers, five gunboats, one transport and one collier—commanded by Rear Admiral Murdock, will have assembled in the Yangtse Kiang or at its mouth.

Admiral Murdock returned from Manila to Shanghai at the mouth of the river aboard the transport Rainbow. The collier Abarenda, carrying 100 marines, the cruiser Saratoga, which was formerly the New York, and the flagship of Admiral Sampson at Santiago during the Spanish war, and the third-class cruiser Albany, also are on their way from Manila to Shanghai.

The destroyers, Barry and Decatur, and the cruiser New Orleans have been ordered from Shanghai to Nanking, which is 100 miles above Shanghai, and twice that far from Hankow, the center of the revolutionary activity.

The gunboats Helena, El Cano and Villalobos are off Hankow and the Samar is a little farther down the river. The Wilmington, a gunboat, which arrived at Canton, makes the twelfth American warship in Chinese waters.

The Chinese legation was advised in a cablegram today that in the two engagements between the Chinese Imperial troops of the northern army and the forces of the insurgents, six miles north of Hankow Thursday and Friday, each lasting three hours, the insurgents lost more than 600 killed and wounded, and the government 100 killed and wounded.

The message was from the Viceroy of Nanking, who reported that he expected the uprising in Hu Peh would be speedily put down.

Talks on Teeth

BY REX DENTAL CO. (Incorporated)

Enjoys His Alveolar Teeth

It is a great source of satisfaction to us to be able to publish a testimonial from a man who admits that his teeth were in a desperate condition and that through the Alveolar Method we have restored all that he had lost, so that now he could eat anything and enjoy using his teeth, whereas before he was in misery most of the time.

A testimonial of that kind means a great deal to some other man who has no chance to read it. It makes him anxious to know more about such a remarkable method of restoring teeth and sooner or later that man will come to our office.

It is a very difficult matter to explain the Alveolar method of replacing missing teeth without the use of plates or ordinary bridge work as long as or in the brief space of a newspaper advertisement. If people would only come to our office and talk to our consulting dentist they would soon be convinced that we could do all that we claim we can do. We are going to ask you to read the letter of Mr. Alexander J. Mitchell, a prominent business man of this city, who has been wearing Alveolar teeth for nearly five years. He is delighted with them, and he wants us to publish his testimonial broadcast so that others who suffer and are suffering as he did may hear and be glad tidings and follow his example.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 28, 1911.

The REX DENTAL CO.,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Gentlemen: It gives me much pleasure in writing you that the work you have done for me is perfectly satisfactory, and is all that you claimed for your Alveolar process. I consider this the best thing possible next to the original teeth. I shall take pleasure in so stating to any one you may refer to me.

Yours truly,
A. J. MITCHELL.

Where it is possible we try to have people come to our office and have a special examination made of their teeth. If this is not possible the next best thing is to send for our book entitled "Modern Dentistry," which goes into full and complete particulars of this marvelous method of restoring missing teeth without plates or bridge work. We send the book free of charge, and the reading of it often brings us patients from all over the country, which shows that it is a most interesting story in a forceful manner. We want you. If your teeth are going or gone, to come and see us and have an examination made of your mouth, free of charge, or send for the book, which is also free.

LYMAN LOCKED IN SECRET CELL.

Officials Take No Chances With the Doctor.

New Attempt to Escape Is Easily Foiled.

Traces Found of Man Who Abetted His Flight.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Dr. J. Grant Lyman, wanted in Los Angeles on a Federal charge, slept in the Alameda County Jail last night. The elusive prisoner arrived in Oakland on the Overland Limited at 9:10 o'clock in custody of Deputy Marshals from Portland. Just as Lyman stepped from the train he was served with a bench warrant by United States Deputy Marshal Burnham, charging conspiracy. Lyman will be brought before Judge De Haven in the District Court Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

The Deputy Marshals of Portland heaved a sigh of relief when they turned Lyman over to United States Marshal Burnham. From that very moment the worries of the Alameda county officials began.

Lyman has found as little difficulty in breaking jail as he has found in getting speculators to invest in his enterprises and the Federal authorities are not certain the Alameda jail is secure enough to hold him.

Lyman, on arrival at the transbay institution, was given a bed in the jail cell. He is isolated from the jail proper and will not be permitted to receive visitors.

The Deputy Marshals who accompanied Lyman to Oakland bring with them stories of the doctor's desperate attempts to escape while in Lakeview. Every possible endeavor is being made to prevent Lyman's escape from the Alameda jail. The ankle which Lyman sprained in an attempt to escape while in this city is healing rapidly.

Deputy Marshal R. F. Beatty of Oregon, who accompanied Lyman to Oakland, announced this morning that Mrs. L. B. Thornett, the nurse who helped Lyman to escape from Providence Hospital, Oakland, on September 24, have been found in Contra Costa county. Beatty says he will take up the chase after Thornett at once.

WOMAN PLEDGES VOTE TO JUDGE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "I have registered now and if you are running for office at any future time, you can count on my vote."

Police Judge John J. Sullivan today received this written pledge from a woman whose case he had dismissed yesterday and who perhaps is the first California woman to promise the vote which she will not be able to cast until next year.

Yesterday a woman, whose name is being withheld, appeared before Police Judge Sullivan on the charge of an assault with a deadly weapon. It developed she had merely been watching two men fight and had taken no part in the struggle.

The magistrate promptly dismissed the case, expressing regret that the woman should have been arrested.

When the judge left the bench this morning and entered his chambers he found a sweet-scented package on his desk.

Opening the package, he found it to contain a dozen handkerchiefs. In the package lay a note which read: "Judge Sullivan—I want to offer this token of my appreciation of your courtesy in court yesterday. I have registered and if you are running for office at a future time, you may count on my vote."

HARRIMAN READJUSTMENT.

Apsole Issues a Circular That Extends the Jurisdiction of the Espee's Vice-Presidents.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—The first news of an eastward and northward extension of the Pacific system territory of the Harriman lines was made public here today, in the first official circular issued by William Sproule, new president of the Southern Pacific company.

The circular announces that after December 1, the jurisdiction of William F. Herrin, E. E. Calvin and E. O. McCormick, vice-presidents of the Southern Pacific Railroad, will extend over the lines south of Portland, Or., west from Ogden, and west of the Rio Grande River bridge, just this side of El Paso. The present eastern and northern limits of the territory are Sparks, Nev., and Ashland, Or.

San Francisco will become headquarters of all roads operated by the Southern Pacific company. It is said the lines in Oregon will be provided with an organization of their own so as to be readily responsive to local needs.

A. D. McDonald, general auditor of the Southern Pacific company, announced the appointment today of T. A. Edwards as auditor of freight accounts. Edwards has been auditor of Morgan's Louisiana and Texas road, a subsidiary of the Southern Pacific, for a number of years, with headquarters in New Orleans.

HALF BREED KILLS TWO.

Seriously Wounds a Boy and Is Himself Fatally Shot by Husband of One of His Victims.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OROVILLE (Cal.) Oct. 21.—Angered by the refusal of his white sweetheart to return to him, Edward Williams, a half breed Indian, shot and killed Inez Brooks and Mrs. Lillie A. Mullen, her friend, and seriously wounded William Mullen, a boy. Williams was shot by D. J. Mullen, the head of the house, in a running duel and is now at the County Jail with small chance of recovery according to his physicians.

The half breed and the Brooks girl had been living in the mining town of Cascade. When the girl left, after a quarrel, Williams traced her to the Mullen home and asked D. J. Mullen for permission to see the girl. As Mullen stepped in the door the Indian opened fire through a window, killing the girl and Mrs. Mullen and wounding the son in the leg.

A fourth shot missed the father, who brought the assassin down with wounds in both arms and the hip. The Indian was found in the brush early today by a Sheriff's posse, exhausted by loss of blood.

SHIPMENT OF FRUITS.

Total for the Season Is Only Thousand Cars Short of Last Year. Impedvement Noted.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Despite the supposed great shortage of fruit this season, the total shipments to date are less than 10000 carloads short of last season, being now 10,767, as against 11,146 to even date last season.

Yesterday's shipments were ninety-three carloads or 60 per cent. greater than on the corresponding date a year ago, the number then being thirty-one carloads. Of this output, peaches formed five and a half carloads, pears one and a half carloads and grapes eighty-six carloads. Last year nothing but grapes was shipped on this date. Grapes will continue to go forward for several days.

The market has improved greatly and is making up for the slump that caused a curtailment of shipments, this being due largely to the action of shippers in ruling against the shipment of immature fruits.

WATER RATES CASE.

DECISION BY FEDERAL JUDGE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—Judge E. E. Farrington of Nevada, sitting in the United States District Court here today, sustained the city and county of San Francisco in its suit against the Spring Valley Water Company by a decision in which he judges the valuation of $25,771,984, placed by the city on the water company's plant, to be just. The contention of the company that the rates from 1903 to 1905 were unconstitutional was sustained. The estimate of the value of the plant was offered by the city as a basis for determining just rates. Judge Farrington held that while the valuation was fair, the rates established by the city were not high enough to provide a just earning for the capital invested.

BURIED OPIUM FOUND.

CACHED MANY YEARS AGO.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE, Oct. 21.—When E. Olson was clearing land between Port Townsend and Port Discovery today he unearthed a cache of opium valued at $1500. The opium was encased in sheet iron boxes so badly rusted that they fell to pieces when handled. The customs officials took charge of the opium, which is believed to have been cached more than twenty years ago.

Traffic Men.

ANGELENOS ARE GUESTS OF SAN FRANCISCO CLUB.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Members of the Los Angeles Traffic Association, 110 strong, were the guests of the San Francisco Traffic Club today. The special Southern Pacific train carrying the visitors arrived at the Coast Line Station here promptly on schedule time, where a reception committee was on hand to escort the visiting railroad men and their families to the Palace Hotel. Lunch was served in the room of the traffic club, after which the visitors were the guests of the United Railway Company for a ride to various points of interest, including the Cliff House, where there was a musical programme and refreshments.

An informal dinner was the feature of the evening. It was given at the banquet-hall of the Palace Hotel. The program consisted of toasts included:

"Welcome to our guests," A. G. D. Kerrell, president of the San Francisco Traffic Club; "The President of the United States," S. F. Booth; "News From the South," E. S. Blair, president of the Los Angeles Traffic Association; "The Ladies," Col. J. F. Burgin; "San Francisco and the Exposition," C. L. Brown.

T. F. Fitzgerald, district passenger agent of the Washington-Sunset route, substituted for General Passenger Agent Batturs, of the Southern Pacific, who could not be present. Fitzgerald responded to the toast, "Los Angeles and Our Visitors."

Arrangements have been made for a mock trial of four members of the visiting party. D. W. Ferguson, M. F. van Horn and H. O. Wilson are to be tried for wearing full-dress clothes at an informal dinner. The exact nature of the charges against Charles Littler of the Southern Pacific have not been disclosed.

The visitors joined in a telegram to Mr. Batturs, expressing regret at his inability to be present.

MISTAKES OF THE Dental Profession

There are to be found in every large city dentists who work great harm to their profession, who advertise cheap prices in order to delude the unwary and the poor and induce them to come into their offices, and after they come get them by hook or crook.

It is not with a feeling against their prices that I would stoop to attack them, but it is because they do not do as they promise that I lower myself to speak of them, and it is for the protection of the public that I expose this nefarious practice.

There Are Others

who advertise wonderful discoveries, such as teeth without plates and teeth without bridges. These things are impossible. I reckon with facts and deal with assured results, consequently I do not need to resort to something tried and found wanting.

A Word of Caution

is needed here. Never be misled by advertisements wherein it is claimed they do impossible things. I, in my professional capacity, feel that it is my duty to issue warning to the public so they may have a chance to consult me and get the truth.

Dentistry, as I Practice It, is a serious profession, involving education, carefulness and skill. Therefore I cannot compete in price with the ignorant, the careless or the unskillful. But comparison will show that I charge much less than most reputable private practitioners.

"But," You Ask,

"Is the work as good?"

I Reply, "It Is Better, and if you will come and talk to me, I can prove it."

Women Voters Reluctant to Register Their Age.

Most So Far Listed Are Forty and Over.

One Lady Pledges Ballot to Police Judge.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Cold, hard figures, showing the age of each of the 91 women who have registered in this city, prove that the average of the newly enfranchised voters who seek to make use of their privilege is nearly two score years.

The registrar is heartless; the law must be obeyed. The feminine politicians must tell their age. Result: Grief.

The younger women have so far avoided placing their names on the registration list.

Chief Deputy Registrar Zemansky has smiled quietly behind his hand while some fair politician has hesitated long over the clerk's questions. He has heard her answer glibly with a speed that indicated joy in the task, and has seen her suddenly pause and blush when the embarrassing query was propounded.

"Thank you so much."

"Oh, one minute, you forgot to state your age."

"My age?" with an angry glance "Is that necessary?"

"Yes, absolutely. The law requires it."

"Well, I cannot see what interest my age is to the State of California. Just let my affidavit go in the way it is—can't you?"

"That would be absolutely impossible. You must state your age or your registration is not legal."

"Would it be all right if I gave my husband's age?"

"Oh, no; you must state your own age, and state it correctly. You know you make this statement under oath, and if you took off or added even a year you would be committing perjury, and your registration would be illegal."

"Such laws. They'll have to be changed."

And with many sighs the fair suffragist dallies with the pen until in a burst of desperation the fatal figures are written, and the office is hastily deserted.

"But you know you don't look half that old," will come flowing after her from the diplomatic clerk, and she will hurry away with a smile replacing the frown that had marred the joy of feeling herself a part of the political life of the great State of California.

COLDS AND CATARRH

Mrs. George Parker, 419 Water St., Menasha, Wis., writes: "We have used Peruna in our family for a number of years, and have found it a perfectly reliable medicine. It soon rids the system of any traces of a cold, and prevents serious consequences.

"I began using it for catarrh, which I suffered with a good many years, but had not been very serious until recently. Since I have taken Peruna the dropping in my throat has discontinued, and my head and nose are not so stopped in the morning. I am pleased with the results, and shall continue to use it until I am entirely rid of catarrh.

"I heartily recommend it as an honest medicine."

AFTER EFFECT OF GRIP.

Mrs. C. S. Sagerser, 1237 Bellefontain Ave., Kansas City, Mo., writes: "I feel it a duty to you and to others that may be afflicted like myself, to speak for Peruna.

"My trouble first came after la grippe eight or nine years ago, a gathering in my head and neuralgia, I suffered most all the time. My nose, ears and eyes were badly affected for the last two years. I think from your description of internal catarrh that I must have had that also. I suffered very severely.

"Nothing ever relieved me like Peruna. It keeps me from taking cold. With the exception of some deafness I am feeling perfectly cured. I am forty-six years old. I feel that words are inadequate to express my praise for Peruna."

TWO INSPECTORS FOR CALIFORNIA.

Scottish Rite Masons Divide the Golden State.

Arizona Is Attached to the Southern Half.

Los Angeles Banker Favored With Appointment.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Los Angeles and Southern California emerge from the sacred precincts of the mystic council chamber of the Scottish Rite with flying colors and new honors.

There was a hot contest on between Northern California and Southern California, as to which should furnish the successful candidate for active member or Inspector General for the State. The question was warmly debated in the secret session, and not a little wire pulling was done. The result is that the State was divided. Arizona was tacked on to Southern California, making one jurisdiction, and an active member wes elected for each end of the State. No other State in the Union, or at least in the southern jurisdiction, has been so signally honored.

Perry B. Weidner, the banker, of Los Angeles, represented the southern section, and William P. Filmer of San Francisco is active member for the northern end of the State.

SUCCEEDS PIERCE.

HIGHEST MASONIC OFFICE.

At the meeting of the Supreme Council of the thirty-third degree of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry held at Washington, D. C., yesterday, Perry W. Weidner of Los Angeles and William P. Filmer of San Francisco were elected Inspectors General for California to succeed the late W. Frank Pierce of San Francisco, whose death in October, 1910, created a vacancy in this State. This is the office of an active member of the Supreme Council and is regarded as the highest Masonic office in the country. The position is for life and is one of great power and authority in matters Masonic. The crowning of the new Inspectors General will take place Monday and Mr. Weidner is expected in Los Angeles early in November. The Supreme Council also elected one member from each of several States to fill vacancies—from Maryland, Texas, Kansas, Oregon, Kentucky and Oklahoma.

BACHELORS PROTEST.

So Many Men and So Few Women in the Canal Zone That They Appeal to Washington.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COLON (R. P.) Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] When a regiment of United States troops went into camp at Las Cascadas with 793 unmarried men in the ranks, it brought the total American bachelor population of the canal zone to 4786.

Against this there are just 187 bachelor girls here and the number seems diminishing. Mutiny has resulted.

The Culebra Bachelors' Association, a well known social organization, has sent an ultimatum to the United States. The ultimatum states briefly that it is against the peace and dignity of the isthmus to have so great a disparity between the number of eligible males and the number of eligible females, and demands the withdrawal of the masculine military contingent and the substitution of a regiment of girls.

Constitutional Guarantees.

MADRID, Oct. 21.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] King Alfonso today signed a decree re-establishing the constitutional guarantees throughout Spain, which were suspended September 19, at the height of the recent strike disorders.

How to Get Rid of Catarrh.

A Simple, Safe, Reliable Way, and it Costs Nothing to Try.

Those who suffer from catarrh know its miseries. There is no need of this suffering. You can get rid of it by a simple, safe, inexpensive, home treatment discovered by Dr. Blosser, who, for over thirty-six years, has been treating catarrh successfully.

His treatment is unlike any other. It is not a spray, douche, salve, cream, or inhaler, but is more direct and thorough treatment than any of these. It cleans out the head, nose, throat and lungs so that you can again breathe freely and sleep without that stopped-up feeling that all catarrh sufferers have. It heals the diseased mucous membranes and arrests the foul discharge, so that you will not be constantly blowing your nose and spitting, and at the same time it does not poison the system and ruin the stomach, as internal medicines do.

If you want to test this treatment without cost, send your address to Dr. J. W. Blosser, 526 Walton street, Atlanta, Ga., and he will send you by return mail enough of the medicine to satisfy you that it is all that he claims for it as a remedy for catarrh, catarrhal headaches, catarrhal deafness, asthma, bronchitis, colds and all catarrhal complications. He will also send you free an illustrated booklet. Write him immediately.

THE STRIKE IS OVER.

Statement Is Made by Southern Pacific Officials in San Francisco—Men Differ With Them.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—Three weeks have passed since the federated shopmen employed by the Harriman lines walked out and the situation tonight is practically the same as it was at the time the walk-out was ordered.

The shops in this city, in Portland, Sacramento and Los Angeles have been carefully picketed but the clashes between union men and workers have been few.

Both sides claim victory. The strikers claim that the rolling stock of the Southern Pacific Company is in bad shape, but the railroad company says it has sufficient non-union mechanics to make all necessary repairs. The strikers assert trains are not running on time, but railroad officials state no serious delays have resulted.

Portland reports 65 per cent. of the normal force has been replaced and that by increasing the working hours all necessary repair work can be handled.

The Southern Pacific Company, according to officials, has experienced little inconvenience by the strike. Company officials here declare the strike is over.

Strikers and company officials agree that this has been the most orderly strike in years. Were it not for the picketing it would be difficult to discover that a strike was in progress.

FARMERS EAT QUAIL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEWTON (Kan.) Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] For nearly a week the farmers and their families living a few miles south of this town have dined on quail. In a section of country about five miles square a destructive hail storm killed many scores of the little game birds. It was so severe as to ruin the apples hanging on the trees, and as the farmers had exercised great care in protecting the quail, they immediately thought of the little Bob Whites and their lack of shelter from the storm. The fury of the storm came at night, when hailstones covered the ground to a depth of three inches. Not a live bird was found in the fields, but along every hedgerow scores of the quail were found dead.

SALOON MEN DEMAND LAW.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] What appears to be the first real effort to enforce the law against the saloons has been begun in this city, and, strange as it may seem, the intiative was taken by saloon keepers themselves. Recently a meeting of the better class of saloon men was called and the situation was thoroughly gone over. It was decided that there is a great deal of prejudice against the saloons because they keep open on Sunday and after legal hours at night; that some men who really want to obey the law are forced to compete with the illegal sales by others or lose their patronage and that reform is necessary if the liquor dealers expect to prevent a return to county local option.

WANDERS INTO MURDER CASE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ELLSWORTH (Kan.) Oct. 21.—Harry Baker, the hotel clerk who rented a room to the mysterious John Smith, charged by a Coroner's jury with being the slayer of the Showman family, failed today to identify John Smitherman of Junction City, Kan., as Smith. Smitherman is ill, due, he says, to a prolonged period of heavy drinking, during which he happened to wander into Ellsworth and get himself involved in the murder case, and he is willing to remain in jail until he is better able to travel. He may be detained several days. The suspect detained at Newkirk, Okla., was ordered released today. James Reardon, a former Sheriff, who once arrested Charles Marzyek, said the prisoner was not the desired man.

PATROL TO FILL CHURCH.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—The city auto patrol wagon will be used at Gary, Ind., to carry people to Central Church of Christ, according to an announcement made here yesterday. The Rev. Nelson Trimble, pastor of the church, has made arrangements with Chief of Police J. D. Martin of Gary to borrow his auto patrol wagon for two hours during the mornings of the next three Sundays. He intends to use that vehicle, he says, to carry his congregation to church. For some time Mr. Trimble has noticed a falling off in the attendance at the morning services. He discovered that many of his flock had been decorating the street corners of the city in various attitudes of leisure. At first he tried the expedient of seeking recreants in their homes and arguing with them. He found this had little or no effect in decreasing the size of Sunday-morning street-corner crowds. Then he went to Chief of Police Martin and asked him to lend him his wagon. The Chief demurred at first. "What do you want it for?" asked the Chief. "Why," insisted the minister, "I want it to carry my congregation to church Sunday mornings." "Humph," said the Chief, "that's different. It seems to be a good cause. It will help you and it will help me. I'll go you."

TRIES TO FEED HORSE BILLS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—William Hobson was fined $1 yesterday by Judge Walker of the Municipal Court, as a result of trying to feed $60 in fresh green bills to a horse hitched to a truck. "It was this way, your honor," explained Hobson, "I drew $50 from the bank to buy clothes and invested some in drinks. I used to be a cab driver and I met a horse that had once saved my life by refusing to let me drive him off the Clark-street bridge on a dark and stormy night. I felt so bad for that poor old horse that I burst into tears, hauled the $60 out of my pockets and offered it to him." "All right," said Judge Walker, "I'll fine you $1 for being drunk."

He has been six months and twenty-one days on the road, and says his health has been improved greatly by the long jaunt. Lamb is not walking on a wager or for a prize. He is compelled to walk for financial reasons.

SUSPEND RATES FOR SIX MONTHS.

Order in Joint Refrigerating Case Is Issued.

Commission Wants Time to Investigate Further.

Salt Lake and Espee Regulations Affected.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Interstate Commerce Commission has further suspended schedules of the Southern Pacific and Salt Lake route supplements to the joint refrigerating tariff until April 25, 1912.

Their orders are entitled "In the matter of the investigation and suspension of certain regulations and practices with regard to precooling and pre-icing."

It was on June 20 that the commission entered on a hearing concerning the propriety of the new individual and joint regulations and practice affecting rates and charges stated in schedules contained in the tariff received by us to the Salt Lake line, and on January 22 as the Southern Pacific. The schedules were suspended as to the latter until October 28, and as to the Salt Lake road until November 26.

The commission says that the hearing cannot be concluded within the period of suspension originally ordered.

NEW MONEY IN DEMAND.

It Looks Prettier and Is Cleaner but the Treasury Is Neither a Laundry Nor an Art Gallery.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—So great has become the demand for paper currency to replace old notes that Lee McClung, treasurer of the United States, and J. E. Ralph, director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, are now making a tour of the sub-treasuries to see whether or not some way can be devised to limit the redemption of bills, which is costing more than the treasury can afford. They are in New York today, after a study of the situation in Boston.

"The demand for new paper currency is very much greater now than the appropriation from Congress allows to be fully met," said Mr. McClung. "We are trying to see if it would not be possible to cut down redemptions. I think sentiment has more to do with the demand for the fresh money than sanitary ideas. As for the cry that old money is dangerous to handle, it is worthy of mention that during the existence of the redemption department not a single case has been known there of transmission of disease in this way.

"The life of a $1 bill nowadays averages a little over one year. In Boston yesterday I noticed a note presented for redemption which left the currency department only three weeks ago. The oldest and most worn notes come from the mining districts, especially Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Indiana. The extreme South is bad in this respect also. The New England districts seem to be more particular about getting new money than any other section of the country."

Half Starved Girl Parts With Her Beautiful Tresses to Buy Something to Eat.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Miss Eva Smith, a refined and educated Newark girl of 20, was discharged on a charge of attempting to commit suicide in Jefferson Market court today and placed in the Florence Crittenton Home.

She told a pathetic story of privation that led to her arrest for climbing over the rail of a ferry boat. She left her mother's home two weeks ago to look for a position here. She had been without food for two days when she applied at a human hair shop only to learn there was no work. Then she was offered a small amount for her long hair and she allowed her tresses to be cut. With her last three cents she purchased a ferry ticket and started for Hoboken.

A dock hand saw her climbing over the railing, caught her, and she was placed under arrest.

[A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

FLAGSTAFF (Ariz.) Oct. 21.—Beliawsky's comet has been observed at Lowell observatory every night since October 10. The bright sodium lines have decreased in intensity, until they have become quite faint. A photograph obtained last night shows the character of the light from the comet's head and tail greatly resembles that of Halley's comet, as it was seen April 29, last year. The length of the tail visible last night was about a degree. A photograph showed it to be forked, the northern end being longer and better defined.

MRS. FAIRBANKS LOSES HER GEMS.

WIFE OF SON OF FORMER VICE-PRESIDENT ROBBED.

Emeralds, Diamonds and Pearls Supposed to Have Been Taken from Her Hand Bag on a Drawing-room Pullman Car En Route to Chicago.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mystery surrounds the taking of jewelry valued at $10,000 belonging to Mrs. Warren C. Fairbanks, wife of the son of former Vice-President Fairbanks, from a Pullman drawing-room car while Mrs. Fairbanks was returning to Chicago, following a visit to relatives in Boston.

Although the robbery occurred September 20 it was not reported to the police of Chicago until October 7. It became public today.

The jewels were wrapped in a chamois and concealed in a traveling bag. Mrs. Fairbanks, on boarding the train, took particular care to see that the porter deposited her bag safely in the drawing-room.

Several days later she had occasion to wear some of the missing jewelry and discovered her loss. A detective agency was at once notified and later the police.

Mr. Fairbanks believes his wife's jewelry, among which was an emerald ring surrounded by diamonds, and a pearl and diamond necklace which he had given her, was stolen the night prior to Mrs. Fairbanks's arrival in the city.

"We are positive the jewelry was taken from my wife's drawing-room," said Mr. Fairbanks today. "It was in her sight during the entire trip up to the time she retired on the night prior to her arrival. We are working on the theory that the bag was taken from the drawing-room the night prior to Mrs. Fairbanks's arrival."

The police had mailed a description of the missing jewelry to all large cities. Mrs. Fairbanks was Miss Ethel Cassidy of Pittsburgh, before her marriage. They have two children, Edith Anne and Cornelia. Mrs. Fairbanks has been prominent in society and charitable affairs in Chicago.

When President Kerrell of the San Francisco organization was making his introductroy remarks he said President Taft was the best friend California had ever had. Whereupon, there was an uprising of all present and three times three cheers for the Chief Executive met with a hearty response from all present. Later there was a duplication of this enthusiasm when the toast to the President was responded to by S. F. Booth.

Shots Fired in Monterey.

MONTEREY (Mex.) Oct. 21.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] An attempt last night by secret police to arrest a laborer who carried a knife, precipitated a fight in which several shots were fired. The incident gave rise to a report that an attempt had been made on the life of Gen. Madero.

VILLAGE DRUNKARD DIES; HE IS PRAISED FOR CONSISTENT VICES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MIDDLETOWN (N. Y.) Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A paper published in a village north of here today prints the following remarkable obituary from its correspondent in an adjoining county:

"Sam Tobell is dead. Some days ago he was stricken with blood poisoning from a bite in the neck inflicted while fighting with his wife when he was drunk and she intoxicated. His only virtue was the persistence of his wickedness; his only excellence the stability of his incompetence. Booze fighter, liar, wife-beater, chicken thief, egg sucker, profane and vile of speech to the point of nausea, he was the trademark of sin, the sentient emblem of vice. But he has gone hence, and it is never our inclination to kick a man when he is down, yet at death the proverbial luck was with him. He goes below just as the whitening frosts and chilling winds are ushering in a long and tedious season. He'll keep warm and comfortable at others' expense, fellows. Well, so long Sam, and so long as it is long, good luck."

MURDERS TWO, INJURES THIRD.

Halfbreed Slays His Wife and Her Protector.

Wounds Young Man and Is Fatally Shot.

Says He Is Ready to Be Hanged for Crimes.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OROVILLE, Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Vowing the destruction of the entire Mullen family because they were shielding from him the woman he claimed as his wife, Edward Williams, a half-breed Indian, last night shot and killed Inez Brooks, aged 17, the object of his affection, and Mrs. Lillie Mullen, the mother of the Mullen family. William Mullen, a son, was shot in the right leg. The tragedy occurred in the mountains about thirty miles from Oroville.

The family were only saved by a desperate hand-to-hand revolver duel between the father and Williams, the former rushing out and grappling with the assassin. Mullen was able to pour five shots into the Indian from his revolver while the half-breed was attempting to reload. The Indian broke away and crawled into the underbrush, where he was captured today by a Sheriff's posse. He states that he is ready to go to the gallows. His recovery is extremely doubtful.

The Brooks girl, to whom the Indian says he was married, became incensed at his brutality, and left him. She sought refuge with the Mullen family. The Indian thereupon vowed to kill not only the woman, but the entire family. He selected last night as the time for their extermination.

The two women were shot through a window and instantly killed. A shot through the window also disabled the younger Mullen. Two young children of the family, who failed to put in an appearance last night, were believed to have been killed. Today, however, they appeared. They had been some miles away at a neighbor's house, and upon returning heard the frenzied shouts of the Indian murderer, and fearing to return had hidden in the underbrush.

Williams is a giant in size, standing six feet, seven inches. He states that the assassination was premeditated and says he is ready to go to the gallows.

California Girl With a Beautiful Voice Mourns Death of Her Fiance, a Bavarian Prince.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The royal house of Bavaria and many friends of Miss Maude Fay of San Francisco are plunged in mourning by the death, said to have been caused by dieting, of her fiance, Prince Luitpold Ottlinger.

The Prince's death is ascribed to his efforts to reduce his weight. It is averred he had learned from his fiancee, who herself is quite svelte, that American women make and keep themselves thin by a course of of treatment.

Miss Fay and the Prince were engaged about six months ago and were soon to be married. He first fell in love with the voice of the California girl.

Portland Girl Will Become the Wife of Titled Italian, Who Was Graduated From Yale.

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Another international romance has come to light with the news that Miss Helen Goode, daughter of the late H. W. Goode, who was president of the Portland Railway Light and Power Company, is engaged and soon to be married to Teno de Moritzi, a young nobleman of an old Italian family. The engagement has not been officially announced yet, but Mrs. Goode, the young lady's mother, who is in New York, is soon expected to make it.

Miss Goode became acquainted with the young nobleman on board a steamer while on the way to Europe. A swift courtship followed, and now comes the news of the engagement.

Teno de Moritzi was educated in this country and received his degree from Yale University a short time ago.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

Riley's trial began here last night, after most of the day had been passed in selecting a jury.

Mrs. Riley has confessed that Long had stolen her from her husband and says she will so testify. Riley had followed and overtaken the couple at Redmond and asked his wife to go with him. Instead she and Long jumped into an automobile and fled. Riley pursued, overtook them again and killed Long.

HILL ON MONEY.

Chairman of the Great Northern Railway Board Addresses National Commissioners on the Currency.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. PAUL (Minn.) Oct. 21.—James J. Hill, chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern Railway, was the principal speaker today before the subcommittee of the National Monetary Commission. Tonight at an informal dinner Mr. Hill again gave his ideas regarding the proposed financial legislation. He commended the Aldrich plan highly, but said there were a few minor points in the bill that might be changed. He said the proposed central reserve association should be kept entirely out of politics, with bankers to run the association and a limit of 5 per cent. on the investment. He considered it a safe plan but he differed with the commission on the turning of the surplus over to the government.

"Instead of limiting the surplus to 20 per cent. he was in favor of allowing it to accumulate up to 150 per cent. if need be, and use this money for the benefit of the people, and not for the benefit of the government, which did not contribute a cent."

Mr. Hill said that there are plenty of safeguards to keep the proposed system from becoming a competitor of the banks.

HE KILLED THE BEAR.

But Not Until the Big Black Beast Had Fearfully Mauled the Old Miner.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EUGENE (Or.) Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Fearfully clawed and mauled by a huge black bear which he had wounded, Lee Whitmore, an old miner, was brought here last night almost dead from loss of blood. His body was badly mangled and his injuries may prove fatal.

Whitmore was walking through the woods when he came upon the beast, which charged him savagely. Whitmore fired two shots which exhausted his magazine, as he had forgotten to fill it before starting, and the bear was upon him before he could run.

Miners found him some time afterward and ten feet away the dead body of the bear, which was one of the largest ever seen in this country.

KILLED BY DYNAMITE.

Five Men Are Dead and Three Seriously Injured By Accidental Explosion in Washington.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BELLINGHAM (Wash.) Oct. 21.—One man was blown to pieces, four others were instantly killed and three more were seriously injured by a dynamite explosion tonight on the Bellingham & Skagit Interurban Railway grade, about seven miles west of Bellingham.

The men were working in a small cut where a steam shovel was about to begin work. It was discovered that two cases, or 200 pounds of dynamite, placed there a month before and supposed to have been exploded, were still intact. The men started to dig it out and one of them struck the explosive with a pick. The explosion followed.

TOO MANY GRAPES.

STOCKTON (Cal.) Oct. 21.—Horticultural Commissioner William D. Garden of San Joaquin county has data on the grape industry showing enough grapes are grown in California to give every man, woman and child in the United States five pounds of grapes each, and he estimates that this amount would need 300 carloads daily throughout the shipping season to take them out of the State. In addition to this quantity there are 9536 acres not yet in bearing. Mr. Garden declared that further grape growing will be ruinous and he recommends more fruit and nut trees. Data shown by the Commissioner causes him to declare that the canning industry of the State in fruits can be increased tenfold.

CRUELTY CHARGED.

however, being very formal and relating almost entirely to the differences that had sprung up between them.

It was at this stage in the proceedings that Tarkington is said to have become the aggressor. Up to the time that they separated in New York, he going to Europe and she to visit friends in the East, he had not shown a disposition to break with her entirely though he would not promise "to settle down" and come back to Indianapolis for permanent residence. In the language of one of his friends, "he was offish," and that was all. But after his return to New York two weeks ago and the difference between him and his wife became a matter of notoriety, he began to insist that Mrs. Tarkington institute suit for divorce. He did not discuss terms with her, but said that if she did not sue he would do so, that the matter had gone so far that both ought to be convinced that they could not live happily together, that a separation was the only solution for them, and that while he proposed that she should take the initiative, he would institute suit if she did not.

RECONCILIATION IMPOSSIBLE.

Some ten days ago a relative of Mrs. Tarkington and one who has been her adviser went to New York to see Tarkington. He found that a settlement was out of the question. The conference between him and Tarkington was carried on with some interruptions for two days. The object of the visit was to see if there did not still remain a chance for reconciliation. When all hope of that was abandoned the question of a suit for divorce was taken up. To the surprise of the relative, Tarkington insisted that the suit should be brought at once, saying that he was tired of the gossip over it and that as it had to come, he wanted it to be over.

It is believed that the complaint in the suit has been prepared here and that it was taken to New York by the relative and there submitted to Tarkington for his approval. It was pointed out that as Mrs. Tarkington had left him and not he her, there had to be some allegation to support her claim for a divorce and her grounds had been bunched under the general term of "cruelty" without specifying any of the acts which she considered cruel. Tarkington is reported to have said that the term might imply that he had been physically cruel or, in other words, had beaten his wife, but when assured that this was not intended and that no attempt would be made to show anything but neglect, he expressed himself as satisfied.

Those who profess to speak for Mrs. Tarkington say that the husband and father seemed to care nothing for the custody of the little daughter and readily agreed not to make a fight for such custody. He did stipulate, however, that he should see her when he comes to this city and it was agreed that the decree of divorce should so stipulate. It is said that this is the reason that there are no charges against him and no claim that he is unworthy to have the custody of the little girl.

It is understood that the divorce proceedings will be pushed to a final decree at once. If Tarkington remains in New York the summons will be served on him Tuesday, but if he leaves there, notice will be by publication.

Allegations.

PORTLAND WOMAN FIRST WITH SANTA ROSA SUIT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] One of the first damage suits ensuing from the wreck of the steamer Santa Rosa off Point Arguella last July was filed in the United States District Court against the Pacific Coast Steamship Company by Hilda M. Wheeler of Portland, Or., one of the passengers on the vessel. The complainant asks for personal and property damages of $5968 and exemplary damages in an amount to be fixed by the court, "because of gross and inexcusable conduct on the part of the captain and crew."

Miss Wheeler sets forth that she undertook the journey from San Francisco to Santa Barbara on July 6, taking with her a trunk and suit case, which, with the belongings therein, were worth $768. After effecting the running aground of the vessel, which, she alleges, was due to "carelessness, neglect and incompetency of the master, the officers and the crew," she declares:

"Though ample time to place her and her goods ashore was had, the captain, officers and crew refused to do so for sixteen hours, and kept her imprisoned on the breaking vessel for that length of time."

She asks for the following damages: $2500 because of the "imprisonment and danger to life and limb; $2500 because of fright, injury to health and person and deprivation of comfort and courteous treatment; $768 for the loss of her belongings, and $200 for the delay in completing her journey and concomitant expenses."

MAYOR'S VIEW OF ALEXANDER.

Says People Paid for His Official Education.

Believes Himself Best Fitted by Experience.

Gibbon Condemns Harriman and Mushet Ideas.

Mayor Alexander's own reason why he is the best candidate for the office and Thomas E. Gibbon's denunciation of Harriman and Mushet, were the interesting features of the speech-making at the Good Government meeting at the Walter Theater last night.

It was the best-attended meeting of the campaign, outside of the Harriman meetings at the Auditorium. About 700 were present and there was no socialist heckling. Maybe this was because two of Harriman's emissaries were stationed outside the foyer warning all "comrades" to "be quiet," as the disturbances at other meetings are regarded as hurtful to the reds.

Congressman Stephens presided and declared that he was prouder now of the discovery of Mayor Alexander as the recall candidate two and a half years ago by the committee he headed, than ever before. "He has served faithfully and well," said Stephens.

The Mayor talked about himself. "I don't like to talk about myself," said he, "and I would not if I was not made the target of all the antagonists of the administration. I am compelled to defend myself from the falsehoods that are being spoken. The socialists have been after me for a year, and they don't want me to talk. That is why they disturb my meetings. If you had seen the tumult they made last night you would never vote to put those people in charge of the administration of your affairs."

Discussing the social evil, the Mayor said if either the socialists or the "liberal" candidate succeed and attempt to "return to the conditions of three years ago," they would not last sixty days in office. "The recall would catch 'em," said the Mayor.

"The question to decide when you vote for Mayor is: First, is the candidate honest; second, is he capable, prepared by experience.

"Now, I'll be frank. The people of Los Angeles have spent a whole lot of money educating me to fill office in the past twenty years, and I am worth a whole lot of money to them. They ought to have the benefit of that investment. And because of my experience, my independence and my present administration, I feel that I am justified in asking a chance to serve two years longer. I a malways in my office, its door is open, and all are welcome to come in and talk to me about city affairs."

Thomas E. Gibbon was introduced as one who would talk about the harbor; but he talked mostly about the Harper administration. Showing that the beneficiaries of the open policy of that regime had fought Alexander at the recall election, he declared they are still fighting him and are in the ranks of Harriman and Mushet. He declared positively that thirty-eight saloon-keepers, whose places prospered by reason of police protection under the former administration, are now backing Mushet. "And Mushet cannot deny it," said Gibbon. "The Mushet managers are asking aid from the saloon-keepers, but they are not getting it from the decent ones who know that they do not, under this administration, have to pay tribute to any one."

Referring to Harriman he said he was a queer kind of socialist. "The corner-stone of socialism is public ownership and yet Harriman, the socialist, would have denied the city the Owens River aqueduct and the 120,000 horse-power of electrical energy that may be developed from it. He would deny to Los Angeles its two chief municipal projects. He opposed the bonds. And now, having fought these great enterprises, he is fighting to be made Mayor and head the forces that must administer them.

"I want to refer to that campaign against those bonds. The opposition was financed by the corporations who did not want the people to have municipally-owned electricity. They put $25,000 of good hard cash behind the opposition. Now, I do not say that Harriman got any of this money, but I do say that he fought on the side paid by that big fund. Harriman is a queer kind of socialist."

Gibbon told of a resort that, in the days of the old regime, reached the apex of instrumentality in debauching the young. He told how its owner had 60,000 shares in the corporations which the officials of the administration three years ago controlled. He said this was one of a type of the places where "personal liberty" held sway.

"If this is the kind of personal liberty that is promised by one of the antagonists of Uncle Aleck, you had better stick by the old man who stamped it out," said Gibbon.

Gibbon declared that the Alexander administration had taken all necessary steps to recover the harbor tidelands from the corporations and that there is no "plugging up" of the harbor.

"If plugging up means increasing the volume of shipping 100 per cent in two years, and making the port the greatest receiver of lumber in the world," said he, "why, let's have more of it."

President R. M. Lusk of the Council said the socialists are preaching the doctrine that all property, "not obviously personal," shall be administered by the whole people.

"Are you men of intelligence and brawn who have worked to acquire property with your heads and your hands ready to vote for such a doctrine?" he asked. There were loud shouts of "No, no."

"You simply must re-elect Mayor Alexander again," said Lieut.-Gov. Wallace, who came late and made a short speech. "I like him because he does not always agree with me. But I like him best because when he does not agree with me I know that it is an honest disagreement. And if you don't re-elect him you will make the worst mistake you will ever make."

HORSE HAS HYDROPHOBIA.

Placentia Ranchman Shoots Horse and Finds That Its Brain Was Inoculated With Virus.

ANAHEIM, Oct. 21.—The prevalence of hydrophobia in animals in this vicinity and the resultant scare was increased yesterday when a driving horse owned by Arthur Edwards, a well-known Placentia ranchman, was shot and its brain found to contain hydrophobia cells.

Mr. Edwards hastened to Los Angeles where the hydrophobia antitoxin was administered, it being feared that scratches upon his hand at the time of the examination which he made of the mouth of the affected horse may have absorbed the fatal germs. The scratches on the hand, it is thought by Mr. Edwards, were the result of contact of his hand with the teeth of the animal in the course of the examination which he made of its mouth in the endeavor to ascertain if it was barley beards that caused it to act so peculiarly.

A veterinary was later called to see the horse and in the belief that it was suffering from hydrophobia, he ordered it to be shot at once. He removed the brain and brought it to the Anaheim Sanatorium.

In the absence of antitoxin in this city and also in the absence of desirable special arrangement for the treatment of patients to whom the serum may be administered, Mr. Edwards was advised to go at once to Los Angeles.

The local sanatorium will hereafter be situated so that the treatment of such dangerous cases may be given here. The management has established connection with the Berkeley laboratory and will hereafter have the advantage of fresh supplies of antitoxin from that source, as well as the benefit of its advice and co-operation in the treatment of all cases.

It is the belief that the Edwards horse became inoculated through the bite of a dog. This dog was at the seaside with the Edwards family during the summer months, and the latter part of their stay the dog acted strangely, and upon their return to Placentia it became so erratic that it was killed. Aside from crossness which it had exhibited in a marked manner, the dog had given no indications that suggested hydrophobia, and after the animal had been killed the incident was forgotten, and it came to mind again only with the developments of the hydrophobia in the horse.

The maddened horse began to attack other animals in the corral and had bitten a cow and another horse before they were taken from the corral and was tearing the flesh of its own body when a veterinary was called.

ARMY AND NAVY CLUB.

National Guardsmen Propose Organization to Begin Together Officers for Social Purposes.

The prospects of organizing an Army and Navy Club in Los Angeles were discussed enthusiastically at a banquet of the officers of the National Guard of California at the Hollenbeck Hotel, last night. The organization of the club was generally favored by those present and a committee was appointed to further investigate the matter.

Among those who are lending their efforts toward the organization are Capt. McReynolds, Capt. Light and Capt. Bright. Each of these officers spoke at the banquet in favor of the early formation of such a club, which is to be for social purposes and the bringing together of the local army and navy authorities.

Col. S. M. Saltmarsh presided. Various other matters of interest to the National Guard officers were discussed.

ENDS HIS LIFE.

SANTA BARBARA (Cal.) Oct. 21.—William Henley, aged 44, a contractor, who did much of the ornamental work on several buildings in Los Angeles, committed suicide tonight by taking strychnine at his home in Montecito, while in a fit of despondency. His only known relative is a brother, Philip, who lives here.

Militant.

WAKE UP THE WOMEN SUFFRAGETTE ADVISES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) Oct. 21.—"Get the uninterested women interested in suffrage by indirect means," was the consensus of opinion expressed today at the forty-third annual convention of the National American Woman Suffrage Association in session here.

"Interest the indifferent women in some reform, first of all," Miss Kate M. Gordon of New Orleans advised.

"A woman listens first with her heart, then with her head," Miss Charity Dye of Indianapolis said.

"It is a fool question," Miss Mary Winsor of Philadelphia declared, "to ask women, 'Do you want to vote?' When I want a woman to vote, I ask her, 'Don't you wish we could decide whether we could have that $50,000 playground, rather than the men?'"

Miss Winsor electrified the convention more than any of the other speakers who gave their ideas on "How to Interest the Uninterested." She counseled militant methods and contended that almost any tactics not positively taboo were justifiable, if the end could be gained.

"Whatever you do," she advised earnestly, "don't be tiresome."

When the delegates laughed she reiterated the advice.

"Yes, indeed," she said, "this is a vulgar age. Be loud, be yellow, be anything to be picturesque. Better go to extremes than to bore people."

Mrs. Susan W. Fitzgerald of Boston put herself into the militant class when she cautioned the delegates they must not be "to conscious" of personal dignity if they would succeed. Dropping suffrage literature from balloons worked well in Massachusetts, she said.

"Just as soon as you have a good excuse," she urged, "get into a political campaign."

Miss Emily C. Dobbin of St. Paul headed a contesting delegation, lodging with the chair formidable exhibits, among which was an opinion from the Attorney-General of the State upholding the contestant's claim.

Delegates to the convention already are talking about officers for the coming year. Not that any would be willing to have Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, guiding spirit since 1904, step down, and it is doubted if any one could be found who would oppose her. However, Mrs. Laura Clay of Kentucky and Miss Kate M. Gordon of New Orleans have both been mentioned in connection with the presidency.

BOOST FOR CARNIVAL.

A dozen automobiles, filled with representative citizens and pretty girls, headed by a big auto truck carrying the Redlands band, left the city early this morning on a boosting excursion for the aviation meet and street carnival to be held in Redlands Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week. After the auto truck carrying the twenty band boys were the cars of Mayor J. H. Strait, H. H. Ford, H. B. Miller, W. L. Frost, E. B. Patterson, J. R. Strachan, George Hazzard, Fred Benningsdorf, William Burroughs and E. D. Reid.

The cars were nearly hid beneath their trappings of orange banners and pennants, all bearing the name and date of the great carnival next week. The excursionists went from here to Highland, where a short concert was given and informal speeches of invitation were made. San Bernardino wa sthe next place visited, where a like programme was given, as was also the case in Colton. At Riverside the "boosters" had lunch at the Glenwood Mission Inn and then the band gave a fine concert, after which there were speeches and then came the return trip late this afternoon. The boosters were assured that large delegations would be present from each of the cities visited.

REDLANDS NOTES.

At a meeting held last evening committees from the Redlands and San Bernardino Motorcycle Club decided to hold a programme of races on Thanksgiving Day at Association Park. It is probable that the Riverside Club will also participate in the events. Some fine prizes will be awarded.

Mrs. Olive H. Mulholland, the new secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association, has arrived from Sacramento and assumed her duties in charge of the Redlands association. She will conduct the religious service tomorrow and early next week classes will be organized for the different departments of work.

H. R. Scott, assistant cashier of the First National Bank, returned today from a pleasure trip to Honolulu. Mrs. Scott stopped off in Hollywood for a few days visit with her mother. The Scotts made the trip over on the steamer Wilhelmina and on the way over sighted the Manchuria, which they passed so near that with the aid of glasses they were able to recognize among the passengers, Capt. S. C. Haver and Miss Ruth Lyon, both of Redlands.

Articles of incorporation were filed today with the County Clerk for the Crafton Heights Pipe Line Company of Redlands. The capitalization is placed at $16,250. The directors are I. E. Mills, L. R. Gay, C. C. Brown, H. H. Garstin and Robert Plummer.

The increase in the number of pupils attending the Crafton school has made it necessary to employ another teacher in the person of Mary C. Olmstead, who will teach the fifth and sixth grades. This school now has nearly one hundred pupils. Mrs. Sarah Bicknell being the principal.

C. P. Lawrence, 60 years old, while working in a planing mill yesterday had four of the fingers of his left hand cut off with a sharp knife. He was planing a half-inch board, the knives caught the planer too deeply and in his effort to pull it out his fingers were caught with the above mentioned result. He was rushed to the hospital where the mutilated member was dressed.

Mrs. Oretta J. Cocking was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from George J. Cocking yesterday by Judge Densmore. The Cockings were married less than two years ago. Mrs. Cocking declared on the witness stand that her husband never supported her and that he took from her the money her mother gave her. She also testified to his cruel and inhuman treatment of her.

Heartburn, Gas, Dyspepsia and Sourness Vanish and Your Stomach Will Feel Fine.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or you feel bloated after eating, and you believe it is the food which fills you; if what little you eat lies like a lump of lead on your stomach; if there is difficulty in breathing after eating, eructations of sour, undigested food and acid, heartburn, brash or a belching of gas, you can make up your mind that you need something to stop food fermentation and cure Indigestion.

To make every bite of food you eat aid in the nourishment and strength of your body, you must rid your Stomach of poisons, excessive acid and stomach gas, which sours your entire meal — interferes with digestion and causes so many sufferers of Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, Constipation, Griping, etc. Your case is no different—you are a stomach sufferer, though you may call it by some other name; your real and only trouble is that which you eat does not digest, but quickly ferments and sours, producing almost any unhealthy condition.

A case of Pape's Diapepsin will cost fifty cents at any pharmacy here, and will convince any stomach sufferer five minutes after taking a single dose that Fermentation and Sour Stomach is causing the misery of Indigestion.

No matter if you call your trouble Catarrh of the Stomach, Nervousness or Gastritis, or by any other name—always remember that a certain cure is waiting at any drug store the moment you decide to begin its use.

Pape's Diapepsin will regulate any out-of-order stomach within five minutes, and digest promptly, without any fuss or discomfort, all of any kind of food you eat.

PRINCETON FAILS TO SCORE ON NAVY'S BOYS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 21.—The Navy and Princeton played a scoreless tie here today. Although neither goal was at any time endangered, the game was a stirring one from the viewpoint of the spectators.

The work of the Tigers was the more consistent. Their speed and aggression in attack kept the sailors on the go most of the time, but this advantage was offset by Midshipman Captain Dalton's advantage over Dewitt at punting.

Each team made a try for a field goal. Princeton's effort was made early in the first period, but it was not until the end of the game that Navy tried to play. After a good return run on an exchange of punts and a line plunge, followed by a five-yard penalty that put the pigskin inside the thirty-yard mark, the sailors made a last effort to score from the field. But the Tiger line got through and blocked the attempt.

CONDITIONS ARE BAD FOR BIG LEAGUE GAMES.

Information comes from the East to the effect that the continued rain and the rows and squabbles that have broken out threaten to make the world's series a joke. The latest wrangle is over the division of the moving picture privileges.

Many of the fans are disgusted with the whole business and have come to consider it nothing but a big money-making scheme.

Henry Berry of the Los Angeles team, who went East to see the "big" games, is in Chicago on his way home. He says that conditions are rotten and that the proposition is too big for the National Commission to handle.

SEE MONTHS OF TROUBLE IN STRICKEN CHINA.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MANILA, Oct. 21.—Local merchants received advices from the naval authorities today to deliver at once all food supplies contracted in behalf of the marines stationed here. This assemblage of supplies is a precautionary measure in view of the possibility that the entire force would be dispatched to Hankow. That the navalauthorities regard the present disturbance in China is likely to be of long duration is indicated by the fact that the collier Abarenda, which sailed this week for Shanghai, took ammunition for a long campaign.

GRAHAM IN CONTROL.

Charley Graham, manager of the Sacramento team, has finally bought the interest of John I. Taylor in the Senators.

BERKELEY, Oct. 21.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] The University of California Rugby team defeated the Olympic Club fifteen today, 18 to 3.

ODD EVENTS IN THE NEWS.

Thief With a Conscience.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—The public appeal of a mother for the return of several little trinkets treasured by her as mementos of a daughter, who perished in the Iroquois Theater fire, was answered yesterday by the thief who had stolen them. They were sent back by mail.

The mother is Mrs. George J. Kuebler, wife of an attorney. Two little rings and two lockets that had been the means of identifying the mangled body of her little girl after the theater fire were part of $250 worth of plunder taken by the robber.

An appeal to the robber was published in the local newspapers at the request of Mrs. Kuebler, offering the thief all his plunder if he would return the keepsakes. During the day a man called up over the telephone saying that the rings and lockets would be returned. The man said he had a daughter of his own and sympathized with Mrs. Kuebler's desire to keep the momentos.

An Intelligent Cat.

WILLIMANTIC (Conn.) Oct. 12.—A musically inclined cat in the house of Alderman James D. Haggerty of this city saved the lives of the entire family last night. The cat became worried over the smell of escaping gas on the lower floor of the house and gave the alarm by running up and down the keyboard of the piano.

Mrs. Haggerty was awakened and found the house filled with gas from a leaky valve in the kitchen range. Two members of the family had already been overcome. The cat had been taught to strike the keys of the piano when it was hungry.

Fowl-Eating Pony.

DENVER (Pa.) Oct. 14.—Parke Lutz, living at Brankside, near this borough, has a pony with a fondness for poultry. Some time ago the little nag devoured an entire flock of young turkeys, a dozen disappearing down his throat in as many minutes.

Since then an effort has been made to keep the pony and poultry separated. Yesterday afternoon, however, the pony found in his stall a hen with a brood of young chicks, and before they could be taken from the stall the pony ate six of the peeps.

Bible in Phonetic Spelling.

MANKATO (Minn.) Oct. 12.—A translation of the Bible in phonetic spelling has just been made by Judson Jones, who is 80 years old. He began work twenty years ago. It required fifteen years of incessant labor to write the book out and another two years to correct the mistakes and proofs.

"Christ's Sermon on the Mount" has been printed. The title, as printed on the cover is:

"Krist's Sermon on the Mount. Spelled as Spok'n—by Jonz."

There are no silent letter of syllables.

Bread-Making Record.

BELOIT (Kan.) Oct. 12.—What is believed to be a world's record in transforming standing grain into bread was established yesterday by W. S. Gabel, a farmer, living near here.

Just thirty minutes elapsed between the time when the wheat was cut and when Mr. Gabel took the first bite of a biscuit which had been made from it. As soon as the grain was thrashed it was rushed a mile and a half to a mill and made into flour and then taken to a baker who made the biscuits.

The previous record is said to be one hour. 12

Big Gold Dredger Burned.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 21.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Fire last night destroyed a huge gold dredger at Natoma. The boat and its equipment cost $250,000. It was one of the biggest dredgers ever built, 2320 tons of materials being used in its construction. It had been in operation ten months.

ONE 'PHONE SYSTEM.

Mushet Says He Will Urge that Or a Municipal System If He Is Elected Mayor.

Advocating one telephone company for Los Angeles instead of two, as at present, W. C. Mushet, independent candidate for Mayor, last night won the hearty applause of his hearers at a number of meetings. Mushet advocates the establishment of one telephone company, and if this is found to be impossible, he advocates a municipal telephone.

Mushet pointed out to his audiences that the people are now paying a "reasonable return" on the investments of the two telephone companies aggregating $10,000,000, instead of one investment. "One telephone system would facilitate matters greatly besides reducing the telephone rates," said Mushet.

Open-air meetings were held at Sixty-first street and Moneta avenue, Fifty-third and San Pedro streets and Ninth and Mateo streets. A meeting was also held in Rhodes Hall at Fifty-fifth street and Moneta avenue, where Mushet was greeted with a rousing welcome. Robert G. Louckes presided.

Mushet also reiterated his advocacy of the cross-town car line and a conservative open town. Other speakers at last night's meetings were Frank Dominguez, Capt. Lewis Hansen, Grover L. Walter and Joseph Simons.

Hunter's Legs Stop Double Load of Bird Shot When Mistaken for Jack-Rabbit.

His legs being mistaken for a jack-rabbit, Nelson Summers, a glass worker, living at No. 755 Clanton street, was shot in the back and legs by his friend, Phil Koehler, yesterday, while hunting in the San Fernando Valley.

Both barrels of a shot gun were discharged at Summers's body, Koehler's vision being blinded by the sun's rays.

Summers was brought to the Receiving Hospital, where a score of bird shot were removed. He is not seriously injured, and later returned to his home.

ACQUITTED OF MURDER.

QUINCY (Cal.) Oct. 21.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] J. C. Jones, who killed King, was acquitted by the jury last night after a deliberation of two minutes. This was the second time that Jones was tried on the charge. During a quarrel over a decision in a baseball game at Beckwith, June 15, 1905, Jones struck King with a baseball bat.

HUNTINGTON HALL.

The new building at Oneonta Park will be ready for school work Wednesday, October 25. Huntington Hall will have always been justly proud of the beautiful grounds of their school home, but the many attractions of the new school will make it more than ever to while to change to less beautiful surroundings. The snow-capped mountains, orange groves with their drives of restful Pasadena will make the school life most enjoyable.

For the present the Hollenbeck school work will be carried on in the same building. The library will be used as a class room. The lawns and terrace will afford ample room for out-of-door study. Shortly a well-equipped school building will be erected. Plans have been made for improving the grounds. Out-of-door sports will continue to be a feature of the social work of the school.

"Huntington Hall is within a thirty-minute ride of Los Angeles, and is reached by six electric lines, making it accessible to people from Los Angeles, Altadena, Pasadena, Alhambra, Monrovia, Sierra Madre and Glendora.—[Adv.

William J. Browning, who has been nominated for Congress by the Republicans of the First New Jersey district, is widely known in Washington, where he resided for many years during the sessions of Congress in his tenure of office as Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives. If he is elected he will enter Congress not a new and unknown man, but already possessing the friendship and confidence of the leaders of both parties, and with valuable knowledge of public procedure and the best way to serve the district.

A movement, apparently backed by many conservative Republicans of Indiana, has been started for the nomination of Charles W. Fairbanks for Governor, and it is said that Mr. Fairbanks, while not willing to make a contest for the nomination, will not decline it if it is tendered by the State Convention.

The Chicago Inter Ocean says Gov. Deneen of Illinois is responsible for a movement to elect him to the Senate in place of Senator Cullom. During the deadlock of 1909 it is understood that had the Governor said so, he could have had the Senatorial nomination as the Republicans and Democrats, anxious to end the deadlock, stood ready to give it to him. He, however, elected to retain the Governorship.

Judge Russell, candidate for Governor of Georgia, added zest to his campaign the other day by administering a licking to J. W. Wilhelm, a life insurance man, who had called him a "liar." In a speech at Swainsboro, Judge Russell referred to "one J. W. Wilhelm hired for $4 a day and mileage to follow me around." Wilhelm resented this and finally said to Russell.

"You are a liar."

Russell handed the life insurance agent a stinging slap on the face and then followed up by several hard blows. Friends of the two intervened and put an end to the encounter.

Jeff Davis, the picturesque Senator from Arkansas, who is at present touring the country with his bride, says he can see nothing but victory for the Democrats next year, provided Woodrow Wilson is nominated for President. Champ Clark, he says, is a "kicker, too," but he will never carry the weight Wilson does, though he is a good man and has got the right enemies.

Some men are born great and some have greatness thrust upon them. To the latter class evidently belongs Mayor Wolff of Fond du Lac, Wis. When asked to curtail the two and a half hours' programme for President Taft's visit that another locality might have a few minutes of the President's time, he indignantly wired back, in his capacity as "chairman of all the committees" that Fond du Lac's programme called for exactly two hours and a half, no more and no less, otherwise "all preparations are abandoned. Give all your time to Appleton and Oshkosh." What the people of Fond du Lac said to him after they learned of his peppery response may be gathered from the telegram that finally closed the incident satisfactorily. In this the Mayor regrets the "hasty telegram canceling the President's invitation," and desires to "assure him of the desire of the Mayor and people to extend him the heartiest welcome" and promising to cut the cherished programme to suit his convenience.

Nashville, Tenn., has elected a negro City Councilman, Dr. S. P. Harris, who was running in opposition to the Democratic primary nominee. It has been more than twenty-five years since a negro was elected to the Council in Nashville, the last man being Y. C. Napier, now Register of the United States Treasury.

Congressman Underwood of Alabama in an address before the Iroquois Club at Chicago denounced the movement to incorporate the initiative and referendum in the Constitution of the United States. This amendment, he said, would destroy the very fabric of the Constitution, and end peace between the State and Federal governments. He favors the initiative and referendum as a local measure, but to write it on the Federal statute books would mean centering local governments in Washington.

Col. Thomas R. Hamer of St. Anthony, Idaho, who was defeated for Congress after serving one term, has announced himself a candidate for the additional Congressmen allotted the State by the re-apportionment. "I am a Taft Republican," he says. "I believe that Mr. Taft has the right idea on the trust situation and that he will make the idea win. President Taft will put his programme through and he will do the country a great deal of good. I heartily indorse his programme on this and on the tariff question. I believe that he and Secretary Fisher will give the people of the West a square deal, a thing that they have not had before."

"Champ Clark has the big end of the contest for the Missouri delegation to the Democratic national convention," according to the St. Louis Globe Democrat. "The Democratic editors of Kansas have indorsed him and two days before President Taft was in Hutchinson the Democratic State leaders there signed a request to Joseph W. Folk to get off the track for Clark that he might have the Missouri delegation in the national convention, promising in such event to deliver the Kansas delegation to him. Folk did not comply with the request."

Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston is a little sensitive when anything is said about his musical ability. At a recent hearing of charges against a dance hall, the Mayor and John F. Feeney, counsel for the owner of the hall, almost came to blows. During a discussion of a certain phase of the matter between the Mayor and Alderman Banks, Mr. Feeney got up and shouted: "The doings of this dance hall are no more indecent than your singing 'Sweet Adeline.' Everything you do you try to turn to your political benefit." This remark from Feeney caused the Mayor to order him from the room. The incident created much excitement.

NEW MOTORCYCLE RECORD.

A highly successful motorcycle race meet was held at San Jose last week and a new hundred-mile motorcycle track record was established by Ben Broderick, riding an Indian, equipped with G. and J. tires. The distance was covered in 98m 48s. The G. and J. tires on this machine gave perfect service, and despite the terrific speed made on the turns, there was no tire trouble whatever. The victory was complete for G. and J. tires, as they also secured the second, third and fourth place in this same event, and also won first in the five-mile one-cylinder open race and first in the flat belt five-mile race.

Fire Commissioner Johnson of New York City is confident of having 150 pieces of motor fire-fighting apparatus in the service of the city by the end of 1912.

An Unconventional Portrait.

Baugnies' painting of his wife shows how art has learned from photography.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—One of the most charming portraits on view in Paris this autumn is Jacques Baugnies' painting of his wife, and its charm lies chiefly in its departure from the traditional stiffness of formal portraiture. It is more like a snapshot in which the photographer has caught an unstudied pose and an absolutely natural expression.

The effect of unconventionality is heightened by the perfectly plain gown and the flat background, which is without any object to distract attention from the central figure.

CHINA AND ITS PEOPLE.

BY WALTER J. BALLARD.

The present revolutionary excitement in the provinces of Hunan, Honan and He Peh, China, lends interest to a brief study of the people of China, their destiny of population and social surroundings which this article attempts.

The Chinese have recently been estimated to number 438,000,000, which is doubtless within the mark, as the census of 1903 gave the population as 426,040,000, distributed as follows:

China proper	407,330,000
Manchuria	8,500,000
Tibet	6,430,000
Mongolia	2,580,000
Sungaria	600,000
East Turkestan	600,000
Total population, 1903	426,040,000

The 407,000,000 people in China proper, occupy eighteen provinces, and average 300 per square mile, against about twenty-two per square mile in the United States. In Honan province the density of population is twenty-two times greater than in Manchuria—hence, doubtless, the present extreme feeling of unrest in that densly-populated province. Mongolia and Turkestan are also very sparsely populated. If, says "The Americana," the whole population of China, and forty millions more, were crowded into the State of Texas, the density of population would be about equal to that of the Yantze Valley (the British sphere of influence in China,) and of the plain extending north and south between the lower courses of the Yangtaz River and the Honang River. The province of Ngan-Hui, but a little larger than the State of New York, has more than three times the population. Che-Kiang province, slightly larger in area than Kentucky, has more than ten times the number of inhabitants, and between Kwan-Tung and Kansas the ratio is twenty-one to one.

PROVINCIAL DISTRIBUTION.

In 1903 (latest complete census) the provincial distribution of the 407,000,000 population in China proper was:

Province.	Population.	Per Sq. Mile.
Shan-Tung	38,247,900	683
Honan (in revolution)	35,316,890	530
Yu-Kien	25,976,540	494
He-Peh (in revolution)	35,280,485	492
Ngan-Hui	23,676,214	432
Kiang-Si	26,532,125	382
Kiang-Su	13,980,295	367
Kwang-Tung (with Hainan)	31,665,261	319
Che-Kiang	11,580,692	316
Sze-Chuen	68,724,890	214
Hunan (in revolution)	22,169,673	266
Pe-Chi-Li	20,937,000	172
Shan-Si	12,200,458	149
Kwei-Chan	7,650,252	114
Shen-Si	8,450,182	111
Yunnan	12,324,574	84
Kan-Su	10,385,276	82
Kwang-Si	5,142,320	67
Total population, 1903	407,253,029

Thus we see that the density of population per square mile (a natural breeder of revolutions) in China in even its most sparsely-populated of the eighteen provinces of China proper, namely, Kwang-Si, is more than three times the average population per square mile in the United States. The full awakening of such a vast people living so close together as 300 average per square mile, must be and will be a tremendous force for either good or evil in the Far East. In that regard it is more than fortunate that our policy towards the Chinese—many thousands of them—in the Philippines, is liberal, a policy of non-interference with their religion, their manners, or their customs, except in sanitary matters and in the suppression of imports and sale of opium; and in those two matters the best of the Chinese in the Philippines are in accord with our administration there. They have been loyal and honest with us from the beginning of American occupancy, thirteen years ago.

THE PEOPLE.

The Chinese belong to that variety of the human race called Mongolian, but in them its harsher features, as represented in the genuine Tartars, are considerably softened. In bodily strength they are far inferior to Europeans, but superior to most Asiatics, their great assiduity and patient endurance of fatigue making them highly prized as laborers throughout the Indian Archipelago. Perhaps the finest specimens of the race are to be seen among the coolies or porters of Canton — from which the Chinese in America are largely drawn. The Chinese (so far) have been somewhat deficient in attacking courage, yet often display great contempt for death. In their moral qualities there is much that is amiable. It is well-known that a Chinaman's word is a Chinaman's bond. At each New Year's all debts have to be paid or the debtor loses "caste," a loss far more humiliating to them than is facing the bankruptcy court or a "no property found" judgment to us, or to any other peoples.

CHINESE TERMS.

Study of the following terms in general use among the Chinese will enable us to more readily understand the reports which will come to us as the revolution goes on and the country develops:

Fu, or Foo, means a city of the first class, as Ningpofu. Chau, or Chow, means a city of the second class; that is, a city subject to the ruler of a greater city. Hien is used for a city of the third class; that is, a city of a dependent province.

Shan, as in Shan-Si, means mountain, or the province of the "Mountainous West:" Shan-Tung, the "Mountainous Province," and so on.

The Chinese are strongly attached to their homes, hold age in respect, toil hard for the support of their families, and in the interior, where the worst kind of foreign intercourse has not debased them, exhibit an unsophisticated and pleasing simplicity of manners.

Kiang, meaning "stream," is found in the names of rivers and in some of the best watered provinces, as Kiang-si, Kiang-su, etc.

Fu-tai, or Foo-tai, the Governor of a province.

Godown, a warehouse or place for storing goods.

Haikwan, the customs duties.

Hwang, the emperor, yellow.

Li, a Chinese mile (equal to one-quarter English mile.)

Likin, an inland tax on foreign goods in transit—gradually being abolished by the provinces so as to encourage foreign and inter-provincial trade.

Niu-ko, privy council.

Shih, imperial.

Tael, a coin equal to one and one-third ounces of silver in weight.

Tao-tai, the Governor of a city.

Ting, a city of a small province.

Tein, a prince.

Tsin-wang, a prince of the blood.

Tsung, clan, family (sometimes board.)

Tsung-li-Yamen, the cabinet council for foreign relations.

Tsung-tuh, Viceroy or ruler of more than one province. It is for this position over the provinces of Hunan, Honan, and Hu-peh, now in revolt, that the powerful ruler, Yuan Shi Kai, has just been recalled from his three years' banishment with all honors restored and greater ones given. Formerly he was Grand Councilor and Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy of China, as indicated in The Times of October 15.

Yamen, office (for official business.)

EDUCATIONAL NOTES.

[Washington Star:] The public school has more than one function to perform. It has not only to educate the children by filling their brains with facts and training them in the manipulation of figures and the understanding of the earth's surface and physical constituents and the fundamental happenings of ancient and modern history and the structural formation of the English and perhaps a foreign language. It must make of the boys and girls responsible, thinking individuals, developing their moral as well as their mental natures. The school stands in place of the parent to a larger extent than many teachers and principals and superior educational officials appreciate. It should not be a form of punishment, a gloomy prospect to be faced on five days of the week during nine months of the year, but an opportunity for congenial, helpful association, and for the discovery of new and entertaining things in life and about the past and present. Whatever can help to this end, whether motion pictures or more humanly interesting lessons, should be sought by every Board of Education.

Rev. Frank Crane recently caused the 700 men and women attending the annual convention of the Cook County Teachers' Association in Chicago to sit up and listen. "The child of today," he said, "learns more in the school yard than in the school room, for at play he learns the principles of democracy and citizenship. His life should be all play, and the true teacher teaches him to make work play. Our educational idea is to make a boy an exceptional man; it ought to be to make him a well trained, common man. It is calculated to bring a child to a certain standard; it ought to bring out what is in the child.

"Grades, examinations and civil service are three arrant humbugs, and the examination is the supreme one. The teacher that needs an examination to ascertain a child's qualifications ought to be plowing corn. Writing about a thing is a mere trick and is no sign of a practical knowledge of the thing.

"Civil service is the other half of rotten politics, and its examinations are filling the government with incompetents. No successful business would tolerate the system.

"There is many a girl in our modern schools," he went on, "who can prattle about the square or a right angle triangle, and knows nothing of the flower that brush her pretty ankles as she walks to school.

"She knows nothing of the stars at which she gazes when she talks to her beau. She knows nothing about the life sustaining plants growing in the ground on which she walks; has no understanding of parental domestic problems, nor of the care of her body, and goes forth into the world totally unfit to be a wife or mother.

"There are not enough teachers, and they are underpaid. The school principal is more important than the Senator."

According to Dr. Crane children should be trained in these subjects, in the order of their importance:

Physical efficiency.

Sex truth, its most important element now neglected.

Training in altruistic emotions, humility, service, ethics.

Training of the will.

Training in taste.

Training in organization.

Training in clear thinking.

William A. McKeever, professor of philosophy and sociology at the Kansas State Agricultural College, has issued another interesting and helpful Home Training Bulletin. This one is entitled "Teaching the Girl to Save."

"Teach the girl to save not merely for future use but for future good," he says. "It is agreed among men, I believe, that one of the finest of all womanly qualities is unselfishness, that the sweetest and best in her nature is shown forth in her sacrifice and devotion in behalf of others, especially her own dependent children. There is also much other altruistic work in the church and in the social institutions that is best performed only by women. Train the growing girl, therefore, to give a reasonable part of her savings to some worthy social need.

"Perhaps one of the best arguments in support of the theory that the girl should be trained in the use of money is seen in the spoliation of character and the destruction of peace that result from the schemes of the money shark. Just now as I write thousands of good women, many of them widows, washer women and dependent girls, are having their eyes opened to the fact that they have been defrauded out of their earnings by a man who offered them an enticing investment. Designing persons who have stocks and bonds or securities of one kind or another to sell, reap a rich harvest among the class of persons just named. This fraud and wrong continues largely because of the lack of training in money affairs which is still the rule among growing girls."

[The Argonaut:] Prof. Richardson of the State University has been compiling tables of statistics tending to illustrate the effect of "student activities" upon individual scholarship. He finds that unaffiliated students—that is, students not connected with fraternities, clubs, and other organizations—maintained a "passing grade" of 91 per cent. during the last college year. Members of house clubs averaged a passing grade of 89 per cent., and of fraternities 84.2 per cent. The percentage of students in the first and second grades in scholarship was as follows: Unaffiliated, 56.4 per cent.; clubs, 54.6 per cent.; fraternities, 45.2 per cent. For the last three years the record runs: 1909—unaffiliated, 49.5 per cent.; clubs, 51.9 per cent.; fraternities, 39.7 per cent. For 1910—unaffiliated, 54.7 per cent.; clubs, 52.1 per cent.; fraternities, 42.2 per cent. For 1911—unaffiliated, 56.4 per cent.; clubs, 54.6 per cent.; fraternities, 45.2 per cent. All of which goes to show quite positively that club and other forms of organized social life into which large numbers of students enter is reflected in a deteriorated scholarship. It is to be considered that scholarship is not the sole benefit to be gotten out of a college career; and the serious question is, if the training and discipline afforded by fraternity and other organized social activities is a sufficient compensation for the apparently inevitable loss in scholarly acquirement.

[San Francisco News-Letter:] The governing board of Notre Dame College in Indiana has taken drastic action against cigarette smoking by the students, imposing no less a penalty than expulsion upon all who persist in evading or disobeying the order against the practice. The governing board announce its reason for the drastic measure to be the fact that a youth of sufficient age and learning to enter the freshman class, and who is so far under the evil influence of the cigarette habit that nothing but ostracism can save him should be saved by ostracism or expulsion. The theory of the college is that aside from impairing the health and stupefying the mind of the youth who forms the cigarette habit, he subjects himself to influences of a decidedly immoral character, which are likely to grow upon him until he becomes little less than a physical and moral wreck. If such drastic measures to suppress cigarette smoking as those adopted by Notre Dame will not save the "freshies" from acquiring the filthy and evil habit, they will have to go unsaved.

But the government board of Notre Dame, while enthusiastic in their support of the effort of the college to go so far as to kill out the desire for the cigarette before the youth longs to acquire the habit, is simply obeying an Indiana statute which is as arbitrary and unyielding as a law could be made.

HOT RIVALRY.

There is likely to be some rivalry between Elgin and Rockford, Ill. over the privilege of holding the annual stock chassis road champion ships next year. The Rockford Chamber of Commerce has made known its intention of making a strong bid for the contests that have been held at Elgin the last two years. On the other hand, there is a possibility that the Elgin folks will not bid for the race in 1912. In close proximity to Rockford are two courses of fifteen miles, which expert drivers declare excel the Elgin course.

NATIONALS GOING HOME.

The National "50," which Howard Wilcox drove in the free-for-all at Santa Monica, and the National "40," with which Charles Merz won the heavy car race, have been shipped back to Indianapolis. The National team is returning by way of San Francisco and after a few days in the Golden Gate city will go direct to the factory to prepare for the Savannah race. Harvey Herrick's car, which won the free-for-all, will be kept on exhibition at the local salesroom.

BITS OF VERSE.

Upwards.

Live on, O Soul, endure,
Be fleet, be bold;
Drink of the waters pure
Beside thee rolled.

Steep mists obscure the sun,
The wind pipes loud;
Yet somewhat great is done
Behind the cloud.

The climbing pathway keep,
Nor seek to know;
Let others hoard and creep
In mist below.

Heed not that men should say
That thou are bent
On softness, in delay
Supinely pent.

The rifted vapors part,
The far crag gleams,
Live on, o'er-clouded heart,
By love, by dreams!

DYSPEPSIA-PROOF.

How Any Meal Can Be Thoroughly Enjoyed by Any Stomach.

Costs You Nothing to Try Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Men, as a rule, are first discovered by their enemies. Their antagonists turn on the searchlight, and the proof of merit will lie in being able to stand the flash.

It was only in this way that Mr. White ever knew that dyspepsia was one of Mr. Black's worst enemies. Sitting face to face at a two-by-four table, he handed his afflicted friend the bill of fare:

Oyster Cocktail. Stuffed Olives.
Boston Clam Chowder.
Strained Gumbo.
Sirloin Steak with Mushrooms.
Roast Beef Hash.
Boiled Ox Tongue with Sauerkraut.
Lobster a la Newburg.
Baked Pork and Beans.
Combination Crab Salad.
Hot Mince Pie.
Pineapple Fritters.

Mr. White ordered a "little of each." Mr. Dyspepsia Black ordered crackers and a glass of milk. "I had such a big breakfast this morning," he said, "that I'll just take a bite to keep you company." But Mr. White could not be deceived. "I am afraid you can't stand the gleam, Mr. Black. Why don't you say you have dyspepsia and be done with it? You'll always have that hungry look anyhow as long as you have dyspepsia. Now, listen. My stomach was in just as bad condition as yours at one time. But now I can eat anything, at any time. For instance, this clam chowder or sirloin steak or even the lobster would be just as welcome to my stomach as your crackers and milk. You don't realize how this dyspepsia business is robbing you of your spirit, of your energy and ability to think quickly. I can't help notice it. You haven't the cheer and sociability you had three months ago. Now, I'll tell you what to do," and thereat the cheerful Mr. White took a vial from his pocket and extracted a wee tablet. "There, there is a tablet that contains an ingredient, one grain of which digests 3000 grains of food. For even the worst dyspeptic it's the only thing that really gives relief. The reason is it relieves the stomach of nearly all the work it has to do, digests everything in the stomach and stimulates the gastric juice. I can't get along without them. They are Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. You can get them anywhere on earth for 50c a package."

Yes, it is true, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets absolutely stop heartburn, nausea, indigestion, dyspepsia of the worst type, sour stomach, bloaty feeling and all eructations and irritation, and freshen and invigorate the stomach. They cheer you up, and make you get all the good there is in your food. You will forget you ever had a stomach to worry you.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WEST POINT (N. Y.) Oct. 21.—In an aquatic struggle, in which both sides had sometimes fairly to swim for the ball, the West Point cadets, by their charging and ability to hold on to the pigskin, won from Yale today, for the second consecutive year, by 6 to 0. The army tochdown came in the first three minutes of play, when Dean captured the ball on a Yale fumble on the Blues' thirty-yard line, circled Yale's right end for a twenty-seven-yard run to the three-yard line and in two rushes was pushed over for the first score against the Blue this season. A minute later he kicked goal, and the score stood 6 to 0, where it remained, although both elevens had a fierce struggle to the finish.

The army outplayed Yale at every point and continually threw the Blue back for losses. With their hands well-rosined, the cadet back field only fumbled two of Yale's twenty-six punts, while the army forwards got the jump on the Yale line at every down. Yale stood once on the army's thirty-yard line, but was never near the cadets' goal.

On the other hand, Gillespie, the brilliant army end, grabbed a muffed ball by Philbin in the center of the field and slipped along to the one-yard line before a Yale player overhauled him. A score seemed inevitable, but on the first rush in which Yale held, the cadets were sent back nfteen yards for holding. There an effort was made for a placement goal, but Yale easily blocked the kick.

In the last period the army was within eighteen yards of the Yale goal, where another placement kick was blocked.

It was a kicking game throughout. Yale rushed but eighteen times for a net gain of forty-eight yards, while the army made forty-six yards in eleven rushes, including Dean's long run.

Few football battles have been fought under such severe conditions. The gridiron was a swamp, and it rained throughout the game, so that time was frequently called to allow the players to sponge their faces.

Six thousand persons stood in the downpour to watch the contest.

FINAL GAMES OF SEASON ON TODAY.

After a long and interesting season that began Tuesday, March 28, the Coast League teams will play their final games today. The game here this morning will be played on the Vernon grounds at 10:30 o'clock and the afternoon game will be at Washington Park.

On opening day there were about 7100 fans at the game, and as the final game is to be played this afternoon it would be fitting and proper for the fans to turn out en masse to bid God speed to the players and watch the old season out.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—San Francisco and Portland split even on a double-header today, the northerners winning the first struggle, 9 to 7, while San Francisco blanked the Ducks in the second session, 5 to 0.

It appeared to be "bush day" with both teams, McCredie and Long working out several recruits from lesser leagues. Reuther, a San Franciscan, was tried out by Portland in the second game and gave seven hits.

Sutor was knocked off the mound in the first game and Noyes met the same fate. Henley finished the game for the locals. Fanning held Portland to four hits in the second game. Scores:

Expert Opinion.

STANFORD SHOWED LITTLE CLASS, SAYS THE REFEREE.

BY RALPH C. NOBLE,

referee of the game.

U.S.C.—Stanford.

Wonderful defensive work on the part of the U.S.C. team is the whole story from whistle to whistle.

Fighting like bulldogs time and again they tore up the attack of the northern men and turned the tide of play in the other direction.

Stanford seemed so surprised after the first few ineffectual attempts to cross the southern line that they were not able to show any of the class expected of them. Fumbling in their back field was the rule and not the exception and rush after rush came to a quick ending when the fast backs juggled the ball long enough to enable the tacklers to smother the pass.

The U.S.C. scrum was superior in the heeling-out department and to them belongs the biggest part of the credit for the low score. Pat Higgins may well be proud of his forwards for they repeatedly took the ball from the opposing front rankers on most of the regular packs and although the backs were not able to do any brilliant advancing with it they managed to kick to touch for the usual small gain.

In the loose play, the long training of the northerners was easily noticeable and the forwards outdribbled the southern eight; but the difference was not great enough to give them any material advantage. The Stanford forwards were woefully weak in the passing, seldom following the play well enough to be any assistance to their backs. This was a big disappointment in regard to the northern team; either they were out of condition and could not stand the pace or else they were up in the air on account of the unexpected strength of Higgins's men.

Time after time Geissler and Kern, the wings, were caught in possession after they had vainly looked around for some one to pass to. The continual following up of the California team is what most critics consider the factor in the big games up North that has won for the blue and gold and unless this year's Stanford team improves in this department in the next few weeks it looks like the same old story.

POOR TEAM WORK.

Besides the numerous fumbles in the Stanford back field there seemed to be a lack of mutual understanding between the inside men. Cass, Harrigan and Reisling on several occasions were all mixed up, part starting to one side and part to the other. Cass was caught as he hesitated and his pass blocked or smothered.

From a good Rugby standpoint the winners played too selfishly. Each Stanford man was not satisfied in running the ball a few yards, but wanted to pass at least one or two tacklers before he would attempt to get rid of it. This system which may be easily worked against an indifferent defense, did not avail anything against the fierce tackling of the U.S.C. team. The southern forwards broke quickly at the call of Albers and swarmed all over the field and nothing but the cleverest offense could break their line.

A GOOD RECRUIT.

Besides out-classing the Stanford forwards in the heeling department, the southerners held their own in the line-outs. Murphy, the newest recruit to U.S.C. ranks, secured the ball two-thirds of the time in the first half, his basketball experience standing him in good stead. The only place that the Stanford forwards had anything on Higgins's men was in the rucks. They packed quickly and got the ball out to their backs and it was this one feature that prevented a no-score game. Both scores can be traced to a rush that started from a loose ruck in which the Stanford men got started before the defense knew the ball was out.

STANFORD'S KICKING.

Offensive work is harder to learn than defensive, at least it takes longer. If U.S.C. could have unlimbered some clever back play they could have thrown a good scare into the northern camp. Foss, Manning and Milliken had several good movements started but straight, mechanical passes do not fool experienced Rugby players, and they generally ended in a touch kick or a scrum.

Stanford took all the honors in the kicking game, Floyd Brown kicking half across the field to the touch line with the utmost accuracy. In the cross-kicking department they did not show any of the expected class. Although they tried this many times, no material gain resulted, the kick usually being behind the line of players more often than in front.

Taken as a whole, even the most loyal Stanford man will admit that their showing was a disappointment, especially in teamwork, in which we had all hoped to see something new. In saying that Stanford played poorly we are not taking one bit of the honor away from the sturdy Southern California men, for it was on account of their stubborn defense and determined attack that the Stanford machine was torn to shreds.

SIXTY BALL FANS SEE OAKS BEATEN.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 21.—The Greater Sacramento morning baseball session was won by the Senators in neat style from the Oaks by a score of 5 to 1.

Sixty faithful fans were on hand to witness the best game of the series. A number of fast double plays were pulled off, and the game was the best that has been played this series.

CHANCE LINING UP FOR NEXT SEASON.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—The Chicago National League club management has already started in to rehabilitate its pitching staff for 1912. It is understood that left-handed twirlers will be in greater favor next season with the Cubs and following up this idea, Manager Chance yesterday purchased Walter Nagle, a big left-hander, from the Newark, Eastern League club.

In addition to Nagle, who is the first "southpaw" signed since the banishment of Jack Pfeister, the Cubs have added Jake Northrup of the Reading Tri-State Club, a big right-hander, said to be one of the real "finds" of the year. All told, the pitching staff as now assembled consists of fifteen men and others may be signed before the team embarks next spring for the training camp.

All to the Good.

WEAK REDLANDS TEAM EASY FOR WHITTIER MEN.

THE Quakers defeated Redlands University yesterday on Hadley Field at Whittier by 26 to 10. Redlands was unable to score before the last of the fourth quarter, when most of the Whittier scrubs were put in the game, who proceeded to give the Baptists ten points in as many minutes. Throughout the game Whittier worked the forward pass with great success, and also showed superiority to Redlands in all other departments of the game.

The two teams took the field, Whittier receiving the kick-off. Capt. Crites carried the ball back forty yards by a spectacular run. The halves then bucked the line for repeated gains, Half-back Newlin finally carrying the ball over for the first touchdown after six minutes of play. Renneker kicked goal. Redlands again kicked off and Whittier again carried the ball down the field with equal rapidity. Just before the end of the quarter Henderson carried the ball over for the second touchdown on a cross-tackle play. The goal kick failed. Score at the end of the first quarter: Whittier, 11; Redlands, 0.

The second quarter was a repetition of the first. The "Poets" started their favorite forward-pass tactics, and sent Sharpless, the speedy end, across the line for another score. Try at goal failed. Time was called with the ball on Redlands' 25-yard line, Whittier threatening the goal. Score at end of half: Whittier, 16; Redlands, 0.

Whittier slipped over two more touchdowns in the third period of play, most of the necessary ground being gained by end runs and passes. The Quakers seem to have lost something of their cunning in this last play, but they gain much more ground by it than by any other one play. Splendid interference made long end runs possible, but both the touchdowns of this quarter came from short line bucks, one by Crites and the other by Renneker. Goal was not converted in either instance.

Things began to happen for the Baptists in the last period. Coach White took the regulars out to save them and filled their places with second-string men. Redlands made her yards and a penalty for side-line coaching placed the ball on the 7-yard line. Whittier held, but immediately upon recovering the ball a bad pass resulted in Redlands securing a safety. This was repeated again and once more a Whittier man had the good fortune to fall on the oval. But Redlands, taking advantage of the disorganization of the Quakers, fell on the ball themselves the third time it rolled over the line. Bonnell kicked goal. Time was called before the aroused Baptists could do any more damage. Final score: Whittier, 26; Redlands, 10.

OXY CAPTURES FIRST BIG AMERICAN GAME.

OCCIDENTAL, 12; Pasadena High, 6.

Before a well-filled grand stand and some twenty automobiles, the Occidental Tiger came back to the tune of 12 to 6. The game was the hardest-fought high school-college game that has been played since Los Angeles High turned to Rugby.

Occidental attempted to play and win without the aid of Drury Wieman, and would have done so had it not been for an unfortunate mistake during the third quarter. As it was the return of Wieman put the Tigers on the top of the heap.

The game was not as close as the score would indicate. The college boys outplayed the High School lads in every department of the game.

Before the game commenced the field was well filled and before the game was five minutes old there was quite a respectable crowd on the bleachers and in the automobiles.

From the very start of the game, the play was fast, Occidental getting away for several long gains on end runs. At the center position, Tiny Jones and Venus McNary were fighting it out tooth and nail with the honors very even. After an exchange of punts, Occidental started a march down the field and when Pasadena held them for downs on the thirty-yard line, Bradbeer started the scoring with a place kick, the quarter ended with the ball in the possession of Pasadena on their own thirty-yard line. Score: Oxy, 3; Pasadena, 0.

With the second half the play became faster and more open, neither team being able to make any gains through the line. Foster got away for fifteen yards several times during this period, as did Kirkpatrick. The first successful forward pass of the day was pulled off by Seay and Dill, netting twenty-five yards. This put the Tigers in a position to score again and Bradbeer was for the second time in the afternoon successful in pilotin the ball between the posts. From this time on Pasadena took a decided brace and held the Tigers even. Bidenbach, Pasadena's left guard, who was putting up a great game, wrenched his ankle and was forced to leave the game. The half ended with the ball in Pasadena's possession in the middle of the field. Score: Oxy, 6; Pasadena, 0.

CLOSE SECOND HALF.

The game was much closer during the second half, the Crown City boys fighting for every inch. After several exchanges of punts, the ball was in the possession of the Tigers on their thirty-five.

The Tiger quarter made a mistake in the down and did not punt on the third down, with the result that Pasadena took the ball. Then their roof fell in on Occidental. The Pasadena boys pulled off a forward pass, Chambers to Traverner, and the latter by a pretty dodging run, carried the ball over. O'Niell kicked the goal and tied the score amid great enthusiasm. This was too much for Coach Pipal and Wieman was sent in. He kicked off to Pasadena and tackled the man who carried the ball.

Then the Tigers held for downs and the quarter ended with the ball in the possession of Occidental on their forty-five.

The last quarter Drury Wieman played the whole game for Occidental, making over half the length of the field in a series of bucks.

After Wieman had carried the ball to the thirty-yard line, Seay passed the ball to Bradbeer on a shoestring play and he carried the ball over for a touchdown, a moment later kicking the goal. From this point on the Tigers were content to hold their own, the game ending with the ball in the middle of the field.

BY GREY OLIVER.

Vernon, 7; Los Angeles, 2.

In order to keep anyone from thinking that he might not land in second place in the league race, Hap Hogan stuck in Stewart to pitch yesterday against the Angels and he beat them easily. He was about as wild as Connie Mack must be when you talk about rain, for he walked three men and hit one with the ball. With all this, he never seemed to be in danger.

Aside from the hitting of Kane, which was the big feature of the game, Heitmulier was the bright star of the afternoon with a catch in right field that made the few fans thinks of the old days in the good old summer time.

McDonnell started the eighth with a short fly toward right field that everyone marked down for a base hit as soon as the ball left the bat for apparently it was a Texas leaguer over Delmas's head that no one could get. When the ball left the bat Heitmuller dashed in from right field toward the pitcher's box and while running at full speed reached his right hand down to his shoe tops and snared the ball. It was a brilliant catch and all the fans applauded loudly. This was the only play worthy of mention, except Agnew's high jumping catch of Stewart's liner in the fourth on which Ag was enabled to double up Brown at first base.

The Vernons found Agnew very easy, and they lammed him all around the lot for fourteen singles and doubles, the eighth inning being the only one in which they did not get a hit. This slugging accounts for the easy manner in which the Tigers ripped off runs.

Two singles and a sacrifice got their first one in the first inning, and a single, double and a steal made the second one. The three that came in the fifth were due to three singles, a double and a pass. With two out in the ninth a single, double and two errors made two more runs.

A triple and a sacrifice made the first Angel run in the sixth; a pass, single and a steal got the next one in the seventh, and a double, sacrifice and a single made the final one in the eighth.

The play was very ragged at times and some of the errors seemed inexcusable. The only possible excuse is too much baseball.

DELUGE KILLS ALL HOPE FOR BIG GAME.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—The fourth game between the Philadelphia Athletic and the New York Giants for the baseball championship of the world which was cheduled to be played here last Wednesday, was postponed today for the fourth time and under the rules will be played on Monday or the first clear day.

Rain fell heavier today than at any time since the present wet weather set in last Tuesday night.

Umpires Klem Connolly and Dineen, under instructions from the National Commission went to Shibe Park at 7:30 o'clock this morning to make an early decision so that an announcement could be made in New York and other eastern cities within reach of Philadelphia. The umpires agreed before they left their hotel that there could be no game.

Connie Mack was not at the ball grounds when the umpires made their decision, but when he arrived and took a look at the wretched condition of the field he said it appeared to him that it was doubtful if a game would be played Monday unless the rain soon ceased.

The wet weather is giving the manager of the Athletics a chance to catch up on his correspondence which has been unusually heavy since the Philadelphia team won its second game from New York. Among the telegrams he has received was an invitation to play one of the games in Tacoma, Wash.

The members of the Philadelphia team reported at the grounds as usual today and were excused until Monday morning at 10 o'clock when they will try to get some much needed practice if the weather permits. Reuben Oldring, the centerfielder, returned to Mt. Vernon, N. Y., where his sister will be buried tomorrow. He expects to join the team Monday. Oldring, who arrived early today, from Mt. Vernon, said his mother was very ill.

As soon as the game was officially postponed Managers McGraw of the New York team released the members of his team until Monday morning and they scattered in all directions. Most of them left for New York at 11 o'clock.

Another Recital to Be Given on Saturday Next.

That Los Angeles is quick to adopt metropolitan ways is evidenced by the immediate success of the recitals which were inaugurated by Barker Bros. a few weeks ago, and which have been so liberally patronized that upon two occasions during the past week their large piano auditorium has been filled to its entire seating capacity, and at yesterday's concert, a number were even obliged to be content with standing room.

On Thursday afternoon last, a most enjoyable programme was rendered by artists from the faculty of the Von Stein Academy, and yesterday afternoon was devoted to a recital by the students from this same well-known conservatory.

Many expressions of commendation have been received by Barker Bros. for their liberal and progressive methods which they have adopted in the development of their piano business which are in advance of anything of the kind heretofore been known in the West. It is evident from the character of the recitals which have already been given, and from their evident determination, that these musical events shall be of thoroughly high class nature and such as to please those who are lovers of real music. Barker Bros. seek to attain a position of pre-eminence in this field of advertising, which shall be unique.

These recitals are given entirely without charge and Barker Bros. desire to extend a cordial invitation to the public generally to attend any or all of them. The next recital will be held on Saturday afternoon of the coming week, at 2:45 o'clock, the programme of which will be announced Tuesday or Wednesday.

As another evidence of Barker Bros.' desire to aid in the development of musical interest, they are at present offering in connection with every new piano sold, a scholarship in the Von Stein Academy of Music entirely without additional cost.

McNamara Trial.

SPEED LIMIT IN NO DANGER.

Work's Work Shows Haste Is Being Made Slowly.

Careful Selection of Jury Crux of the Case.

Six Men Pass Sunday as the Guests of State.

The McNamara case will be resumed tomorrow with six temporary men in the box. Three have been passed for cause by both prosecution and defense, but according to the attitudes in the present case, this has little significance. Either side upon the alleged discovery of information concerning the veniremen, recall him for further examination.

It was discovered at the last session that some of the talesmen were reluctant to disclose their scruples against hanging a man upon circumstantial evidence until Dist.-Atty. Ford Hickey and Deputy Horton had probed into their inner conscientiousness, so to speak.

Quite unwilling to be quoted, not one of the attorneys engaged in the case believes that the jury box will be filled for several weeks. In addition to the twelve men who will compose the panel, it is expected that Judge Bordwell will appoint two alternates to serve in case of the illness or sickness of one or two members of the regular panel.

Section 1055 of the Penal Code provides that in protracted trials the court can appoint one or two alternate jurors. If a juror becomes incapacitated the clerk will draw one of the names for service. As there is no provision for more than two alternates, the sickness or death of more than two of the regular panel would result in a mistrial.

GOOD HEALTH REQUIRED.

As this is a remote contingency, the utmost care is being taken to have men in good health. One of the questions asked each prospective juror is whether he is suffering from any chronic disease that might incapacitate him. Elderly men are looked upon with distrust. Deputy Sheriff Hunt so far, day before yesterday, as to inquire of one talesman if his absence would affect his business or make him assume an anxious state of mind.

On different occasions during the past few weeks, Judge Bordwell has been careful to impress upon all the talesmen that personal inclination or business reasons should not enter into consideration. He stated that jury duty is honorable and not to be lightly disregarded. Several times the court also admonished the talesmen under examination to refrain from answers prompted by a desire to escape service.

In the process of selecting a jury to try James B. McNamara, who is charged in the present case with the murder of Charles Hagerty, a Times' employe, by means of a dynamite bomb, intelligent, impartial men are wanted.

The District Attorney looks mainly for the men's lack of bias or prejudice and general intelligence. He wants the jurors "to be mentally and physically." He wants men capable of weighing evidence, not actuated by any sentimental or religious feelings against the modes of punishment prescribed by the State Constitution.

"EXPERIENCED" MEN?

On the other hand, Attorney Darrow, leading counsel for the defense, has no secret of the fact that he wants men easily swayed by eloquence, those who have suffered business or family losses, and especially men who have encountered adversity during their lives.

So far, the defendant has been well consulted by any of his attorneys. He has sat in his usual place to the left of the space within the bar, without changing his position. His face does not readily betray emotion and the arguments advanced have not seemed to interest him to any great extent. The audience from day to day has proved to be composed of practically the same persons. Some are evidently habitual spectators in the trial of note. Others are presumably sympathizers with the defense.

Strict order is maintained. Outside the courtroom are several deputies and detectives who closely scan the persons who ask for admission to the courtroom. Inside bailiffs and other officers stand in the aisles to see that order is politely requested to get out of the coutroom.

Naturally, a careful watch is maintained for suspicious characters. No one is permitted to get close to the talesmen. Officers guard the defendant and keep away outsiders who might try to converse with him.

COURTEOUS TREATMENT.

The newspaper men have been accorded every privilege consistent with the regulations. Under due restrictions they have been permitted to talk with the defendant during recesses. Reporter and correspondent has been seated and in case one of the talesmen is accosted by an officer he must present a card, accrediting him with a certain seat in front of the spectators and just behind the space which encloses the space occupied by the lawyers, the defendant and the jury box.

Six men temporarily retained themselves yesterday amused themselves by playing cards and reading. The quarters in the Hall of Records which may be changed from time to time to prevent any intrusion, attempt to converse with them or undue attention is a high misdemeanor and court attaches carefully scrutinize the appearance of interest of persons.

The talesmen, under guard, are allowed to attend the theater, to enjoy meals at fashionable restaurants and occasionally to go riding. The county has generously handed comforts and luxuries to the talesmen. The latter, however, apply when the final verdict is rendered.

Excuses so far passed for cause include that of Fred Goen, a Pomona rancher, and Robert F. Bain, a Los Angeles grocer. The other three were Frank Manning, a farmer at Cass Verduge, a Dominguez

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

Pasadena.

PRESIDENT NOT RESPONSIBLE.

Pasadenan Gets Important Letter from Executive.

Disclaims Responsibility for Lodge's Attitude.

Birdman Starts on His Trip for East.

[Office of The Times, 37 S. Fair Oaks Ave.]

PASADENA, Oct. 22.—Commander Jason J. Shepard of the Southern California Veterans' Association, who lives at No. 871 North Los Robles avenue, yesterday morning received a letter from President Taft's secretary which will be of interest to Civil War veterans throughout the country. It is a declaration that the President had no part in the defeat of the Sulloway pension bill in the United States Senate. The letter, which is signed by Secretary Charles D. Hilles, reads:

"My Dear Sir: I have your letter of October 16. The President was in no sense responsible for the attitude of Senator Lodge toward the Sulloway bill. He was not consulted by Senator Lodge and had no knowledge of the intention of Senator Lodge to make the motion which resulted in its defeat.

"The President has a judicial training and reputation which prevents his passing on questions before they are presented to him for consideration."

The letter was dated Los Angeles, October 17, but had been mailed October 18 in Salt Lake City.

The letter to which the President's communication was an answer was written by Commander Shepard and sent from Pasadena the evening of the day that President Taft visited the city. It follows:

"Dear Mr. Taft: There are many veterans of the Civil War here and in Los Angeles who desire a statement from you regarding pensions. They feel, as thousands do throughout the country, that at the time the Sulloway bill passed the House, 312 to 62, and then went to the Senate, where there was a long delay, that it was not passed upon favorably because you were opposed to the bill. If they are wrong in their supposition, it certainly ought to be made known.

"The old soldiers with their relatives throughout the United States can easily poll a vote of three millions, and I think it the part of wisdom to seriously consider the matter."

BIRDMAN LEAVES.

On an ideal day, with no fog or troublesome wind currents to interfere, Aviator R. G. Fowler soared up from the polo field in Tournament Park at 10:05 o'clock yesterday morning, six minutes after the time he had announced his start would be made. He crossed part of the city and in passing over the Maryland Hotel attempted to drop a packet of letters, wrapped in an American flag, on the tennis courts, where a tournament was in progress. It fell in the yard of the Franklin school, near by, and was taken to its destination by Bennett Shutt, 14-year-old son of Councilman Shutt.

The birdman waved his hand at the crowd below and then struck out toward Yuma, which was to be his stopping place for the night. Hundreds watched the aeroplane disappear in the distance. With the sun shining on its copper wire rigging, it looked not unlike a great bird cage for a time, and then rapidly faded away in the distance.

The packet dropped by Fowler contained three messages, one for his mother, who later boarded a train to accompany him on his eastward journey; one to Miss May Sutton, and one to Mayor Thum.

To his mother he wrote that he must "make speed while the sun was shining," and told her to keep track of his flight by inquiring at the stations where the train would stop. To Miss Sutton he expressed his best wishes for an enviable score in the tournament. And to Mayor Thum he said that he was so captivated with Pasadena that he would like to remain always were it not that he is a birdman and must continue his flight.

The aviator carries messages from the Mayor to the Mayor of New York, and from the teachers' association of the city to the teachers of the metropolis.

Mrs. Fowler was as enthusiastic as her son over the auspicious start that he had made and even declares that she herself may fly some day, as soon as her son has mastered the air.

The news came as something of a disappointment that, owing to strong easterly winds, the aviator was compelled to alight in Riverside at 11:28 a.m., and that he would be unable to resume his air journey until this morning.

SOCIETY COMES FORTH.

The ninth anniversary reception at the Hotel Maryland last night was the occasion of the first large formal social gathering of the winter. While many society people of Los Angeles and even of Long Beach, Ocean Park and other places, were there, it was essentially a Pasadena affair, and hundreds of fashionable Pasadenans were present.

It took the form of a dinner dance, and many handsome gowns were worn. The interior of the hotel was decorated with flowers and the lawn outside overhung with Japanese lanterns, while the music was one of the chief delights of the evening.

D. M. Linnard, manager of the hostelry, was made to feel the appreciation of Pasadena residents that he has kept the hotel open summer as well as winter, by a large attendance, and he, on his part, showed his guests every attention. Nothing was lacking to make the affair enjoyable to the utmost, from the serving of the first course of dinner to the last strains of dance music.

FACILITATE DEVELOPMENT.

New North and South Thoroughfare Will Be Built at Monrovia This Winter—News Briefs.

MONROVIA, Oct. 21.—To facilitate intensive development of the large tract of open land south of the city a new north and south thoroughfare one and one-half miles in length will be built this winter. The road will be practically a continuation of Myrtle avenue and will form a section of the shortest route across the valley to El Monte and coast towns. Arrangements for deeding the right of way to the county are being made by the Monrovia Board of Trade. The Bradbury Estate Company, which owns by far the largest acreage involved, has transferred its quota and it is expected the remaining assignments will be made before November 1.

As the highway will at once become the main road to the south, the Board of Supervisors has agreed to grade and oil it. The northern terminus of the road will be 200 feet west of South Myrtle avenue, which will be put in first-class condition as will also the connecting block on Santa Fe avenue. To the south the road will intersect the Dalton road, which extends to San Gabriel and Alhambra, near Lexington Wash.

Besides affording the shortest route across the valley the road will open up for suburban settlement a large area which has recently been put under water.

CANYON ROAD.

With a determination that brooked no defeat, the Board of Trade has persisted in the endeavor to build a canyon road until success crowns its efforts. Though its resources were pledged for months to other enterprises the board undertook this difficult stretch of mountain highway in September and another week will see it completed. A great deal of the work, perhaps the major portion, has been performed in person by loyal citizens. Those who were unable to actually participate have paid for substitutes. About two miles of very difficult construction from the mouth of the canyon to the fork of trails represent the total of communal labor. Autos and teams may now ascend to the very foot of the main range over easy grades.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The Federated Societies of the various Protestant churches of the city will be entertained at an all-day session and luncheon on Tuesday next by St. Lukes Guild in the Parish house of that church. The function will be given in the Woman's Clubhouse next Friday afternoon and the entertaining programme of old-time ballad music will be given under the direction of Miss Kellar. The hostesses will wear old-time gowns and expect to entertain not less than two hundred guests.

PROUD OF CONDITIONS.

Col. Markham of the Soldiers' Home Returns From an Extended Visit in the East.

SOLDIERS' HOME, Oct. 21.—Col. H. H. Markham of Pasadena, local manager of this branch, who has for several weeks been visiting—together with the Board of Managers of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers—the various eastern branches, returned a few days ago, and visited this branch yesterday. He is more than ever proud of conditions found in the Pacific branch, over the destinies of which he has immediate supervision.

It is not alone of the health-assuring climate about which the colonel, like all other familiar therewith, is ever ready to enthuse, but its beautiful situation and surroundings, as well as the completeness of everything contributing to the comfort of and enjoyment by veterans under his care, in comparison with conditions at some of the other homes, that appeal to his sense of gratification.

Col. Markham was further gratified during his trip, at securing agreement on the part of the board to several additional concessions for his branch. He is particularly pleased at the assured prospect of an appropriation for the erection of a monument in the Home cemetery. "One of material so durable," he says, "that it will tell to visitors through coming generations that they are standing near the dust of heroes who bore the brunt of battle in the bloodiest civil war that history has ever recorded."

The monument—to cost about $3000—is to be an obelisk shaft, towering twenty-five feet above a massive base and bearing on its faces appropriate inscriptions.

Long Beach.

DIRECTORS MAY IGNORE.

Long Beach Meeting, Second Period of Storm.

Presbyterians Are Not Sure About Thomas Day.

Board's Noisy Session Over Industrial District.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 21.—Asking Prof. Thomas F. Day to resign by January 1, and calling upon the Board of Directors of the school to dismiss him if he does not resign, the Presbyterian Synod of California and Nevada, in annual convention assembled, today took radical action on the question of the professor's higher criticism teachings as occupant of the chair of Hebrew exegesis and higher criticism in the Presbyterian Theological Seminary at San Anselmo. The vote was 110 to 81.

But is said to be a certainty that Prof. Day will not resign, and there is considerable likelihood that the directors will not dismiss him. The professor has more friends than enemies on the board, it is believed, despite the fact that six new directors were elected today, of whom five are said to be willing to vote to oust him.

"It has been a fight between 'progressives' and 'stand-patters,'" said one minister, this morning. "Nearly all the pastors of the big churches favor Prof. Day. Pastors of smaller churches, and the old, retired ministers think his teachings are heresy and would have him put out."

Prof. Day would not say this afternoon what he would or would not do, and declined to comment on the synod's action. He did not attend the session this morning at which, after extended argument, the motion to ask his resignation was requested. Some of the ministers did not vote on either side of this question this morning, the vote being lighter than it was last night on the question of upholding the directors' committee report, recommending a scheme to curtail his teachings.

The consideration of Day's case has been a sort of informal heresy trial. Last year the synod asked Prof. Day a number of questions. These he answered in a scholarly manner, but many of the answers were disapproved.

This year's synod, starting where it left off last year, sought to have him ousted. If the directors of the seminary do not vote to put him out this year, it was said today, and the feeling in the synod remains the same next year, enough more anti-Day directors will be put in then to make sure of his being put out.

The present board, however, is not expected to relish the fact that its recommendations to the synod were rejected, and, the ministers say, the directors are apt to pay little, if any, attention to the synod's wishes.

The States of Oregon and Washington are represented, also, on the board, and the northern States' representatives are strong supporters of Day.

The six California directors elected today by the synod, upon recommendation of the Nominating Committee, were the Revs. Hugh K. Walker, D. H. McCullough, Edward Kerr, Charles A. Laton, D. M. Wright and Crittenden Thornton. As is always done, out of courtesy, the synod also approved the election of two Oregon directors, W. H. Blakeney and H. H. Pratt, who had been elected previously by the Oregon synod.

Prof. Day's answers to the following questions were the ones which the synod failed to approve, and which have brought about the request for his resignation:

Is the account of the creation of the world and of man, as also the account of the fall of man, as given in Genesis, historically true?

Was the Pentateuch written by Moses?

Is the book of Exodus to be accepted as a correct account of the events it purports to relate, and is the account of the giving of the Decalogue correct?

Are the so-called Messianic prophecies veritable, inspired prophecies concerning Christ?

What is the authorship and the probable date of Isaiah?

What was the date of the book of Daniel, and are its history and prophecy veritable?

What critical value do you attach to those statements made by our Lord and recorded in the New Testament concerning any historical events of the Old Testament or any question of Old Testament authority?

In answer to questions as to whether his acceptance of any of the results of higher griticism affects his loyalty to the Old Testament as the word of God or to the standards of his church, he answered an emphatic "No."

Regarding the account of the creation of the world and of man, Prof. Day said that there were such differences between the accounts in the first and second chapters of Genesis that an attempt to maintain their literal accuracy is difficult. He stated regarding the story of the fall of man that he thinks it better to interpret the words as symbolic of a great spiritual truth.

This afternoon the delegates to the synod were given an automobile ride about the city. A stereopticon lecture on Japanese life was given tonight by the Rev. A. P. Vaughn. The synod will close tomorrow night. The programme for tomorrow follows:

7:30 p.m., popular meeting—Stereopticon lecture by Rev. A. P. Vaughn, subject, "The Life of the Japanese Christians."

Sunday morning:

9:30 a.m.—The Sunday-school, Prof. David Burcham presiding; address, "The Relationship of the Sunday-school to the Public School," Prof. E. J. Lickley; address, "Graded Lessons," W. C. Wickersham.

11:00 a.m.—Rev. W. A. Hunter, D.D., of Riverside, presiding; sermon by the moderator of synod.

Sunday afternoon:

2:30 p.m.—Rev. Robert Crichton, presiding; general subject, "Evangelism;" address, "The Place of the Evangelistic Note in Present-day Preaching," Rev. H. H. Fisher; address, "Present-day Evangelism," Rev. George G. Eldredge.

6:15 p.m.—Christian Endeavor meeting; intermediate society, address by Rev. T. E. Stevenson; senior society, address by Rev. H. E. Hays, topic, "Some Practical Benefits from Christian Endeavor."

7:30 p.m.—Evangelistic services, Rev. F. J. Mundy, D.D., presiding; sermon by Rev. Warren D. Moore, D.D.

STORMED THE COUNCIL.

Three hundred angry citizens last night stormed the CityCouncil, and in the stormiest session ever held by that body forced it finally to dispose of a proposed ordinance establishing an industrial district on either side of the Salt Lake tracks in this city, the boundaries of the district as proposed being Second and Sixth streets.

At one stage of last night's proceedings, those in the audience interpreted the Council's action to mean that the ordinance would be held over another week. At this, men surged around the table and yelled: "Act on it now," and "You're just waiting to pass it when we're gone."

There was such a din for some time that the meeting could not proceed, as none of the Councilmen was able to make himself heard.

Finally the Council took action on the ordinance. The result was a tie vote, and the ordinance succumbed. The mayor added his vote to the negative, but the ordinance would have been killed anyway, not having a majority in its favor. Other schemes to get rid of the ordinance if the Council passed it had been formulated by the residents of the locality aected.

BONDS INVALID.

From time to time, since the pier-bond election was held a few years ago and $75,000 in bonds were voted to repair the present pier, and $50,000 were voted to build a new pier at Devil's Gate, Belmont Heights, there have been rumors that the bonds had been spoken for and the pier work would, therefore, soon be undertaken.

Now comes a decision of the Appellate Court, bearing out an opinion expressed recently by Attorneys O'Melveney and Stevens that the bonds were invalid. City Attorney S. G. Long today was notified of the court's action in sustaining the opinion of these attorneys. They had examined the bonds on behalf of prospective purchasers. Both bond issues were voted for in one election. The point over which objection was raised was that the Devil's Gate bonds did not have a two-thirds majority of the entire vote, though a majority of the votes cast on that issue alone favored the bonds.

What action will be taken now toward securing funds for repairing the present pier is uncertain. Attorneys O'Melveney and Stevens held that the city charter did not confer authority to issue bonds for the repair of an old pier. If these points were sustained by the courts, the city is in a dilemma.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Cheaper light and gas were assured for local folk when the Council last night passed on final readings ordinances prepared by the Progressive League, fixing the gas rate at $1 per 1000, and the electric rate at 5 cents per kilowatt hour. The ordinance also specified that a standard should be fixed by which gas shall be tested.

The Barritt drug store, at Ocean and Locust avenues, was closed last night under an attachment, the Sheriff's office taking charge. Deputy Sheriff David Blaisdell's nocturnal visit to the pharmacy caused a report of burglary to be telephoned to police headquarters, and Chief Moyer hurried to the scene. Preston W. Barritt, manager of the store, disappeared several weeks ago and has not been heard of since.

HONORED IN DEATH.

Azusa Woman Is Laid Away With the Tributes Earned by a Life of Usefulness.

AZUSA, Oct. 21.—The funeral services of Mrs. V. M. Greever were held this afternoon from the Presbyterian Church, the pastor, Rev. Charles F. Richardson, officiating. The church had been decorated by the Pastor's Aid Society, of which Mrs. Greever had been one of the most efficient members, and the casket was surrounded by floral tributes. There were many from personal friends, while some of the associations thus represented were: The Woman's Club, the Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church, the trustees of the church, of which body Mr. Greever is a member; the various citrus associations, and banks of which he is a director.

The service was beautiful. After the reading of the scripture, Miss Edna Eldred sang "Sometime We'll Understand." Lovingly the pastor spoke of the young life which in the springtime had been so full of hope and joy and love, and all that seems to make life worth the living, and which had been snatched away from earth before the shadows of life had touched it. Following the prayer the Misses Hazel and Edna Eldred sang "Sleep on, Beloved."

The funeral arrangements were in charge of Charles Edwards. The interment was conducted by W. O. Custer of Covina, a personal friend of the deceased. The body was laid away in Oakdale Cemetery. The palibearers were Messrs. W. A. Sheldon, J. R. Eldred, W. A. Atkinson, L. P. Mattatall, M. T. Durrell and S. J. Stuart, all old friends of Mr. Greever.

Among the friends present from a distance were: Prof. and Mrs. W. A. Sheldon of Los Angeles, Mrs. E. C. Uhl of Monrovia, Mrs. J. J. Ayres, Mrs. George R. Stewart of Pasadena, Rev. and Mrs. T. Walcott La Fetra of Glendora and Cornelius D. Smith of Lankershim.

NEWS BRIEFS.

F. R. Pierce, Street Superintendent of this city, will represent South Pasadena at the fourteenth annual meeting of the League of California Municipalities, which convenes in Santa Barbara October 23.

Miss Flora Thayer and I. M. Stout were married Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Charles E. Thayer, No. 1715 Mission street, Rev. F. W. Reynolds of Corona officiating, who was a former pastor of the bride in her eastern home. The bride, gowned in a white organdie over white messaline, and carrying a bouquet of bride's roses, was attended by her sister, Miss Pearl E. Thayer, as bridesmaid, who was gowned in white net over silk, and carried pink carnations. The home was turned into a bower by the use of pink and white Maman Cochet roses, and potted palms and ferns. Following the ceremony a short reception was held, and refreshments served, when the young couple left for San Diego to spend their honeymoon. Upon their return they will be at home to their friends after November 1 at No. 1715 Mission street.

Two speeders who gave their residences as Pasadena, were brought before Recorder Soper this morning for speeding on Huntington drive at the rate of twenty-eight miles an hour, by the motorcycle policeman, and fined $15 each. E. O. Kenny of Pasadena is taking the place of Roy Higgins, motorcycle policeman, while he is away on his wedding trip.

One of the most important sales in real estate in this city the past week was that of the northwest corner of Mission street and Fair Oaks avenue, owned by Murray Bayless and his mother, Mrs. Mary Bayless, to R. A. Moore, the attorney who has opened an office in the new Ong building. Preliminary papers have been signed, and the consideration is reported to be $10,000. The lot has a depth of 50 feet on Mission street, and 105 feet on Fair Oaks avenue. The sale was made through the agency of P. J. Dolan & Co. Mr. Moore has purchased the property for the purpose of erecting a business block on the corner. With the present Ong block at the southwest corner of Mission and Fair Oaks, and another contemplated business block by Mr. Ong on the southeast corner, the new building contemplated by Mr. Moore, the stability of these corners as a business location seems assured.

Work has commenced on double tracking the Santa Fe Railroad from Orange Grove avenue to Lincoln Park. This is being done to accommodate the repassing of four new passenger trains in additon to the limited de luxe, which are scheduled to have a place on the time table November 12. They have also increased their side-track facility by connecting with a spur to the main line near the depot, and are constructing a new freight house.

TO TEACH ART OF AVIATION.

Curtiss the High Priest of New Proposition.

Santa Ana Is Defeated in Football Game.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Lieut. J. W. McClaskey of the United States Marine Corps, accompanied by seven students, arrived in San Diego today from Hammondsport, N. Y., with five Curtiss aeroplanes for the purpose of establishing what promises to become a permanent government school of aviation at North Island. Glenn H. Curtiss, who is chief instructor of the school, is being detained at Hammondsport, pending the completion of another hydroplane. This machine is now completed and Curtiss is expected to arrive here early next week. He has already arranged to make San Diego his permanent home. He has purchased a building site here and his home is now in course of erection.

Lieut. McClaskey is one of the first government graduates of Curtiss's school. He said to be a thorough master of the biplane and will have charge of most of the government instruction work on North Island. Permanent hangars will be erected at once and active aeroplane work will be carried on all the year around.

RUN FROM SANTA ANA.

For the first time in eight years, San Diego High won from Santa Ana today. On the local gridiron San Diego scored a touchdown, earning six points, and a field goal good for three points. Santa Ana.

The game was fast played. Sullivan for San Diego was easily the star of the game, making the touchdown. As weight the teams were almost evenly matched. The work of San Diego showed vast improvement over the previous games and gives Capt. George Gardner evidence of good results in his efforts to coach. Santa Ana was accompanied by a band and a large delegation of student rooters who made headquarters at the U. S. Grant Hotel.

LID ON TIGHT.

Visitors and others who now visit Tijuana are surprised to find the lid on tight. Open gambling and the schemes to fleece the unwary are no more.

The enforcement of the new gambling provisions, forbidding the use of card-playing machines, has resulted in saloon-keepers and others who kept such machines in their establishments. A petition has been addressed to Gen. Manuel Gorostiza, Governor of Lower California, requesting that his orders relative to suppressing slot machines be recalled, as they think that machines are a drawing card for tourists, but because their income is interfering with their suppression.

The President of Mexico has appointed Arturo Rubia, a noted Mexican scientist, to visit Lower California and report on all the natural products of that peninsula. He will also inform the people what new industries can be started in the territory, and what the wealth of the population are. He arrived in Tijuana via El Paso and Naco within a few days.

Rumors are afloat in regard to the early construction of a railroad between Tijuana and Ensenada, to effect that the enterprise will be built with Mexican capital.

CONTAINED POISON.

One of the phial partially filled with liquid which was found near the two dogs at La Jolla last Saturday contained poison is the opinion of Dr. E. Anthony, a chemist, who examined the contents this morning. The phial was taken to Anthony by Deputy Sheriff Joseph Lopez. It was stated that the city had no means for defraying the cost of analyzing the contents, but Chemist Anthony voluntarily gave his opinion after examining the phial that it contained poison. The label in the bottle indicated that the liquid contained some powerful poison which even the elements could not destroy.

BATTLESHIPS ARRIVE.

The battleship cruisers of the Pacific fleet anchored in San Diego Bay today. The battleship of the fleet, the California, entered the harbor unexpectedly this morning at a speed of sixteen knots per hour and thus broke the imaginary blockade of the port established by the torpedo flotilla. This is the fastest time ever made by a battleship entering or leaving San Diego harbor.

Several other ships in port now are the battleship Florida, the West Virginia, the cruiser Maryland and the supply ship Glacier, which arrived this morning towing a target.

Maryland and the reconstructed battleship Oregon are expected here in a few days. Preparations now being made for the annual fall maneuvers off the Coronado Islands.

BIG TRAVEL INCREASE.

The closing days of the colonist rates from the East brings more people to San Diego than ever before. As shown by the number of pieces of baggage handled at the local Santa Fe depot. The high-water mark was reached when more than 400 pieces arrived on the various trains. Fifty trunks were brought here. Wednesday the 18th, Tuesday 230, Monday 104. This makes a total of 404 for the six days, showing that at least 2000 persons came to San Diego intending to remain three days at least.

TO SETTLE DISPUTE.

Suit among the heirs of the late Thomas J. Higgins over the disposition of property valued at $160,000, pending litigation lasting four years, was settled yesterday when Judge Trippet of the Superior Court appointed three commissioners to apportion the estate according to the decree of distribution as follows: To Thomas E. Higgins, the widow, one-third; to Albert E. Higgins, three-eighths; to Cornelia Chick, one-eighth. The children are children of the deceased. The case has been before the Supreme Court.

WILL NUMBER THE HOUSES.

El Centro Will Take First Step Necessary to Secure Free Delivery of City Mail.

EL CENTRO, Oct. 21.—City Attorney Noland is preparing an ordinance for presentation to the El Centro City Trustees providing for the numbering of houses. It probably will be considered at the next regular meeting of the Trustees.

Instead of using Main street as the dividing or initial point for numbering, the present plan is to start the numbers at the extreme northerly and easterly sides of the city, giving 100 numbers to a block. This will throw the business center of the city in the 1000 block. As soon as the houses are numbered and street signs are placed the city will be in a position to ask the Postoffice Department for a free mail delivery. The income at the El Centro postoffice justifies this service, but house-numbering and street signs are demanded by the postal authorities before such service will be considered.

CREATING STOCK RANCH.

L. L. Bowen, a realty dealer of Los Angeles, who several months ago purchased 320 acres of land one and a half miles north of Seeley, has been spending five weeks in this valley superintending the improvement of the property, which is to be turned into a high-class stock ranch. For five weeks thirty-six head of mules and a large force of men has been engaged in releveling the land, putting in cement headgates and constructing ditches. A farm house, barn and other buildings have been erected, and the entire ranch is to be surrounded with trees. One hundred acres are to be seeded to alfalfa and the balance of the 320 acres will be planted to barley, to be followed by a corn crop. Hog-raising will be the principal feature of this ranch.

LAND PATENT RECEIVED.

A patent from the government for land that includes a considerable portion of the residence section of El Centro was placed on record at the Imperial County Recorder's office yesterday. The final certificate for this land was received in 1904, but vexatious delays have held up the issuance of the patent until now. The patent covers land from Orange avenue to the southerly city limits and from Fourth to Eighth streets.

COTTAGE FOR NURSES.

The Sisters of Mercy have awarded to J. L. Travers the contract for erecting on the grounds at St. Thomas Hospital a cottage for the use of the nurses. Work was begun on this structure yesterday. The building will be 26x38 feet, with wide porches.

BOOSTING FOR HIGHWAY.

A delegation composed of E. L. Hill and E. B. Harris of Mecca, and J. R. Ramsey of Thermal, representing a mass-meeting of citizens of the Coachella Valley, visited El Centro yesterday to arouse interest in the proposition to secure a State highway from Riverside to El Centro through the Coachella Valley and passing along the westerly side of the Salton Sea.

San Bernardino.

TOLD JUSTICE TO GO TO ——

SAN BERNARDINO MAN TALKS TARTLY TO COURT.

Affronted Dignitary Will Appeal to Superior Court to Find Out What His Rights Are in the Case. Bee Inspector Uses Language Which Offends the Officer.

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 21.—Justice of the Peace G. M. Pittman, while holding a preliminary in a murder case, had a sensational word battle with County Bee Inspector Robert Herron. The Township Court occupies a space in the old Courthouse, part of which space is given up to free passageway through the building. Inspector Herron was traversing this passageway, going to his offices, which open off from the court. He failed to recognize the dignity of the court and remove his hat.

"Take off your hat, Mr. Herron," thundered the justice, in tones of severe dignity.

"You go to" ——," thundered back the bee inspector, stung by the justice's words. "I don't have to. This is a free passage, and I'm not in your courtroom."

That was the first time the boyish justice had this question of jurisdiction raised. Evidently he saw the fine distinction raised by the inspector, for he made no reply. Later, after he had dismissed the murder case, he laid the matter before Judge B. F. Bledsoe of the Superior Court. At that time the question of whether the justice can compel a citizen in this public passage to doff his hat will be threshed out.

MAY BE DEAD.

Lewis Knight Brook Brace, 22 years of age, an Englishman, is being sought by C. White Mortimer, British Vice-Consul at Los Angeles. On May 19 Brace disappeared from Whittier. He had with him $980 in cash and an order for $10,000. He left Whittier to seek a ranch for his mother and two sisters, residents of Whittier. He has not been seen since. It is feared he may have been murdered.

SALTON SEA IS RECEDING.

Owing to the Subsidence of This Body More Land Is Available for Irrigation.

BRAWLEY, Oct. 21.—The effect of the receding of the Salton Sea is illustrated by J. W. Yokum, president of the North End Water Company. He states that this company was incorporated for 10,000 shares, but owing to the subsidence of the Salton Sea, 14,000 acres of land is now available for irrigation from the company ditches.

LUMBER DEMAND.

There is a general and a good demand for lumber from farmers in and around Brawley, which indicates a considerable building activity. The local lumber yards report a large increase of business over this same period last year. A great deal of fencing is also being done in No. 3 and No. 5 water districts, which requires posts and vast quantities of lumber. Good substantial houses are now taking the place of tent houses on many of the ranches and other improvements are being made.

NEW TOWN.

The growing importance of the new town of Seeley, on the east end of the new San Diego Railroad, is emphasized from the fact that the numbers of people now making that town a headquarters have caused the establishment of a restaurant.

CATTLE RAISING.

Manager R. B. Hathaway of the Oakley ranches has just finished sowing 320 acres, in No. 5, in barley and also making preparations to receive 400 head of cattle from Arizona that will be put on the large Oakley ranches west of Brawley. These cattle will be pastured for a month or so on the Oakley ranches, preparing them for market.

MUDDY WATER.

Whenever the Colorado River contains a large volume of mud or silt, as is at present caused by the floods from the North, complaint comes from every city of the domestic water. Brawley has ordered a new settling basin, El Centro a new series of basins, Imperial has a fine settling system of her own, and now Calexico is considering a double pipe line. If installed the new line will be used for irrigating purposes only and will not carry settles water.

Former Chief Engineer Herman of the California Development Company at one time had a scheme for bringing domestic water for all the valley cities direct by pipe from Sharp's Heading, where the water can be obtained comparatively clear. Herman believed that the cities will ultimately be driven to some such plan for settled water.

NEW COTTON GIN.

The machinery for the new cotton gin for Brawley has been received and now a desirable location is being sought. Three sites are under consideration for the new gin, but the most convenient for all concerned will be selected. It is stated that work on the new plans will begin the first of the week. The machinery for this gin comes from Belfast, Ireland, and is claimed to be more economical than other machinery and an entirely new process in ginning.

It is claimed that the new cotton picker, being operated near Meloland, has proven successful and is operating very satisfactorily. Owing to the fact that Imperial Valley plants are higher than the ordinary Southern product, some changes in adjustment were necessary.

SHEEP INDUSTRY.

County Assessor Wiley M. Weaver and Al Heydloff, who are associated together in sheep raising east of Brawley, state that they have 5000 sheep and that this number will be increased by about 2000 lambs within the next two weeks. Weaver and Heydloff will make heavy shipments of sheep and lambs to the Los Angeles markets during the coming winter months.

NEW WATER COMPANY.

The new company that recently filed on 50,000 inches of water in the Alamo River, held a meeting this afternoon and completed its organization. The Berenice Water Company is the title given the new company, which is to at once incorporate with a capital stock of $450,000; 30,000 shares at $15 per share. The temporary officers of the new company are W. H. Best, president; Frank Salisbury, secretary, who, with the following, comprise the board of directors, namely, J. W. Yocum, Jack Lyons and H. Auten of El Centro.

NEW BUSINESS BLOCK.

Escondido Concern Will at Once Begin the Construction of a New Building on the Times Site.

ESCONDIDO, Oct. 21.—Work will be commenced Monday by the D. M. Tittle Construction Company on the erection of a one-story business block on the site of the old Times building, on the north side of Grand avenue, below Lime street, for Fred D. Hall, the recent purchaser of the property from the Lindsay estate. The building will be of brick and reinforced concrete, with a front of pressed buff brick and plate glass. The dimensions will be 25x120 feet. A five-year lease will be made with a local business man for the occupancy of the building

FEET SO SORE COULDN'T WALK DOWN STAIRS

TIZ CURED HER QUICK.

If you have sore feet, tired feet, sweaty feet, lame feet, tender feet, smelly feet, corns, callouses or bunions, read what happened to Mrs. Crocket of Jeffersonville. TIZ DID IT. Mr. Crocket says: "After the second treatment she walked downstairs one foot at a time. She has not been able to walk downstairs before in past five years, except by stepping down on each step with one foot at a time. This is remarkable. Send five more boxes."

No matter what ails your feet or what under heaven you have used without getting relief, just use TIZ, it's different. It acts right off. It cures sore feet to stay cured. It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. TIZ cleans them out and keeps them clean. You will feel better the first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. TIZ is for sale at all druggists, 25c and 50c per box, or direct if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Dr. E. G. Logan, owner of the two adjoining lots upon the west, expects to commence shortly the erection of a two-story block on the site.

NEWS BRIEFS.

In order not to have the avenue torn up after the paving is down, the Mutual Water Company has offered to lay lateral water mains from the street main to the curb line, providing abutting property owners will pay the actual expense.

The Standard Oil Company has installed a 20,000-gallon tank for the storage of distillate, making three tanks of this capacity at the local yards of the Santa Fe Railway. A delivery wagon for distillate will also be added to the equipment.

A report has reached here of the death by suicide of Carlos Peco, an Indian of the reservation at Rincon, twenty miles north of Escondido.

HUNTER IS KILLED.

Imperial Man Shot in the Side Succumbs to His Injuries—Sad Ending of Outing.

IMPERIAL, Oct. 21.—As a sad ending to an otherwise happy and joly hunting party, when on the eve of returning home, Max Graham accidentally received a double discharge of shot in the side and right arm that necessitated the amputation of the arm just below the shoulder, and this with the shock, caused the death of Mr. Graham at the hospital last night. The hunting party consisted of Max Graham, T. D. Belford, E. F. Chapman and G. D. Harvey, all residents of Imperial Valley.

The party had gone on the hunting expedition prepared to remain several days, when they decided to return home early Monday morning following the early morning shooting. After the hunt and all was in readiness for the return home Harvey decided to remove the shells from his gun. While Harvey was performing this act in some unaccountable manner two shells were discharged, the contents of which lodged in the arm of Graham, who was standing but a few feet distant. The flesh was torn from the bone and the impact was so great that the shot also tore a hole in the right side of the body. Dr. Lindsay of Brawley was hastily summoned, who did all he could to relieve the sufferings of the wounded man. Dr. Lindsay had the unfortunate man removed to the hospital where with the aid of Dr. McCoombs the arm was amputated.

The operation and the shock were too great in the sufferer's weakened condition, and Graham soon succumbed.

The other members of the hunting party are grief stricken over the culmination of the trip and one of the party relapsed into unconsciousness over the deplorable accident for which no one could be blamed. The accident caused a gloom to pervade the entire community.

NEWS BRIEFS.

At a recent meeting of the Missouri Club held here the members decided to have Missouri Day early in November, when the Hon. Webster Davis of Los Angeles will be the orator of the day. An invitation has been extended all former Missourians. An executive committee has been chosen, one member from each city of the valley and the remainder at large. C. W. Brown of El Centro is chairman. At the first meeting held F. C. Farr of Imperial was chosen chairman, with Prof. Shibley, also of Imperial, as secretary.

George Long, of Imperial, has rented the McPherrin ranch, which comprises 640 acres, lying north of Imperial. This large acreage is all in alfalfa and has been conducted as a stock farm for three years by R. H. Benton. Long now has over 4000 acres of land which he utilizes as pasture for 4000 head of cattle that are now being fattened for the Los Angeles markets. Long will receive a shipment from Arizona of 2000 head more the first of the week.

Another new town has sprung up in this wonderful valley and as an inspiration from Harold Bell Wright's latest book, "The Winning of Barbara Worth," has been named "Barba." This new town is in the center of a rich district on the east side of Imperial valley and may be expected to develop into a trading point of considerable importance. The town now has a general store, blacksmith shop and steps are being taken to secure a postoffice and other moves for developing a town will be made this fall and winter.

NEW CHURCH TO BE BUILT.

Upland Congregationalists Let the Contract for a Structure Which Will Cost a Pretty Sum.

UPLAND, Oct. 21.—William C. Cline, a well-known contractor of this city, has been awarded the excavation, cement, concrete and brick work contract for the new Congregational Church to be built in Ontario, his bid being $11,500 for that part of the work. Mr. Cline has recently completed a handsome new high school building at Claremont.

George Hogg, for many years a resident of Upland, died at his home at Santa Ana, October 16. The body was brought to this city for interment, funeral services being held this afternoon at 4 o'clock, with interment at Bellevue Cemetery. The earnest sympathy of a large circle of friends here goes out to the bereaved widow.

Local real estate dealers have plans under way whereby the large tract of land lying to the north of this city, Cucamonga and Ioamosa, long known as the Hellman tract, and comprising some 4000 acres, most of it splendid citrus land, is to pass into the hands of a syndicate of Pasadena capialists. Men who should know, claim an abundance of water may be obtained from wells sunk on the land, and the acreage will probably be cut up into small holdings and highly improved. The plan means much to this section, and the prices for the land, it is said, will range from $250 to $400 per acre, unimproved.

The first month of school at the local grammar schools has just closed, and is reported as most satisfactory. Combined enrollment at the Tenth and Eighteen street buildings totals about 450, which is a splendid gain over last year. The work in the various grades is progressing splendidly.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Manager Whiting of the local skating rink has installed a handsome new $3500 Welty orchestrion, to furnish music for his popular resort, and the reopening was held this evening, with a splendid attendance.

Upland furnished her full quota of the visitors to Festivo de Ontario, the two days' celebration held by our sister city on the south, and very generally the opinion is expressed that Ontario has really "done herself proud" in this year's festivities.

Upland, along with Ontario, feels a just pride in the splendid work being done by the football team of Chaffee High School, the members of the team hailing from both cities. The defeat of the boys by the Pomona team in the last game was not altogether unexpected, as the locals were too light for their adversaries, but this was the first defeat the boys have had this fall.

The final influx of easterners, coming on the cheap rates, is now arriving daily via the Santa Fe. The heavy overland trains passing via this city nearly all stop to add their quota of those passengers coming to Upland. Local real estate dealer have all "thrown up their hands," figuratively speaking, giving up the effort to find house room for those seeking accommodations here. This situation is deplorable, and it is hoped to have it remedied before another season.

"FIGHT LIKE A LADY."

Santa Ana Youngsters Absorb the Modern Spirit and Appeal for a Fair Deal.

SANTA ANA, Oct. 21.—Little Baudilla Gonzales, possibly growing up to the new order of things under woman's suffrage, testified this morning in a peace disturbance case, and declared that a neighborhood row on Lincoln street grew out of the fact that she had told Josefa Odelges, a playmate, "to quit cussing and come out in the alley and fight like a lady." Both girls are aged 12 years. Mrs. Odelges caused Mrs. Joe Nieblas and her daughter to be arrested. Justice Cox found the women not guilty.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Stoke Neal was again arrested last night at Winterburg. He was out on bail, awaiting trial for selling liquor illegally. Yesterday J. B. Ramsey, doing detective work for the county, bought more liquor of Neal, and last night Neal was arrested. The officers took two girls, Grace and Laura Napier, aged 15 and 17, from Neal's house to the Detention Home. The girls said their mother in Los Angeles had given them permission to visit Neal.

The first shipments of this season's celery will be sent from this county next week. Orange county has 2000 acres in celery, about 500 less than last year, many celery growers having turned to bean and sugar beet crops. G. W. Moore, manager of the Celery Growers' Association, says the celery is extra fine this year and prospects for good prices are excellent.

S. V. Poston fired two shots at chicken thieves last night, but failed to wing anyone. He said the thieves tore off across the field like mad bulls.

The Superior Court is called upon to settle an appeal case for Huntington Beach. Sam Clapp received two bogus checks, signed by E. P. Glines, for $33.30 and $12.80. These were written on the First National Bank of Garden Grove, a Santa Ana bank blank being used. There is no First National Bank of Garden Grove, but inadvertently the Bank of Garden Grove cashed the check. The bank is now suing Clapp to get the money back.

Marriage licenses: Leo J. Bartell, 21, and Fern G. Cramer, 19, both of Los Angeles; Claude J. Hart, 21, and Undine Winen, 21, both of Los Angeles.

STANTON, Oct. 21.—The Stanton City Improvement Company filed articles of incorporation this week, and formally organized by electing the following board of directors: W. A. Zimmerman, John N. Anderson, J. C. Myers, J. N. Bell, R. Holtby Myers, P. A. Stanton and F. C. Beecher.

The officers selected are W. A. Zimmerman, president; P. A. Stanton, vice-president; R. Holtby Myers, secretary, and John N. Anderson, treasurer.

Mr. Zimmerman is also president of the Orange County Savings Bank of Santa Ana, and this institution was made the depositary of the company. The company has acquired 100 acres at Stanton station, with frontage on both the Pacific Electric and Southern Pacific Railroads, and will at once proceed to lay out a model, modern town. A number of lots have already been spoken for, and several business firms are negotiating for sites. Within a short time our people will be able to patronize home industries.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The City Trustees have decided not to levy a tax for the ensuing year, the income from county road tax being sufficient to defray expenses of administration and build several miles of roads in addition.

The beet season, which will close next week, has been a very successful one to our growers.

Many farmers are now cutting their eighth crop of alfalfa, due to the warm, sunshiny days.

Walnut harvest is in full swing, and will be for the next three weeks. The crop is above the average.

PARIS NEWS NOTES.

PERRIS, Oct. 21.—E. W. Holden has purchased of J. M. Beck his forty acre place on the boulevard north of town. Mr. Holden has been foreman at the Claremont ranch for a number of years.

O. M. J. Faforite and wife, accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Ward and Mrs. Calvin Crawford, met with quite a serious accident while driving in Mr. Faforite's automobile, near Urbita Springs. When attempting to cross the railroad track near that place, the engine in their auto went dead and the car stopped on the track just at the time the Southern Pacific train came in sight, and the occupants were obliged to jump from the car to save themselves, when the engine hit the machine it was turned over and struck Mrs. Crawford, who was the last one out of the machine. She was rendered unconscious and was taken to the Ramona Hospital in San Bernardino.

A piano club was organized last Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. N. Sharpless on Fourth street. The following officers were elected: Mrs. Sharpless, president; Miss Zilpha Donalson, vice-president; Miss Minnie Lowery, secretary and treasurer.

Life's Journey O'er.

PEACEFUL END OF SPLENDID LIFE.

ANGELENO ALMOST REACHED THE CENTURY MARK.

Grandfather of Well-known Clubwoman of This City Passes Away After a Life of Interesting Activities—Knew Henry Clay and Bought First California Gold.

William B. Ferguson, who was credited with having bought the first sack of gold dust ever carried from a California mine across the Mississippi River, died late Friday night at the home of his son, C. W. Ferguson, in Hollywood. Ferguson was 97 years of age, his father, William Ferguson, Sr., having been born in 1770, six years before the Declaration of Independence was signed. He was the grandfather of Mrs. Shelley Tolhurst, No. 1210 West Adams street, who is thus separated from the Revolutionary War by only three generations.

In 1800 Ferguson's father located at Lebanon, O., where he conducted the Indian Chief Tavern at which Tom Corwin, a famous pioneer Governor of Ohio; Henry Clay, the father of Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman, and other notables of that day were often entertained.

Ferguson could remember Henry Clay and his family vividly. He enjoyed the distinction of having taken numerous coach rides with Mrs. Henry Clay when he was only 10 years of age. Clay was on his way from Kentucky to Washington to accept the portfolio of Secretary of State from President John Quincy Adams, in whose favor Clay had withdrawn from the candidacy for President. On reaching Lebanon with his handsome yellow coach, drawn by four Kentucky bays, and a coach of slaves drawn by two thoroughbreds, Clay was halted by the sickness of his 12-year-old daughter. Clay waited seven days and was then obliged to go on to Washington. His family remained at the Ferguson tavern and his daughter died there.

When Ferguson went from Lebanon to St. Louis in 1834, he had to travel by horseback. There was no such city as Chicago and he had no shelter of roof on the entire journey. He engaged in the buying of wheat and in other enterprises which made the commercial life of St. Louis in its early history, and in 1849 he went to Council Bluffs where for three years he had a large share in outfitting the Mormons for their long journey to Salt Lake. There it was that he accumulated his fortune and it was while thus engaged that he made the purchase of the first shipment of gold dust from Sutter's Mill.

In both his marriages Ferguson related himself to families of historical fame. His first wife was a grandniece of George and Mary Washington. She was a Lewis of Virginia. His second wife was a Putnam of Israel Putnam's family, she being from Marietta, O., where the two lived for many years on the old Putnam farm. By his first wife his three children were born, all of whom survive him and all of whom are happy in being Californians. His two daughter, Mrs. E. C. Hodgman and Mrs. Mary F. Hay, live in Los Angeles and his son lives in Hollywood.

He was a cousin of the late Rev. John Mills Boal, who in his lifetime was a famed local divine. The two were close companions. He was himself an ardent Presbyterian and identified himself with Immanuel Church on coming to this city sixteen years ago.

His two vital hobbies were the progress of science as applied to mechanics, and national politics. While never entering the political arena in person, he was always deeply interested in the outcome of every State and Presidential election. Even in the recent amendment election he sustained the keenest interest and between hours of unconsciousness insisted upon hearing the latest election returns, even reading some of the papers himself.

Although he came West on horseback it was his great joy that he had lived to see the birdmen dip their white canvas wings in the sunlight far above Los Angeles and Dominguez Field.

Funeral services will be held from the chapel of Pierce Bros. & Company, No. 810 South Flower street tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Interment will be made at St. Louis Mo., later in the week. Mrs. Hodgman and Mrs. Hay attending.

'ECZEMA ITCHED SO I COULDN'T STAND IT'
Began by Little Pimples. Scratched Until Blood Came. Kept Getting Worse. Could Not Sleep Nights. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and the First Day They Relieved Itching. In 3 Weeks Eczema Cured.
"I suffered with eczema on my neck for about six months, beginning by little pimples breaking out. I kept scratching till the blood came. It kept getting worse, I couldn't sleep nights any more. It kept itching for about a month, then I went to a doctor and got some liquid to take. It seemed as if I was going to get better. The itching stopped for about three days, but when it started again, was even worse than before. The eczema itched so badly I couldn't stand it any more. I went to a doctor and he gave me some medicine, but didn't do any good. We have been having Cuticura Remedies in the house, so I decided to try them. I had been using Cuticura Soap, so I got me a box of Cuticura Ointment, and washed off the affected part with Cuticura Soap three times a day, and then put the Cuticura Ointment on. The first day I put it on, it relieved me of itching so I could sleep all that night. It took about a week, then I could see the scab come off. I kept the treatment up for three weeks, and my eczema was cured.
"My brother got his face burned with gunpowder, and he used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The people all thought he would have scars, but you can't see that he ever had his face burned. It was simply awful to look at before the Cuticura Remedies [Soap and Ointment] cured it." (Signed) Miss Elizabeth Gehrki, Forrest City, Ark., Oct. 16, 1910.
Although Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a liberal sample of each, with 32-page booklet on the skin and hair, will be sent, post-free, on application to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 17B, Boston.

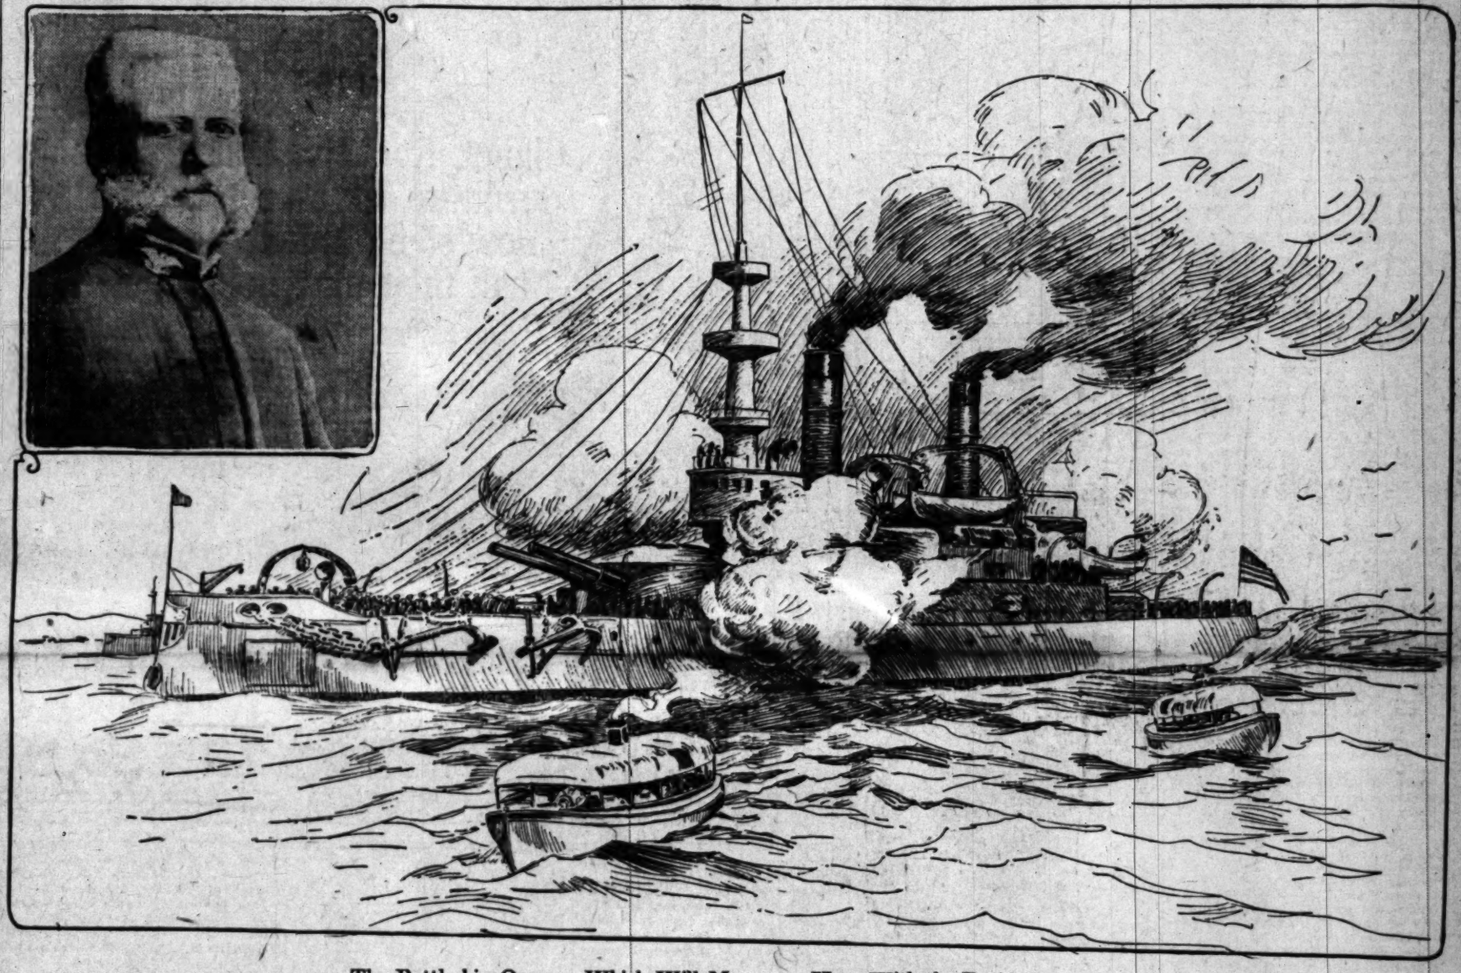
Mighty Assembly.

AMERICA'S ARMADA OF THE PACIFIC TO MANEUVER HERE FOR THREE WEEKS.

Fleet of Twenty-three Naval Vessels, from Battleship to Submarine, With Many Big Guns and About Ten Thousand Officers and Men, Will Constitute Great and Important Pageant.

AMERICA'S WESTERN ARMADA, the mightiest and the most modern fleet the United States has ever assembled in the Pacific, will mobilize at this port a week from next Wednesday for important maneuvers requiring about three weeks. One mammoth battleship—the beloved Oregon—five cruisers that are almost dreadnoughts, many swift torpedo boats and swifter torpedo-boat destroyers, the latest type of submarine, and various auxiliary and supply ships, will come steaming in early in the morning of November 1, and come to anchor beyond the breakwater at San Pedro. Their arrival will mark a new era in the importance of Los Angeles as a naval rendezvous, and it shows that the department recognizes the advantages of this port as a splendid strategic point. This fleet will bring approximately 10,000 officers and men, and will carry about fifty heavy guns, some of which could throw shells to the border of the city. The ships and armament represent a cost of about $50,000,000. The principal purpose of the maneuvers, according to the Secretary of the Navy, is to determine whether the ships, equipment and men are ready for a supreme test—a test to which they may be put at any time.



The Battleship Oregon, Which Will Maneuver Here With the Pacific Fleet,

And Rear-Admiral Chauncey Thomas, commander-in-chief of the armada, which will assemble outside the harbor ten days hence. The Oregon, rebuilt at a cost of a million dollars, is to leave Seattle tomorrow for this port.

Twenty-three naval ships, including the mighty, battle-scarred old Oregon, now as bright and powerful as when new, and the five crack cruisers of the California class, with many hundred good officers and many thousand good men, will be reviewed here by Admiral Thomas and various persons eminent in the political and official world, probably headed by Senator Perkins, chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee. Twenty-three war craft, in stately array, will make a brave showing at Los Angeles Harbor, and despite the scant month's notice given, they will strive to prove to the satisfaction of everyone that they are ready for "a fight or a frolic," as that hearty old seadog, Admiral Evans, put it when he reported the battleship fleet in readiness for the world-encircling cruise.

Having given notice of the plan to hold the mobilization and review, the department is leaving the details to Admiral Thomas. The purpose of the maneuvers, according to Secretary Meyer, is to test the efficiency of the fleet, to see if the officers and men are perfectly trained to their duties and ready for service, to find whether the ships and equipment are in thoroughly efficient condition, ready for the supreme test to which they may be put, possibly with a shorter notice than was given for the review.

Fresh from his visit to the Old World, Secretary Meyer, discussing the Los Angeles maneuvers at Washington yesterday, expressed the opinion that nothing else can give the desired knowledge as to the preparedness of the fleet like a sudden mobilization, and he is thoroughly satisfied of the truth of the axiom that the navy is the fleet, and the fleet is the navy. So the navy is going to demonstrate.

SPLENDID NAVAL PAGEANT.

It will be a powerful fleet that will be assembled here. The great thirteen-inch guns of the Oregon could send their shells, weighing 1130 pounds each, hurtling inland to a distance of ten or twelve miles. The projectiles leave the muzzles of the huge guns with an energy of 31,123 foot tons, a force which it is difficult to realize. The cruisers can send their eight-inch shells eight miles, and the 260-pound projectiles leave the long rifled tubes with a muzzle energy of 13,715 foot tons.

Surely the Coast is pretty well defended for the present. With the Panama Canal completed a few years hence, the fleet can pass back and forth, so that the country will be able to concentrate its whole naval strength in case of need with very little delay.

The people of the Pacific Coast who care to see a strong, splendid naval pageant will have the opportunity to view the ships here November 1, comprising the Pacific fleet, with the Oregon temporarily attached, and this personnel:

Rear-Admiral Chauncey Thomas, commander-in-chief; personal staff, Commander Warren J. Terhune, chief of staff; Lieutenant Commander William D. Leahy, aide to fleet ordnance officer; Lieutenant Commander Samuel I. M. Major, aide to fleet engineer; Ensign Augustin T. Beauregard, aide to flag lieutenant; Ensign David S. H. BEAN BATTLE'S CRY SOUNDED.

Growers Declare War Upon the Middlemen.

Brokers Open Fire With a Higher Offer.

"Corner" and "Trust" Pop Back and Forth.

The Lima Bean Growers' Association of Southern California has declared war against the middlemen and the fight to the end is on in dead earnest.

The brokers who have been the manipulators of the bean business in the past have been declared unnecessary by the growers and merely an item in the increased cost of living. In order to make themselves a power, and in an endeavor to break up the work of the association, the brokers are offering from 20 to 25 cents more per hundredweight for lima beans than the association. The members of the organization, despite the added profits obtainable, are holding firm in their determination to stick together.

Accusations have been hurled at the association, declaring it a trust, stating that it caused higher prices on beans and is restraining trade in the commodity. To all of these things, Charles Donlon, the president, who arrived at the Van Nuys yesterday from his great bean farm at Hueneme, replied that they are untrue.

CUTTING OFF CORNERS.

He showed that while the crop of beans remained in the hands of the association last year, prices held low, but that as soon as they had passed into the hands of the brokers, a corner was attempted and sufficient stock held up to increase prices to a point they had never before touched. This manipulation will not happen again if the association can help it, for the reason that it is absolutely refusing to sell a single sack of beans to the brokerage companies, but will deal only with the wholesale merchant. "Some of the disgruntled brokers have sold short of the market, expecting to buy much lower, at least down to the opening price of last year, and in order to cover they have been trying to break into the association and disrupt it by offering its individual members a premium on their beans," said Donlon.

"They have not succeeded in doing any harm, and we are right ready to come back at them if necessary. Ever since our organization has been formed, we have had much better results with our product. There have been no sudden increases for the dealers on the one hand, and on the other the grower has been getting a fair return for the crop. This matter of organization was forced on us by the very manipulators of the market who are now trying to tear it to pieces.

"Three years ago they had forced

Bon Voyage.

STEP OUT AT END OF YEAR.

Abolishment of Circuit Court Drops Two Clerks.

Are Among Best-Known Men in Legal Circles.

Sweeping Change by Congress Far-Reaching.

With the abolishment of the United States Circuit Courts at the end of the year by act of Congress, two of the best known men in legal circles in this city will be legislated out of office, after years of service. These officials are William M. Van Dyke, clerk, and Charles N. Williams, deputy clerk of the United States Circuit Court for the Ninth District, with quarters in the Federal building.

Van Dyke and Williams, in connection with their clerical duties, are United States commissioners, the terms of which do not expire for two and four years, respectively. Their tenure in this office, however, is uncertain. The three judges of the United States Circuit Court for the Ninth District, namely, William B. Gilbert, Oregon; Erskine M. Ross and William M. Morrow, California, will continue in service as judges of the United States Appellate Court.

Van Dyke was present at the installation of United States District Court in this city, in December, 1886. He was appointed clerk by Judge Sawyer, the sessions at that time having been held in a building then occupied by the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank on North Main street, which was opposite the site of the present Federal building. In January, 1887, Van Dyke was appointed United States commissioner.

IMPORTANT RULING.

During the twenty-five years Van Dyke has been commissioner he has heard and disposed of many important cases, the famous Oregon land frauds, and recently the trial of Gen. C. Rhys Pryce case, involving conditions in Mexico during the insurrection, being among those demanding the greatest attention. In the latter case, especially, his opinion was of far-reaching effect, as his ruling in refusing to hold Pryce for extradition on the allegation of murder and arson, was adopted by both the American and the Mexican governments, and will serve as a model for all future international litigation.

Williams was appointed in April, 1892, and in 1894 he was named as deputy clerk and was made commissioner in 1903. As commissioner he has disposed of cases requiring a deep study of the law, and his decisions have always been marked with the utmost fairness. Williams is especially well versed in the international laws relating to the deportation of Chinese under the provisions of the Exclusion Act, having made a study of that branch of litigation. Few men are better equipped along that line.

The act under which the sweeping change will be made was intended to codify, revise and amend the laws relating to the judiciary. It was approved March 3, 1911, by President Taft, and will become effective on and after January 1, 1912. While for the most part it is merely a codification and revision of existing laws on the subject, it aboishes the Circuit Courts of the United States, conferring their powers and imposing their duties upon the district courts. In this city United States District Judge Olin Wellborn performs the duties both of the circuit and the district judge.

There are in the United States about seventy-eight judicial districts. Each State constitutes at least one judicial district, while a number of States, such as California, are divided into two districts each, other States into three, and two, New York and Texas, into four. In each of these districts there are two Federal courts, a Circuit Court and a District Court. The jurisdiction of the two courts is, for the most part, quite distinct. The District Court presides in suits in admiralty, proceedings in bankruptcy and in criminal cases for violation of the penal laws of the United States. The Circuit Court has jurisdiction of civil suits at law and in equity that are of Federal cognizance, concurrent jurisdiction with the District Court in most criminal cases, and exclusive jurisdiction in criminal cases where the punishment may be capital. Up to the time of the creation of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, the Circuit Court in each district had also jurisdiction of certain appeals from the District Court.

BUSY COURTS.

This appellate jurisdiction of the Circuit Court was abolished by the act of March 3, 1891, and in each of the nine circuits into which the United States are divided, the Ninth Circuit comprising the States of California, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Oregon and Washington, there was established a United States Circuit Court of Appeals as an intermediate appellate court between the Supreme Court of the United States and the trial courts, namely, the Circuit Court and the District Court.

Prior to that time although generally the Circuit Court as well as the District Court was held by the District Judge, at least in districts other than that in which the Circuit Judge resided, the Circuit Judge frequently visited the different districts and presided in the Circuit Courts. By the act of March 3, 1891, establishing the Circuit Court of Appeals, provision was made for the appointment of an additional Circuit Judge in each circuit, and subsequent legislation has in most circuits increased the number to three or four. Their duties in that court have demanded so much of their time that even more of the Circuit Court work than heretofore has devolved upon the District Judge.

With the abolition of the Circuit Court, there will be general and genuine regret that such popular public servants as Clerk Van Dyke and his deputy, Williams, are legislated out of office. Both are highly esteemed by members of the bar, and those who have had business in the Circuit Court.

GOING TOO FAST.

In Justice Young's court yesterday fines ranging form $10 to $25 were imposed on F. L. Boruff, A. S. Barnes, T. J. Waters, J. C. Hart and J. N. Sutter, for violating the speed ordinance. The parties were picked up on the Calabasas road beyond Hollywood en route to Van Nuys.

Going Out of Harness.

Clerk and deputy clerk of the United States Circuit Court, which will soon be consolidated with the United States District Court. The two men may continue as United States Commissioners a few more years, after which there will be but one.

POWERFUL BATTERIES.

Armament—The Pacific fleet is equipped with four thirteen-inch rifles, twenty-eight eight-inch, seventy six-inch, twenty-two five-inch and 112 three-inch, besides three and six-pounders. The submarines carry no guns, but have the far more deadly torpedoes.

The five big cruisers, almost as effective as the dreadnoughts, and having the advantage of speed, are each armed with four eight-inch, fourteen six-inch and eighteen three-inch rifles.

The Oregon, which is brought out of reserve for this occasion, has four thirteen-inch, eight eight-inch and twelve three-inch rifles. The Oregon's eight-inch guns are thirty-five caliber, while the cruisers' eight-inch guns are forty-five caliber, so the latter are more efficient.

The Cincinnati and the Raleigh each have a main battery consisting of eleven five-inch rifles, but the former's secondary battery has six six-pounders and the Raleigh has six three-pounders. The Whipple, Hull, Hopkins and Truxton each have two three-inch, fifty caliber rifles, and six six-pounders. The Paul Jones, Preble and Stewart each have two three-inch rifles and five six-pounders. On the Lawrence the battery consists of seven six-pounders, on the Farragut four six-pounders, and the Rowan has four one-pounders. The Buffalo, being a transport, is not intended for a fighting ship, but is given guns to repel attack. The main battery consists of two 5-inch forty caliber rifles and four four-inch of forty caliber, with a secondary battery of six three-pounders. The supply ship Glacier has one three-pounder and the collier Prometheus is unarmed.

IMPORTS CROWDING IN.

Collector United States Customs Asks Treasury Department to Authorize Additional Room for Goods.

Collector Pendleton has asked the United States Treasury Department to authorize him to contract with the Los Angeles Warehouse Company for additional room for the use of the appraiser's store, now located in that building at No. 316 Commercial street.

Eleven thousand square feet of floor space is now utilized for the needs of the Collector's office, and an additional space 50x10 feet is desired. The great increase in the value and number of imports is due to the frequent landing of foreign ships at San Pedro, covering almost every port of the world. One-tenth of every shipment from abroad is stored at the appraiser's warehouse, where the valuation is fixed by experts. With the increased tonnage of foreign bottoms at the port of Los Angeles, the bulk will be increased, and Collector Pendleton is doing his best to get ready for the rush.

Mistake in Bid.

Because they forgot about the necessary excavations, the cement and a few other things for the reinforced concrete bridge across the Arroyo Seco at Avenue 20, Smith & Stahlhuth, lowest bidders on the work, asked the Board of Public Works yesterday to allow the withdrawal of the bid. The contractors offered to do the work for $26,000, which was considerably below the estimate, and they probably would have been awarded the contract. Their request has been referred to the City Attorney, but the board thought yesterday that the next lowest figure, $30,000, will probably be accepted.

Charles Donlon,

President of the Lima Bean Growers' Association, which is leading a fight to exterminate manipulators from the present system of marketing the crop. This has led to a war of prices in which brokers are offering inducements to bean growers to desert their standards.

BATTLE CRY SOUNDED.

prices to $3.15 per hundred pounds and we were forced to carry over 200,000 bags on a crop that was smaller than any one we have had since that time. At 3 cents a pound we were not making a percentage on beans—were oftentimes not breaking even. When the organization was completed two years ago, the marketing was done so gradually that there was no dumpage of stock all at one time, and the distribution was so even that the surplus was all taken up, and the greatest crop of years, exceeding by thousands of sacks all past harvests, was moved without a cent of loss to the grower and scarcely a perceptible increase to the consumer.

RUNS INTO HIGH FIGURES.

"The first year of the operation of the association, the business transacted through its channels amounted to only $600,000. Last year that amount had reached $2,000,000 and we expect this year will be just doubled, not owing to the higher prices, but to the increased membership in the association, which comprises not only Ventura county, but also Santa Barbara, Orange, Los Angeles and San Diego counties. Nearly three-fourths of the lima bean growers in these counties have joined the organization after realizing the benefit they are getting from its marketing facilities and the protection it affords them.

"The association started out with one man as the manager. He was little more than a clerk as far as his duties were concerned at the time. Today J. M. Waterman has ten men in the office of the association at Oxnard, and there were ninety-two telegrams waiting to be answered yesterday morning when the office opened. They came from all parts of the United States where the representatives of the association are located."

Speaking of this year's crop and prices, Donlon said that the total harvest will reach at least 1,150,000 bags of lima beans. The market opened at $4.75 per hundred pounds, against $4.10 last year, and this in spite of a larger crop. The acreage on lima beans has been on the increase, which accounts for the increase in the crop. "Farmers are realizing more every day the value of the lima bean as a product of Southern California, which is one of the few places in the United States where soil and climate are right for the growing of the best kind of this species of vegetable," said Donlon.

The president of the organization is one of the men accountable for the close harmony among the growers. Having seen the success of other associations of this character and realizing that the bean men were not getting a square deal on account of juggling the market, he and several of his friends planned their association. His broad Irish wit, his humorous and even funny expressions and manners was one of the chief welding powers in bringing the different factions together. Charles Donlon was made king of the bean growers, with the title of president of the association.

The list of the men who comprise the organization include the land barons of this section of the State. Their holdings in Southern California, as far as acreage is concerned, would far outstrip the holdings of the combined orange and lemon growers, or the deciduous fruit or walnut producers.

Some of those who rank with Donlon in the size of their bean farms, and some who outrank him, are former U. S. Senator Thomas R. Bard of Hueneme, James Irvine of the Irvine Ranch below Santa Ana, Jerome O'Neil whose land holdings exceed 200,000 acres, the McGrath Estate Company, composed of a number of members of the McGrath family of Oxnard, D. T. Perkins, the other Donlon brothers, George C. Powers and J. F. Lewis. In addition, there are half a hundred smaller growers, all of whom are as deeply interested in the present fight with the middlemen as the heaviest producers of the association.

SET RIGHT ON PARCELS POST.

GOVERNMENT OFFICIAL STATES CRITICISM UNJUST.

Bill Shelved by Congress Although It Has Executive Approval, and Postmaster-General Ready to Install It Notwithstanding Tremendous Expense.

At a dinner given yesterday at the Jonathan Club to Hon. Charles P. Grandfield, first assistant Postmaster-General, he stated that the parcels post bill had not been passed by Congress, although it had recently been approved by both President Taft and Postmaster-General Hitchcock.

The proposition has been before Congress in different guises for a number of years, and it was expected that the bill would become a law at the last session. At the last moment, however, it was among others to be left high and dry without official action.

There has been a great deal of criticism of the government and the Postoffice Department, he said, on account of the failure to install the parcels post by unthinking people who did not understand that no such bill had been passed and that action was impossible without the sanction of Congress.

The Postoffice Department, he declared, was ready to install the new feature and provide the means for the new department, although it would require a system equal to the present method of delivering the mails.

It is likely that with the approval of President Taft, Postmaster-General Hitchcock will install the parcels post system on a number of rural free delivery routes in order to test it. This can be done without an enabling act of Congress, it was stated. If it should prove to be a success in a small way on the rural routes, there would be still greater argument for its establishment throughout the government service.

The government guests at the Jonathan Club included Postmaster Harrison, Assistant Postmaster Dishman of Los Angeles, and C. H. Anson, Monrovia; C. A. Stilson, Ocean Park; W. M. Avis, Pomona; G. D. Cunningham, Riverside; S. F. Kelley, San Bernardino; C. H. Bartholomew, San Diego; S. M. Storer, San Pedro; William S. Vawter, Santa Monica; C. F. Baldwin, Whittier; J. L. Matthews, Covina; J. W. Wood and Assistant Postmaster Henry Ramel, Pasadena; George F. Hirsch, and Assistant Postmaster Fred W. McCullah, Long Beach.

Dr. Grandfield yesterday, accompanied by Postmaster Harrison, went to Santa Monica, Ocean Park and Venice, where he looked into the conflicting postoffice claims of the two cities. It is proposed to have a main office at Ocean Park, with branches at Santa Monica and Venice, but this is not satisfactory to the residents of Santa Monica and Venice.

Climate Failed—Medicine Cured

It has been absolutely shown that fresh air, and good food do not cure persons suffering from Tuberculosis, to be really honest. It must be admitted that the disease is seldom more than arrested." Something more is needed for the cure of Tuberculosis. Eckman's Alterative is a specific for this disease again and again. Climate cures have been effected when surroundings were not ideal, when proper nourishment was taken of the poorest, when money was scarce; good food and good cooking unusual—yet cures resulted. Hence we argue and urge that Eckman's Alterative should be used in every case of Tuberculosis, in addition to good, nourishing food and fresh air, which we all know.

The facts—the evidence—the proofs have been made—are interesting reading. A remarkable case follows.

"Gentlemen:—Through the use of Eckman's Alterative I have been saved from a premature grave, and, feeling that I owe it to suffering humanity, I take pleasure in giving you a brief history of my case, which you are at liberty to use.

"On December 14, 1904, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia. My lungs were very much affected; my physician examined and pronounced them consumptive. On February 21st, 1905, was released from Fort Worth, Texas. While there my right lung broke and commenced to grow worse, and became very much inflated. My physician informed me that I must go to Colorado as quickly as possible. I left Texas June 1st, and arrived at Canon City June 3rd, very much worse, being there two weeks, my physician informed me that nothing could be done for my case was hopeless. These words almost broke me up. I weighed 103 pounds. I returned home, weighing 103 pounds. My doctor having given me up as incurable, reaching there about

"On July 1st, 1906, I began using Eckman's wonderful remedy for Consumption, it having been highly recommended to me. I weigh 148 pounds. I am about free of my cough and can do any kind of work about the farm or elevator. I have not an ache nor pain in my lungs, eat well, sleep well, and feel much better. I would be glad if every person afflicted with Tuberculosis would use this great cure."

(Signed Affidavit) ARTHUR HUNT.

Eckman's Alterative is a specific for Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and is unsurpassed as a tonic for the system. Does not contain poisonous opiates or habit-forming drugs. For sale by druggists. Eckman Drug Co.'s Mineral and other famous remedies for sale by druggists. Ask for booklet of cures, or write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence.

QUICK ACTION.

The famous tide-lands suit has at last been filed in the Supreme Court, and it is understood that it will be placed on the April calendar to be disposed of. There are thirty-two distinct actions, but in many cases all the testimony was the same, and will have been merged by stipulation.

TO LESSEN EXPENSES.

At the meeting of the City Council yesterday, the appointment of a committee was authorized to study the election system of the city, with the idea of lessening expenses. It was suggested that the school boards of public buildings and grounds be invited to be asked to appoint a committee to co-operate.

LONGEVITY.

A scientist declares that the way to live long is to keep the mind active. If this be true, any man in the world can live as long as he likes simply by raising cats next door to a man who raises chickens.

THE ONE ONLY PLACE.

We are not at all surprised that constant rains in Philadelphia have put baseball out of commission. The wonder is that it isn't snowing in Pennsylvania at this time of year. There is only one place where a world series can be safely pulled off. Need we name that place?

TO ILLUSTRATE.

The country editor who is hampered by lack of an elaborate picture plant need not worry concerning the illustration of the evolution in China. All Chinamen look alike, consequently any portrait will do to print as the picture of Prince Wun Lung or any of the other leading figures in the crimmage.

HIS SERENE HIGHNESS.

Owing to his tender years, it is altogether unlikely that little Pu Yi, Son of the Morning Star, knows anything whatever concerning the progress of the revolution in his empire. And it is equally improbable that 300,000,000 other Chinese persons, old and young, know any more about it than Pu Yi knows.

A BETTER SORT.

It is said that Dr. Sun Yat Sen, who started the Chinese revolution, is expected in Los Angeles. For the good of the Chinese order we sincerely hope that any local support which may be given the rebels will be of a higher order than the sort Madero received from Los Angeles reds when Mexico was under fire.

BETWEEN DAYS.

When the President returns to the White House he will have many tales of his wanderings to tell the folks as they gather around the evening fire. But the most wonderful tale of all will be that one about jumping from the sunshine and flowers of Los Angeles into the snow and ice of Butte, between two days.

GOOD RISKS.

A German insurance company refuses to pay the policy of a holder who had been a joy rider. Sometime ago the insurance agents forced people to sign away their rights to travel in airships or to commit suicide for a year. Now they want to put an end to the joy ride. If these companies continue to refine conditions no one will be able to pass muster as a good risk.

THE HOT IRON.

The Los Angeles Realty Board has voted to take charge of the Pacific Lands and Products Exposition at Fiesta Park next March. The tourist is here at that time in large numbers; oranges are at their best and the agricultural iron is right for striking. At the same time the humble colonist who is flocking here in the fall and winter months should be shown enough attention to make him want to stay.

BUILD A ROAD.

There are already so many good roads in California that we are face to face with the fact that a town which has not a good road leading into it, may as well consider itself off the map. A man may desire ever so much to visit a certain town, but he will stifle his desire if he must jog his insides out of gear to get to the place.

Wherefore, let the citizens of any community whatever, from one end of the Golden State to the other, see to it immediately that the roads which lead to them are well made. After which, it may also be remarked, the thing to do is to keep said roads always in perfect repair.

MAY BE RIGHT.

Old men of the Soboba tribe of Indians think that a stray parrot on their reservation is a voice from the spirit world. The red men have a right to their guess. Some parrots certainly swear like an evil spirit. We are quite sure that we have never understood what it is that makes a parrot use such shocking language. Come to think of it, we have never known why a parrot uses any kind of language. Nor can we blame an Indian for being some confused when suddenly confronted at the flap of his tepee by a green bird with red eyes speaking a polyglot language in a raucous voice. That sort of reception would set more than a savage to guessing.

HOW OLD WAS ANN?

Just when everything was going along so smoothly for the triumphant suffragists, behold! a horrible obstacle has been thrust in their path. By the present law every voter on registering is obliged to state his or her age. Worst of all, the age of the voter is publicly posted in the lists outside every polling booth.

Of course this was a man-made law, and as such will be soon rescinded. Let us hope that nothing more unpleasant will turn up to prevent our newly-made electors from exercising their rights under Constitutional Amendment No. 4. Another special election to amend this amendment must be called at once, if the majority object to making their ages public property. The initiative would soon do the trick. Who cares for the expense when the ladies are concerned?

THE PRESIDENT'S PEACE SPEECH.

The speech of President Taft at the banquet at the Alexandria Hotel on the subject of international peace (printed on another page of today's Times) by its unaffected sincerity and statesmanlike thoroughness aroused the admiration of his listeners, and changed enemies into friends. It compelled conviction of his ability and sincerity, and no honest critic could go away without a feeling that he had listened to the utterances of a careful and conscientious student of the question of international peace, who, as the President of the United States, has done and is doing his very utmost to move the world forward. His address was masterful and statesmanlike in every sense of the word, and his auditors, whether his personal admirers and friends or his political enemies, were unstinted in their expressions of praise for his words and motives.

The peace speech was a fitting supplement to his plain, honest, businesslike talk on the tariff at the Auditorium in the forenoon which was so convincing, backed up by such sincerity of purpose, that it disarmed his enemies and broadened the convictions and courage of his political friends.

In his peace speech the President called attention to the fact that in war it is always the wrong men who are killed. The rulers and legislators and diplomats and bureau chiefs who make the war sleep in safety in their homes while the soldiers who usually have not the least idea of what the war is about shoot at each other on the battlefield. Victory settles nothing except the prowess, or numbers, or good fortune of the side that wins. "Providence," said the first Napoleon, "is on the side of the strongest battalions."

President Taft does not believe that arbitration should not extend to the settlement of questions of national honor. Almost every dispute between nations has always involved some question of national honor. The idea of the President is that every question should be submitted to a court of nations and that there should be no armies or navies except the army and navy of the allied powers which would enforce the decree of the court.

How much of treasure and life would be saved if Italy and Turkey could be compelled to submit their differences to a court of nations!

President Taft by his speeches in Los Angeles has made a deep and lasting impression that no carpings of his critics can efface.

A GOOD EXAMPLE.

For a considerable length of time, in this age of transient novelties, Miss Eleanor Sears has remained in the society limelight. Her pictures have appeared frequently, not only in our American journals, but also in the illustrated papers of London and Paris. In many ways Miss Sears is a remarkable young woman, and characteristically western. A splendid athlete, a leader in all healthy sports, she has shown herself to be equally vigorous in intellectual qualities.

A year ago she declared her intention of making the many suitors for her hand prove their worth in a practical fashion, before she ventured her barque of single blessedness on the stormy seas of matrimony and gave up the helm to an untried pilot. This bright young American Beatrice has at last found a Benedick who has proved himself to be a first-class yachtsman, capable of keeping a boat close to the wind with half a gale blowing. So she has tentatively taken aboard, as a possible pilot for life, a younger scion of the Vanderbilt family.

But to make assurance doubly sure she has decided on a one year's trial engagement, with the understanding that either party may break the contract at the first sign of incompatibility. How much more sensibly Miss Sears is acting than the great majority, who tie the knot first and then leave the incompatibility to be thrashed out in the divorce court!

MONARCHICAL TRADE UNIONS.

So the kings and emperors are about to form a trade union. Formerly it was King and people against King and people. Now it is to be King and King against people and people.

First comes the compact between Manoel of Portugal and the Pretender, Miguel of Braganza. "Whichever the people shall choose" is the way it reads, but it means: "Let us combine to recover the throne and then share the plunder."

Then King Alfonso, with a view to his tottering throne, "pardons" his relative Alfonso of Bourbon Orleans, whom he deprived of his rank, titles, and rights two or three years ago for marrying a Protestant princess—Princess Beatrice of Saxe-Coburg Gotha. The pardon comes into effect conditionally upon the Prince's agreement to enter the royal troops, and fight for King Alfonso when necessary. On this understanding he is restored to his former rank and rights.

And now there are persistent rumors to the effect that the Bonapartes and the Bourbons are in secret compact regarding the throne of France. Divided they are impotent, but united their strength is a serious force to be reckoned with.

At no very distant date a trade union of kings will be an accomplished fact—for if the Spanish monarchy goes (it appears to be next on the list after Turkey, Persia and Portugal,) Austria will be next, following the death of the Emperor Joseph. After that, if not before, the Czar of all the Russias will have dropped his last slender thread.

In Germany the Socialists are becoming more audacious and arrogant—and numerically stronger at each election. Avowed republicans have already appeared on the scene.

In England the Socialists are not yet strong, but each election shows a larger following—and with the recent weakening of the power of the House of Lords, the throne has unquestionably lost prestige. Its power had already been curtailed to the minimum.

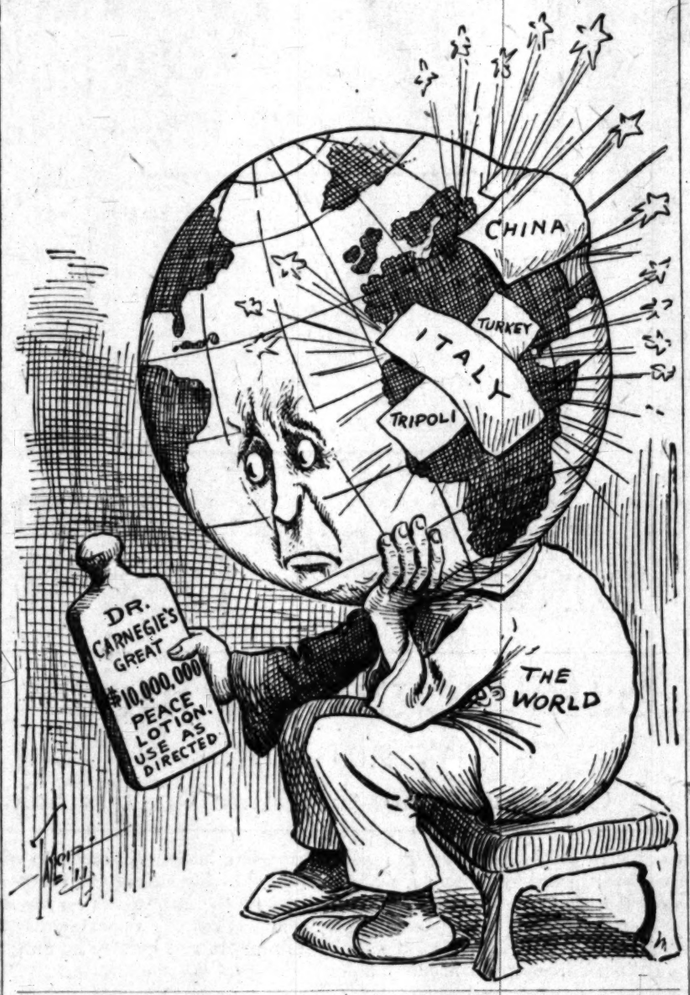
So these kings are not above taking a lesson. Instead of two and three monarchical factions in each state, each intriguing against the other as well as against the government, there will from henceforth be combined forces and combined strength—one aim, the throne.

A gentle little breeze, which is, however, enough to show which way the wind blows, is the forthcoming reception of the despised King George of Servia by the proud and patrician Austrian Emperor. The Servian monarch is plebeian in the extreme, and he came by his throne through crime and murder. But he is a King and it behooves monarchy to stand by each other in these tremulous days.

Why, even the chieftainship of the great Scottish clans—three of them have been fighting for the honor of first place for three hundred years—even this has now been decided by compact. Sir Alexander Bosville Macdonald of the Clan Macdonald announces that an agreement has been arrived at and no longer will the Clan Macdonalds, the Clan Ronalds, the Clan Glengarrys fly at one another's throats upon the slightest provocation, but they will combine to sustain the chieftainship, which was in danger of frittering out. And these Scottish chieftains are really minor kings.

Yes, the royal trade union is unquestionably about to be incorporated.

"Where Are the Directions?"



UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher.

The highwayman of olden days was wont to haunt the lonely ways, upon his prancing steed, and when a traveler came by, the robber said: "Shell out or die, and show your highest speed!" And having swiped the pilgrim's roll, he galloped off, gay, jaunty soul, some damsel fair to see; a little while he went his way, and then upon some dismal day he graced the gallows tree. The robber of these modern times don't ride the highway for his dimes, or flourish blunderhus; he has a handsome, gilded lair and by his wiles entices there some unsuspecting cuss. And then he sells the victim shares in wireless fakes and other snares, in moonlight and blue sky. For him no gallows creaks and groans; he robs his victims of their bones and winks the other eye. I like the old-time robber best; he had a bold heart in his breast, his life was in his hand; and even on the scaffold he was finer than the crooks we see in this knave-ridden land.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES.

The importance of thinking in a systematic manner and with a purpose of developing the mental power, leads Success Magazine to say:

"Working or thinking without system enfeebles the mind and leaves the mental faculties in a clogged condition, so that they do not work sharply. The mind must be kept clear and clean for the present problem, so that it may seize and grasp with all its might the thing it is attempting to accomplish.

"There is only one best way to learn how to act: that way is the way of system. Systematize your thoughts, your energies, your abilities. Learn early in life to do this, and it will prove the master habit that wins success.

"Systemless men are always surprised that the heads of great enterprises can find so much time for social life, for hobbies, for travel. They cannot understand it at all. They do not realize that a man of great organizing ability, with a splendid system, can do more effective business in a single hour at his office than a systemless man can accomplish in twelve. It is not the number of hours, but the effectiveness of the system that tells.

"One of the advantages of a college course is that it trains the mind to work by system. Whether he likes to or not, the student is forced to concentrate his mind when the time comes, no matter what his mood, or how he feels. Four years of training in this should put the mind into working order. It should tune the intellect so that all the strings will be in harmony. A good college education should train the mind to think concisely, deeply, effectively at will."

Russia is a roadless land. It is inconceivable to the foreign visitor who has ever left the beaten track of the railways in Russia how a great empire can have subsisted so long and so successfully amid the competition of the rival States beyond its borders without even a pretense at roads.

The secret, of course, lies in the fact that for five or six months in the year nature herself provides roads over the greater part of the expanse of All the Russias—admirable, smooth, glassy roadways over hard-worn snow. The traffic is further cheapened over these roads by the substitution of a sledge-runner for the wheel and axle. This brings the cost of land carriage as near the cheapness of water-borne freight as possible, and it is the principal reason why Russia, in the twentieth century, is still a roadless land.

There are some 44,000 miles of railway in Russia, and not one-third that figure of unmetalled roads! The roads are, even more markedly than the railways, which of late have begun to consider economical and commercial needs, strategic roads from the center to the confines of the empire. As Russia covers a large proportion of two continents, it may be readily realized how little the insignificant mileage of roads serves the daily needs of its rapidly growing population.

It is the intention of the Council of Ministers to set about remedying this defect, and it is hoped to remove it within the next decade. A beginning is to be made with European Russia only, leaving Siberia, Central Asia, etc., for later. The proportion of lineal miles of road to square miles of territory, according to the proposals before the Council of Ministers, is to be one to ten. In France the proportion is one to one, and in the worst provided European country it is not less than one to eight. Therefore Russia is aiming at much less than other countries already have, and for the most part have had for many centuries.

To make in ten years the 165,000 miles of roads required is one of those gigantic measures of reform, comparable only to the agrarian settlement scheme, on which the present government of Russia is steadily engaged.

Realizing that a better and more modern commercial training enables German competitors all over the world to drive Englishmen to the wall, leading commercial men in England and the colonies are now agitating for the foundation of a great British commercial university, having for years insisted upon the need for better business training in English schools and colleges.

An important beginning was made at a special meeting of the Association of British Chambers of Commerce at Dublin the other day, when the Australasian Chamber of Commerce of London moved the resolution:

"That in the opinion of this association it is desirable that steps should be taken with the object of founding a commercial university in this country, and that a committee should be elected to inquire into and report upon the question generally."

A prominent member of the London Chamber of Commerce said:

"England is badly in need of a commercial university.

"As matters stand at present, if a merchant wants to give his son a sound business education he cannot do it without actually taking the lad into his office. We want colleges where young men could learn all about banking, marine insurance, export trades or any kind of business, and if we do not get them soon other nations will outstrip us in the struggle for the world's commerce. At present the German business training is far superior to ours, and even Servia, Bulgaria and Hungary have better commercial schools."

Excusable Mistake.

[Tit Bits:] The irascible old gentleman had ordered a chicken, but when he got it he wasn't satisfied—some people never are.

"Waiter," he yelled, "bring a charge of dynamite and a hatchet and an extra double steampowder coke hammer. This chicken's got to be carved, even if it is made of dreadnought steel."

The waiter was desolate. "Very sorry, sir," he said, "but that always was a peculiar bird. It even objected to be killed, though we always do everything with the greatest of kindness. But this bird, sir, actually flew away, and we had to shoot it, sir—yes, shoot it—it flew onto the top of a house and——"

"Say no more," said the old gentleman. "I see it all now. You shot at it and brought down the weathercock by mistake. John, my friend, all is forgiven."

SOCIALISM.

A hundred cities sapped by slow decay,
A hundred codes and systems proven vain
Lie hearsed in sand upon the heaving plain,
Memorial ruins mounded, still and gray;
And we who plod the barren waste today
Another code evolving, think to gain
Surcease of man's inheritance of pain
And mould a state immune from evil's sway.

Not laws; but virtue in the soul we need,
The old Socratic justice in the heart,
The Golden Rule become the people's creed
When years of training have performed their part;
For thus alone in home and church and mart
Can evil perish and the race be freed.

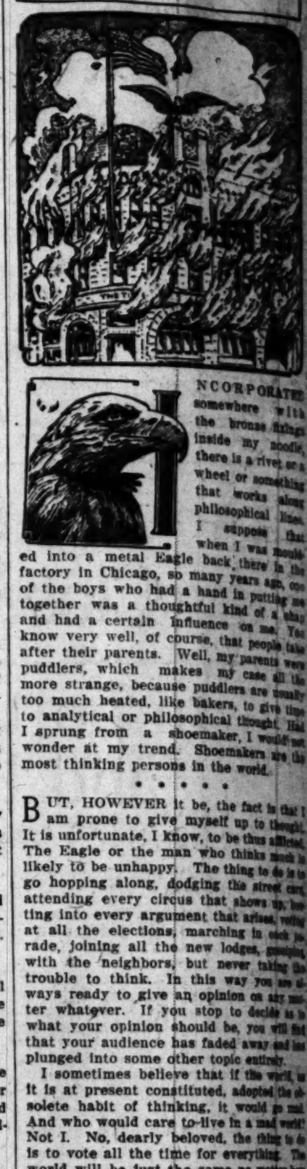
The Eagle.



INCORPORATED somewhere with the bronze fittings inside my noodle, there is a rivet or a wheel or something that works along philosophical lines. I suppose that when I was mould-ed into a metal Eagle back there in the factory in Chicago, so many years ago, one of the boys who had a hand in putting me together was a thoughtful kind of a chap and had a certain influence on me. You know very well, of course, that people take after their parents. Well, my parents were puddlers, which makes my case all the more strange, because puddlers are usually too much heated, like bakers, to give time to analytical or philosophical thought. Had I sprung from a shoemaker, I would not wonder at my trend. Shoemakers are the most thinking persons in the world.

* * * * *

BUT, HOWEVER it be, the fact is that I am prone to give myself up to thought. It is unfortunate, I know, to be thus afflicted. The Eagle or the man who thinks much is likely to be unhappy. The thing to do is to go hopping along, dodging the street cars, attending every circus that shows up, betting into every argument that arises, voting at all the elections, marching in each parade, joining all the new lodges, gossiping with the neighbors, but never taking the trouble to think. In this way you are always ready to give an opinion on any matter whatever. If you stop to decide as to what your opinion should be, you will find that your audience has faded away and has plunged into some other topic entirely.

I sometimes believe that if the world, as it is at present constituted, adopted the obsolete habit of thinking, it would go mad. And who would care to live in a mad world? Not I. No, dearly beloved, the thing to do is to vote all the time for everything. The world will be just the same no matter how the election turns out.

* * * * *

THIS IS CERTAINLY my advice as to the manner in which you all people should conduct yourselves, but with me it is different. I am an old bronze Eagle, and if I cogitate, it doesn't cost anything. It is all the same to me whether the Republicans or the Democrats run the country. Whether the tariff is revised upward or downward cuts no ice with yours truly. Schedule K is no more to me than Schedule A or B or any other schedule. I don't have to pay taxes. I don't even have to eat, and that's a great advantage in itself, if you will excuse the idea over.

* * * * *

SO, WHILE the shining highways of the town are roaring with traffic and are murmurous, so to speak, with the shuffle of the oncoming and ever-increasing footsteps of tourists and colonists, I find the winds in my bronze head-piece turning out an endless train of thought. And, lately, I have been thinking most on the problem of government. Why is it, I ask, that the world is something like 250,000,000 years old, and that men are still wrestling with the problem of government?

* * * * *

NOW, HONESTLY, don't you agree with me, that it is a mighty strange thing for men to have so many wonderful accomplishments to their credit, and still not know how to live with one another in society without constantly raising Old Ned? Isn't it even more strange that at this very hour men are trying schemes of government that were tried thousands of years ago and abandoned because they wouldn't work? Wouldn't you just naturally suppose there would be at least one man among all those millions to come forward with something really new in the economics of government?

* * * * *

IF YOU-ALL will take the trouble to open up the dusty tomes of history for the purpose of learning what efforts men have made along the lines of political reform back as far as the days of Abraham, and farther, you-all will come out of said dusty tomes with a feeling of utter hopelessness. You will see that while the incandescent light has supplanted the tallow dip, while the steamship has succeeded the Phoenician's sail, that the world is blunderin along as stupidly as ever, and maybe more so, to find a way to satisfy anybody for a longer time than he can manage to hold one of the best-paying offices.

* * * * *

YET, sometimes I almost allow myself to feel that there is now a ray of hope. Women are now in the ascendant as far as this business of government is concerned. There is a woman Mayor in Kansas. An entire woman's ticket has been nominated in Salt Lake. Woman suffrage has carried in California. Everywhere I look I see women coming to the front. From them, therefore, comes my ray of hope.

* * * * *

AND I will tell you why. Women are more inventive than men; and government is merely a matter of invention. It was his superior invention that made Homer the greatest of all poets. The same power is the thing that will evolve a satisfactory form of government at last.

To prove what I say in regard to women's superior powers I have only to point out to you the infinite new invention of the clothes she wears. Men have not changed the style of their clothes in seven generations. Wherefore, my ray of hope.

Comparative Morality.

Different people's ideas as to what is right and wrong are as varied as their ideas of etiquette.

The Cockney 'Liza's views on this subject, when she told 'Erbert that he might pour his tea in the saucer, but he mustn't blow it, were very illuminating.

One lady friend of mine is an absolutely upright spinster who lives a godly and righteous life. She would receive any suggestion that she should steal a cent from a friend with horror and indignation, yet I recently caught her purloining walnuts off a neighbor's tree (I helped her do it, in fact,) with shameless joy and enthusiasm, immensely proud of her dexterity!

A man of my acquaintance will lie about on the beach in full view of all and sundry in a peculiarly abbreviated garment, but if you think he would go to the door in his highly respectable and adequate night shirt, you have judged him evilly.

Any number of my lady friends will powder their noses and even color their lips with complacent equanimity—but to rouge their cheeks, my dear, what a disgusting suggestion!

In the same way, sweet athletic maids will don the most pronounced bifurcated garments in the gymnasium, made of serge, blue, red or even white, as also for their bathing costumes, which all may see; but to appear before the public in the self-same garment made in white muslin, with a dash of embroidery! Ye Gods! what brazen immodesty!

Even the fashions influence ideas of morality. Two years ago a low-necked dress in the street, together with short skirts and the minimum of sleeve, would have been regarded as the acme of immodesty, only possible in the wrong kind of woman—and now? Well, our wives and mothers look like that today.

And many a dame who works long weary hours in the cause of righteousness, teaching the advantages of honesty to the young, does not hesitate to steal the sweetmeats at the confectioner's the whole of the time she is being served.

A man recently was assuring me that God had been very good to him, because the man who had long held the position he himself sought had just committed suicide, thus opening the way for my friend! And he expressed the opinion that God always looked after his disciples in this manner.

"Shall we then worship the God who sends the plagues or the God who sends the peaches?"

And how does our souvenir hunter reconcile his ideas of morality with the Eighth Commandment? It is a curious fact that the souvenir hunter is invariably a respectable and upright citizen, who would no more think of robbing his neighbor than of committing murder. Yet he will steal spoons and forks from hotels, portions of carving from churches, brass fittings from ships, even buttons from naval officers' coats and openly brag of the fact, with evident satisfaction.

How, therefore, shall we order our lives? What I think perfectly correct and moral, Jones regards as the depth of indecency—and, alas, what Jones regards as correct and moral, I certainly consider without the pale of good form and righteousness. No wonder we are exhorted to "judge not that we be not judged." It is about the only way to make life bearable.

Baby Books.

About the scurviest trick to play on a poor little helpless infant is to provide it with one of those fearsome baby books in which to record its every tottering step in the direction of progress. The first page leaves space for a photograph and a description of the poor little beggar directly it was born. Is there any man among us so steeped in iniquity that he deserves to be confronted with one of these in later life? It is dreadful to think that many well-meaning but mistaken mothers are industriously filling the pages of these records from day to day with humiliating evidence against innocent babes.

In these books are recorded baby's various unfortunate antics, his first words, the date of both the word and the antic, together with locks of his scanty hair at various ages—for which a silly little receptacle is provided.

Never again will nice-minded biographers be able to declare their heroes showed wonderful signs of genius from the cradle. Never again will fathers be able to tell their children what bright babies they were in the good old days. Never again will young grandmothers be able to dwell fondly on the forwardness of "you, Mary dear. Why, you walked at eight months, my daughter, and I don't see how it is that sonny boy, who is 14 months, comes Monday, cannot stand properly yet."

Grandmothers have so few joys, it is brutal to rob them of this. And young mothers need this sort of discipline so much—it is the only thing in the world that prevents them from becoming insufferably conceited as to their mediocre offspring.

$3.50 Recipe Free, For Weak Men

Send Name and Address Today —You Can Have it Free and Be Strong and Vigorous

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, failing memory and lame back, brought on by excesses and unnatural drains, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and virility, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and I am convinced it is the surest-acting combination for the cure of vigor failure ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow men to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop drugging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what I believe is the quickest-acting restorative, upbuilding, SPOT-TOUCHING remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 3750 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid recipe in a plain ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $3 to $5 for merely writing out a prescription like this—but I send it entirely free.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Bids for the purchase of harbor improvement and electric plant bonds are scheduled to be in the hands of the City Clerk by 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, but no proposal has as yet been received.

The constitutionality of the smoke ordinance was questioned by the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation yesterday in an appeal from a police court fine.

At the City Hall.

BIDS FOR BONDS DUE TOMORROW.

NO SIGN YET OF SYNDICATE, BUT THERE'S TIME.

Half a Million Each of Electric Plant and Harbor Improvement Issues Are to Be Marketed and Offers Are to Be Opened by the City Council Tuesday.

Although the time ends at 11 o'clock tomorrow in which bids may be received for $520,000 of harbor improvement bonds and $525,000 of electric plant bonds, not one has yet come to the hands of City Clerk Handley. Bids must be in writing, of course, and sealed, and must be in the hands of the City Clerk at the hour named, but they will not be opened until the following day. The City Council must open them at a regular meeting and such meetings are only held on Tuesday.

"There is no occasion to worry," said Handley, yesterday. "Bids are usually held out until the last possible minute, or, if they come by mail, it is carefully calculated that they shall not arrive until the day before the time for receiving bids."

The bonds are part of the issue of $3,500,000 electric plant bonds and $3,000,000 harbor improvement bonds voted at the election of April 19, 1910. The City Council is authorized by law to sell these bonds by installments and this particular sale was authorized by the Council on September 26. All the bond-buying centers were notified and are expected to be heard from, although there has been no agent of the syndicate that bought the water works bonds on hand at the City Hall on this occasion, as there was before when bonds were offered for sale.

The bonds will not be ready for delivery before November 1. They are being engraved by a banknote company of Philadelphia. Each bidder must accompany his bid by a certified check for over $10,000 in the case of each class of bond.

The City Clerk has prepared a statement of the indebtedness of Los Angeles and its assessed valuation, population, etc., with the receipts and expenditures of the water system, showing that the receipts of the Water Department are in excess of the cost of operation and maintenance by millions. The actual indebtedness of the city at present is $24,160,787.50, of which approximately $21,300,000 is for the water system, including the construction of the aqueduct.

REACH AGREEMENT.
ALESSANDRO STREET CUT.

The long-standing dispute between the city and the Pacific Electric Company over Alessandro street was settled yesterday by the Board of Public Works. The proposition has been in the hands of the City Engineer for investigation, and his report was followed by the board.

The railway will raise the retaining wall between Fargo and Baxter streets to the height required in order to use the full roadway. This eliminates the necessity of the curb, gives the city an extra ten feet of roadway, and confines the railway to a forty-foot strip. On top of the retaining wall the railway company agrees to erect a fence of iron pipe instead of the wooden planks shown in the original plans.

The company also agrees to buy from property owners the additional land necessary for streets on both sides of the cut north of Baxter street. This involves a strip twenty feet wide from Baxter street to Cove avenue and a strip fifteen feet wide along the eastern side of Cove avenue from Baxter to Sobieska street.

The company will be allowed to proceed with its work under the terms of the agreement.

BIDS ARE RETURNED.
ELECTRIC PLANT DELAYED.

Three weeks' delay in the construction of the big generating plant of the aqueduct system will result because dealers and manufacturers asked for more time. Yesterday was the day when all bids were to have been in, but certain changes were made and certain other parts of the machinery were too far in advance of the shops, so the Board of Public Works directed that all bids already in be returned unopened to the bidders and that the time for making proposals for furnishing the machinery be extended to November 10.

The machinery on which bids are to be made will generate the power that the city is to distribute and to prepare a system for the distribution of which a $3,000,000 bond issue is now being discussed by the City Council. The contract for the machinery involves at least $500,000.

CUSHING'S NEW IDEA.
SCHOOL FOR COLLECTORS.

Inspector Cushing of the Board of Public Works made up his mind when given control of the garbage situation that the majority of complaints against the garbage men are due to the fact that the garbage collectors did not know how to do what they are supposed to do—that no one had ever taken the pains to tell them. So he established a kind of school.

After three weeks, the first week of which was employed in showing the men how they should look after garbage cans and where such receptacles were to be placed, so cats and dogs could not get at them, Cushing left the men to go by themselves, but followed them from time to time. Now he thinks they have made great progress and that fewer compaints are likely to be heard.

NATURAL LAWS VERSUS SCIENCE.

SMOKE ORDINANCE IS ATTACKED BY CORPORATION.

Attorney Argues that the Test Required by the City Is Impractical and the Ordinance Unconstitutional—Rulings on Similar Laws Are Offered in Rebuttal.

Sidelights on natural history were shed before Judge Willis yesterday by Attorney W. A. Cheney for the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation in an effort to prove that the city smoke ordinance is unconstitutional. Cold and uncolored court rulings to the contrary were cited by Assistant City Attorney Nimmo. The case was up on appeal by the corporation from a police court fine of $20 against Supt. Wyatt for infraction of the ordinance. Judge Willis took the case under advisement.

Attorney Cheney made a determined attack on the ordinance and the test it provides by card to prove a smoke nuisance, and delved into the laws of nature to support his contention.

"By the rules of natural law," he asserted, "all objects are darker just to that degree they are turned toward it; whether or not the smoke is darker or lighter under the test provided by the ordinance depends entirely on the position of the card."

The "card" referred to is a right-angularly ruled bit of pasteboard, which the ordinance requires to be placed five feet from the ground at a distance of forty or fifty feet from a building where the smoke test is to be made.

The test lies in the tester making a comparison between the color of the smoke exuded from the building's stack and the card, and if the smoke is found darker than the card appears the persons responsible for the smoke are declared to be violating the ordinance.

While it was the contention of Cheney that the test is impractical, Nimmo briefly related that it is the result of a scientific conclusion and widely held infallible if properly applied. He told of the success that has followed its use in the East and pointed to a number of rulings by which it is upheld. One of the decisions was handed down by the Court of Appeals in New York.

GEM WAR CONTINUES.
CHARGE OF FRAUD MADE.

That Guy and Cassius McDonald were at the death-bed of their father, Mike McDonald, the Chicago gambling king, and therefore could not have obtained from a safe deposit box at that time the $5000 worth of gems she is fighting her step-mother for, was the declaration yesterday of Mrs. Pearl McDonald. Her testimony closed the case, barring argument, which will be made tomorrow afternoon.

To refute a statement made by a trustee of her husband's estate that she wore glasses as she signed a receipt for $1500, Mrs. Dora McDonald, on being recalled to the stand, asserted she never wore glasses in her life.

She also made a charge of fraud. The receipt, she testified, was given by her in return for the money to wipe out a claim on the estate of her son Harold. On being questioned as to a clause in it stating that she accepted the $1500 in settlement of all claims to jewelry and other obligations of the step-sons, Guy and Cassius McDonald, the witness declared it had been inserted without her knowledge.

GETS MANDATE WRIT.
STOCK SOUGHT BY GUNNISON.

M. B. Gunnison yesterday obtained a writ of mandate from Judge Hutton in an effort to have transferred to his name 31.65 shares of the capital stock of the J. Brent Harding Company. The writ is returnable before Judge Finlayson in Department Four of the Superior Court on the 30th inst.

Both J. Brent Harding and W. W. Patterson, president and secretary of the company, are made defendants in Gunnison's complaint. The plaintiff says that on October 5, 1910, he entered into contract with Harding involving the delivery of a lot in case the defendant failed to transfer to him the amount of stock to which he now seeks title.

Gunnison asserts he complied with his obligations in this connection but that Harding defaulted. The proceeding is to secure for the plaintiff a certificate for the stock, which he values at $800.

FOR BACK WAGES.
UNIONITE SUES BANK.

Suit was instituted yesterday by M. Miklauschutz against the State Bank of San Pedro to secure $421.25 deposited by the Fisherman's Union of Southern California, now defunct, for his services as secretary of the organization.

Miklauschutz asserts that he was engaged by the union as secretary for six months at a salary of $200 a month. At the time the unionists decided to dissolve, he declares, it was decided he should have the money in bank. He says entry to this effect was made in the minutes, but that the bank has refused to recognize his claim to the $421.25.

WRIT AGAINST JUSTICE.
POWER AGAIN QUESTIONED.

To test the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace in a case he has indefinitely postponed; Attorney E. M. Barnes yesterday applied to Judge Hutton for a writ of certiorari against Justice Forbes, which will be argued before Judge Willis on the 13th inst.

Edward Forrester is the real petitioner in the action. In his affidavit he says that he was arraigned before Justice Forbes on the 2nd inst. on a charge of assault and battery and that his trial was set for the 10th inst. On the latter date, the petitioner says Justice Forbes continued the actioned indefinitely. Barnes maintains for his client that the disposition of the proceedings places them out of the jurisdiction of the justice, and he aims to have the charge quashed.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.
BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

NEW TRIAL. Judge Oster of San Bernardino, sitting in extra session of the Superior Court in Department Ten, yesterday granted the motion of Attorneys Earl Rogers and W. H. Dehm for a new trial in the action of Walter J. Bailey, principal of the Los Angeles Military Academy, against George C. Peckham. Bailey sued for several hundred dollars alleged to be due him from Peckham in tuition for his sons. The defendant filed a cross-complaint charging Bailey owed him $5909 as commission for floating a $25,000 loan. Judge Oster at the time awarded Bailey $700 and Peckham $4209. Attorney Frank W. Hovey, who died recently, represented the plaintiff originally.

DESTRUCTIVE BIRDS. Employees of the Fish and Game Warden's office yesterday afternoon made their annual Fall sally against the pigeons which infest the tower and cornices of the Courthouse. Using light gauge shotguns they brought down a half dozen birds the first few minutes they were at work. The pigeons increase in number so rapidly that they prove destructive in nesting about the structure.

PROBATION. Judge McCormick put Rupert Allison on probation for five years yesterday, although Probation Officer Dodds advised the contrary. Allison was found guilty of having burgled a pawnshop. He had been on probation for another offense, but the court decided that there were extenuating circumstances. He lectured the defendant sternly, however, exacting from him a promise he would stop drinking, which Allison said had been the cause of much of his trouble.

INCORPORATIONS. Pacific Hotel Company, capital stock, $300,000, subscribed $50,000, incorporators B. D. Lowell, W. E. Ratliffe, P. A. Thoraldson. Bon Ton Pure Food Company, capital $10,000, subscribed $30, incorporators, Charles F. Hopkins, J. W. Musselman, Earl Van Buskirk.

The benefit arranged by the Independent Order of Odd Fellows to advance the chances of their blind brother, A. S. Burns, who is holding second place in The Times Greater Contest, will be given at the Auditorium, beginning at 8 o'clock Monday evening.

The programme prepared is an excellent one and consists of vocal and instrumental music by some of the very best singers and performers in Los Angeles, also a few recitations, and selections by Horn's Orchestra.

In the Inferior Courts.

FEAR OF JAIL GIVES STRENGTH.

HOMESICK YOUTH WILL STAY TO PAY FOR MISTAKE.

Arrested for False Pretenses in Effort to Raise Money to Get Home and Is Now Eager to Work Out Obligation Imposed by Police Court.

Work on a ranch in the Coachella Valley was the treatment for homesickness prescribed by Police Judge Chambers yesterday and Robert McReynolds, 19 years old, who confessed to having secured money by false pretenses to pay his way back to his home in Indiana, will leave today to begin his duties where the cantaloupes ripen early.

McReynolds was arrested yesterday morning by Detective Erven on a charge of having secured 2400 cigars from two cigar stores under the pretense of exchanging them and then to have sold the cigars and kept the money.

The young man was employed for a short time by the M. A. Gunst Cigar Company to deliver cigars, but because he was not familiar with the city he was discharged. In desperate need of funds he resorted to the scheme of calling upon some of the Gunst company's customers and telling them that the cigars he had delivered a day or two before had been found to be below the standard and that the company had ordered him to take them back to the warehouse and furnish them with new stock.

A Broadway drug store returned 1400 cigars to him and a store on Figueroa gave him 1000. He disposed of the entire number to another dealer for about $80, he said in his confession, and was about to purchase a ticket to his home in Kokomo, Ind., when arrested.

He told Police Judge Chambers that he was too homesick to try to get honest work and wait until he had the money to buy a ticket. The court lectured him mildly and then with the understanding that he accept a job on a ranch in the Coachella Valley which a friend had secured for him, and that he return the money he received in the sale of the cigars, a sentence of sixty days in jail was suspended.

McReynolds said the fear of spending time in jail had made him forget his homesickness.

Thinks It Strange.

Because James McNamee did not secure an introduction before asking a young woman to accompany him to breakfast yesterday morning, according to the police, he was taken to the Central Station and later to Police Court. He pleaded not guilty to a charge of "mashing" and is now awaiting a trial.

The incident occurred at First and Broadway, within speaking distance of the station.

Miss Ramona Strange, the accuser, said he approached her and suggested breakfast. She called a patrolman.

McNamee says it's a mistake and he wants a chance to tell the court all about it. He will be heard this week. Bail was fixed at $100.

Marched Too Fast.

It was John Brown who went marching on yesterday, but he did not go very far before Motorcycle Officers Harlan and Hickok stopped him and told him he was going faster than the law allows. He accompanied the officers to court where a sour apple in the form of a $25 fine was handed him. He paid. He was arrested on Flower street.

M. Peters, arrested on East First street, H. B. Lore on Central avenue, and Harry Miyohara on West Seventh street, were other speeders who paid $25 each.

Wait For Water.

Seward Cole as an officer of the Colegrove Water Company was in Police Court yesterday to answer to a charge of having excavated in the streets to lay water pipes without having secured a permit from the city. He asked time in which to consult his attorney and he was given until Tuesday.

BETHEL BAPTIST MISSION.

Dr. George M. Lehigh, D.D., Baptist State evangelist, is conducting a mission at Bethel Baptist Church, Twenty-fifth street and Central avenue, assisted by the pastor, Rev. H. H. Branch. Dr. Lehigh was called to his present position from a pastorate at Long Beach, and is a powerful preacher. He will speak twice today and every evening this week.

Caused a Sensation in the South

Startling Results Obtained in Many Baffling Cases

Never in the history of Los Angeles have the sick and afflicted had such a wonderful opportunity to seek health and happiness. An institute of healing has been opened at 950 South Olive street, corner 10th and Olive, Los Angeles, Calif., where the marvelous TELEVIDA SYSTEM of TREATMENT will be demonstrated. This is the treatment that caused a sensation in the South by its wonderful power over disease. Doctors, lawyers and prominent merchants endorse TELEVIDA. It is the latest, most scientific treatment of the age.

Grateful people, who have been restored to health after years of suffering, tell of their remarkable recovery. You do not have to wait for years—not even months—to know whether you are going to get well. A few days will tell the story by this latest, most wonderful treatment. It is safe, harmless and perfectly reliable. Many testimonials are on file in our offices. Below are given but one or two of the most remarkable cases—cases that baffled the skill of numerous physicians. These unsolicited testimonials are monuments of praise in behalf of Televida. They are bonafide in every particular and should convince the most skeptical that this is the one true, reliable system and that a way to health has been opened up for the sick and afflicted in Los Angeles. Permanent offices are now located at 950 So. Olive street. This new home of TELEVIDA, surrounded with its beautiful grounds and equipped as a modern sanitarium, offers every facility for the quick restoration of health to those unfortunate beings who—through years of illness and suffering—find life a burden instead of a blessing. No need to suffer any longer. Come at once.

PAIN VANISHES LIKE MAGIC.

Mr. M. M. Terrill of 471 Trigg Avenue, Memphis, Tenn., had one of the worst cases of rheumatism that could be imagined. He had been laid up for several months, unable to work, suffering intense pain, had tried many forms of treatment in a vain endeavor to find relief. He heard of what quick results Mr. W. A. Ray of Greenville, Miss., had secured through Televida treatment and whose case was similar to his. Like a drowning man grasping at a straw—he plunged his faith to Televida and not in vain. Remarkable as it may seem—it is nevertheless absolutely true! All pain was banished by the first treatment and all stiffness and soreness of joints left him with the second Televida treatment. His limbs, that through pain had been held, as it were, in a vise for a number of months, were as firm and agile as an athlete's in two days' time. No other system of treatment can point to such a record in cases of Rheumatism.

BACK BROKEN IN A CYCLONE.

This most remarkable case on record—the case of Mrs. J. E. Holland of 327 Washington street, Memphis, Tenn., whose back was broken in a cyclone at Raleigh, Tenn., about three years ago and whose case was given up as "hopeless" by a number of prominent physicians and, after two years spent as a helpless cripple in a wheel chair—she was made to walk, strength returned to her paralyzed limbs by the marvelous TELEVIDA treatment.

No pen can describe the gratitude of this young woman when she stood upon her feet, walked for the first time in two years as a result of a few Televida treatments. Just imagine the joy she must have experienced the first time she walked across the floor and was able to discard her wheel chair where she had spent two long, dreary years of her young life. A life of helpless invalidism stared her in the face and there were times, she stated, when she prayed that she might die. Her case was at first regarded as hopeless by the Televida doctor, but Mrs. Holland had such confidence in the treatment and begged so hard that she might be accepted for treatment that the doctor had not the heart to longer refuse her and, while he felt as though the experiment would be useless and without result, he placed her under treatment. Televida treatment is good even for a well person, for it strengthens and builds up the nerve and blood forces and puts new life and energy in tired, relaxed muscles. Mrs. Holland responded wonderfully. In a few treatments she felt life returning to her hitherto lifeless limbs. So completely dead was her body from her hips down—she could have had her legs burnt off of her and would not have felt the fire. Atrophy had not yet set in, however, her flesh, while numb and dead, was firm and there was chance to re-establish circulation of the blood to her useless limbs. In a few treatments she was able to stand alone. Like a little child she had to be taught to walk for she had forgotten the motion in her two years of helplessness. Soon she could walk across the floor. And now she does all her own housework and owes her life to Televida treatment.

When the true story of her remarkable recovery appeared in the Commercial Appeal of Memphis on January 1st, 1911, people came from far and near to visit her—to see with their own eyes if this seeming miracle had been performed. Mrs. Holland was delighted to show these doubting people. Confidence in the treatment was established upon a firm basis. Patients came by the hundreds to the Televida offices. Doctors brought their hardest cases for treatment. The success obtained was truly remarkable. Physicians, themselves, who were suffering with ailments that had baffled the skill of the medical fraternity, were successfully relieved. Wives, mothers and sisters of a great number of physicians were readily restored to health by Televida treatment. Enthusiasm ran riot. People came from far and near—much the same as pilgrims seek the shrine. The offices were crowded night and day, week in and week out for an entire year. Many hundreds were restored to health. Remarkable testimonials appeared from time to time in the daily papers. These testimonials were from prominent people. Lawyers, doctors and well known merchants were loud in their praise of Televida treatment.

"TAKE UP THY BED AND WALK!"

Mr. David Hall, of Catlettsburg, Ky., was given up to die by his physicians. Depleted in strength by a nine months' illness, he was but a shadow of a man when carried to the Televida offices on May the 8th. He had been bed-ridden during most of that time; in fact, for seven long months he had not touched his feet to the floor.

The story of how Mr. Hall was made to walk in one treatment reads like a fairy tale—yet it is true in every particular and will be verified by Mr. Hall, himself. This new, modern treatment is doing wonders for the sick and afflicted and it is predicted that the offices here in Los Angeles will be crowded to overflowing as soon as the fact has become known that the treatment will be put into operation.

Mr. Hall felt as though his lower limbs were perfectly helpless. He was unable to bear his weight upon his feet. For seven long, weary months he lay helpless, growing weaker and more discouraged day by day. Specialists from Cincinnati, Ohio, were called to his home town in consultation over his case. One and all confessed their inability to do anything for Mr. Hall to relieve his condition.

The fame of Televida treatment reached his ears. He compared his case to that of Mrs. Holland and then and there a wonderful spark of hope was born in his heart. This hope of recovery enabled him to make the long journey to Memphis and he was carried to the Televida offices on a stretcher. He was more dead than alive, however, and had to be revived three different times from the heavy faint this unusual exertion had thrown him into. Added to his great suffering, he had a peculiar affliction of the nerves—an inflammatory condition which rendered the slightest touch excruciatingly painful.

His case was accepted for treatment. Then a wonderfully strange thing happened. Mr. Hall WALKED FROM THE TREATING ROOM DOWN THE STAIRS TO THE CARRIAGE which awaited him, bearing his entire weight upon his feet for the FIRST TIME in SEVEN MONTHS. This remarkable result was accomplished by the first TELEVIDA treatment. Of course he did not walk like you or I might—for he was very weak and long months of non-use had rendered his limbs very uncertain as to motion, but he WALKED and has been on his feet and walking ever since. He has gained in strength, feels better and stronger in every way. The inflammation of the nerves has been entirely relieved. Mr. Hall sleeps well and eats heartily and blesses the day he heard about the TELEVIDA treatment.

The Televida doctor defies any one or any method of treatment to duplicate these results obtained in these severe, baffling cases.

COMPRESSED EXHIBIT TO BE TAKEN EAST.

THE report that Secretary Wiggins of the Chamber of Commerce has rented a glacier in Alaska for a Southern California produce exhibit, and that he has closed a contract with the Aurora Borealis to light the exposition, is probably exaggerated. The fame of Los Angeles, however, like the sunlight, falls everywhere and that is so is as much due to the Wig-Wiggins idea as it is to the climate and the size of the oranges here.

With a friendly Legislature or two back of him and a few City Councils properly enthused, Wiggins would probably rent the skyline of every city in Europe in order to cover it with bill posters advertising Southern California, and he would catch all the elephants in Africa to paint their sides with "See California First," or "See Los Angeles before you buy," after which he would turn the elephants loose again among the natives.

As it is he is satisfied to start a modest campaign for California exhibits in London, Berlin and Paris. He tried to induce the last Legislature to take this up for the State, but the members seemed to resent such a suggestion from the South, and Berlin, London and Paris are still uninformed as to exactly the quality of fruit and climate of this indescribable country.

If Wiggins has failed to break into the Strand, Unter den Linden and the Champs Elysees, he has at least arrived at Omaha, Chicago and Atlantic City. Los Angeles and San Diego united in sending twenty-four tons of Southern California produce to the Omaha Land Show, which opened the 9th inst. and will close the 26th. This exhibit will then be sent to the United States Land and Irrigation Exposition at Chicago beginning November 12 and closing December 6. After that it will be taken wherever it will do the most good. It includese everything from a red pepper to a bale of cotton and from fresh fruit to canned goods and preserves. Samples of wine, oil and nuts abound in the exhibit, and to emphasize the agricultural possibilities of the soil in this county, Wiggins inclosed one pumpkin weighing 350 pounds, a number of sugar beets weighing twenty pounds each, and corn stalks twenty feet high, whereon the first ear is fourteen feet above the ground. The Wiggins idea of ranch products is not modest, but it is convincing. Imperial county is represented in this exhibit by everything in the cotton industry from plants to cotton cakes and cottonseed oil.

Atlantic City has a permanent Los Angeles exhibit at Hotel Glenham on the Board Walk. This exhibit is about to enter its fifth year and Wiggins estimates that 10,000,000 persons have enjoyed it in the last four years. There isn't a day in the year when from one to a dozen persons do not call at the Chamber of Commerce here to mention that they have seen "Los Angeles" exhibit in Atlantic City. It is a replica in miniature of the superb exhibit maintained on the second floor of the Chamber of Commerce building in this city. People are also beginning to come in to say that they saw the Omaha exhibit.

Arrangements are being made for out advertising the State at large, by the State Development Board and by the Panama Exposition Company. It will go all over the United States to advertise the exposition at San Francisco, and it cannot do this without advertising the State at large. Los Angeles will have either an entire car or a large part of one, and Wiggins is organizing a compressed exhibit calculated to inspire the eastern man with a permanent state of unrest until he has feasted his eyes upon the source of all these delights.

Moving On.

"GYM" IS FREE TO GROWN-UPS.

Another Municipal Recreation Innovation Here.

Los Angeles Seeks the Best Talent Available.

A Leader of the Leaders in Playground Work.

Another departure on the part of the Los Angeles Playground Commission is the opening of a free gymnasium at Holly and St. John streets, for grown-ups. "Free" means free, absolutely, with instruction under a competent teacher, and a shower-bath with free soap and towels thrown in. In order that this may be understood, a personal canvass has been made of the neighborhood, informing men and women that it is for them, as well as for the boys and girls; a representative of the commission has visited the department stores, and other places where large numbers of young people are employed, informing them of the advantages offered, without cost, in this magnificently equipped municipal gymnasium.

It has 300 steel lockers, ten marble showers, and high-class marble lavatory equipment, and is kept in as good condition as any private establishment. It offers healthful luxuries for the asking, and is a great credit to the city, and it will not be long until other cities will be following in the wake of Los Angeles in this matter, as they have in others. Our own people should know that in this matter of municipal recreation Los Angeles is the leader, and it doesn't hurt to boost. Some of the evidence that this is true, is to be found in letters received by the local commission within the past few days.

Among others, Edward Everett Hale writes from Schenectady, N. Y. asking a copy of the late report of the commission for his library; the Ohio State University calls for a full set of reports; Judge E. F. Waite of the Minneapolis Juvenile Court, asks for a copy; the Russell Sage Foundation, New York; the Board of Park Commissioners, Nashville, Tenn., Playground Commission, Rochester, N. Y., Charity Organization Society, Buffalo, Y.M.C.A., Bangor, Me., and numerous others, from practically every State and Canada, have written earnest letters asking the printed record, of Los Angeles playground activities.

THE BEST TALENT.

It has been the policy of the Playground Commission to seek for the best talent in the country, and they have been successful in bringing many talented people from the East; but they are hard to hold. No sooner are they recognized by their merit, than other avenues open that offer much better remuneration, though the salaries paid by the city will be recognized as fair compensation. For instance, the manager of the Recreation Center receives $120 per month and house rent; Supervisor of Girls' Work, $115 per month; supervisor of Boys' work, $125; head mechanic, $90; gardener, $80; directors, $90 each; assistants, $85 each.

The present supervisor of girls' work is Mrs. Maud Wessel Hammond, who was secured from Boston about a year ago. She ois a graduate of the Sargent School of Physical Culture, and taught for fourteen years in the various institutions of that city. She was one of the instructors in the first playground established in America—the Charles-Street ground; then she had charge of the gymnasium in the North, Bennett street Industrial School, the Wood Island Gymnasium and the Dennison House Settlement.

She is a woman of fine physique and has shown herself even more competent and resourceful than her record might necessarily indicate. Last year she had charge of the Recreation Center, and when the Hazard playground was completed, she took charge of the details of opening it to the public. Her time now, however, will be devoted entirely to her supervisory function.

FREE "GYM" MANAGEMENT.

Francis Dougherty is occupying the place of manager of the new free gymnasium temporarily. He is a Los Angeles High School student, and has been in charge of the recreation work at the Slauson Playground. Miss Ruth Willard, daughter of J. F. Willard of this city, has been appointed director of girl's work in the gymnasium, and has taken up the work with much enthusiasm. Miss Willard has had a number of years' experience in settlement work and is thoroughly familiar with it. She had charge of the work at Oakland, gave one year to work in San Francisco, following the earthquake, and last June returned from four years spent in New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, bringing with her a diploma from the Chicago Normal School of Physical Training. She, like Mr. Dougherty, is full of enthusiasm, and is in the work for the work's good, and it augurs well for the free gymnasium.

The following schedule has been arranged for the winter: For men and boys over 16 years of age, Tuesday and Friday nights; women and girls over 16 years of age, Monday and Thursday nights; younger boys, Monday and Wednesday afternoons; younger girls, Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

A boys' playground band has been organized, and is now under a competent instructor, and an entertainment will be given in the gymnasium on next Saturday evening. There are also first-class bowling alleys.

RECREATION INSTITUTE.

Under the auspices of the Playground and Recreation Association of America, an institute will be held in this city, November 1 to 4. It will be attended by playground folk from all over the State, and among the noted recreation experts from abroad will be the following: E. B. De Groot, director South Park, Chicago, recognized as the leader of the whole country, and L. H. Wier, Pacific Coast field secretary Association of America. The sessions will be held in the Y.M.C.A. auditorium and gymnasium and the public is invited to attend all the sessions.

Francis H. McLean, field secretary of the Charity Organization Department of the Russell Sage Foundation, will also be in attendance, and under the auspices of the Los Angeles Associated Charities, will deliver an address on Monday evening, October 30, in Blanchard Hall, on the subject, "Organized Charity," which will be open to the public.

The institute is expected to be specially helpful to social workers, teachers, and all who are interested in play and recreation problems, and these, from all surrounding towns are invited to be present, as well as Mayors, playground and park commissions, boards of education, Chambers of Commerce, churches, Christian associations and women's clubs.

Among the speakers from this State will be George E. Dickey, superintendent of the Oakland Playgrounds; Joseph R. Hickey, secretary of the San Francisco Playgrounds; Mayor Evans of Riverside; Mrs. J. J. Suess of Redlands, Miss Margaret Bayler of Santa Barbara, and others.

The tentative programme calls for the opening lecture on Wednesday night, November 1, by L. H. Weir, who will tell the story of California Playgrounds, illustrated by a stereopticon.

On Thursday morning C. B. Raitt, superintendent of the Los Angeles Playgrounds, will show a model playground, all the apparatus being made of aluminum. This will be followed by an address by Dr. Edward Beach of the Manual Arts High School. Thursday night E. B. De Groot will deliver an address on the work in Chicago, and this will be followed by folk dances, to be given in the gymnasium by the women physical instructors in attendance at the institute, which is expected to make a great hit. A real novelty will be old mission dances by native Californians at the same hour.

Friday will be spent at Pasadena, and on Friday evening a banquet will be given at the Alexandria Hotel, this city.

The big feature of Saturday will be the play festival at the Echo Park Playground, during which all the adult experts, directors instructors and supervisors will engage in games for the instruction as well as for the amusement of the crowd.

Because of the great importance of the recreation movement, in preventing vicious amusements and in providing wholesome recreation that will be a factor in the upbuilding of character, all ministers of the city have been asked to deliver an address on the subject, or make extended reference to it, on Sunday, October 29, and each church is asked to send one or more official representatives to the institute.

Southern California is represented among the officers of the Recreation Association of America as follows: W. A. Lamb, Los Angeles; James Mills, Riverside; Arthur B. Emmons, Pasadena, vice-presidents. Committee members, C. B. Raitt, Los Angeles; Mrs. Willoughby Rodman, Los Angeles, social centers; Miss Bessie Stoddart, Los Angeles, recreation buildings; D. B. Gamble, Pasadena, festivals; Dr. W. A. Lamb, Los Angeles, legislation.

Do not lay this aside, or delay, or forget, but write today for Brooks' Book. It tells all about Brooks' marvelous new Appliance, gives prices and names of people cured. Address at once, C. E. OIL MEN INTERESTED.

Governor Johnson Will be Asked to Instruct Legislature to Afford Measures of Relief.

Attorney Whittaker, who is prominently connected with the oil industry of the State, will ask Governor Johnson, in his proclamation convening the general assembly in special session, to include something of interest to the oil operators. He will ask that the State be divided into districts for the purpose of combating the water menace that sometimes threatens certain portions of the great oil fields.

While the question is one of the utmost importance, it is not believed the governor will include it in his call.

FACTS, FEATURES AND FANCIES FOR WOMEN AND MEN

BY OLIVE GRAY

DAILY BEAUTY HINT: There is nothing which mars a woman's appearance more than superfluous hair. Hair upon the chin or lip, or even too heavy a growth of "peach bloom" upon the cheek, is against the canons of civilized beauty. Many times have correspondents asked us to the most effective way of removing such blemishes. There is something very humiliating to a woman about such blemishes. The most effective way of treating them, and so far as I have ever heard, the only way which promises any permanent relief, is by means of the electric needle. When handled by an expert, this is harmless. I have heard of one or two experts who give this treatment in Los Angeles.

George Elliot said that, when two or more persons are introduced, Fate stands by with the cast of the play in her hands and smiles knowingly as she thinks what is to come.

It is interesting to think what a train of events may follow the mere casual enunciation of two names: Mr. Thus-and-so, Mr. Thus-and-so," and sometimes a new world comes into existence.

It is a wonderful occurrence—the coming together of two personalities especially if they are strong.

It need not necessarily be an event of sentimental significance. Possibly it is two men who meet, or two women, or a man and woman of vastly different age, and if each has great force and individuality their meeting is apt to set in motion a train of circumstances.

It is a tremendous thing to find a true friend. There is always a premonition, too, of something momentous impending, when you meet such a one. You scan the cover of a new book; how interesting and filled with possibilities. You hesitate to open the first page, rather doting upon the unknown—the apprehended. How much more interesting than any book is the beginning of a precious friendship, and how much more unguessable than the most intricately-plotted novel. You are attracted by each other. You wish for better acquaintance and yet you are afraid. What shading of personality may come, what contests as to belief or trend of thought. All your anticipated desire in each other's society may result in disappointment. Or you may come to care too much. Fearful webs are knitted by the affections in friendship as well as love. When you let a person into your heart—whether that person be man or woman or even a little child, you give him a blank to cause you misery. A shadow to the sunshine of affection may take on a thousand fantastic forms—separation, misunderstanding, estrangement—imagination recoils at the possible unhappiness in store when the doubtful shrine is set up in the heart. And yet, would we live our lives in calmly cold security, in order to avoid the possible devastation?

Ribbons.

Her look as though fairies had knitted them with dewdrops in the meshes—those ribbons of gossamer, spun with "glistens."

I suppose if we were to bring cold facts to bear, we would discover that they are in reality ribbons of lace and that the dewdrops are shining beads. They are in a certain Broadway store and are on sale "at a price," as the saying goes. These goods are to be had very cheap. Really, they would be for use in boudoir headgear, or for making hair bows and bows—or for a hundred other uses where airy daintiness is desired.

Bridesmaids Shower.

This is how it was contrived. One of the girls in a store was asked to go to the kitchenware department and to select everything that she would like to have in her kitchen, if she were a newly-wedded wife—and these all to be in aluminum, that variety of kitchenware.

They selected, and chose, and picked and—dear me! I really envied her that! and when all was counted there was a bill of nearly three hundred pieces as the cost. It was hard to hold this collection to—under two dollars and to make it a pretty wedding gift feature called "The Aluminum Shower" for the bride-to-be.

So if ten or a dozen girls wish to get something really good and truly useful to the one who is about to marry—there is the solution—and at the expenditure of but a few dollars each girl.

Bags for Less.

The next time you find a sale of mail bags, in your round of the stores, said a friend, "please let me know, for I want one and I want it badly bargain price." Now I am telling her. It is there. They are rather. In one of the stores—and so truly bargains are they that I feel certain you will want several to use as Christmas gifts.

Rose Game.

The Los Angeles Scholarship Fund, founded and maintained by the women's clubs, the Friday Morning, Ebell and others, will be a beneficiary in the initial performance of the new automobile game. It will be played for the first time here on Saturday, October 28.

The scholarship fund is something that everyone who has tried to do philanthropic work anywhere has felt a need. Its purpose is to raise funds for those mothers and children are kept in school instead of entering the work of those who are needed to maintain the home. It is the intention to bridge over by the use of this fund. For instance, here is a widow with a large family to support; the daily wage of the children is needed to pay for the supply food, but the law says those children must be kept in school and thereby is the mother deprived of the necessities of life. The scholarship fund is drawn upon for the amount which those children would earn, if it gives to the mother, and they continue in school and are prepared for greater usefulness and possibly be theirs without this aid.

Shop-Gazer Window.

Here goes out at you! Black cats—don't look at you! Black bats flying in every way through the air. Large Long brooms sailing in aerial circles across the window. Long pricking of my spine, something will this way and is it only Halloween—the merriment witchery? It is just that, so shiveringly pictured that you almost shudder at the lurid lights of green which shed their rays over all that Broadway window. "See the frost!" I heard some one exclaim—and sure enough, there it was, on the pane—instead of "on the pumpkin"—(only it turned out to be steam.)

A Nursery Scene.

One of the most attractive windows seen for some time, on Broadway, and one which is admired by hundreds daily, is that which depicts a nursery scene.

There is mother, seated in a rocking chair, and there is nurse beside the crib, where baby is esconsed. Then there are the other children of a Roosevelitan family, and each has her dolls and their families.

A New Line.

One of the large, high-class Broadway stores has placed a line of millinery as an addition to its stock.

An especially good selection of shapes and also of trimmings for hats will be found, so I am sure that the girl who can trim her own millinary will be interested in this new department.

Pointers.

All kinds of laces appear in different parts of new dresses, and there is a tendency toward the biggest lace vogue known for some time.

Fringe will be seen on nearly all of the new costumes for afternoon and evening wear, on house gowns, negligee, parasols and even on hats.

The early fall tendency in tailored suits is strongly toward suits having trimming on the collars, cuffs and revers and occasionally on the skirts.

Buttons are very prominent. Evening dresses show button trimming or the simulated buttons made of rhinestones, with various styles of beads.

Long coats are the new features on tailored suits. Long sleeves also have been shown by many designers, but no dictum in this matter is yet absolute.

New black waists specially designed for mourning wear are trimmed either in crepe or plain black. They show wide collars, girdles and surplice lines.

In street coats the regulation sleeve still prevails, but many novel effects are produced by the trimming of the cuffs, which are made to correspond with the collar.

Timely.

GIVE THE BOY WHAT HE NEEDS.

CITY SUPERINTENDENT SAYS IT IS HIS RIGHT.

What Once Was Doesn't Do Now. More Complete Work in Lower Schools Will Send More Students With Vision to the Universities. Fine Talk Before City Club.

"I want to say that we have no right to compel a child to go to school unless he can do that which appeals to his own soul and mind."

This was one of the sentences in the address of City Superintendent Francis, before the City Club yesterday on the subject of "Some Modern Tendencies of Education."

"Tell me what your boys and girls are being taught and what they are doing, and I will tell you what your nation of grown people will be," said the speaker. "Our system of education is a combination between democracy and aristocracy. Schools were established originally that people might learn to read. The grammar schools are the people's schools—the democratic schools; the high schools were borrowed from England, where they were established for the aristocracy. There were two purposes in education—to prepare for the professions and for business callings."

Prof. Francis said that it is a difficult matter to educate a boy before you know what he is going to do, and in this connection, declared:

"I want to say that we have no right to compel a child to go to school unless he can do that which appeals to his own soul and mind. Education is not, after all, what we used to think it to be—an accomplishment—nor yet what we still sometimes think it to be—an attainment. Education is a mental and moral unfolding and growth, and it is therefore not necessary for our children to accept what once was thought to be the best, and this feeling has resulted in changing the courses of study, which were originally based upon the idea that the course was completed about the time the boy was old enough to go to work.

"We have now in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades boys and girls who are being spoiled because we are appealing to them from the standpoint of the child, rather than to what will be best for them when they have grown to manhood and womanhood."

He urged the purpose of making the schools of the city such as to give the pupil all the required education at home.

"The problem of education is to bring the education to the door of the boy and the girl. When we opened the Macy-street night school, 300 men and women crowded its doors, who would not have crossed the street to go to the Olive-street night school.

"The question is, what can we do for the boy and girl as we find them, independent of whether they will go to the high school or college or not, and we will send more of them to the university than we do now. Do you know there are a lot of them in colleges now, who have no business there because they are there without a purpose.

"The greatest problem in education today is the girl! What are we going to do for the woman, not only as an economic factor, but as a political factor.

"The American boy is a great fellow for fun, but there is always something he would rather do, if he only had the chance, and the thing for the school to do is to give him the chance."

He spoke enthusiastically of the social center work, of vocational and special schools, and what they are doing for neighborhoods and individuals, and emphasized the importance of physical education, inasmuch as a mind without a sound body is useless.

BURDETTE AT THE BAT

CII.

The Reign of Sentiment.

The world do move, whether the sun does or not. It is a far cry from the sack of Jericho and the looting of Ai, the massacres of the teeming population of captured cities in the conquest of Canaan, to the uprising of the best people of a modern city to save two old, worn-out fire horses from a disgraceful, if not a cruel fate, which is just what has happened in the model city of Pasadena.

When it was discovered by some careful municipal housekeeper that it was costing the city $3 per week to keep these two old horses alive on the city farm, and that they were not even working for their board, it was proposed to sell them to any sort of a peddler who would make a bid for them. And everybody knows how he would get work out of them. A cry of indignation went up from the city, that noble spirited organization, the humane society acting as "yell leaders."

This was a display of a healthy public sentiment. These four-legged fire-fighters had served the city faithfully and intelligently and honestly until their strength was worn out in its service. They had won the affection and confidence of their human comrades, who have been among their formost and most loyal friends in this fight for their lives. And when it was proposed to condemn them to a cruel slavery in the last years of their useful career men cried "shame." And the City Council took humane action, and the old veterans of municipal service are given honorable protection and care until they shall come to the boneyard in peace.

"BUSINESS IS BUSINESS."

This isn't business. Business makes money and saves money. The old adage, "Business Is Business" was born of the heartless fact that nothing can define business but business. "An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth." Ten cents for a dime and ten dimes for a dollar. Nothing dishonest about that. Nothing wrong about it. Business is honorable and just. But it is "business." Business men are benevolent; generous; philanthropic; affectionate; patriotic; tender of heart. But "business is business" right along. "There is no room in the counting-room," a most successful and a very gentle-hearted business man once told me, "for sentiment."

Maybe not. And then again, maybe yes. At any rate there is plenty of room in the world for sentiment. And century by century, year by year, it is claiming a wider and a higher place in the councils of the nations; in the affairs of state; it is making its way into the counting-room; it has already taken its place in the armies of the world, and has its quarters on the big battleships. War may be what Gen. Sherman described it. But Florence Nightingale descended into hell more truly and actually than ever did Dante and Vergil, and Pity and Mercy have walked side by side on the firing-line ever since. That's sentiment. And it's true and real as a balance sheet. In the days of Genghis Khan, war was massacre. Well, "business is business," and it is the business of war to kill. But today a field hospital is sacred as a church; holy as a convent. That's sentiment. The surgeon on the battlefield stoops as tenderly above a groaning enemy as above a bleeding friend. That's sentiment. And it's beautiful as religion.

Amelioration of the Years.

Sweet and tender as sentiment is considered; womanish as it is apt to be considered, it has already laid its white hands upon the throats of the dogs of war and is slowly throttling those inhuman brutes to death, it's tender fingers gripping inhumanity with the constriction of a hangman's noose. One day, the tenderness of sentiment will cover the world as the waters cover the seas. Then there will be no more war. And no more hate. But there will always be sentiment, and there will be eternal peace.

And as to "business," well, piracy was considered a legitimate business at one period of the world's history. Successful pirates were knighted by their sovereigns, who coudoned buccaneering when it "divvied" the loot and the honors. Now, even Standard Oil and the steel and the tobacco trusts have been ordered to haul down the "Jolly Roger" and sail under legitimate commercial colors. Not even a royal descent from Old King Coal renders immune the corporation which sails out of the crookedest creeks to prey upon the little forend-afters which make cheap ventures in the consting trade. Twin sentiments of honesty and honor have brought about this change.

What is "sentiment," that some men should consider it impractical in the commercial and political affairs of a nation? It is the "higher feeling;" the "emotional judgment;" "thought made affectionate, sympathetic, moral;" a "tender susceptibility." Says Oliver Wendell Holmes, "Religion and law, and the whole social order of civilized society are so founded on sentiment that they would all go to pieces without it."

This heaven-born thing is going to rule the world, some day. It is going to consecrate the $ mark. Honor is a "sentiment," so is patriotism; so is duty. Sentiment has no place in business? That depends upon the business. It has the first place in every honorable business.

Business and Beauty.

Go into any great banking house or business establishment in Los Angeles. "Business" has chosen the best possible location for "business." Then the architect, with the permission—more than that, under the direct and positive instruction of "business"—has made the sentiments of grace and beauty and good taste equal co-workers with strength and adaptability in the construction of the throne rooms of commerce. Take sentiment out of the practical business world, and you will turn the old globe back to the stone age. Farther back than that, for there was sentiment in the selection and the rude decoration of the cave, there was art in the scratches on the walrus tooth. Dreams and vision dwelt in the hieroglyphs on the boulder. Not the desire for more money, nor even greater comfort, but the heart longing for grace and beauty, made the world grow. You spend your money. But the dream in the beautiful picture you keep for your children. What makes a picture worth more money than fifty automobiles? Why is a great poet or a great painter surer of immortality than a great corporation president?

Honey and Stings.

How doth the busy candidate
Improve each shining hour,
By making speeches, long and late,
With all his vocal power.

How skillfully he plans the sell
To catch the female vote;
With promises he lines it well,
It's value to dentte.

How lustily he spreads his whacks
Upon his foeman's head;
How cunningly he hides his tracks,
Concealing what he said.

How he "affirms" what none deny;
How well he "points with pride"
To dim old ages long past by,
When our forefathers died;

But side-steps what they say he said
Only last Monday night;
And ducks with quick and nervous head
The questions now in sight.

He smites the dust with mighty blow
At each unmeaning word;
And tells a heap he doesn't know,
And you have never heard.

For tariff views, he stands upon
His record in the war;
Which closed the year that he was born,
Or several years before.

And when they ask just what he'll do,
Straight out, fair-spoke, square-tied,
From neither curb he skids into
The middle of the road.

And there, both sides deriding him,
They rasp and rub his ears,
And the traffic cop, irate and grim,
Flouts him with wrathful jeers.

For, though so smoothly to his eyes
It safely seems to lay,
The middle of the road it lies,
In everybody's way.

For the upper millstone turneth east;
The nether is westward bound,
And that between, the greatest and least,
To the smallness of dust is ground.

Robert J. Burdette

As compared with the estimate of 210,000 cars to be manufactured in the United States during the coming twelve months, the output of France and England together appears small indeed. It is a question whether as many as 75,000 new cars are made in both those countries in a year.

ESPEE TO SHIFT ITS MAIN LINE.

New Arizona Route to Run by Way of Phoenix.

Half Million Dollar Change to Save Few Hours.

Head of Lines in Mexico to Direct the Work.

Plans are being perfected for the construction of a low-grade line between Yuma and Bowie which will eliminate the present high-grade main line of the Southern Pacific between the points named. The purpose is to complete the construction of the Arizona and Eastern from Hassayampa westward to a connection with Yuma at the Colorado River, an approximate distance of 120 miles, and to close the gap between Winkelman and San Carlos, thereby putting Phoenix on the main line of the Espee.

This will complete a low-grade line between Yuma and Bowie, not only giving the Southern Pacific a second line, but also one of much easier grade than the present route. The present main line track between these points contains more hills and steeper grades than any part of the Southern Pacific system between Los Angeles and New Orleans.

In this distance of 366 miles there are three points where helper engines are now required to push trains up the steep grades, the first between Gila and Strella, the second from Tucson to Cochise, and the third between Glade and Bowie. On the proposed new line these trains will be moved without helper engines, and much faster time can be made.

The work will cost in the neighborhood of $500,000. The Arizona and Eastern now includes trackage from Hassayampa to Winkelman, a distance of 131 miles, and from Globe to Bowie, a distance of 124 miles. The gap between Winkelman and the line to Bowie will be connected at San Carlos, thirty-six miles south of Globe.

It is expected that the project will be carried out under the direction of Epes Randolph, recently made president of the Southern Pacific lines in Mexico. Randolph is best known for his accomplishments in connection with the Pacific Electric Railway Company, of which corporation he has been a director since its organization. He had already made an enviable record as a builder of railroads in the East, and later with Collis P. Huntington, when he was summoned to Los Angeles by H. E. Huntington and asked to undertake the construction of a number of narrow-gauge systems of interurban lines to connect with Huntington's city lines.

"If you are going to build narrow-gauge lines I am going back to San Francisco," said Randolph. He finally won their consent to the construction of standard lines and the Pacific Electric system as it exists today, with the exception of the line to Burbank, is exactly as shown on the plans drawn by Randolph in 1902.

An incident illustrating Randolph's foresight and judgment is to be found in the present Pacific Electric building at Sixth and Main streets. Randolph bought the site for the Pacific Electric when there was not a business house between the Van Nuys hotel and Sixth street. It was only by the greatest persistence and by a personal canvass for tenants that Randolph raised the building from the one-story structure desired by the owners to the present nine-story building, now inadequate for the use of the corporations housed there.

Connecting Links That Will Save Hours Across the Continent.

The proposed new additions to Arizona's railroads that will give the Southern Pacific a shorter main line to Phoenix, El Paso and New Orleans and open up a rich and productive territory hitherto with inadequate railroad facilities or none at all. The portrait is of Epes Randolph, railroad builder, and the head of the line to be extended.

YOUNGEST HONOR GUEST.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon J. Goodman held an informal reception last night at the Panama apartments in honor of their son, who is 24 hours old, and weighs eight pounds. Goodman was formerly a resident of Chicago, but has centered his interests in Los Angeles, and he finds this newest interest the most absorbing of all. He says his son is on the right side of the suffrage question.

DESIGNING ELECTRIC PAGEANTS.

Artist Here to Begin Work on Dazzling Floats for Great Shrine Convention Next May.

Fawcett Robinson, the electric float artist, has arrived in Los Angeles and will make this city his permanent home. Robinson has designed all floats used in the Fiesta, Shrine and Elks' festivities, and will begin work on floats for the electric pageant which will be one of the features of the fiesta and great Shrine gathering next year.

The Santa Monica Day Committee has prepared the following programme for the entertainment of the Shriners' convention May 7 next year, beginning at Santa Monica with a lunch on municipal pier at 11:30 to 2 p.m., music will be furnished by three bands. The sights of Santa Monica will be shown, and this will be followed by band concerts, dancing, bathing, swimming matches, aquatic sports, Japanese wrestling bouts, roller skating and other amusements, for which coupons will be furnished. This includes Ocean Park and Venice. During the evening there will be fireworks, amusements and informal Shrine balls at both Ocean Park and Venice dance pavilions.

The Shrine Coliseum, No. 655 West Jefferson street, is a scene of tremendous activity, for preparations for the Shrine Household Show are now in full swing. Beginning this week some of the exhibits will be installed and the decorators are vieing with each other to make their own particular exhibits more beautiful than the rest. The Household Show promises to be a great surprise to the citizens of Los Angeles. The decorations will consist of Santa Cruz redwoods, making a canopy over the exhibits, interspersed with 2000 electric lights. The Shrine Household Show will be held November 6 to 15, inclusive, and every dollar raised will be used for the entertainment of the 40,000 Shriners and their wives who will be the guests of our city next May.

Seven of the nine electric mail wagons ordered by the St. Louis postoffice have been put into operation. They are of 2000 pounds capacity each. The two remaining ones will carry 2500 pounds, or a total of 300,000 pounds of mail at a single haul. They are to run fifty miles without recharging.

WOMAN'S SPIRIT NEEDS A TONIC.

Increasing Thirst for Fun Consumes Energy.

Home and Children Last in Her Day's Thoughts.

Commander Miss Booth Gives Impressions of Life.

That the spiritual influence of women is sadly waning is the opinion of Miss Evangeline Booth, the woman commander of the Salvation Army in the United States and fourth daughter of Gen. William Booth, founder and international head of this great religious organization.

Miss Booth is here on a tour of inspection and will be heard at the Auditorium this morning at 11 and tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

"The modern woman," she said in an interview last night, "has an everincreasing thirst for pleasure and this thirst she seems willing to satisfy at any cost. This craving for excitement has produced a carelessness towards morals and an indifference towards religion. These facts are certain to produce conditions that are cumulative in an alarming degree.

"The modern woman studies much but yet she seems not to study life. She seems not to study her children and not to study her own heart. I am glad to see women begin to think of their responsibilities to government and I can only hope that it will bring them to a keener appreciation of their responsibilities not only to their children but to other women.

SMALLER VICES.

"The modern woman is often given to gambling and also to what are called the smaller vices of men, such as smoking and drinking. The bridge fiend is as much a slave to appetite as drunkenness. It is a vice of extravagance and this extravagance is expressed by women in ways that are cruel and full of shame. Even the speed of the modern woman's motor car is a sign of distressing import. It speaks an extravagance of time and even of life and illustrates how badly the women of the age are accepting appetite for the vicious and the enfeebling.

"These things cannot fail to destroy the best that is in woman. They eliminate her higher forces. They distort her spiritual qualities.

"Mother has gone to a whist party and father is at the club.' What is to be expected from children who meet us at the door with this word? The daughter of the average American family is a neglected being and the majority of this lies too often in the fact that the girl herself is not aware of this neglect. Daughters are neglected alike by mother and by father and sons are shamefully neglected by their fathers.

"The man who enters the tremendous and magnificent responsibilities of married life should be both ready and willing to share them to the utmost. The woman who enters should feel the same way. Servants cannot make homes. Very often servants are the victims of the very want of home upon a poorer plan in which she is called to serve."

PERSONALITY CHARMS.

Aside from the romance and power attaching to her position as the woman leader of a vast army of people and aside from an animated and interesting personality, Miss Booth is fascinating as an original thinker whose logic flows out of a delightful spontaneity. Her cures for all evils, whether they be personal, economic or social, she bases upon the Golden Rule believing that only by imbibing the character and adopting the principles of Christ can the world be brought to a vital Christianity which will settle the questions by which humanity is ever torn.

Miss Booth believes that what is wrong with the world is the bad morals of individuals, and that the cure for the world lies in purifying these individuals. With her this attitude of the heart counts for everything in causing suffering and in bringing relief.

"Put it down," she said, "as the creed of the Salvation Army doctrine that the control of motives in the salvation of man."

"Education of taste and character," she said, "are things of equal importance to material culture. There is too much tendency to recognize and condemn old vices with a new vigor, instead of studying and remedying the new vices that essentially belong to modern conditions.

"In this connection I want to say that one of the sorrows of the world today lies in the fact that among many women spiritual influence is waning.

"We often hear that the girls who are saved from lives of shame go back to their old habits when they leave our Salvation Army homes. I am glad to say 80 per cent. of the girls we reclaim remain true to their ideals and their faith. Salvation Army nightly shelters 11,000 homeless men in the United States and our 107 industrial homes have supplied comfort and found work for 15,000 men each month in the last year. We feel that the possibilities for our work increase with the marvelous growth of this great country."

Coming from one who feels deeply, thinks clearly and speaks well, the two lectures of Miss Booth promise to be among the delightful and profitable devotional features of today. When here two years ago she was reckoned as one of the rarest women orators to have been heard from a Los Angeles platform and her audiences tested the capacity of the places in which she spoke.

Imperial Valley Cotton Picking Machine,

Now being given its official tryout at the Holt ranch, where it is asserted to have made a remarkable showing under distinctly adverse conditions. Below, is a mountain or so of the harvested product, piled up for purposes of comparison in cleanness and quantity with cotton picked simultaneously by hand. The comparison showed the machine to the good on all counts.

WARNING.

In a futile effort to revenge themselves upon The Times for its effective advocacy of Industrial Freedom, paid labor-union emissaries—obviously sympathizers with the accused prisoners—are persistently engaged, in different parts of the city, in trying to induce people not to continue to patronize or read this journal.

These hired agitators deserve to be ignored and repelled, and Times patrons and readers are advised to refuse their impudent demands.

Any misconduct on the part of these paid emissaries of monopolistic organized labor should immediately be reported to the police.

The hysterical shrieks of union bosses and the cowardly tactics of their hirelings will not stop the onward and upward march of The Times, or abate its zeal to promote the true material welfare of Los Angeles and the State, protect the cause of the independent workingman and advance the best interests of all the patrons of this steadfast journal. The Times is and will continue to be the champion of all honest, independent workingmen who mean to be free, true and law-abiding.

NIMBLE FINGERS BUILT OF STEEL.

MECHANICAL COTTON PICKER SHOWS IMPERIAL VALLEY.

Canny Scotsman's Device Plucks the Ripe Crop and Leaves the Green Better and Cleaner and Faster Than Skilled Human Hands Can Do It, So Say Its Backers.

Half a century has been given to the perfecting of a cotton picking machine that will afford satisfaction. Down in the Imperial Valley, on the Holt ranch, a test is being made of a big hulk of steel and iron, driven by a gasoline engine, that is claimed to pick cotton cleaner and better than by hand. It can do as much in one day as forty or fifty men can pick by hand and a feature that is claimed for it is that it picks only the open bolls and does not harm the green bolls or knock the blossoms off the bush. It is the invention of Agnus Camtpbell, a Scotch Canadian, who never raised a pound of cotton in his life. He has been at work on it for twenty-five years.

R. H. Ingram, assistant general manager of the Mexico lines of the Southern Pacific, witnessed the operations of the machine. He declares that it is the biggest thing that ever entered the Imperial Valley in the way of a modern invention.

Walter S. Maxwell and A. R. Hueth of Los Angeles, represented the Price-Campbell Cotton Picking Company of New York at the official test. Notwithstanding the adverse conditions, the bushes being on high ridges with ditches on the side, rank growth and irregular rows, the machine picked ten rows in less than three-quarters of an hour.

The photograph shows the machine-picked cotton, which was carefully examined and compared with a pile of hand-picked cotton adjoining. The machine-picked crop appeared cleaner. Each lock being separated in the cleaning apparatus of the picking machine, it is said to enable the gin to turn out a superior quality of cotton. Tests made in the cotton fields near Dallas showed that where hand-picked cotton was producing twenty-eight pounds of lint to the 100 pounds of seed cotton, cotton picked by the picker produced thirty-four to thirty-five pounds of lint to the 100 pounds.

At the Holt ranch the cotton is rather small and the bells low down but the machine picked over ninety-five per cent. of the ripe cotton without breaking a stem, injuring a green boll or a blossom.

The machine is in the form of a tractor, run by a thirty-five horse power gasoline engine, and the power transmitted to both the front and back wheels and to the picking-mechanism.

The machine straddles the rows and the cotton is removed by fingers or mandrels. These fingers have inclined saw teeth within their diameter which taper towards the end. By an ingenious arrangement of cogs and eccentrics these fingers are thrust through the plant and moved backwards as fast as the machine is going forward and are suddenly withdrawn with the cotton wrapped about them. Brushes remove the cotton from the mandrels and it is then conveyed on belts to a cleaning device that removes the sticks, brush and dirt. Thence it is dumped into canvas bags at the rear of the machine.

BANJO TWANGS IN COTTON VALLEY.

NEGRO COLONY REPRODUCES SOUTHERN FIELDS.

Down South Planters Raise First Crop in the San Joaquin and Pods and Bolls Brought to Chamber of Commerce as Exhibit of Successful Culture.

The first cotton produced by southern growers in the San Joaquin Valley was brought to this city yesterday by Col. Allen Allensworth, who is at the head of the negro colony located about forty-two miles from Bakersfield. He will present the branch to the Chamber of Commerce as an exhibit.

Col. Allensworth states that the cotton has been said by experts to be the equal of that raised in Georgia. The branch contains the pods and bolls, the former of large size. The cotton is of good texture, and demonstrates, he states, the feasibility of San Joaquin Valley becoming eventually a cotton center.

About twenty acres were planted to cotton this season as an experiment. The colony has been instituted to demonstrate the ability of the negro to develop himself, is located on 2000 acres, and comprises 116 persons, representing thirty families. The tract is apportioned into more than 2000 lots, and when there is sufficient population a city will be incorporated.

The colony is called The National School of Citizenship, Municipal Government and Scientific Farm. Government reports are received and referred to an advisory council consisting of seven persons, and based on information contained in the reports. The colonists study municipal government, and are fitting themselves to take an intelligent interest in municipal matters. The colony has a telegraph system and operates a large dairy.

Dr. Allensworth says that it has been shown the climate at Allensworth, the name of the town, is suitable for growing cotton, especially at nights. It was feared that the nights would prove too cold. Next season a larger acreage will be planted to cotton, and when it has reached a proper texture, it will be marketed.

The twang of the banjo, negro melodies and the odor of corn cake, not to speak of happy pickaninnies, give the settlement a real Southern atmosphere. During the day negro women may be seen in the cotton field, bandana handkerchiefs wrapped about their heads, working with the men, and crooning cotton-field songs.

GLIMPSES OF SAN FRANCISCO.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20.—President Taft not only broke the ground, but he also broke the ice for the world's fair. Whatever frigidity there was in regard to the project has now disappeared and everybody is hot after results. The directors are warmly urging speed and even a cold-blooded citizen can see that the affair is safely launched.

Pregnant of good omen is the departure of M. H. de Young for the Orient. He goes to represent the fair in the Far East and there is no doubt of his accomplishing a great deal. His experience with the midwinter fair stands him in good stead and will enable him to get at the heart of things.

Within the last few days the Chronicle, and indeed the newspaper profession generally, lost two good men. Louis Whitcomb and "Bennie" Benjamin died within a few days of each other. They were known from one end of the Coast to the other and none can gainsay the fact that they were two gentlemen.

The revolutionary outbreak in China has its counterpart in our Chinatown. Two of the Chinese dailies are shouting for freedom. One laborer alone has donated to the cause $1000, the savings of a lifetime. If the hot-heads make an attack on the Consulate it will be necessary to call in the services of the nearest policeman.

The semi-annual flower show of the Pacific Horticultural Society is in full bloom at the Fairmont Hotel. Society ladies are in charge, and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., is to act as one of the judges. The proceeds are to go to the Children's Hospital fund, and it is expected that a comfortable sum will be realized.

Miss Josephine Bresnahan of Vallejo was married to Thomas A. Cullhane, an employee in the department of the navy paymaster. The ceremony took place at sun-up. This time of day was probably deemed a romantic one by the young bride, but she ought to take into consideration the feelings of her friends who would have to get up at that time to throw rice and old shoes.

Already the influence of the prospective opening of the Panama Canal is felt. The increased freightage by sea between the Atlantic and Pacific has caused a shortage of freight cars. Not enough were sent west to carry the eastbound freight.

Magic Land.

DESERT LURE CALLS MANY.

Enterprising Angelenos Are Reclaiming Mojave.

Every Indication that Water a-Plenty May Be Had.

Immense District May Be Made to Produce.

Enterprising Angelenos are making a conquest of the Mojave Desert that is causing many blades of grass to grow where none grew before, that is converting a broad expanse of arid waste into a fertile principality of prosperous ranchmen and bids fair to change the whole character and climate of a large area.

In the heart of the desert, under an almost tropic sun, pioneering in a country that heretofore has been looked upon as a barren and all but worthless tract—a stretch that God forgot when he created the earth—are Angelenos who have heard the call of the "back to the soil" movement and were among the first to answer the summons. Here and there, it is true, one will run across a weather-beaten, tanned old squatter who has seen nothing but the hot sands about him for fifteen or twenty years. But such cases are the exception, and the country generally has the appearance of having been recently found.

An ever-increasing number of men and women are closing their city homes for a life in the open; are abandoning comfortable bungalows and even pretentious residences to begin a free and easy life in a rough shack in the wilderness, where the sun shines all the year around and there is little rainfall.

There are many who are taking up government lands as an investment, who expect to sell their interests and leave the work of development to others. But there also are many who have the money to develop water and are taking up claims with the fixed intention of making their home in one of the wildest, most picturesque and most healthful localities in America.

WATER IS EVERYTHING.

Water is the keynote of the situation.

That under the hot, dry sands of the Mojave desert is an abundance of water, the seepage of surrounding mountains, has been proven by wells which have been sunk and by crops which have been raised. Alfalfa, potatoes, melons and fruits are among the products of the sands, and the crops are so abundant and the quality so good that the settlers in the region are making the assertion that nowhere in California are better sweet potatoes, cantaloupes and alfalfa grown than along the banks of the Mojave River.

The discovery that water in great abundance underlies the soft crust of the desert has made possible the reclamation of a territory that hitherto has been of practically no use to the husbandman and has been the abomination of the traveler.

To those who have faith in the future and the capital necessary to develop the water will fall the plum, settlers assert. Without water nothing can be done, and while the water is there, considerable outlay for well-drilling machinery is necessary to bring it to the surface. This has been done in many instances, and those who have made a careful survey of the situation say they have every reason to believe that every acre of the desert can be reclaimed. In other words, the water is not confined to one locality but underlies the entire desert.

What water has done for the Imperial Valley, these optimistic ones say, will be repeated in the case of the Mojave Desert. And they point to what has already been accomplished as an indication of what may be expected.

LOOKING FORWARD.

Within a decade this desert promises to become a smiling valley, teeming with prosperous ranchmen and verdant with crops—a second San Fernando Valley.

While much of the land that is being settled is along the Mojave River, it is the belief of the settlers that the water which is developed is not taken from the river but is seepage from the surrounding mountains combined, possibly, with an inexhaustible supply from a great underground lake. The rainfall on the desert amounts to only a few inches a year, but in the mountains it is much heavier and none, apparently, is lost. The dryness of the desert is all on the surface, for a few feet beneath the sandy crust that apparently would grow only cactus and sage has been found water in abundance.

Until about two years ago the great desert was practically uninhabited, an abomination to the traveler and a mystical region for poets to praise. The wonderful success of farmers in the Imperial Valley set men to thinking and to experimenting, and then it was discovered that water—in what quantities no prophet can predict—lies beneath the parched sands and may be had for the pumping. Then began an immigration into the desert that has continued steadily since, until communities have sprung up and are flourishing in a number of places.

VAST DOMAIN AWAITS.

With no real failures, it is asserted by the friends of the desert that water can be found in any spot of the desert if a well is sunk and that the Mojave today offers wonderful opportunities to persons of moderate means. Claims may be taken under either the desert or the homestead act, and the government offers inducements to any who are willing to take land and develop it. Comparatively speaking, very little of the desert is yet developed; probably over 30,000 square miles is open to reclamation.

Recently many Angelenos have located claims on the site of old Camp Cady, established in the late '50's. This borders the Mojave River and is about thirty miles from Barstow in the Mojave River Valley. In this section there will be many men and women who have given up the luxuries of city life for the rough outdoor life of the desert, and in the colony there will be many who were comfortably fixed before they made the move.

It is the lure of the desert as well as the lure of wealth. It is calling business men, tired of the rush of business affairs, who hope to strengthen their nerves, and regain their health after a year or two in the open.

A GOOD HARVEST.

So far it may be said that what has been accomplished has been in the way of experiment. The settlers are discovering what it is possible to raise, and they have learned that hogs, sheep, alfalfa, corn, potatoes, sweet potatoes, watermelons, cantaloupes, Indian corn, kaffir corn, tomatoes, grapes, wheat, apples, peaches and other fruits flourish. Glowing tales are told of profits already realized, and some potatoes were received in this city the other day from the desert that looked as fine as any produced in the West.

Determined to learn for himself what truth there was in the accounts of the fertility of the desert, Dr. J. D. Prosser recently closed his residence, No. 4600 South Main street, and is now farming at Kouns, in the Mojave River Valley. And he will soon have as neighbors other men who will forsake professional and business careers, at least for the time being. Among them may be mentioned Edward C. Smith, a jeweler of No. 943 Los Robles avenue, Pasadena; Burt F. Mull, an attorney of this city; F. M. Bravender, retired business man, No. 1131 La Veta place; Dr. W. W. Rogers of Pasadena; Dr. F. H. Latterner, No. 2402 West Seventh street; Rev. John B. Green, No. 2315 Virginia avenue.

The Quickest Cough Cure—Cheap, But Unequaled

A Whole Pint of It for 50c. Saves You $2. Does the Work Quickly or Money Refunded.

For quick and positive results, the pint of cough syrup that you make with a 50-cent bottle of Pinex, cannot be equalled. It takes hold instantly and will usually stop the most obstinate deep-seated cough inside of 24 hours. Even croup and whooping cough yield to it quickly.

The user of Pinex mixes it with home-made sugar syrup. This gives you a full pint—a family supply—of better cough remedy than you could buy ready mixed for $2.50. Easily prepared in 5 minutes—full directions in package.

Pinex soothes and heals the inflamed membranes with remarkable rapidity. It stimulates the appetite, is slightly laxative, and tastes good—children like it. Excellent for hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, and other throat troubles, and has a wonderful record in cases of incipient lung trouble.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of Norway White Pine extract, rich in guaiacol and other natural healing pine elements. Simply mix with sugar syrup or strained honey, in a pint bottle, and it is ready for use. Used in more homes in the U. S. and Canada than any other cough remedy.

Pinex has often been imitated, but never successfully, for nothing else will produce the same results. The genuine is guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. Certificate of guarantee is wrapped in each package. Your druggist has Pinex or will gladly get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

"Hard" Water Is Unhealthful

It Contains Minerals Which the System Cannot Assimilate.

Drink, Soft, Pure Water—PURITAS.

Los Angeles City Water is notably hard; it is full of alkaline and mineral substances, which cannot be assimilated by your body.

Moreover, many people do not enjoy the taste of hard water, and they drink less water than they ought, just for this very reason.

Now, PURITAS Distilled Water is soft water. It contains no minerals nor any other impurities. It is thoroughly distilled and aerated with pure ozone, so that it has life and sparkle and pleasant taste—you enjoy drinking PURITAS.

And its free use tends to keep the body in healthful condition; eliminating waste and thoroughly flushing out the alimentary tract—as nature intended water to do.

Thousands of Los Angeles families drink PURITAS Water; the expense is trifling—only 40c for a five-gallon demijohn, delivered anywhere within the old city boundary lines. To outside points the cost is a trifle more, because of the longer haul.

PURITAS is obtainable through dealers in most towns throughout Southern California. If you are unable to secure it easily, don't accept a substitute, but write or telephone us, and we will see that you are promptly supplied with PURITAS. Home 10053 Sunset Main 8191. TEACHERS ORGANIZE.

Meet to Promote Professional Interest and Fellowship and Gain Ideas by Interchange of Experience.

The teachers of modern languages in the colleges and secondary schools of Southern California will meet next Saturday at 12:30 at the Polytechnic High School of this city. A luncheon will be served at the school cafeteria, after which questions of general interest will be discussed.

Later, at 2 o'clock, the teachers of the various languages will meet to form separate organizations. The teachers of German organized temporarily at a meeting held last April, and on Saturday the organization will be perfected. An interesting programme has been prepared.

Prof. Behnke of Ontario will speak on the direct method of teaching languages as advocated by Dr. Walter of Frankfort, who addressed the teachers last spring. Mr. Buehner of the Manual Arts High School of this city will discuss the place of German as it is intended to have these meetings several times during the year in order to promote professional interests and the spirit of good fellowship compared with other languages in our schools. The Misses E. Meyerl and Adele Mayer of the Polytechnic among the language teachers.

will relate the impressions of their recent trips to Germany.

Paint Without Oil

Remarkable Discovery That Cuts Down the Cost of Paint Seventy-Five Per Cent.

A Free Trial Package Is Mailed to Everyone Who Writes.

A. L. Rice, a prominent manufacturer of Adams, N. Y., has discovered a process of making a new kind of paint without the use of oil. He calls it Powderpaint. It comes in the form of a dry powder, and all that is required is cold water to make a paint weather-proof, fire-proof and as durable as oil paint. It adheres to any surface—wood, stone or brick; spreads and looks like oil paint, and costs about one-fourth as much.

Write to Mr. A. L. Rice, Manufacturer, 756 North St., Adams, N. Y., and he will send you a free trial package; also color card and full information showing you how you can save a good many dollars. Write today.

NEW TYPE OF CRIME PLAY.

CHANGE IN METHOD OF THE UNDERWORLD DRAMA.

Best of the Type "Alias Jimmy Valentine" and "In the Deep Purple"—The First-Named Here With the Creator of the Title Part, H. B. Warner.

BY JULIAN JOHNSON.

One of the marks of last year in the East was the arrival of a new sort of underworld play.

Heretofore the genus criminalis has been represented on the stage either as a ferocious monster or an amiable sort of bulldog, with a shaven crown and kenneled up for convenience in the dog-houses they call penitentiaries.

The new drama of subterranean conditions shows man pretty much as he is: namely, a human being, perhaps rather a good fellow on the whole, perhaps a blanche-livered pole cat, perhaps a mild-mannered man grown desperate through fear, perhaps a decent chap forever trying to live down the one slip, perhaps a blood-sucking leech.

Two of these plays were especially notable. One was "Alias Jimmy Valentine," and the other "In the Deep Purple."

The first of these to visit us is "Jimmy Valentine," which, according to announcements elsewhere in this issue, will be found billed at a local theater today, with the creator of the title role, and a good percentage of the original cast.

"Alias Jimmy Valentine" has scored heavily wherever presented, and we may judge this scoring has been done because of the true and broad light it throws upon the squirmful ways of the criminal and the equal moral corkscrews of those who professionally pursue him.

Detective plays and other dramas which have for plots the devices of the wicked, are by no means uncommon on the American stage. But their criminal interest has always been subservient, a side prop to the main theme. In the piece under consideration the story is direct. It concerns itself with the well-nigh futile, though tremendous, struggle for complete regeneration by those who have once offended against the law. Convention has made us all more or less Pharasaical, and a man who has once worn actual stripes is always clothed with them in imagination.

In "Alias Jimmy Valentine" are shown the most ordinary and most easily recognizable types of crooks, the sneak thief, the yegg, the forger, the habitual offender, and the gentlemanly bank burglar. Some of these are not particularly pleasant to gaze upon, nor would they be welcomed as fireside companions or dinner guests. The play, which is a dramatization by Paul Armstrong of O. Henry's short story, "A Retrieved Reformation," does not attempt to teach any particular moral. Its novelty and strength lies in the fidelity with which it depicts prison environments, prison life and the prisoner's world after he has done his "bit." Society holds out but a flabby hand to the man who has fallen, and whom the State compels to pay the penalty of his crime or indiscretion. The released criminal, try he ever so hard in his attempt to run straight, is "taboo." The world will have none of him. He is shunned as an outcast and a moral leper. He lives under the fearsome shadow of the law. Even though he obtains a position it is given him as a crust thrown a dog. No one believes in him. He is so universally an object of suspicion that it is small wonder he mistrusts himself, and finally falls back into the slough from which he has vainly struggled to escape.

Herein lies the dramatic tensity of "Alias Jimmy Valentine." The name man of the play, after his discharge, through a newborn love, determines to go straight. He resists every temptation thrown in his way to return to the old primrose paths. He not alone conquers himself, but he prevails upon two of his whilom pals to do likewise. One becomes a watchman in the bank in which Jimmy is employed, and the pair of them have easy access to the millions of money they once sought to obtain by burglary and safe-cracking.

Love is Jimmy's regeneration, as well as that of "Red" Joselyn. Jimmy loves his employer's daughter, and her child-sister is the object of Red's adoration. The world is seemingly against them, and the attitude of the world toward the criminal class is illustrated in "Alias Jimmy Valentine" as it never was in a play before. So are the police types—the unbelieving warden with harsh voice, and harsher methods, and the skeptical and blase detective who has neither ideals nor faith in anything human. The latter is a wonderful study. It is a concentrated stage replica of the metropolitan police system. "Alias Jimmy Valentine" is not a preachment, but it shows that a criminal may reform, and it also tells how difficult is the task. Author Armstrong cannot resist winging the shafts of sarcasm at the well meaning, but misguided women who inflict themselves, their foibles and their fads upon the picturesque wrongdoer—they never bother about the homely thug or bull-faced yeggmen. He cleverly caricatures their silly endeavors, but his coloring is all a part of the scene story. H. B. Warner, who is the star of "Alias Jimmy Valentine," and who cracks the safe vault in the last act, actually took lessons in the work, or art, if you will, from an ex-burglar in New York. He was taught how to manipulate his fingers, bend his ear to get the fall of the tumblers in the lock, and the most approved method of forcing open the heavy steel doors without the aid of dynamite or nitro-glycerine.

Mason.

James Forbes's late comedy, "The Commuters," will be seen here at the Mason for a week commencing Monday, October 30, after a year's run in New York and Boston. The cast includes Harry Davenport, Florence Malone, Frederic Malcolm, Amy Lesser, John Robertson, Lillian Thurgate, Pauline Duffield, E. Y. Backus, Hazel Malcolm, Maude Sinclair, Minnie Williams and Kerra Kenwyn.

Noted Women

Who are a part of the big Auditorium scheme of winter entertainment, under the direction of L. E. Behymer.

ABOUT MISS HOFFMAN.

Not Only Accomplished Pantomimic Dancer, but Manager and Creator of New Stage Material.

Gertrude Hoffman, known the length and breadth of America for her dancing and impersonations, has recently gained added fame for herself as a manager and producer.

Three years ago Miss Hoffman saw the Russian ballet at the Chatelet Theater, Paris, and since that time the one dominant thought in this ambitious young woman's mind has been to bring these people to her native land. Miss Hoffman was the happiest woman in America when New York took the dancers from the shores of the Volga to its heart, the organization playing all summer at the New Winter Garden.

There are few women who have in their employ as many people as has Miss Hoffman. Aside from the principals there are 100 dancers in the corps de ballet, and a huge orchestra.

There is a crew of twenty stage mechanics to look after the scenery and effects; there are eighteen electricians and calcium operators, a property man and seven assistants, a master technical director and a corps of seven assistants; there are four Russian hairdressers, and one wig maker; six wardrobe women, headed by Suzanne, from Mlle. Muelle's of the Grand Opera house, Paris; there are three interpreters, who act for the Russian artists in advising the attaches of the various theaters as to their wants, and last, but not least, two Russian masseurs and a physician graduated from the Kola University, Odessa. There is also Lefika, the famous cook, who, it is alleged, used to prepare viands for Czar Alexar the Third, father of the present Czar. All these, comprising an organization of 202 people, are on the pay roll of the Gertrude Hoffman Co., Inc. The pay roll alone amounts to a figure slightly over 26,000 roubles a week.

All the more honor accrues to Miss Hoffman because her wonderful success is due to her own individual hard work. Not so very many years ago Gertrude Hoffman was a minor member of the company of Fred Belasco's Alcazar Theater, in San Francisco. Then she went into musical comedy, playing soubrette roles.

Mason.

James Forbes's late comedy, "The Commuters," will be seen here at the Mason for a week commencing Monday, October 30, after a year's run in New York and Boston. The cast includes Harry Davenport, Florence Malone, Frederic Malcolm, Amy Lesser, John Robertson, Lillian Thurgate, Pauline Duffield, E. Y. Backus, Hazel Malcolm, Maude Sinclair, Minnie Williams and Kerra Kenwyn.

The Week.

BIG PLAY AT THE BELASCO.

"DAWN OF A TOMORROW," FIRST TIME IN STOCK.

Hartman Will Revive One of Best Successes—Melodic Farce at the Lyceum—"Going Some" at Burbank — Majestic Offering — The Week in Vaudeville.

Lewis S. Stone and the Belasco Theater Company will be the first stock organization in the country to present Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's "The Dawn of A Tomorrow." The Burnett piece is scheduled for next week at the Belasco, commencing with the performance tomorrow night.

"The Dawn of Tomorrow" might very aptly be described as the antithesis of that type of plays of which "The Easiest Way" is the best example. The abiding faith, hope and charity and a sincere belief in the theory that things are never half so bad as they appear at first and that there is today for every disconsolate, despairing person the dawn of a brighter, fairer and happier tomorrow, are the keynotes of Mrs. Burnett's play.

Glad, the chief feminine figure of the play, is an out and out optimist at the very start. Sir Oliver Holt, the rich grouch, beset with fear of the mad house, becomes one, and Dandy the thief and lover of Glad, comes to the belief similarly. Glad is a nameless, self-reliant girl, with a supreme contempt for "toffs," with a huge sympathy for her brothers and sisters of the drab slums in which she lives and a consuming desire to help those less fortunate than herself. One day Glad is carried off to a hospital and there is advised by a hospital worker when she is downhearted to "cheer up" and to "ask and you shall receive." She tries the advice and it works capitally and thereafter she becomes a most enthusiastic propagandist of this theory of cheerfulness and optimism.

Lewis S. Stone will have the part of Dandy and will bring to it all the subtleties and niceties of his art. Bessie Barriscale will have another chance to emphasize the assertion that she is the best ingenue with a local stock company, while Howard Hickman, as Sir Oliver Holt, will display his best talents as a character portrayor of worth.

Grand.

"Mary's Lamb," in which Ferris Hartman scored a triumph in the past, will be the offering at the Grand for the week beginning with the matinee today. "Mary's Lamb" was used by Richard Carle as a stellar vehicle and helped to make the reputation of the elongated comedian. Some have said that Ferris Hartman is even better in the role of Leander Lamb than was Richard Carle. "Mary's Lamb" is a musical hodge-podge of a distinct character. The plot has to do with the aventures of Leander Lamb, the Simon-pure, henpecked husband, whose wife has dominated him for years on account of his amiable disposition. Lamb finally kicks over the traces, longs for a taste of high life, and becomes enamoured of an actress. His endeavors to meet the actress and to keep the knowledge of his indiscretions from his wife, make numerous laugh provoking situations. The most riotously funny situation in "Mary's Lamb" is where his wife discovers him with the lady of the stage and Leander simulates somnambulism in order to throw her off the track. Eventually the lamb becomes a perfect lion and throws off the yoke which he has worn for so many years, completely subjugating his wife and establishing his proper position as the head of the family. Ferris Hartman will once more assume the character of Lamb.

Myrtle Dingwall, the dainty prima donna, will appear as Phyllis and her limpid soprano voice will be heard to excellent advantage. Several beautiful members have been interpolated for Miss Dingwall. Miss Josie Hart will have the role of the actress and Miss Laura Atkins, a new member of the company, will appear as the wife of henpecked Lamb. Miss Lucile Palmer, who made such a pronounced hit last week, will have several vocal numbers. Percy Bronson and Miss Vilma Stech, will appear as Alan Townsend, the artist, and Mercedes, respectively. The singing and dancing chorus will have opportunity to display cleverness. Special scenery and brand new costumes will be features of "Mary's Lamb."

Lyceum.

"Don't Lie to Your Wife," a farce in three acts by Campbell B. Casad, and produced by Rowland and Clifford, with Dave Lewis starred, will be seen at the Lyceum for one week beginning Sunday matinee. The story of the piece in brief concerns the rambling from the straight and narrow path by three congenial spirits who are supposed never to step from the main highroad of travel.

Amos Doubleday, played by Dave Lewis, is the principal character. He, the man from the flat upstairs and the young man engaged to Doubleday's daughter, are first seen in Doubleday's apartment discussing the result of their white light venture. It seems that the three women nearest to them, Mrs. Doubleday, the wife of the man upstairs and the fiancee of the young man, had departed for a visit to Atlantic City. Immediately after their eparture the man upstairs had suggested a bit of gay life for a change. Doubleday had fallen in with this plan, and likewise the engaged chap. Together they start out in their machine, and make a night of it at Coney Island. On the return their automobile feels the dissipation and hits up a speed very much out of accord with the traffic regulations of the city.

The jolly party is arrested, but bribes the policeman and is allowed to go free. The opening of the first act, as mentioned, finds the three men in the Doubleday apartment, headachy and remorseful. Their plight is added to by the sudden recollection that Amos has invited three corpheos to his apartment for the day. On top of this the press agent, scenting a good advertisement, discovers the yarn and bothers the three. Harried thus the three solemnly swear:

"Nevermore!"

Burbank.

Paul Armstrong's comedy "Going Some," will be played this week at the Burbank Theater commencing this afternoon, and will give to Charles Ruggles, James Corrigan, Charles Giblyn, David M. Hartford, Nana Bryant and the others of this stock company untrammelled opportunities for fun.

"Going Some" is altogether unusual. The locale is on a New Mexico ranch and for the greater part the personages are the cowboys of the neighboring territory. The exceptions are a young fellow, a cheer leader from an eastern college, who passes himself off as a sprinter of no mean qualifications; his heavyweight valet and a bevy of charming young women who add very materially to the enjoyment of the comedy.

If the cowboys of a certain New Mexico ranch had not lost their favorite phonograph on the result of a foot race to the cowboys of an adjoining ranch, "Going Some" would be out of the question, but this did happen and the losers have been longing for a chance to win back their beloved musical instrument. At the same time a young chap, fresh from a big eastern college appears on the scene. In the spirit of bragadoccio he proclaims himself a great foot racer—in fact, the intercollegiate champion. He passes his valet off as his trainer and he gladly seizes upon the opportunity of competing with the champion from the neighboring ranch, naturally intending to moment, but satisfied with the prestige and the acclaim which he enjoys for the moment. It is a serious matter when it becomes apparent that he cannot back down, that he must go through with his part of the programme, failing to do which, there back out of the match at the last is a subtle suggestion of roughness on the part of the opposing ranchmen. The situation is momentarily relieved when it becomes known that a real champion sprinter is to visit the ranch and maybe consent to put on the spiked shoes for the occasion. But when this noted collegian makes his appearance, it is on crutches and the desperateness of the situation is only intensified. Of course, at the last moment of the play the cheer leader who has passed himself off as the fast runner does manage to win his race by adroit diplomatic tactics.

Charles Ruggles should duplicate his former success in the role of the college boy, J. Wallingford Speed. James Corrigan as his valet may make the hit of his Burbank career, while Wayland Trask, especially engaged, will be a physically huge student who persists in singing "Dearie" on every possible occasion. Charles Giblyn will return to the Burbank forces cast in the role of "Still Bill" Stover, foreman of the Flying Heart ranch.

Majestic.

At the Hamburger Majestic Theater tonight, H. B. Warner and most of the original New York company will comence an engagement of one week in "Alias Jimmy Valentine" Paul Armstrong's famous detective-thief play, which only recently closed a record engagement of two years of phenomenal success at Wallack's Theater, New York.

Paul Armstrong, the author of "Alias Jimmy Valentine," received his inspiration from that exceedingly interesting short story writer, the late O. Henry, out of whose short story masterpiece, "A Retrieved Reformation," he has elaborated a consistent plot with an exceptionally interesting and unusual series of incidents.

Before the play opens Jimmy Valentine has saved a beautiful young girl, Rose Lane, from an attacking ruffian. He came upon her in a parlor car, struggling alone with the brute, promptly fell upon him and threw him from the moving train, treatment which culminated in the man's death. The girl's imagination has been fired, and has played around Jimmy's heroism and attractive personality until he is the only man in Music News.

AMATO NEXT TUESDAY NIGHT.

SPLENDID PROGRAMME IS PREPARED FOR THIS RECITAL.

Hope Expressed that Local Public Will Discover This New Artist Before He Resumes His Eastward Journey—Assistants Upon His Programme.

BY JULIAN JOHNSON.

Who invented the title, "Stradivarius of the Baritones," for Amato?

Northern critics, who have been using it, are scrapping about this original and witty summing-up of a long criticism into one glowing line, and now comes our old friend Modest Altschuler to claim the honor of originating it.

At any rate, the title seems appropriate, if we may judge by accounts of the great young singer's success in the North.

San Francisco has had five enormously patronized Amato concerts. We have one announced for next Tuesday evening, at the Auditorium. I am told that there has been a respectable sale of seats. I hope so. One unfortunate circumstance attending the debuts of great artists in Los Angeles, as a rule, has been the fact that our musical public invariably seemed to discover their presence at 11:30 o'clock of the morning in which they left on a 10:30 train. We are great patronizers of successful "come-backs"—a la the incomparable Schumann-Heink, Gadski, Gorgorza et al—and now it is up to us to prove that we are not behind the rest of the cities in recognizing new genius.

Further comment on the premier baritone of the Metropolitan Operahouse seems unnecessary at this time.

Amato will be assisted here by Mme. Gilda Longari, acclaimed quite an extraordinary lyric soprano, and Sig. Tanara, one of the numerous reserve conductors of the Metropolitan orchestra, who has been remarked an exceedingly clever accompanist.

Four tremendous arias and three smaller ones, by Amato, will be noted on the programme appended. This is from "Un Ballo en Maschera" (Verdi,) Mr. Amato; aria from Act I, "Migon" (Thomas,) and aria from Act II, "La Tosca" (Puccini,) Mme. Longari; drinking song from "Hamlet" (Thomas,) Mr. Amato; Ich liebe dich (Grieg,) Bergerette "Maman, dites-moi" (Weckerlin,) S'J'etais jardinier (Chaminade,) Mme. Longardi; Cavatine of Figaro, from "The Barber of Seville" (Rossini,) Mr. Amato; duo from "Don Giovanni" (Mozart,) duo from "Serenata" (Brahms,) Mme. Longari and Mr. Amato; "Serenata" (Mascagni,) "Obstination" (Fontenailles,) Bergerette, "Jusnes Fillettes" (Weckerlin,) Mr. Amato; aria, "Mme. Butterfly" ((Puccini,) Mme. Longari; prologue, "I Pagliacci" (Leoncavallo,) Mr. Amato.

Bierlich at Home.

Bernhard Bierlich, the genial, beloved old first 'cellist of the symphony orchestra, has returned from a six-months' tour of Europe, where, amid the summer music festivals and orchestral celebrations, he renewed the artistic associations of his youth. Mr. Bierlich has lived in Los Angeles for twenty-two years, and has lived to see his whole family grow into solid artistic factors in the community.

Buzzi Plans Recital.

Signor Pietro Buzzi, of the Verdi school, is preparing a recital of classic songs, to be given at the Gamut Club late in December.

He will render works of Scarlatti, Stradella, Puccinni, Carissimi and Martini, and will endeavor to exemplify the beautiful, sustained legato method which in these declamatory days seems to have passed entirely into history, but without which these lovely old Italian songs cannot be interpreted at all.

As Signor Buzzi has not been heard in recital for several years, his wide circle of acquaintances here will doubtless welcome this announcement.

Fillmore Lecture.

Invitations have been issued for a studio-lecture by Thomas Fillmore, of the Fillmore school. [illegible] building, to be given next Saturday. The subject is, "Harmony and Form," and the programme will include music by Mr. House and Mr. Fillmore, and a talk by the latter.

Mr. Demorest in San Diego.

Charles H. Demorest, organist of the Third Church of Christ, Scientist, has just returned from San Diego, where he recently gave two opening programmes on the big organ just installed in the First M. E. Church, South, of San Diego.

The Brahms Quintette.

The concert of the Brahms Quintette, given last Saturday night in Blanchard Hall, was a highly artistic affair, and reflected credit upon the promoters, the musicians—and last but not least, upon the determined patrons who turned out to manifest their support to so purely artistic a venture as chamber of music.

The regular repertoire rehearsals will be given each Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, in Blanchard Hall. The admission is nominal, when one considers the masters presented, and the artistic interpretations vouchsafed.

Lucchesi's Opera.

Riccardo Lucchesi's opera, "Marquise de Pompadour," will be given a hearing by Andreas Dippel, when the gentleman pays his intended visit to the Coast in January.

The libretto is in English by Florence Richmond of San Francisco, and both composer and author hope for an auspicious eastern production.

Symphony.

The date for the opening of the sixteenth season of the Symphony orchestra will be Friday afternoon, November 10, at the Auditorium. Director Hamilton is modernizing his programme this year; has augmented the orchestra membership and moved the Wagner concert up to December 8. The Symphony management is endeavoring to secure soloists for each Affairs of the Week and Coming Events in Society.

Miss Willie McClellan,

Who has returned from an extended vacation trip at the different beaches, and who will entertain with many pretty affairs this winter.

THERE are ever so many interesting girls to be introduced to society this season and even the long list of last year will be small compared with the buds who will make their first bow this season.

One of the largest parties will be the tea given by Mrs. William E. Ramsey at her beautiful home on Western avenue next month. Miss Katherine is to be the debutante and delightful preparations are being announced.

The guests will be received by Mrs. Ramsey and Mrs. Adna R. Chaffee, Mrs. J. Ross Clark, Mrs. John Mossin, Mrs. Hugh Livingstone Macneil, Mrs. Michael J. Connell, Mrs. Alfred Solano, Mrs. Walter Jarvis Barlow, Mrs. Frederick A. Wann, Mrs. Daniel Murphy, Mrs. L. N. Brunswig, Mrs. Willington S. Morse, Mrs. Dean Mason, Mrs. Jaro von Schmidt, Mrs. Ernest A. Bryant, Mrs. James McNeil Cochins, Mrs. Leo Chandler, Mrs. Frank J. Thomas and Miss Elizabeth Wolters.

Following this party a ball will be given by Mrs. Ramsey for her daughter, although no definite date has been selected.

Miss Daphney Drake, talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Drake, and a niece of Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner, will not be introduced this season as was earlier rumored. Miss Daphney returned home for her summer vacation and is now East again at school. She will graduate this year and immediately will be taken to Europe for a finishing education abroad. The next season will date her as a debutante and it will probably be her aunt, Mrs. Miner, who will give the party.

Dr. and Mrs. Bertnard Smith, who since their wedding have been traveling abroad, will return soon and in honor of their home-coming Mrs. Hugh Livingstone Macneil of South Figueroa street will entertain with a reception November 14.

Mrs. Ben Johnson of No. 2241 Hoover boulevard will also entertain with a smart party. Cards have already been issued for the 25th inst. Almost 100 guests are expected.

Then there is the large ball to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sartori at the Los Angeles Country Club at which time they will present Miss Sartori. This is to be an elaborate affair with decorations of the most exquisite.

Helen Borden's wedding to Grey M. Skidmore is another event looked upon with interest. The wedding will be a quiet one solemnized in the presence of relatives only and upon the return from the East of Gail Borden, Miss Borden will set the day.

Another wedding is that of Miss Helen Angeline Stoughton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Easton Stoughton, to Roy Bradley Wheeler, son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, to be solemnized in Pasadena. There will be as many Los Angeles friends as if the service were read in this city.

The large reception to be given at Hotel Alexandria November 1 by Mrs. Peter Janss for Mrs. Harold Janss, formerly Miss Gladys Letts, and Mrs. Edwin Janss, formerly Miss Florence Cluff, will be a gala event, and if rumor can be counted upon, a dance for the younger set will follow the party.

Another smart affair will be the wedding of Miss Vera Spring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amasa Spring, to Lawrence Field Kelsey. This is set for November 7, and every day between now and the date the young bride-to-be will be busy filling engagements.

Then there is Miss Marguerite Drake, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Charles Rivers Drake, who will make her initial bow at a fashionable reception. Plans for this affair are complete and it promises much pleasure.

Miss Phila Milbank, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Milbank, will be married to Lyman Ross McFie the day after Miss Spring's nuptials. The service will be read at the family residence and Miss Milbank has asked Miss Kate Van Nuys and Miss Alice Elliott to attend here.

Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Erskine Thom of West Adams street have sent out a large number of invitations for a tea on the afternoon of Saturday, November 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DuBois Simpson, with their charming young daughter, Miss Dorothy, of No. 725 South Union avenue, will preside at a delightful dancing party to be given at the Woman's Clubhouse on the evening of the 26th inst. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hastings Rindge, the latter formerly Miss Galetta Mushet will be present as guests of honor and a bevy of delightful young people will include the guests.

Many other interesting affairs are being planned and the younger set will again be busy from the beginning to the close of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hicks of West Adams street will soon issue invitations for a dancing party, to be given November 22, at Hotel Alexandria, for their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Hicks.

Mrs. Mary Moolacott of No. 1115 South Alvarado street announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Margaret, to Leland W. Nelswender, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Nelswender of No. 677 South Bonnie Brae street. This wedding will be another important event for society to look forward to.

Mrs. Hancock Banning's reception on behalf of her nephew and his bride, Lieut. and Mrs. George S. Patton, Jr., is to take place this afternoon and a large contingent of society is to motor out to the Banning residence at Wilmington. It is, however, very inaccessible and automobiles are about the only means to reach there with any degree of comfort.

The Banning residence on West Adams street has been occupied by Judge and Mrs. Allen and their daughter, Mrs. Harold Wrenn, for some little time.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Davidson entertained at a charming little reception on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Wiecvorek, last evening at their residence, No. 327 Alvarado street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Edwards, who left this city on September 3, for an eastern tour, are expected to return home to their residence, No. 1939 Lovelace avenue about the middle of November. They have been visiting in Minneapolis, Washington, Philadelphia and New York City, in all of which places they have a large circle of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Seeley W. Mudd and their son, Seeley, Jr., left for Japan a few days ago, accompanied by Miss Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Cole of Ray, Ariz. Mr. Mudd is attending the Mining Congress and the party expects to be away for at least three months. Indeed, it is sur le tapis that they will continue their tour round the world, in which case their return will be postponed for over a year.

Seeley M. Mudd is a very prominent figure in many spheres, for, besides mining, his interests extend to the Y.M.C.A., in which he is a very active worker and in Congregational Church affairs he plays an important role.

Mrs. Fred Henderson, for whom Mrs. Fred A. Hines recently entertained, has been the recipient of many complimentary affairs in the last week. Luncheons and teas galore—she should certainly take some very happy memories away with her to San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fennel (the latter was formerly Mrs. Belle Haynes and a well-known figure in Los Angeles society of fifteen years ago) have returned to Los Angeles with their little daughter.

They had a very beautiful place at Mount View, Santa Clara county, which they sold (at an exceedingly satisfactory price, it is whispered) to a San Francisco millionaire. They have come to make their home here permanently. Mrs. Fennel has paid a few short visits to Los Angeles during their fifteen years absence and they have many old friends in this city.

The conversazione at which Mrs. L. B. Goldsmith presided at the Alexandria a day or two ago, was attended by a large contingent of our best known society women, including Mrs. O. P. Clark, Mrs. Godfrey Holterhoff, Mrs. M. S. Hellmann, Mrs. E. A. Bryant, Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner, Mrs. O. Melveny, Mrs. S. T. Clover, Mrs. M. H. Newmark, Mrs. E. Avery McCarthy and Mrs. Frank Dodsworth.

Ellen Key's and Bernard Shaw's opinions on love and marriage, together with the views of those present, formed the chief item of interest, and exceedingly plain unvarnished truth was the order of the day.

There appears to be an epidemic of very young marriages, the two latest being that of little Miss Mary Noyes and young Mr. Archibald Reed. Miss Mary Noyes left the State Normal School very abruptly a week or two ago, forsaking the pursuit of further studies for matrimony. Mr. Archibald Reed was (in fact still is) a school boy, too.

The young people had the sanction of their parents, however, and are at present residing with Mr. Reed's parents on Harvard boulevard. Mrs. Reed, senior, will shortly entertain on behalf of the bridal pair.

And next comes young Mr. Clarence Barker, son of C. Barker of Barker Bros., who married suddenly last week and is now with his young bride honeymooning at Catalina. Oh, these children!

There was a gathering of pretty debutantes at the Annandale Country Club yesterday, to discuss the fascinating question of an entertainment to be given there next Saturday evening. Shall it be a dinner or shall it be a supper, and just how much dancing is to be included in the programme? And, most interesting of all, just who shall and shall not be invited?

—o—

Prominent Visitor.

Miss Hazel Cox, a debutante of last year, of Washington, D. C., who is traveling in California, is the house guest for a few days of Miss Lucy Clark of No. 9 St. James Park.

—o—

Returning Home.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Clark with Dr. and Mrs. Henry Owen Eversole, left Paris for home on the 11th inst., after a pleasant tour abroad. Eugene Clark left the party September 27 for New York to enter school. He is quite recovered in health.

—o—

Into New Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Lacy Swaine have moved from No. 1010 Elden avenue to No. 1319 Manhattan place, where they are at home to friends

—o—

Mrs. Milner Hostess.

Mrs. John Milner, Sr., entertained Wednesday with a theater party at the Orpheum, followed by tea at Hotel Alexandria, where the table was beautified with choice flowers. Mrs. Milner was assisted in entertaining her guests by her daughters, Mrs. T. M. Alton of San Francisco, who was present as special guest, and by Mrs. Clara McDonald, Mrs John Milner, Jr., Mrs. F. Rule, and Mrs. C. Louis Michod.

—o—

San Diego Notes.

Mrs. Chaffee Grant was hostess at an afternoon of bridge and "five hundred," Wednesday. Mrs. Grant entertained at the handsome home of U. S. Grant, Jr., in honor of her sister, Miss Wrenshall of Washington, Pa., who has come here for the winter. The five drawing-rooms of the house were decorated with chrysanthemums and roses. Ten tables were arranged for the games. At each table a prize of a cup and saucer was presented. The guests numbered fifty, members of the younger society set of San Diego, and Coronado.

Mrs. Charles Sumner Tainter and Mrs. Mason Jackson were hostesses at an elaborate bridge party, Tuesday afternoon, at the Wednesday Morning Club. They were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Harrison G. Otis, Mrs. Henry Lewis Jackson and Mrs. Josephine Page Wright, a writer of short stories. Twenty-four tables held the attention of 150 bridge players. A cut glass vase was awarded the highest score at each table.

Coronado Society.

The marriage of Ensign Henry Chalfant Gearing, U.S.N., to Miss Lolita Burling will take place at her home in Coronado November 4. Miss Burling is a niece of Dr. Evelyn Paige and Mrs. Paige of Coronado. She is quoted, in society, as being one of the prettiest brides of the season. She is of the brunette type, inheriting her dark beauty from Spanish ancestors. She belongs to one of the oldest Castilian families of the Coast and for several years, has been a belle, both in San Francisco and Coronado. Ensign and Mrs. Gearing will establish their home in Coronado until orders take the young officer elsewhere.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Jones, of Minneapolis, and Frank H. Adams, of Los Angeles, were luncheon guests at Hotel del Coronado last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Jones of Los Angeles, and Mrs. William A. Farish, Jr., of San Francisco, are guests.

Miss Minnie Hughes of Fayette, Mo., arrived Monday to pass the winter with Admiral Uriel Sebree and Mrs. Sebree.

Mrs. Charles Myers of Cleveland, O., Mrs. Carl Freeman and Kenneth Day of Pasadena were luncheon guests at Hotel del Coronado, Wednesday.

Beautiful French Millinery

Distinguished French designers are represented in this exhibit of Autumn Millinery. Such names as Poiret, Louisohn, Talbot, Louise, Roger and others equally famous are to be found in these hats. Nor, perhaps, is it necessary to add that, while hats from our own work rooms are often mistaken for French creations, there are never any such bearing French labels.

A delightful evening was spent by the merry young women who were entertained with music and literary numbers. In addition to the honoree, those present were: Misses Mary Schienle, Ottilia Kuhn, Helena Kuhn, Ida Steinmeyer, Gertrude Wetzel, Ida Weber, Lillian Judy, Etta Campbell, Clara Carroll, Gertrude Tolkin, Kathryn Carroll, Millie Meyers, Susie Loftus, Helen Carroll, Frances Loftus and Eleanor McCarthy.

OUT-OF-TOWN SOCIETY.

Pasadena.

A SIDE FROM the luncheon which was given at Hotel Maryland Monday in honor of President Taft, which was attended by seventy-five of the prominent society women of Pasadena, the largest social affair of last week was the reception which followed the wedding of Miss Marcia Lee Howard Graves, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Graves, and Charles Raymond Loring of Boston, which was solemnized Friday evening at 8 o'clock by Rev. Allen Tillingast at the home of the bride's parents on East California street. The ceremony was performed in the presence of fifty guests and 150 more came in later to offer congratulations. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Dorothy Graves, as maid of honor; Misses Madeline Harris and Anita Hertel, as bridesmaids and a little flower girl, Miss Miriam Morris, who was also the ringbearer. The ushers were Theodore and Robert Phelps, cousins of the bride, and the best man was Edward Loring of Boston. Decorations and appointments for the reception were elaborate and music was furnished throughout the evening by an orchestra. After the ceremony a collation was served and Mr. and Mrs. Loring left for the East, where they will make their home.

One of the attractive functions of Friday was a luncheon given by Mrs. L. B. Graves complimentary to her daughter, Miss Marcia Graves, where covers were laid for members of the bridal party only. The luncheon favors were cut-glass liquor glasses bearing the monogram of the bride and groom, Miss Graves and Mr. Loring, and the bride's health was drunk from these glasses in wine which had been presented to her great-grandfather at a luncheon given for Abraham Lincoln, and preserved all these years for some such auspicious occasion.

Miss Madeline Harris of South Orange Grove avenue entertained Wednesday evening with a theater party and dinner in Los Angeles complimentary to Miss Graves, who was married Friday evening. The party went to the Orpheum and dined at the Alexandria. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Harris, Misses Hertel, Dorothy Graves, the bride and groom-elect, Messrs. Edward Loring, Theodore and Robert Phelps.

Miss Florence Doolittle of South Los Robles avenue was the hostess Thursday at a prettily appointed luncheon at which Mrs. Arthur Chase of Cleburn, Tex., was the guest of honor. Yellow roses adorned the table and golden glow was used in profusion in decoration of the drawing-room, where "five hundred" was enjoyed after the luncheon. Covers were laid for Mmes. Jay Cook, Robert Lacy, Roland Laws, William Landon, Gillian Adams, Misses Irene Lisk, Maie Lynch, Cora Hill, Louise Lacy, Mabel Gould and Augusta Gould.

Miss Elizabeth Seargeant entertained with a matinee party at the auditorium Wednesday, preceded by luncheon at the Alexandria. Those of the party were Misses Maisie Lynch, Augusta Gould and Clara Vaughn, with the hostess.

The engagement of John Henry Hooge, cashier of the First National Bank, and Miss Irma Lackner of Chicago was formally announced Monday.

Miss Mary Stewart of Arroyo drive entertained a few friends Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Ida Blake, who is to marry Robert L. Brand October 24. One pleasant feature of the affair was the presentation of several handsome pieces of linen to the bride-to-be, and the shower was followed by a supper, when the guests were all seated at a flower-decked table, where the place cards were ornamented with sketches suggestive of approaching nuptials.

A recent event of interest in social and musical circles was the farewell concert of Miss Blanche Ruby at the Shakespeare Clubhouse, given under the direction of Mrs. Clarice de la Fond Snider. Several well-known Los Angeles artists contributed to the programme, among whom were Edgar Temple, Leo Oelmler and Miss Alice Lohr. Mrs. Hermion Robinson acted as accompanist.

The Valley Hunt Club was the scene of a pleasant gathering Monday afternoon, when several tables were made up for auction bridge. Among those playing were Mmes. Joseph D. Condit, Walter H. Lutz, William A. Kobbe, Benjamin C. Williams, Harry Pyle, G. M. Slade, Misses Gladys Gardner, Marjorie Bolt, Genevieve Stehman, Julia Holmes, Ada Bonney, Alice Pratt Alcott, Grace Clark, Elsa West and several others came in for tea.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Flint entertained Tuesday evening at the Maryville with a charmingly appointed dinner, where covers were also laid for Dr. and Mrs. Charles Scott Haines, Miss Holloway and Lucille Haines, Samuel Mother and Mr. and Mrs. Flint expected for New York and [illegible]

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Durand of South Orange Grove avenue were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Wilkinson at Santa Monica.

As Harold Gleason of Pasadena played the wedding march, the bride, who was gowned in a smart brown tailor-made suit, with hat and gloves to match, was preceded by the little ring bearer, Jessie Wilson, who carried the ring in a calla lilly, and six little flower girls, all gowned alike in white, carrying brown baskets, trimmed with smilax, the handles tied with perky pink bows, filled with rose petals, which were strewn before the bride, were Helen Ledgerwood, Marjorie Michener, Grace Carter, Virginia Crow, Elizabeth Eldridge and Helen Smith. The church was tastefully decorated with streamers of asparagus plumosus, which was interspersed with pink carnations, and a profusion of white chrysanthemums. Immediately following the ceremony, which only relatives and immediate friends attended, a short reception was held, and the young people left on a wedding trip, and upon their return will make their home in this city.

Complimentary to the birthday anniversary of one of their members, Mrs. Roy Stephens, as well as the fifth birthday of the club, Mrs. George Binder entertained the members of the Knockers Club Thursday afternoon at her home, No. 1102 Glendon way. The home was bright with red geraniums, and the afternoon was spent in sewing, following which refreshments were served. A large birthday cake with five pink candles, was presented to Mrs. Stephens to cut. In trying to do so, she found under the white frosting, that it was a "fake cake," made of white pasteboard, which caused much merriment. Included besides were Mrs. John Chilcote, Mrs. Alice Keith and Miss Leila Hart.

Mrs. John H. Doyle entertained the members of Chapter A.A., P.E.O., Thursday afternoon at her home, No. 1710 Bushnell avenue, at their first meeting of the new year with a luncheon. You Can't Hog It All.

By HERBERT KAUFMAN.

(Copyright, 1911, by Herbert Kaufman)

The man who thinks only of and for himself is a mere trifle.

A mean soil only produces stunted weeds. To strive solely for self is to waste a lifetime. Progress is only possible when the cause overshadows the partisan.

Co-operation is essential in all undertakings.

Lone trees will not bear profusely—blossoms must exchange their pollen. The best fruit is found in an orchard.

Humans must work in groups. Perfection is attained through the judgment of many.

Viewpoints are subject to errors—comparison alone corrects.

When many are striving with a common purpose, all achieve more pro rata than through solitary endeavor.

Even artistry demands assistance. Genius itself requires instruction and calls for supervision.

The makers of history had shortcomings as pronounced as their superiorities. They were forced to rely upon assistants to supply them with the characteristics which they lacked.

Napoleon would have dreamed his destiny in vain had he not shared as he progressed.

Leaders can't reach or hold their success unless they reward their supporters.

Xerxes failed in his ambition to master Europe solely because he believed he could whip his army into Greece.

Men will not do their utmost unless they get the utmost.

You don't receive more than you give in return.

Despite the contrary views of mathematicians, there are times when division distinctly multiplies.

Solitaire is a foolish game which offers little interest and no stakes. Games that promise big winnings all require more than one player.

Probe into any success in any field and in any age, and you'll bump into the basic truth that those who shared their feathers most liberally lined their nests most comfortably.

Greed isolates a man. He is at the mercy of a competition too vast for his solitary powers.

No single brain can watch in every quarter, learn of every opportunity, and seize every chance and guard every weakness.

Fealty is an invulnerable barricade against failure, but fidelity is a thing that must be inspired by gratitude—it can't be hired by wage.

Justice and reliability are not expenses, but investments.

Misers are not found in the front ranks of mankind. Avarice thwarts its own object.

It's a big, fine, broad policy, but it's also a hard-headed, cold-blooded business proposition to make every man who serves your banner feel that in following your fortunes he's about to realize his own.

SOCIETY.

Tropico.

THE flood tide of the club season is beginning to be felt, and, now that equal suffrage is settled and there is nothing to distract the minds, each organization is pursuing the object for which it came into existence. Mrs. J. A. Logan was hostess on Thursday afternoon, when she received the Tropico Ladies' Club. The spacious rooms were handsomely decorated with autumn flowers and greenery, and the coming year's work was entered into with renewed spirit after the long vacation. After the close of the session the hostess served light refreshments. The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mrs. Thomas Thornton.

The complimented guests were: Mmes. Lenora Miller, Helen Carter and Sarah Remeley; Misses Marcella Miller, Eleanor Gould, Bertha Winckler and Lillian Dick.

Miss Nellie Scott and brother, at No. 1673 Glendale avenue, entertained a party of twelve, at dinner Wednesday evening, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. The groom has just received an honorable discharge from the United States Navy and they leave on Thursday for Indiana to make their future home.

The marriage of B. W. Arnett and Miss Jessie Reynolds, both of Garden Grove occured in Los Angeles Wednesday afternoon. They returned here Friday evening, where they will reside.

Mrs. Susan Chaffee was given a surprise party Saturday afternoon, in honor of her birthday. The self-invited guests brought Mrs. Chaffee a beautiful salad set and other gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. McElree, Mr. and Mrs. George Reyburn and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Jencks were guests Wednesday evening at the home of Harry Kenah and wife of Fullerton.

Mrs. J. H. Callahan of Pierce, Ariz., is here visiting her sister, Mrs. Chester Lee, and other relatives in this vicinity.

Mrs. T. E. Niles is at San Dimas spending a week with her two daughters.

W. J. Newsom of Covina, a former principle of the local grammar school visited friends here Saturday.

George and Ben Oertly, Ray Beardsley and Jules Jacques went to Fullerton, Friday evening, attending a farewell reception by the Y.M.C.A. to Malcolm Lord, a comrade of the summer camp at Catalina Island, who is soon to leave for the East.

W. R. Lindley of Monroeton, Bradford county, Pa., has a record that is unique. Mr. Lindley is a shoe repairer, is 64 years of age, and has never cast a ballot. He says he is going to vote this year for just one man, but who that fortunate man is he refuses to tell.

EDUCATORS, JURISTS.

Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, is to make a tour of the world, leaving the United States on November 7. He will be gone about eight months, a large part of his time being devoted to Japan, China and India. He will spend Christmas and New Year's Day in the interior of India, and will go from there to Singapore, Java and Hongkong.

Dr. C. Willard Hayes, chief geologist of the Geological Survey and one of the most prominent scientists in the country, has resigned from the government service to enter into business in Mexico. Dr. Hayes, who had been in the survey since 1887, had much to do with the perfection of the system adopted for classifying the public lands according to their mineral worth.

Dr. H. D. Hazeltine of Cambridge University, England, though an American, has been with the university six years, and is the only American lecturing on law in England. He has lectured also before the law schools of the universities of Chicago and Wisconsin, and two years ago he addressed the American Bar Association on "Legal Education in England." A work on the history of English law has been published in Germany.

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, who established a record for fines imposed when he exacted more than $29,000,000 of the Standard Oil Company, has made a new low record. At the conclusion of a day's trial in the United States District Court, William Trudenfald, a Milwaukee traveling man, being found guilty of sending bills in a transparent envelope to A. T. Jenkins, a merchant of the same city, the court imposed a fine of 1 cent.

Secretary of the Interior Fisher has selected Aldred Husie Brooks, for ten years geologist in charge of all work in Alaska, to succeed C. Willard Hayes as geologist in chief of the Geological Survey. Mr. Brooks is greatly interested in the Alaskan work, and it is considered probable that an arrangement will be made by which he can keep in close touch with Alaska after the proposed change in positions.

CRANKS.

After having been a woman hater for more than thirty years, Col. Nicholas Williams, a wealthy resident of West Caldwell, N. J., fell in love with a widow at first sight, married her in four days and has gone away with his bride for a honeymoon, far, far, away, where his astonished friends can't plague him.

Fulfilling, he declares, a proviso in his father's will which required that he be married within thirty days after the death of his parents if he was to inherit a fourth share of an estate valued at $209,000, Frank McCoy, an auto salesman, married Miss Tillie Pfenning, in Tacoma, Wash.

John McNeil, 17 years of age, of Pittsburgh, Pa., one night recently left his bed while asleep, and taking a wheelbarrow of bricks he wheeled them four squares before he was awakened by a policeman.

A. M. Brown has secured, for the third time, a good job on the flip of a coin. The Belmont county (Ohio) election board is half Republican and half Democratic, and they decide which party shall be given the clerkship by tossing a coin. The Democrats have won three times in succession. The position pays $60 a month.

Little Nellie Dewalt of New Cumberland, Pa., has a white pig that follows her around as the little lamb did Mary.

"Smells Good"

Cedar Moss Cleans, Freshens and Preserves Your Rugs and Carpets

CARPETS, rugs and mattings need more than mere cleaning. Thousands of expensive floor coverings are sacrificed every year to the old-fashioned carpet-beater, which breaks the woolen threads, and the expensive vacuum cleaner, which takes most of the nap along with some of the dust. Thousands more are ruined by so-called sweeping compounds, designed for use on wood floors and full of sand and grit. Anything which can be used on wood floors is far too harsh for carpets.

There's just one right way to clean and at the same time renovate floor coverings—with a fraction of the labor of the carpet-beater and a fraction of the expense of the vacuum cleaner. That's Cedar Moss way—the way of millions of good housekeepers. Cedar Moss absorbs the dust.

"The Sweeping Success"

Cedar Moss

Dry Cleans Carpets, Rugs, Heavy Fabrics

Just sprinkle a little Cedar Moss on the rug or carpet, sweep it up easily with a broom or carpet-sweeper, every vestige of dirt comes with it, and it leaves no greasiness. It's as easy as can be, and half the labor of sweeping eliminated, for there's no need to dust after it. That means no germs—and health. And more, Cedar Moss is a perfect moth and vermin exterminator—they simply can not live where it is used. Cedar Moss contains oil of wool—which is the life of wool. The constant rubbing of shoe-leather deadens the woolen threads in carpets. But when Cedar Moss is used these dead, lustreless fibres take on new life and brightness—the effect is astonishing. Cedar Moss contains glycerine, used by oriental carpet makers to impart additional softness and "sheen" to fabric. It contains Fuller's earth, used by woolen manufacturers for cleaning. And, remember, Cedar Moss is excellent for hard floors. So it's soft, fluffy, absolutely free from sand or grit. Use it on both rug and floor. Use it on any heavy fabric—mattresses, blankets and the like. It's in a class by itself.

A small quantity of Cedar Moss placed in a cheese cloth bag makes a dandy dustless duster for furniture, molding and hardwood. It takes all of the dust and dirt without causing any to scatter, and imparts a lustre and finish similar to that given by a good furniture polish.

Cedar Moss is for sale by all grocers. You can get a free sample to try, if you like, or a large size family package costs but 50 cents. This package will go further than three 25-cent packages of other so-called sweeping compounds. It will add years to the life of your carpets and rugs. Try it today. You can have your money back on request. But we know you'll like the labor-saving, dustless, perfect cleanliness. And you'll be pleased at the wonderful improvement in the appearance of your floor coverings.

WOMEN CAN SOLVE THE PROBLEMS.

SAYS SELMA LAGERLOF, NOBEL PRIZE-WINNER.

Enters List on Behalf of Suffrage. Declares Man Is Content if Order and Defense Have Been Accomplished, but Other Problems Have Proved Beyond Him.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 2.—Selma Lagerlof, the world-famed authoress who won the Nobel literary prize two years ago, has greatly enthused the suffragists of Europe by entering the lists as an advocate of women's rights.

She does not confine herself to the usual arguments put forward by the feminists. Boldly declaring that the State has need of women's aid in the development of good government, she contends there are problems awaiting solution men cannot adequately

Selma Lagerlof,

The distinguished Swedish authoress, who says men need women's aid to solve state problems too difficult for masculine minds.

solve without the help of women.

"Man," she says, "has created the State, as woman has created the home, and he has only managed to infuse into the State two essentially manly notions—order and defense. When he had succeeded in creating a State where these two ideas had been duly carried out, he tried to make himself believe that all was well done—that the State was complete and needed nothing more."

This conception Miss Lagerlof believes is founded on error. "As the community expanded and developed and human beings were united in cooperation on wider and broader lines than before, the home lost in significance and importance. At the same time the development brought about a number of new problems beyond the sphere or power of solution of the home. The State became the big home which had to take up the work when the old, the narrower home did not suffice. This being so, the State has become in need of fresh aid, fresh work—that of woman, or in any case, of such a nature that man alone cannot very well encompass it."

So far the State, in her opinion, has not succeeded in dealing with the feminine problems created by this modern development. "Where," she asks, "is the State where no child roams about homeless, where no young life is spoilt, where all the young are trained in joy and with patience as is the child's due? Where is the State which provides for the aged poor a secure and dignified old age; where the State where no life is lost in vice, drunkenness and shameless living? The State cannot shirk these obligations, inasmuch as it cannot survive unless it heeds and solves the problems involved. When that solution has been found the State will be loved as it ought to deserve to be loved, by high and low."

Selma Lagerlof's life has the romance of well won success in it. Coming from an old Varmland family with whom fortune had not dealt too kindly, she has advanced by steady effort till she has been able to buy back her beloved encestral home, Marbacka, and to acquire in Falun a quaint old house where she can work in quiet amid picturesque surroundings and many friends.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

Miss Gertrude Burk of Chicago claims to be the largest woman in the United States. She is 6 ft. 6 in. tall and weighs 825 pounds.

Miss Gertrude Jordan has been nominated to succeed herself as County Treasurer of Cherry county, Nebraska, on every political ticket, and no one has come forward to oppose her.

Miss Helen K. Goss, president of the senior class of Wellesley College, has announced plans whereby each senior takes upon herself to advise and encourage a group of freshmen. The registration at Wellesley closed with about 1400 students enrolled for the coming year.

A record for matrimonial engagements was laid before United States District Judge Evans in Portland, Or., when Nellie Lane, an Indian of the Siletz tribe, introduced Moses, a rotund and complaisant member of the tribe, as her fourteenth husband.

Mrs. Ellen Rose of Buena Vista, Pa., is carrying on a unique business among women pumping sand and coal from the bottom of the Susquehanna River. Although Mrs. Rose has passed her seventieth year, she directs her force of fifteen workmen personally, going out with them every morning and visiting them several times a day to see that everything is going right.

Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, president general of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, is the owner of a tract of 40,000 acres of land in Illinois on which she is conducting a back-to-the-farm enterprise. Only a short time ago Mrs. Scott was elected president of a coal mining company, to succeed former Vice-President Adlai Stevenson.

The trustees of the Brooklyn Heights Seminary have granted the principal, Miss Ellen Yale Stevens, leave of absence for three months for the purpose of visiting Rome, Italy, to investigate the methods of Mme. Maria Montessori, a professor in the university there. Mme. Montessori's success with children of the kindergarten and primary age has been so wonderful that educators in all parts of the world have become interested.

MUSICAL GOSSIP.

concert. So far they have engaged Alessandro Bonci, lyric tenor; Harold Bauer, pianist, and Elsa Ruegger, Dutch cellist. Other engagements will be announced later.

Eames-Gogorza.

A joint recital by Mme. Emma Eames and Signor Emilio de Gogorza will be the second event of the Philharmonic course at the Auditorium, November 3. They come directly from Europe, stopping only in Seattle, Portland and San Francisco before appearing in Los Angeles.

Maria Concert.

Signor Stefano de Maria, Italian baritone, will be heard in two programmes at the Auditorium on Wednesday evening, October 25, and Saturday, Oct. 28. Signor Maria will be assisted by Prof. Botta, conductor, and Miss Mae Brill, pianist. Signor Maria has appeared in grand opera in Italy, South America and Mexico with success.

Dupuy.

Joseph Dupuy has been working for the last six months preparing four programmes, unique in many ways. The first, "Songs of Nations," consists of twelve selections taken from the Asiastic countries; the second, European songs, indicative of the musical life of the European countries; the third, American songs by American composers, closing with Cadman's American Indian Song Cycle. The fourth is devoted to French songs of Mr. Dupuy's native land. Will Garroway will assist at the piano.

Organists.

The Los Angeles Chapter of the American Guild of Organists will hold a musical service in Christ Church Monday, November 6, at 8 p.m. Thirty-one organists of Southern California have announced their intention of being present. Christ Church choir of seventy voices will assist.

Orpheus Club.

The Orpheus Club entered upon its seventh season August 14, opening with an enthusiastic rehearsal. The club now numbers sixty voices, thereby securing the volume necessary for Temple Auditorium, where the club will hold its concerts this season. The first concert will include a cycle, "Frontier Scenes," by Henry Watson Ruffner. Joseph Dupuy is the director of the club.; Will Garroway, the accompanist.

ON THE VICTOR DISCS.

List of Records Put Out by the Camden Preserved Music Company for October.

Though there is great diversity of subjects in the October output of the Victor Company, I know of no better features than the records of Victor Herbert's orchestra. These rather quiet but perfect examples of orchestral rendition should be in the cabinet of every real connoisseur. For the current month America's greatest composer contributes his own "Yesterthoughts," and the "Marche Slave."

Of pianists there are two. The original and quite incomparable Frank La Forge plays the Chopin Nocturne in D Flat. Gilbert Spross, a newcomer to the Victor field, but welcome, renders Harriet Ware's tone poem, "A Song of the Sea."

In red seal records there is a varied collection, in which there are no specimens of extraordinary distinction. Zerola, the dramatic Italian, comes forward with a pair of "I Pagliacci" airs. Otto Goritz, the resourceful German character-baritone of Metropolitan Operahouse, gives us his voice, but not his inimitable acting in "Bin ich nun frei?" from "Das Rheingold." Mario Sammarco sings Rigoletto's great Denunciation. Jeanne Gerville-Reache, apparently very hard pressed for vocal material worth while, has the "Air du Tigre," from Victor Masse's "Paul and Virginia." Dan Beddoe, the round-faced, jolly Welshman, sings an air from "Der Freischutz." Riccardo Martin, foremost American tenor, is to be heard in an air from Massenet's "Le Cid." Mischa Elman plays a Monsigny "Rigaudon." George Hamlin, another ever-welcome American, offers the Buzzi-Peccia "Lolita," in English. Alma Gluck, than whom the operatic stage offers no more delightful young soprano, will please her growing list of admirers with an air from Rimsky-Kersakoff's "Snow Maiden," and Rameau's "Rossignols Amoureaux." Tetrazzini, who seems bound to make more records than any other living star, sings the familiar concert "stunt," "Thou Brilliant Bird," from David's "Pearl of Brazil," in French. Pryor's band offers a satisfactory Eschaikowsky potpourri, though these composer-hashes, as a rule, are abhorrent to those who admire a composer's productions in their proper entirety.

As for the rest of the list, there is about everything, from George Cohan to a veteran actor reciting Hamlet's Soliloquy.

Nothing Wonderful, Just Natural.

[Housekeeper:] "There," cried Jonathan to a newly-arrived Irishman, as he waved his hand in the direction of the Horseshoe Falls at Niagara; "there, now, isn't it wonderful?"

"Wonderful? What's wonderful about that?"

"Why, to see all that water come thundering over those rocks."

"Faith, then to tell ye the honest truth," was the response, "Oi can't see anything so wonderful about that. What is th're to prevint it from comin' over?"

Matrimonial Market News of the Day

The demand fr fat ladies, young or old, is still very light. The willowy girl, with the animated eye and straight front aspect, is, however, much inquired after.

The ceaseless stream of Gibson and Fisher Girl pictures, advertised by every magazine cover, continues to perpetuate this situation.

There is only one chance for the fattish woman, and that is for her to reduce. If she can quickly grow into the likeness of the font cover fascinator, without the hard labor of exercising, or the purgatory of dieting, it seems she ought to try. This is not impossible—nay, it is a fact, demonstrated by thousands in 1909. Let her take the elegant Marmola Prescription Tablet after meals and at bed time. It will reduce her a pound a day.

This suggestion is made in all seriousness. Why not reduce when it entails no trouble, causes no wrinkles, costs very little cash? One can start today, take off the fat (where most objectionable) from hips, abdomen, chin, etc., and do it uniformly and safely, too, for the tablet named, being made from the famous prescription—½ oz. Marmola, ½ oz. Fl. ex. Cascara Aromatic, 3½ oz. Peppermint Water—is, of course, noninjurious. Tender your druggist 75 cents for a large case or write for same to the Marmola Co., 365 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

Standard 5c Music

In offering to the trade and the public in general the catalog of the Eclipse edition, we can conscientiously say that only such compositions have been incorporated which are of standard character and which have proved to be in steady demand. Each number has been carefully revised, engraved and printed on the best coated paper; the titles are especially designed by high-class artists exclusively for this edition and are beautifully illustrated in many colors. Every one is a work of art.

Instrumental

The letter after title of composition indicates the key in which it is written, the figure indicates the grade of difficulty. No. 1 very easy and gradually increasing in difficulty to No. 6. To beginners should be especially recommended the compositions marked *, on account of their being very melodious, instructive and carefully fingered.

A HINDU APPLE FOR MODERN EVE.

The Cult of the Yogis Lures Women to Destruction.

[Mabel Potter Daggett, in the Hampton-Columbian Magazine.]

Eve is eating the apple again. It is offered as a knowledge of the occult that shall solve the riddles of existence.

Yoga, that eastern philosophy, the emblem of which is the coiled serpent, is being widely disseminated here. Literally yoga means the "path" that leads to wisdom. Actually it is proving the way that leads to domestic infelicity and insanity and death.

They are priests from "east of Suez" who with soft-spoken proselyting have whispered this mysticism into the ears of the American woman.

While the churches of America are spending $30,000,000 annually in the causes of foreign missions the pagans have executed an amazing flank movement; they have sent their emissaries to us. Today the tinkling temple bells ring out with a derisive, jarring note in a Christian land.

Seattle has its Buddhist temple; San Francisco has its Hindoo temple; Los Angeles has its Krishna temple.

The Vedanta Society of New York has laid at West Cornwall, Ct., the corner-stone of a greater temple than these. It is marked as are stones and trees set apart for worship in India, with red paint, the sacred vermillion. And graved deep in New England granite is set the most holy word of the Vedantists—"Om."

It was the congress of religions at the Chicago World's Fair in 1893 that with a spirit of fine religious toleration beckoned the first holy men from their fastnesses in the Himalayas. That benign condescension has proved fraught with far-reaching consequences. The Swamis and Babas who came to America discarded in India the simplicity of their Sanhyasin garb for gorgeous robes more tempered to western taste. They arrived silken clad and sandal shod, to prove an attraction that outshone the plain American variety of divine, the minister in a frock coat and white tie. The easterners were picturesque personalities whom American society welcomed in the drawing-room.

The incense of sandalwood burned in their honor all the way from the Lake Shore drive to Fifth avenue and the Back Bay. At social functions all poets, artists, authors and musicians stepped aside to at least second place. These dusky-hued Orientals sat on drawing-room sofas, the center of admiring attention, while fair hands passed them cakes and served them tea in Sevres china. It was far better than squatting, clad in a yellow-loin cloth, at some heathen temple's gate. They remained among us.

Also others of their order, hearing of this triumphant reception, combed out their matted hair, allowed to hang uncared for during the years of sacred meditation, and leaving their begging bowls behind, hurried over to this so much more lucrative field.

When there was started at Green Acre, Me., in 1896, a summer school of philosophy which was the outgrowth of the World's Fair Congress of Religions, its platform was an open forum where the Swamis found a welcome. It is via this New England route from Calcutta that nearly every eastern mystic has arrived and established his vogue in this country.

At first their way lay through the populous cities where the sun rises now on the gilded minarets of their mosques and pagodas. More recently they have reached the smaller towns and villages where have been formed branches and circles that are exerting a widely increasing influence.

On the banners of many of these cults is emblazoned the serpent that affects the onlooker as a startling reminder of the evil that entered Eden. It is the symbol that you will see on the gold and enameled badge pinned on a convert's gown. You will find it on the walls of the assembly rooms. And it appears as the imprint on the literature used at the yoga classes.

The yoga class is becoming as popular as the Browning class or the Shakespeare class. It is the direct means by which a Swami reaches the public.

It is the promise of eternal youth that attracts woman to yoga, the promise which is found intertwined with most of the pagan religions.

This yoga philosophy opens the door to subtle mysteries. The yogi, as the student who masters it is termed, is promised the dominance of natural law. Incidentally there is offered also health and long life and the power to stay the ravages of time. Is it not enough to tempt the feminine mind from Paradise itself?

Small wonder that a Swami's following, while it includes notably here and there college professors and men of learning come to investigate a science brought from the roof of the world, recruits its largest numbers among women. But yoga is a dangerous knowledge to lure any but the best balanced brain. In the pursuit of it, too often the listening devotee is offering her sacrifices even at the altar of her soul.

Miss Sarah Farmer, a New England spinster with a beautiful ideal of universal brotherhood, gave her fortune in the founding of Green Acre, where for years she was a familiar figure in her flowing gray gown and veil. The study of many religions unbalanced her mind and she has been for several years an inmate of an insane asylum at Waverly, Mass.

In Chicago a few years since Miss Aloise Reus, a woman of culture and refinement, was taken, screaming and praying, from the Mazdaznan Temple of the Sun to be incarcerated, a raving maniac, in an Illinois asylum.

The death of Mrs. Ole Bull of Cambridge, Mass., widow of the world renowned violinist, occurred in January last, and her will bequeathing several hundred thousand dollars to the Vedantist Society was set aside by the courts on the grounds of mental incapacity and undue influence. On the very day of the decision, her daughter, Mrs. Olea Bull Vaughn, in whose behalf the verdict was rendered, died technically of tuberculosis, but actually, the doctors said, of a broken heart.

The relatives of Mrs. Ellen Shaw of Lowell, Mass., a while ago petitioned the courts that a conservator be appointed to prevent her from bestowing her property on the sun worshippers. Witnesses at the trial testified that Mrs. Shaw had taken nude sun baths on the lawn of her residence in the fashionable Tyler Park section of Lowell.

More recently the handsome and cultured wife of President Winthrop Ellsworth Stone of Purdue University at Lafayette, Ind., has abandoned home and husband and children to join the sun worshippers in the study of yoga. Doctor Stone went before the board of Presbyterian Church and announced: "I am utterly crushed. I want your prayers and your sympathy. I love my wife. She is as dear to me as she ever was. I hope that she will some time yet come to her senses and return to me and my boys."

DRAMATIC NEWS.

the world for her. She does not know his name, nor his whereabouts, until she comes upon him in Sing Sing, where he is "doing time" for the robbery of a bank. She, with her uncle, the Lieutenant-Governor of the State, and two women representing the Gate of Hope Society, which is looking towards the release of all innocent prisoners from all the prisons in the world, are visiting the prison in the interests of the cause.

—o—

Orpheum.

With five new incoming acts, Edwin Stevens putting on a new sketch, Lily Lena offering new songs and gowns, the Orpheum for the coming week, opening Monday matinee, seems right in calling its bill "A Great New Show." It is weeks since so much of a change was made in its bill all at once or so strong an aggregation of talent was at hand to entertain. Sam Mann, German comedian, is the new headliner, his offering is Aaron Hoffman's satire on vaudeville, "The New Leader." It is the story of that necessary but never seen Monday morning rehearsal, when into the theater come the discordant elements to be whipped into shape for a fine performance the ensuing afternoon. There are shown the "sister" act, a bit of domestic infelicity, and so on, but no leader appears. Mann volunteers, and in a few minutes the hilarity is something wonderful.

The Six American Dancers return after pedalling it around the world in some new terpsichorean exercises, and some new costumery. This sextette is about the best in vaudeville and has a reputation extending even to the Antipodes. Their return will be welcomed by all who recall their finished and clever work on their previous visit, two years ago.

James P. Conlin, Lillian Steele and Eddie Carr claim to be "fresh from college," and will entertain with some bits of musical comedy. The two boys dance cleverly and even sing, and the pretty Miss Steele fills the eye, and at the same time warbles and steps delightfully. There is neither rhyme nor reason in the act—it is just entertainment.

The Seven Belfords are four husky men and three boys of unusual agility, all Americans, and their exhibit will easily demonstrate that it is not needful to go abroad for acrobatic novelties.

Harry Breen, "the rapid-fire song writer," is just that. Not only has he written a dozen or so of the popular songs of the day, but he does 'em off-hand. He will take some incident or person, right before the eyes of the audience, and manipulate a song right then and there.

Miss Lena remains with her new songs, gowns and hats, including some of her favorite numbers of the first week. Edwin Stevens and Tina Marshall apepar in "A Lesson in Arithmetic," new from Mr. Stevens's pen, and the Australian Woodchoppers, with their daily felling contest. The orchestra will feature the William Tell overture, and the motion pictures will continue with the events of the day.

—o—

Empress.

One of the most interesting events of the current season in popular-price vaudeville is the Sullivan and Considine Road Show, which comes to the Empress Theater for an engagement of one week, commencing with the usual matinee tomorrow.

By far the most pretentious acrobatic act that has visited a local popular-priced vaudeville stage is that of the Seven Colonials. When the curtain ascends these seven athletes are seen playing and singing, but immediately several members are thrown in the air and the acrobatic work is begun and continues in a series of novelties.

German comedians Rice and Cady will be another feature of the Road Show bill. Rice and Cady are the only Weber and Fields in captivity and the only team of famous German comedians that remains on the stage today. Both are well-known to local theater goers and they will undoubtedly receive a rousing welcome on their appearance at the Empress.

The Four Solis Brothers, masters of the Mexican merimba, will add an extraordinary musical feature to the Road Show bill. The programme of the Solis Brothers embraces the popular, semi-classic and classic.

Klating's animals will be another novel and interesting feature of the new bill. This is an aggregation of angora cats, dogs, rabbits and pigeons forming one of the most unusual animal acts that has yet been imported for American vaudeville. Harry Mayo, known as the melody man, and formerly with the Empire City Quartette will add much to the musical portion, while Bijou Russell, with her darky songs will contribute melody and mirth. Completing this programme will be the new comedy pictures.

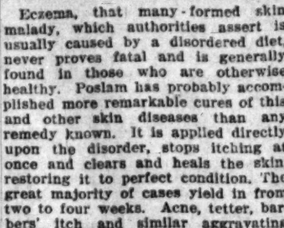
Pantages.

The Yoscarry troupe of circus acrobats will appear at Pantages for the week commencing with Monday's matinee. Their feats include a routine of daring, strength and agility developed along new and original lines. Next on the new list are Alice Lindley and De Moine Siebert in the comedy novelty "Her Own Mother," which title is interpreted to mean that Miss Lindley appears in the double role of mother and daughter. There is an uncle in the cast, and a nephew as well. The lady makes love to the one that she may win his consent to her marriage with the other, but which lady and which swain is made happy in the end is a merry conundrum that the advance agent does not elucidate. Archie Onri, inventor and premier manipulator of the latest comedy juggling implements, the "devilsticks," comes with pretty Miss Dolly, who is also described as a clever juggler. Onri's "devilsticks" are themselves almost entitled to headline honors, being more like living things than creatures of wood and metal. Dallas Chandler, whom the critics of her native town of Seattle have named "The Spring Maid of Vaudeville," comes with a big trunkful of costumery and a fat portfolio of the latest Broadway song hits. Miss Chandler disdains to sing twice in the same gown and as there are twenty-three performances weekly at Pantages, the extent of her sartorial equipment may be estimated by the higher mathematics. Beside the gowns and the songs, Miss Chandler is credited with a pleasing personality, a magnificent voice and a graceful stage presence. Black and Jones, of whom it is said that Jones is black and Black is tan, will assert their claim as champion "pedipulators," the same being their own description of a dancing act so different that it demands a new word for its proper description. Placed last on the list to emphasize their quality are Warren and Francis, an acrobatic pair who have the art terpsichorean "roped, thrown and branded," as Red Ike would say. Which means that dancing is their proper metier and everybody knows it. The Pantagescope and Pantages orchestral features will be in keeping with the remainder of this bill.

Suffering From Eczema

Unnecessary While Poslam, the Perfect Remedy, Quickly Heals.



Eczema, that many-formed skin malady, which authorities assert is usually caused by a disordered diet, never proves fatal and is generally found in those who are otherwise healthy. Poslam has probably accomplished more remarkable cures of this and other skin diseases than any remedy known. It is applied directly upon the disorder, stops itching at once and clears and heals the skin, restoring it to perfect condition. The great majority of cases yield in from two to four weeks. Acne, tetter, barbers' itch and similar aggravating troubles are likewise speedily cured.

Merely a small quantity of Poslam used for clearing the complexion, removing eruptions, pimples, rashes and blemishes is sufficient to show what it can do. Poslam is sold for 50 cents by The Owl Drug Co.'s Stores, and all druggists everywhere. For free sample write to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West 25th St., New York City.

Poslam Soap, medicated with Poslam is the best for your skin. Antiseptic, prevents infection. Large cake, 25 cents.

EGAN AND BARHAM.

Producing Firm Promises to Use Local Talent in Next Year's Shows. Reminiscences.

Considerable interesting news for dramatic students has been evolved during the past week by the junction of Frank Egan of the Egan School, and Manager Maurice Barham, manager of the company presenting "The Barrier," at the Lyceum, and adjutant of Ernest Shipman, very well-known locally, and who is now a producing manager in San Francisco, allied with John Cort.

Managers Shipman and Barham will have six or eight new productions in the field next year, and according to Mr. Barham they will use the local Egan School as a recruiting station for most of their players.

Manager Barham has already placed an order for a woman to fill an important role with one of his productions, as soon as she can be found.

This role was offered to Anna Thomas of the Egan School, who found it impossible to accept owing to other engagements with the two local companies.

When Mr. Shipman was a Los Angeles impresario and dramatic manager, several years ago, he was a bachelor. Now, however, there is a Mrs. Shipman—who was Miss Helen Barham, sister of the manager of "The Barrier."

Mrs. Shipman is now abroad, but next year will be starred by her husband and brother in the leading role of "The Ne'er-Do-Well," Rex Beach's newest story, not yet out of the magazine running. This announcement has not before been made.

This young woman, who is not yet 19 years of age, is likewise an Egan discovery, and was given her dramatic tutelage in Seattle, and is said to be as clever and promising as that other Seattle protege of the local actor-maker, Laurette Taylor, who was a conspicuous luminary in the metropolis last year, and who is still in the forefront of New York dramatic affairs—and even more conspicuously.

IN THE LIMELIGHT.

Admiral Dewey is keeping close watch on the Italian-Turkish war. As president of the General Board it is part of his duty to know all of importance that goes on in the world of naval strategy, and the lessons which may be derived from the present war are not being overlooked.

It is said that Capt. Albert Gleaves, U.S.N., will be the next commander of the Narragansett Bay Naval Station and the Second Naval District. He will be ordered to the station early in the winter. It is also stated that Commander John H. Dayton will be ordered to the command of the naval training station at Newport, R. I. Capt. Gleaves is at present in command of the battleship North Dakota, of the Atlantic fleet. Commander Dayton is Admiral Dewey's aid. He probably will arrive November 1.

Capt. William L. Rodgers will be the next president of the Naval War College. He is at present in command of the battleship Georgia.

Glen W. Starkey of Bangor, Me., is thought to have a greater area under his jurisdiction than any supervisor of schools in the United States. Mr. Starkey is supervisor of sixty schools in Somerset, Aroostook, Franklin, Hancock, Lincoln, Oxford, Penobscot, Piscataquis and Washington counties.

Richard Mahaney has been a track walker on the New York Central Railroad at Jordan, N. Y., for twenty-eight years, and in that time has never taken a holiday or been absent from duty a day. He has two and a half miles of track to watch, and he estimates that in the twenty-eight years he has walked a distance equal to twice around the world.

The success of the late Col. Albert Clarke, who was for almost twenty-two years secretaary of the Home Market Club, will be Thomas O. Marvin. The secretary is the club's managing officer, although he is officially subject to the orders of the president and board of directors.

A. H. Revel of Chicago, has won putting prizes at Lucerne, offered by that distinguished Russian lady, the Countess Apraxine, for the autumn meeting of the Lucerne Golf Club. Parisians know Mr. Revel well because he contributed much toward the equestrian statue of Layfayette, presented to France by the school children of America, and sculptured by the distinguished American artist, Paul Wayland Bartlett.

The Mobility of Labor.

[Chicago Tribune:] The cholera in Italy may be followed by a temporary migration of American farm laborers to Argentina. The wheat growers of that country have depended on Italy for harvest hands, but this year the supply is short because of the strict Argentine quarantine. So the wheat growers are offering American farm laborers $2 a day for five months with free transportation from Buenos Aires to the interior.

There are in this country men who begin work in the early spring in the Texas wheat fields and follow the ripening grain to the far North. When harvesting ends they are idle. If they would be at once transferred to a country where it is summer when it is winter here, they would go right ahead with their accustomed work.

So great is the mobility of labor nowadays, thanks to cheap ocean transportation, that that may come to pass. The men who alternated between the wheat fields of two continents would have that steady work which the industrious wage earner considers supreme felicity.

Fat Vanishes One Pound a Day

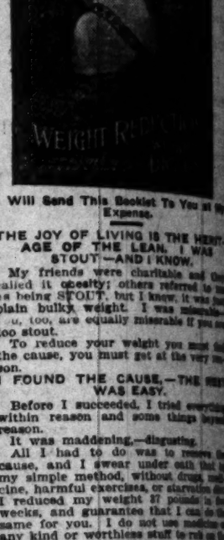
True Success at Last

Double Chin Vanishes

During the Last Two Months, Over Fifty Thousand Women Have Sent to Me for a Copy of This Remarkable Booklet, "WEIGHT REDUCTION WITHOUT DRUGS." Isn't This Convincing Evidence As to Its Value?



I Will Send This Booklet To You at My Expense.

THE JOY OF LIVING IS THE HERITAGE OF THE LEAN. I WAS STOUT—AND I KNOW.

My friends were charitable and One called it obesity; others referred to me as being STOUT, but I knew, it was just plain bulky weight. I was miserable, too, and equally miserable if you are too stout.

To reduce your weight you must find the cause, you must get at the very reason.

I FOUND THE CAUSE,—THE REMEDY WAS EASY.

Before I succeeded, I tried everything within reason and some things beyond reason.

It was maddening,—disgusting.

All I had to do was to remove the cause, and I swear under oath that by my simple method, without drugs, medicine, harmful exercises, or starvation diet, I reduced my weight 37 pounds in ten weeks, and guarantee that I can do the same for you. I do not use medicine of any kind or worthless stuff to rub on the body, but a simple home treatment, that a child can use it without harm. Through this marvelous combination home treatment, I succeeded because I had found the right way. I can now climb to the summit of Pike's Peak with ease. I could not do that until I had taken off 37 pounds of my ponderous weight.

It is simply astonishing the number of men and women who now write in regarding the wonderful results of this new process for banishing fat.

W. L. Schmitz, Montevideo, Minn., states he lost 30 pounds the first month. He is now losing 2 pounds daily.

A letter from Mamie McNelly, Dodge, Mo.:

"I feel that I can never offer praise enough for what this wonderful treatment has done for me. IT HAS REMOVED MY WEIGHT WONDERFULLY IN THE SHORT TIME I HAVE USED IT. My double chin has almost vanished, and I think this method the only perfect one known for speedy and sure reduction of flesh.

MAMIE McNELLY, Dodge, Mo."

Mr. J. E. Boiselle, Box 42, Great Bend, Kan., says my treatment reduced him 35 pounds.

J. T. Bright, M.D., Covington, Ky., says my treatment reduced him 38 lbs. quickly.

If you are interested in your own happiness and health and figure, you will permit me to tell you how to reduce your weight "Nature's Way."

I have printed a booklet for you called "Weight Reduction Without Drugs," which I am giving away without charge, prepaid to you, so that you may learn of my successful method and be able to permanently reduce your weight any amount up to 70 pounds, without harmful exercises or starvation diets, drugs or medicines. The expense of the book is so great that I do not want to send it to anybody curious, so please do not write for it unless you are fat or unless you wish a beautify your form.

Send for my booklet, "Weight Reduction Without Drugs." It is yours for the asking, and I will be glad to send it to you, postage prepaid.

I have found that the best way to have happiness is to give it.

the Interpreter.
Oh, well these places knew and loved us twain!
The guest softly laughed to see us
pass,
To kiss our blessed hands up climbed the grass,
And on our pathway danced a flowery chain,
To counsel us each aged tree was fain,
And all its leafy accents we could class;
By symbol-circles on its polished
glass,
In chiming shallows, still the brook spoke plain.
Now all is changed: I look and list
in vain;
As one who sits and hears a solemn strain
In other language, in an alien fane,
As I without thee in these haunts,
dear!
Or Nature's stranger—so must I remain
Till, sweet interpreter! thou come again.

Pictures of Places.

Sidney Dunlap was born in Whittier and has lived in Southern California all her life, except during the years when she studied art in Chicago, Philadelphia and Paris.

The first exhibition she has ever had in Los Angeles opened last Monday in the Steckel gallery, and we are left to wonder why she has withheld her excellent pictures from us so long. For Miss Dunlap painted very well, indeed, some years ago, as the dates on a few of her canvases show, and we are inclined to quarrel with her on her excess of modesty. We need pictures like hers in Los Angeles, because they are "so different"—though, perhaps, the difference has grown much in the atmosphere of Paris during the last few years.

However, the exhibition is ours at last, so let us enjoy it without rancor. Miss Dunlap, who came back from Paris only a few weeks ago, brought with her pictures from many places —vivid souvenirs of travel and study. It is pleasant to note that she has no "home" pictures in the exhibition, a hay field near Whittier and a lovely study of the mighty Laguna hills painted in haunting tones of lavender.

From the Chicago Institute Miss Dunlap went to the Pennsylvania academy in Philadelphia, where she won a scholarship, a year of travel. After that happy time of wandering she remained in Whittier a while, and then journeyed to Paris. Her pictures are from Amalfi, Venice, Paris, Bruges, Surennes, Giverny, Biarritz—all Southern California—a delectable variety, of which the piece de resistance, so to speak, is "The Arbor."

At any rate, "The Arbor," painted at Amalfi, Italy, is the largest canvas in the gallery, and the one that will come upon as you enter. It is vigorously painted work, in which the figures of the seated Italian peasant women are as vital as the handling. The cool, keen airs of Amalfi in October, seem to blow through Amalfi. The women, who are knitting, overlook the bright blue waters of the Mediterranean—but these are no bluer than the bay at Venice. The color scheme of the picture is orange and blue, found in the dresses and kerchiefs of the women, the tattered leaves of the vine above them, the sunlight and shade on the sky. We have, alas! no picturesque knitters of lurid socks in Catalina, but the bathers and the caves are fully as beautiful, and they await an interpreter.

Once, in her Paris studio, Miss Dunlap looked long for a model who didn't show up. At last, remembering a remark of her master that if you can't find a model you must paint anything in sight, she took a corner of her studio and painted what I think is the most exquisite picture in her entire collection—a thing of light and lovely color, of harmony complete and satisfying. I rejoice that the model never came, for then we might have had no "Corner of Studio."

Another interpretation of her own studio was painted just as darkness was settling over Paris—that darkness so full of blue mystery. The long windows—what mournful windows they were!—show in dusk to be but a velvet curtain, behind which are hung a few Chinese lanterns of deepest orange. Before a girl has flung herself, face downward, upon a large table littered with papers and artistic trifles, and one near me remarked, while we looked at it, the picture reminded one of Lucia di Lammermoor —not at any rate, of something very sad and tragic and fateful. For that's the way an artist's inspiration often—making tremendous things out of very little ones.

What a beautiful bit of impressionism we have in "The Open Door," all the greens that are so difficult to handle, but which yet have been so beautifully manipulated in this case. And how truly the foliage has been painted behind the glass above the door—how subtly the values have been kept. That's what I call painting. It was ever the spirit of a scene, the quiet poetic suggestions, caught and translated to canvas with a surer touch than ever before.

Through the experiment (Miss Dunlap says it was only an experiment) at impressionism in "La Porte" may make you stare and wonder, it won't offend you, for the pure reds, greens, yellows and blues of the gate and the vine and the two lovers at the gate are so cunningly arranged as the elements of color, in a mosaic, and the feeling of the scene is quite perfect in spite of the flamboyant primary colors. Perhaps the neo-impressionists are not quite so mad and bad as we had supposed. This picture and "The Open Door" are both framed in white, for which boon let us give thanks.

What a note of color is the yellow sash in the picture called simply "Rain," and painted in Venice. It's a thing to revel in, to drink in the dulcet tones of the Bride of the Doges? Another bit of pure impressionism triumphantly good is "La Bois de Boulogne," and still another, "A Cafe, Paris," in which the color is rich, full and true.

The color, indeed, characterizes almost all these pictures—"October in Japan," which gives a play of sunlight on the green side of a house, and "Lotus Pond," bowed women dressed in pink, wandering in a garden full of the strangest of ugly flowers; "The Concert," a love affair with liquid refreshments; "Reflections," painted in Venice; "Rue St. Catherine, Paris," and so on.

The entire exhibition, one of the best of the season, will remain open until October 31.

Picture Painters.

A change in the attitude of the public toward paintings of American subjects has come gradually during the last few years," says an writer in the New York Sun, "and this, it is one of the manifestations of which have come, not of necessity, but of personal choice, human paintings used to go begging. Now they are sought and found in Fifth avenue.

"What a change from a few years ago when Frederick S. Dellenbaugh rushed from Paris to the Southwest to paint the redman and his life, with the idea that America would welcome an opportunity to secure such canvases! People refused to look at them, or looked with wonder that anybody should dream they would prove interesting. It was just as well for Dellenbaugh, for it made him the explorer, historian and geographer to whose researches much of the knowledge of the Southwest and of some other parts of the continent is due. And he sometimes exhibits paintings.

"The change from ignoring to welcoming the Indian picture is felt in the West even more than in New York, and a number of western painters whose works are not often seen here have reached success by it. On the other hand, Charles M. Russell, sometimes called Cowboy Russell, or the Cowboy Painter, the self-taught artist of Great Falls, Mont., exhibited some work at the Folsom galleries last spring and attracted attention among painters and public alike. He made some sales here, too. Some of his paintings are now hanging in the rooms of the Rocky Mountain Club at the Waldorf-Astoria.

"Frederic Remington's works jumped in monetary value, which seems to be the course of nature in the art world, after his death a year ago last Christmas, but they jumped considerably, and there are more requests for his Indian paintings than for his others, it is said, along Fifth avenue.

"E. W. Deming, another artist who knows the Indian life and culture from actual experience with the redmen over broad territory, is one of the painters who sell most of their works directly from the studio, people going to his Macdougal alley studio to look for it. But just now a group of his paintings of Indian life hangs in one of the rooms of the new Public Library, 'Making Medicine,' 'The Spirit of the Bear,' 'The Indian Orpheus' and others are there.

"These are not mere titles of mere paintings, and it is as interpretations of Indian life, or Indian philosophy, if you please, or sentiment or religion, that Mr. Deming's works on these lines are sought and appreciated. The Indian is neither all war, nor all savage, nor all myth, and art is helping to teach his conquerors something of his inner life."

Apparently Los Angeles has been even more fortunate than New York in this matter of pictures of Indian life. One of our dealers, I. F. Kanst, has had them on view constantly for the past few years, and has sold not a few of them. Such notable painters as Sharp, Rollins, Mrs. Hudson, Couse, Remington, Burbank and Sauerwen have exhibited with Kanst. Occasionally the shows have been one-man affairs.

E. A. Burbank's studies of the dances of the Hopi tribe, and his remarkable series of portraits in red chalk, are to be permanently hung in museums of race history. He is in Arizona now. Mrs. Hudson, who lives in Northern California, is wielding the searching and insinuating brush of a Gerard Dou in intimate studies of the Indian's daily life that are as sympathetic as they are charming. Sauerwen, who had a permanent studio in Taos, studied the landscape and the aborgines of New Mexico from one end of the year to the other. Occasionally he wintered in Los Angeles. J. H. Sharp, too, lived much in New Mexico, painting brilliant pictures of Indian life, though of late he has remained in Pasadena. In passing, it must not be forgotten that Burbank claims Los Angeles as his home.

For the past five years no one has made a closer study of the Indian of New Mexico and Arizona than Warren E. Rollins, who has just returned to Los Angeles after three months of hard work in the desert places. It is Rollins's intention to paint a series of pictures dealing with the life of the American Indian from the Aztec period to the present day—a gallery of paintings that will be as historically interesting and instructive as it will be artistically beautiful.

This artist's interest in his subject is all-absorbing. In the future he will paint almost nothing else. He has grasped the possibilities of his great theme, and no one is better equipped than he to do them full justice. Those of us who have noted the fine epic quality of many of his later pictures of Indian life—"The Land of His Fathers," "The Historian," and so on—and have followed the sure and gradual unfoldment of his manner of technical expression, feel no doubts of the final success of Rollins's tremendous undertaking. He will do the work, and do it well—better, perhaps, all things considered, than any one else could do it.

An exhibition of some of his more recent canvasses will be held in Los Angeles this winter.

Pictures by Rogers.

About fifteen canvasses from the brush of Charles A. Rogers will be on view in the Daniell gallery during the coming week. They are landscapes, studies of the ruins of San Francisco after the fire, and pictures of Los Angeles' Chinatown.

Of especial interest and beauty are Mr. Rogers's studies of the ruins. He himself was one of the artists who suffered severely by the fire, and joined the army of refugees who settled in Los Angeles. These pictures are absolutly authentic and truthful, wonderfully impressive, dignified and beautiful, as good artistically as they are valuable as pictorial documents for the future historian of California.

In San Francisco's Chinatown—that place of bizarre wonders and strange tragedies, of revolting squalors and magnificent extravagances — Rogers used to find his most successful subjects, and since coming to Los Angeles he has painted our own local Chinatown. Two or three of these studies will be on exhibition.

Noteworthy is the marine which shows a yellow moon rising over breaking waves and very charming are the two or three studies of adobe walls in sunlight, on which the near-by trees throw moving arabesques of shade. Good, too, is the study of sand dunes on a Michigan coast.

ART NOTES.

An exhibition of pastels by Xarifa Hamilton-Towner will be held in the McBurney gallery, Walker Theater building, beginning tomorrow and continuing till November 6. Landscapes and marines will be shown, all Southern California subjects. Miss Hamilton-Towner has a good sense for color and composition, and many of her works are painted with genuine feeling. Among the interesting pictures is "Cloud and Cliff," another is a wood interior in the arroyo.

Ralph Davison Miller has been holding an exhibition of his landscapes in the Blanchard gallery. Some strong and interesting things were shown, the most notable being a few long-shore studies of the sea. The entire collection was sold at auction yesterday afternoon.

A notable portrait is that of Mrs. Jotham Bixby, Sr., on which Helma Heynsen Jahn is now working. It shows us a gray-haired lady with a fine, candid face and keen dark eyes. The hands, lying quiet in her lap, are strong, yet sensitive. Mrs. Jahn has also begun a portrait of George Bixby, Mrs. Jotham Bixby's son.

An interesting exhibition will be that of L. P. Latimer, the water color painter of San Francisco, made famous through his studies of the redwood forests. About twenty-five pictures by Latimer will be shown, oils as well as water colors. This notable exhibition will open at Kanst's on the first Monday in November. At its conclusion, Birge Harrison will exhibit a score of his best canvases.

Henry Lovins, the new instructor at the College of Fine Arts, Garvanza, is exhibiting a number of interesting landscapes in the galleries of the school. Mr. Lovins, who has been a pupil of Chase and other famous American masters, was at one time at the head of a school of art in Denver. He has come to Southern California for the purpose of painting its landscape, and will probably remain here several years.

At the Los Angeles School of Art and Design, Sixth and Alvarado streets, lectures, criticisms and examinations will be given during the coming year by the following well-known men and women: Hector Alliot, Dr. W. T. McArthur, Julia Bracken Wendt, Jean Mannheim, Eugene Frank, Mrs. L. E. Garden-Macleod.

William Wendt has again gone to his favorite sketching ground, Topanga Canyon, to remain for some weeks.

Antonia Melvill has returned to her studio in Blanchard Hall, and has started several portraits of local people.

OVER THE SEA.

The British Museum has received the oldest checkerboard in the world. It was presented by Prof. W. M. F. Petrie, the Egyptologist, who found it in Egypt. The board is said to date from the fourth dynasty, 3766 years B. C.

The allowance of $8000 a year which the King of Saxony gave to Mme. Toselli, once his wife, has been stopped, it is announced officially. The reason assigned is the publishing of the memoirs of the former Crown Princess, which the court and government consider scandalous.

Though poets are reputed to die young, the literary and artistic professions have their full share of examples of longevity. Yet it would not be easy to match the case of the English artist, Thomas Robert Macquoid, who is 91 and still able to use his pen and brush effectively, and his wife, Katherine S. Macquoid, a novelist, who published her first book in 1859 and at 87 years of age is still a busy writer whose work is in demand.

For the purpose of inaugurating a big colonization project the Duke of Sutherland has acquired a substantial interest in 12,000 acres of land near White's Landing, on the west side of the Fraser River, twenty miles below Fort George, British Columbia.

The question has been asked lately what has become of the historic straw hat which John Burns wore during the great dock strike two and twenty years ago. Mr. Burns is a careful preserver of all books, documents, newspaper cuttings and other records which bear on his own exceptional career, and he preserves the straw hat among them. It would need a great deal of money to tempt him to part with it. He was once offered $100 for it by an inn-keeper, who wanted to exhibit it in his bar. But he promptly refused.

PROMINENT PERSONS.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Choate of New York recently celebrated their golden wedding at their summer home at Naumkeag, Mass. Presents of gold were received from friends all over the country and from Europe. Ambassador and Mrs. Brice were present at the festivities and delivered to Mr. and Mrs. Choate a beautiful gift sent from the home office of England.

Mrs. Ellen Spencer Mussey, dean of the Washington College of Law, is the only woman dean of a law school in the world. She is not only an authority on law, but she has taken special interest in having laws made that will benefit women and children. She was the author of the Mussey act, which in the District of Columbia gives mothers equal rights with fathers over their children, and gives married women the right to control money they earn themselves.

When John D. Rockefeller left Cleveland for his winter home at Pocantico Hills, N. Y., he sent personal photographs to the several Cleveland papers that he might avoid the newspaper photographers that always beset him on his annual departure for the East.

Neither Lord Strathcona nor his cousin, Lord Mount Stephen, have sons to carry on their names and work. Although the former's gifts to charities and institutions have been of the most princely order, he is still immensely wealthy, owning five residences in various parts of the globe. After his elevation to the peerage, Lord Strathcona obtained a special patent to enable his daughter, the Hon. Mrs. Robert Howard, to inherit the title, as he has no son. She is married to a London doctor and has several children, so the title will eventually come to her eldest boy, now at Eton, who was christened Donald after his distinguished grandfather.

Lord Mount Stephen is even more unlucky than his kinsman, for he has no children at all, though he has been married twice. He has an adopted daughter, who is now the wife of Lord Northcote. The present Lady Mount Stephen was Miss Gian Tufnell, a lady-in-waiting of the late duchess of Teck, mother to the queen, and was with her till her royal mistress died. She was a great favorite with all the young Tecks, and when Prince Alexander married Princess Alice of Albany, they spent their honeymoon at Brocket Hall, London, Lord Mount Stephen's country place.

Right Way to Sleep.

[London Globe:] Dr. Fischer, a physician practicing in Paris, has turned his attention to the matter of sleeping reform. After a series of experiments he has come to the conclusion that the orthodox way of sleeping is wrong and advocates a complete reversal of the existing order of things.

You must have your head on a level with or lower than your feet. If pillows are to be used they must be under the feet instead of the head. The result, he claims, will be amazing, being a sure cure for insomnia as well as a preventative for the nightmare. To prevent any inconvenience by too sudden a change the pillows should be gradually reduced and finally placed under the feet.

Health and Beauty Queries

BY MRS. MAE MARTIN

Mrs. M. D.: For short, thin hair there is nothing better to promote a healthy, vigorous growth than a good quinine tonic. But do not trust to any prepared tonic that may have been made so long as to have lost its strength. Get from any drug store an ounce of quinzoin and a half pint alcohol; mix together, then add a half pint cold water. Massage this tonic into your scalp about twice a week; it will cause dandruff and scalp irritation to disappear as if by magic, and you will soon notice your hair getting longer, thicker and beautifully lustrous. This splendid tonic is a positive remedy for falling hair.

Miss R.: You will find the following lotion a splendid skin-whitener and complexion beautifier: Dissolve four ounces of spurmax in a half pint hot water, then add two teaspoonfuls glycerine. This not only takes the place of a face powder, but you will find it far better in every respect. It does not rub off or show like powder, and benefits the skin. Apply this lotion to the face, rubbing gently until dry. It will take away that shiny, muddy, rough look and leave your skin smooth and fresh looking. This inexpensive lotion is now used largely by women of refinement, and is unequaled for removing freckles, tan and skin pimples.

M. M.: No, do not use dry shampoo powder under any circumstances. Authorities on hair culture almost invariably condemn such mixtures, as they simply clog up the pores in the scalp and cause dandruff and other scalp troubles. When your hair needs washing, use for your shampoo a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water. This makes a rich lather that cleanses perfectly and will leave your hair brighter, cleaner and fluffier than ever before. This shampoo rinses easily, dries quickly and positively will not make the hair streaky and brittle like soap does. If you will use this shampoo once, I am sure you will be so pleased that you will never care to try any other.

W. E. S.: To make your eyes clear, bright, and show the sparkle of health, dissolve an ounce of crystos in a pint of water and put a few drops in each eye twice daily. This soothing tonic is very strengthening to weak, tired, inflamed eyes and will make your eyes clear and beautiful. For sore, granulated lids it is splendid and greatly helps those who wear glasses.

Mrs. D. J.: You need a good, strengthening tonic and liver regulator, to purify your blood and build up your health. Take before each meal a tablespoonful of the following: Dissolve a half cup sugar and one ounce kardene in a half pint alcohol, then add hot water to make a full quart. This home-made tonic will clear up a sallow, pimply complexion quickly, and as a liver regulator, it is simply splendid. It makes the best home medicine imaginable, and does wonders in restoring lost appetite, energy and general good health.

Veta S.: To clear your complexion and make it smooth, soft and satiny, use the following cream-jelly: Mix together one ounce of almozoin, two teaspoonfuls glycerine and a half pint cold water. Stir and let stand a few hours before using. This greaseless complexion-jelly is the finest thing you can get for reducing those large pores below your eyes and clearing up your complexion. It removes all pore-dirt, blackheads, freckles and skin pimples, and when used as a massage cream, fills out hollow cheeks and removes wrinkles readily.

Ella T.: Really, you have no just cause to worry on account of those superfluous hairs, because with a little delatone and water you can make a paste, which applied to the offensive hairs and left two or three minutes, then rubbed off, will remove every trace of hair. Get an ounce of delatone and use as I suggest, washing the skin after removing the delatone, and you will be delighted with results. Delatone costs a dollar an ounce, but is worth every cent, as it is unfailing.

Mae W.: I do not approve of dieting and exercising for fat reduction. The simplest and best way is to get four ounces of parnotis from any drug store and dissolve it in a pint and a half of hot water. Take a tablespoonful before each meal, and to your great satisfaction you will soon notice your fat disappearing. This harmless remedy will not leave your skin wrinkled and flabby, and has the endorsement of thousands who have tried it.

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS

BY SYDNEY FORD.

"HAVE you registered yet?" is the popular form of salutation these days. Strange to say, some of the women—suffragists, too, but shy—are actually hesitating, for a reason that is perhaps best embodied in Goldsmith's immortal words:

"O, sir! I must not tell my age.
They say women and music should never be dated."

To parody Shakespeare's classic the question seems to be:

To vote, or not to vote, ay, there's the rub—
Whether 'tis nobler to confess one's years
And take the chances that it be not passed from lip to lip
At every gathering where women do congregate—
To catch ill-suppressed murmurs of "Looks young for her years, doesn't she?"
Uttered in tones half-sneering and wholly suspicious.
To hear your best friend softly whisper in your ear,
"Your hat's becoming, but a trifle young, my dear,
For one who'll next month pass her fiftieth year."
Or, "She fibbed about her age, I know, it cannot be
That she is only thirty-three; her vote I'll challenge
On election day when at the polls we meet."
Oh, what rare and racy opportunity to pay up many a score
Of snubs and slights; to trip up would-be climbers
On the ladder which leads from suffrage up to loftier heights
Of social triumphs—were not this spectre grim
Of all one's past years peeping in.

The New Civics Section.

How to convert the moving picture show into an immense factor for good was the problem that the new civics section of the Ebell Club grappled with at its initial meeting Thursday morning, when sixty women assembled for the first session of this department, of which Mrs. J. B. Stearns is curator.

The fact that fully 85 per cent. of the scenes for all the moving picture shows in the United States are taken right here in our own Southern California gives us a local interest of rather more keenness, perhaps, than under ordinary circumstances. The sunshine and climate here conduce to outdoor photography more than any other spot in the country.

Mrs. Oliver P. Bryant, president of the Civic Association, detailed the work of that organization which has been very effective in investigating the evils of these shows, and in getting ordinances regulating them before the City Council.

Mrs. J. E. Cowles gave some striking statistics of how the moving picture show has invaded the residence districts, and Mrs. Edwin Smith showed the development and progress of this "poor-man's theater," as it has been called. She passed about a film for inspection and gave an interesting account of the mechanism of the kinematograph, and some alluring glimpses of the tremendous possibilities of the united work of moving pictures and the phonograph from an ecudational and artistic standpoint.

Mrs. Florence Collins Porter brought information from the fountainhead in the shape of an interview with her neighbor in South Pasadena, who is the owner of one of the large moving-picture shows in Los Angeles. She quoted some amazing figures from an economic point of view. This man, who is in a position to know what he is talking about, says that there are not less than 12,000 moving-picture shows registered in the United States, and some 18,000 not listed. More than $40,000,000 is invested in these concerns, and the business equals that of the Standard Oil Company. The serious side of the economic question lies in the fact that the enormous sum of $300,000,000 is expended annually—most of it by poor people, in nickels and dimes—as admission fees.

It goes without saying that the moving-picture show has come to stay, and the thing to do is to put it on a beneficial and educational basis. Already, it was reported, saloons are making an outcry that these shows are drawing from them—that saloons in the vicinity of picture shows are steadily losing patronage—a fact that elicited a round of applause from the club women.

It was shown that these attractive entertainments might be turned to tremendous account in churches, and for municipal use, as a moral uplift when so many perfectly legitimate things may be used as subjects and in just as attractive a way as hold-ups and silly sentimental scenes. In schools for the deaf and dumb, in institutions for the feeble-minded, a great educational work could be carried on by this means. The United States government has recognized the great possibilities of moving pictures by using them to great advantage to illustrate certain naval maneuvers, etc.

P.T.A. Rally Day.

If you really want to personally inspect the philanthropic work that the Parent-Teacher Federation is doing, next Tuesday morning will be your golden opportunity. I am told that a string of automobiles will be at the corner of Fifth and Olive streets at 10 o'clock a.m., on that day to convey visitors—both men and women who desire to go—to the day nurseries, model home, maternity cottage, penny kitchen and parent-teacher clinic, all of which institutions are assisted—and in some cases wholly maintained—by these mothers whose hearts are big enough to embrace all the needy little ones in the city.

If you happen to have an automobile lying around idle it might be a good idea to ring up Mrs. F. L. Schofield, South 5605, and offer to have it on hand Tuesday morning at the above place on the hour specified. The trip will consume but three hours, so you'd be home for a late lunch.

All this is preliminary to the cantata of Queen Esther which is to be given this week at the Auditorium for the benefit of these same philanthropies — three performances—Thursday and Friday evenings and Saturday matinee. If you go down next Tuesday morning and see how much good is being accomplished at these institutions, the chances are that you'll be inspired to take some tickets for the cantata and so help along a good work and incidentally lay up treasure for yourself where there are no moths nor rust to corrupt.

Guild Ingathering.

If you are thinking these fall days of joining some club, milady, permit me to suggest that you make haste to unite yourself immediately with a magnificent organization which claims as members some of the best women in all Los Angeles.

The membership fee is small—just a couple of new, plain and suitable garments to meet the great need of those who have not been blessed with an over supply of this world's goods. There's one stipulation: These garments must be new, not half-worn. If you prefer, you can make a cash offering of the value of the garments and this will be accepted as a membership fee in the Needlework Guild, the Los Angeles branch of which has thirty-seven sections, each with its president. Last year nearly 8000 garments were brought in at the annual ingathering and distributed among more than fifty different hospitals, homes, benevolent institutions, nurseries and missions.

The annual ingathering will come off this year on November 6 and if you want to have a part in reaching this "great unmothered multitude," just communicate with the president, Mrs. S. S. Salisbury, Hotel Ingraham. The Needlework Guild is entirely nonsectarian, modeled in part after the English society founded by Lady Wolverton and it has branches in cities all over the United States. It is affiliated with the American National Red Cross to the extent that, in times of disaster, the guild works in concert with the Red Cross Society in sending relief in the shape of garment donations.

At the time of the San Francisco earthquake and fire the Los Angeles branch of the guild did noble work in supplying hundreds of garments for the refugees. The list of section presidents of the local branch includes: Mmes. S. S. Salisbury, S. K. Lindley, Mary E. Hartwell, J. W. Dawson, W. F. Barnett, T. Frank Mc. McGrath, L. E. Arnold, Alfred W. Morgan, F. Winstanley, S. Grant Goucher, Charles Hay, J. E. Fullwood, A. Boyle Workman, W. S. Bott, Percy Wilson, A. Pioche Robinson, W. D. Whelan, S. M. Mudd, J. Clifford Page, Jr., Harry R. Callender, Harcourt Wilson, R. H. Lindsay, J. M. Clute, J. F. Andrews, L. A. Craig, O. P. Clark, J. H. Drain, C. E. Walton, C. A. Bashford, F. Alles, J. T. Drew and Misses Kitty Walbridge, Virginia Twigg, Minnie Brydges and Miss Jolly, representing the Lambda Theta Phi Sorority.

San Bernardino Women Work.

Mrs. Alvah Grant Fessenden, formerly of this city, now of San Bernardino, where her husband is pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, was in the city last week as delegate to the Synodical Society. Mrs. Fessenden has been very active in forming in San Bernardino recently a branch of the Interdenomational Missionary Society, which is an aftermath of the missionary movement which swept over the country last year, terminating in the great jubilee in Boston. At a called meeting of the San Bernardino churches a week or two ago a committee of thirty was appointed, comprising three women from each of the ten churches represented. The object of this committee was to double the membership of each society and increase its work in corresponding ratio. October 27 is the date set for the next meeting, when results will be reported. Miss Curtiss of the San Bernardino Baptist Church is secretary of the committee and Mrs. Fessenden is president.

Averill Club Plans.

The Averill Club will devote itself to the study of American history this year, beginning back in Colonial days. At the first meeting of the club each member answered roll call with the name of her native State, some fifteen of which were represented—several members coming from the same States. During October the club meets with Mrs. Bacon on Breed street. The fifth Tuesday in the month is devoted to a musical and social session, and the club will meet at the home of Mrs. George M. Munger, No. 1922 Hobart boulevard, on the afternoon of October 31.

Inglewood Dickens Club.

The Dickens Literary Club of Inglewood held its fortnightly meeting on Tuesday last at the home of Mrs. W. G. Brown. The president, Mrs. Charles H. Eager, outlined a possible plan for the Dickens Carnival to be held by this club in Inglewood on February 7, the centenary of the great author's birth. The Dickens centenary stamps were exhibited and Mrs. Eager expressed the hope that every Dickens lover in California would purchase some of these stamps to place in their volumes of Dickens.

Ladies from the Glendale Tuesday Afternoon Club were visitors, one of whom, Mrs. J. H. Wells, gave a delightful talk on the work of their organization. An interesting and instructive paper on "Dickens Illustrators and Biographers" was read by Mrs. G. R. Westlake, the regular study work of "Pickwick Papers" and the roll call, "Noted Women of England," beside several articles from the current issue of the "Dickensian," made up an interesting programme.

The Inglewood club has the distinction of being the only Dickens society on the Pacific Coast, or west of Illinois, and is one of the six in the United States which is affiliated with the parent society in England, which has a membership of over eighteen thousand.

Dickens lovers outside of Inglewood may become associate members of this society.

"Good-By."

We say it for an hour or for long years;
We say it smiling, we say it choked with tears;
We say it coldly, say it with a kiss;
And yet we have no other words than this—
"Good-by."

We have no dearer word for our heart's friend.
For him who journeys to the world's far end,
And scars our soul with going; thus we say
As unto him who steps out o'er the way—
"Good-By."

Alike to those we love and those we hate,
We say no more at parting. At life's gate,
To him who passes out beyond earth's sight,
We cry as to the wanderer for a night—
"Good-By."

Dew Ponds in Great Britain.

[London Globe:] Among the most singular archeological remains found in Great Britain are the ancient dew ponds, the construction of which is ascribed to the neolithic age. The purpose of these ponds was to furnish drinking water for cattle. An exposed position where springs were absent was selected and a broad, hollowed surface was formed and covered over with straw or someother non-conducting material. Above was spread a thick layer of clay strewn with stones. During the night the cold surface of the clay caused an abundance of moisture to condense from lower layers of the air. Some of these ancient dew ponds are still working.

DIVORCE GERM FOUND.

It Is Alphabetical and can Easily be Avoided in the Advance of Marriage. Discovered by Clerk.

[New York Herald:] Reverend members of the clergy have pondered, students have searched, conventions of Governors have argued and debated and even Presidents have wrinkled their brows to find the source of the divorce germ, but not until yesterday did anyone attain success. Clerks who file and index the legal papers in the office of the County Clerk, Mr. Schneider, are the discoverers.

According to the clerks, the cause for the germ cannot be laid at the door of hard times, or the suffrage movement or social conditions, or the lack of proper consideration before entering the wedded state, or in fact, any of the usually accepted theories. It is much simpler—the germ is alphabetical.

The clerks announce that in seventy-five per cent. of divorce actions the first names of husband and wife begin with the same letter. Thus a man named Charles is sued by a woman named Cecilia, or a woman named Xantippe is charged with misconduct by a man named Xenophon.

The solution is obvious, the clerks point out. When choosing a life mate, they advise mankind, never mind her looks, her disposition, her possession or lack of domestic traits, or her habits. But do be careful, if your name, say, chances to be Robert, that you do not lavish your affections upon Rosamond. And so for the women also.

If this rule be followed the discoverers of the alphabetical germs will then guarantee that future wedded lives will be one long incarnation of supernal bliss.

Where Dr. Wiley Belongs.

[Brooklyn Eagle:] A couple of Washington men were discussing the reported plan of Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, to ask President Taft to transfer Dr. Wiley, the pure food man, and his Bureau of Chemistry to some other department, on the ground that the activities of the famous watchman of our food and drink do not properly fall within the scope of crop raising and insect investigating.

"Wilson wants him put in the Department of Commerce and Labor," remarked one. "Perhaps he does belong there."

"Not at all," rejoined the other. "Wiley ought to be transferred to the Department of the Interior."

"I don't see how he would fit in there."

"You don't? Why, man, Dr. Wiley knows more about the United States' interior and the stuff that is fed to it than any man in the country. He ought to be made Secretary."

Windows.

The windows of the place wherein I dwell
I will make beautiful. No garish light
Shall enter crudely; but with colors bright
And warm and throbbing I will weave a spell
Of rainbow tracery the theme to tell
Of seer and simple saint and noble knight,
Beggar and king who fought the valiant fight.
They shall transfigure even my poor cell.

And when the shadows of the night begin,
And sifted sunbeams fall no more on me,
May I have learned to light my lamp within,
So that the passing world may look and see
Still the fair message, though in paler hue,
Of the sweet lives who help men to live true!

THE HELPING HAND.

Blow the dust little candle throws his Around
To shine a good deed in a naughty world."

On Monday morning a woman and young girl, poorly though neatly dressed, arrived at the Santa Fe station on an overland train and, walking into the station house, looked anxiously around as if in expectation of welcoming greeting from friends or relatives. Finally they sat down, weary and disappointed, but their faces lighted with pleasant surprise when a well-dressed young woman approached and asked if she could assist them in any way. The women told their story, which was to the effect that they had started to meet J. N. Wilson, the husband and father, who had preceded them to Los Angeles by several days. They came from a little town in Kansas, and Mr. Wilson, whose health had failed in the eastern village, had come to this city, regained his health, secured employment and sent for them to follow him to the land of sun and flowers. It seemed that their train had been delayed and, for some reason or another, Wilson had not been able to meet them upon their arrival. They knew his telephone number and said they thought they could find him.

The young woman who had addressed the strangers is Miss Ethel Bullard, a deaconess of the Y.W.C.A. She invited them to accompany her to the rest room of the association building, where the tired travelers were made comfortable until the husband, to whom they telephoned, arrived to meet them.

Of all the work done under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A., perhaps no work is more fruitful of good, and certainly nothing helps to give strangers within the gates a better opinoin of Los Angeles than the work of the deaconesses of the Young Women's Christian Association. Every day Miss Kirkwod is at Salt Lake and the Santa Fe station to meet the overland trains in order to look after the welfare of women who may arrive alone, and often are unacquainted with the city. Miss Jessie Pratt, another deaconess, has charge of this work at the Arcade station, and Miss Reed meets every boat that arrives at the San Pedro Harbor.

Miss Madeye, who recently died at the Euro-Shakespeare Home in New Orleans, gave fifteen years of his life to the care of a friend afflicted with cancer. Living a life of complete isolation, his friends for the most part not knowing his whereabouts, he devotedly remained with his pest-ridden companion until death called the sufferer. He did not himself contract the disease, and so devoted his later years to generous works that when age overtook him he found it necessary to go to the Home, where he died.

The rector declined an anesthetic during the operation. The patient was suffering from hemorrhage superinduced by typhoid fever.

One of Senator W. Murray Crane's acts has become known. Despite the fact that he wished nothing said about the gift it has just been revealed in Marlboro, Mass., that it is through a check for $225 which he sent that Thomas A. Coyne of that city is enrolled in the Worcester Polytechnic Institute.

Senator Crane became interested in the young man through his efforts to get him in the Naval Academy in Annapolis. Coyne was appointed by Congressman John J. Mitchell, and although he passed the educational test he was rejected owing to a defect in eyesight. Another examination was ordered, but Coyne did not have sufficient time in which to correct the trouble in his vision.

It is his difficulty the young man went to Washington to see Senator Crane. The Senator advised Coyne to enter the Worcester institution and then surprised him a few days later by mailing him a check for his tuition.

Jesse Dymond, a farmer in Rice county, Kansas, his wife and daughter, were stricken with typhoid fever at the same time, and Mrs. Dymond succumbed to the disease. Mr. Dymond, who is a good farmer, had prepared his wheat ground for planting before he became ill, but was unable to sow any of the wheat.

His friends and neighbors, thirty-eight in all, decided that the wheat must be planted last week. The thirty-eight men with thirty-one drills and 121 head of horses gathered at the farm and started to work. In three hours the entire field of 130 acres was sowed in wheat.

How Soon We Cease to Care.

A little while to work, a little while to play,
And then we step aside—our playthings put away—
To watch our children strive and hear their children shout,
Our old ambitions dead, our jealousies burned out.

A little while to hope, a little while to grieve
Because we try so hard, so meagerly achieve;
A little while to care and then to cease to sigh
Because the hopes we had were only born to die.

A little while to boast o'er triumphs we have won,
And then to step aside, our pride and boasting done—
To sit within the shade and nod, unnoticed there—
How short a time it is, how soon we cease to care.

STORIES OF FAMOUS POEMS.

The Luck of Edenhall.

By Uhland.
(Translated by H. W. Longfellow.)

Of Edenhall, the youthful Lord,
Bids sound the festal trumpet's call;
He rises at the banquet board.
And cries, 'mid the drunken revelers all,
"Now bring me the Luck of Edenhall!"

The butler hears the words with pain,
The house's oldest seneschal,
Takes slow from its silken cloth again
The drinking-glass of crystal tall;
They call it The Luck of Edenhall.

Then said the Lord: "This glass to praise,
Fill with red wine from Portugal!"
The graybeard with trembling hand obeys;
A purple light shines over all,
It beams from the Luck of Edenhall.

Then speaks the Lord, and waves it light!
"This glass of flashing crystal tall
Gave to my sires the Fountain-Sprite;
She wrote in it: "If this glass doth fall,
Farewell, then O Luck of Edenhall!"

"'Twas right a goblet the Fate should be
Of the joyous race of Edenhall;
Deep draughts drink we right willingly;
And willingly ring, with merry call,
Kling! Klang! To the Luck of Edenhall!"

First rings it deep, and full, and mild,
Like to the song of a nightingale;
Then like the roar of a torrent wild,
Then mutters at last like the thunder's fall,
The glorious Luck of Edenhall.

"For its keeper takes a race of might,
The fragile goblet of crystal tall;
It has lasted longer than is right;
Kling! Klang!—with a harder blow than all
Will I try the Luck of Edenhall!"

As the goblet ringing flies apart,
Suddenly cracks the vaulted hall;
And through the rift, the wild dames start;
The guests in dust are scattered all,
With the breaking Luck of Edenhall!

In storms the foe, with fire and sword;
He in the night has scaled the wall,
Slain by the sword lies the youthful Lord,
But holds in his hand the crystal tall,
The shattered Luck of Edenhall.

On the morrow the butler gropes alone,
The graybeard in the desert hall,
He seeks his Lord's burnt skeleton,
He seeks in the dismal ruin's fall
The shards of the Luck of Edenhall.

"The stone wall," saith he, "doth fall aside,
Down must the stately columns fall;
Glass is this earth's Luck and Pride;
In atoms shall fall this earthly ball
One day like the Luck of Edenhall!"

"The Luck of Edenhall" has attained a great amount of popularity through the number of poets who have taken the interesting romance and woven it into verse. One of the earliest of these poems was written by Jeremiah Holme Wilm, but it has been rarely printed in this country. It is a long poem and to be found in the "Book of British Ballads." But this poem is not nearly as well known as Longfellow's translation of Uhland's verses on the same subject, which were given above. The artist has represented the cup, in form a chalice, and the Queen of the Fairies in it.

There is a curious poem on the cup called the "Drinking Match at Edenhall," written by Phillip, Duke of Wharton—a parody on the ballad of Chevy Chase. This must have been written prior to 1731, at which date Wharton, "the scorn and wonder of his days," died in Spain.

At Edenhall, the seat of the ancient family of Musgrave, near Penrith, in Cumberland, the curious drinking-cup, which figures in verse above is preserved as one of the most cherished heirlooms. It is composed of very thin glass, ornamented on the outside with a variety of colored devices, and will hold about an English pint. The legend regarding it is that the butler of the family, having gone one night to draw water at the well of St. Cuthbert, a copious spring in the garden of the mansion of Edenhall, surprised a group of fairies disporting themselves beside the well, at the margin of which stood the drinking-glass unnoticed. He seized hold of it and a struggle for its recovery ensued between him and the fairies. The elves were worsted and thereupon took to flight, exclaiming:

"If this glass do break or fall,
Farewell the luck of Edenhall!"

The extreme thinness of the glass rendering it very liable to breakage, which was probably the origin of the legend which has been related of this goblet from time immemorial. Its real history cannot now be ascertained, but from the letters "I. H. S." inscribed on the top of the case containing it it has been surmised to have been originally used as a chalice.

The wild and hair-brained Duke of Wharton is said on one occasion to have nearly destroyed the Luck of Edenhall by letting it drop from his hands; but the precious vessel was saved by the presence of mind of the butler, who caught it in a napkin.

The "Luck" is shaped like a very tall tumbler, widened at the top, which has a double rim of glass and two similar rings a little distance from each other at the base. The cup is ornamented with an interlacing pattern, very much like that we see in the ivory carving and metal chasing of the eleventh and twelfth centuries; the glass is of colored enamel, chiefly blue and yellow, and very neatly executed. It is a respectable specimen of ancient glass-making, though not equal to the beautiful Venetian glasses of the fifteenth century. It is most probably Byzantine, and dates about the twelfth century.

Doubtless some pilgrim Musgrave, perhaps Crusader, brought the precious vessel home in safety and, admiring its rare beauty, it is not surprising that they assigned to it such mystical power. The "Luck" is kept in a leather case, which is also beautifully adorned.

Similar legends are common to many countries. In Scandinavia we find that of "The Altar Cup in Aagerup" and the Church of Vigerstod, in Zealand, has a cup obtained in the same way. The bridge of Hagro, in Jutland, got its name from a similar event. In Germany there was the Oldenburg Horn, now in the King of Denmark's collection, and described by H. H. in her "Bits of Travel," and in England the Fairy Horn of Gloucester.

It is currently believed that whoever has the courage to rush in upon a fairy festival and snatch from them a drinking-cup, or horn, shall find it a cornucopia of good fortune if he can carry it safely across a running stream. Such a horn is said to have been presented to Henry I. by a Lord of Colchester, and is described by Gervase of Tilbury in his "Otia Imperialia."

According to a tradition of the seventeenth century, an ancester, of the noble house of Duffus was one day walking in a field near his house when he heard a noise like a whirlwind and voices crying, "Horse and Hattock" (words used by the fairies in moving from one place to another,) and he was immediately caught up and carried through the air to the French King's cellar at Paris. Having drunk heartily he fell asleep, and was found the next day with a silver cup in his hand. The King, having questioned him as to his name, residence and mysterious journey, allowed him to go and keep the silver cup, which is still preserved in the family under the name of the "Fairy Cup."

There are many tales of different lands in which a cup or other vessel figures as a fairy gift. An Icelander married a fairy who, desiring Christian baptism for their child, deposited the infant for that purpose at the churchyard gate with a golden goblet as an offering. In Zealand a Troll caught stealing beer leaves his copper kettle behind him, which is treasured by the family. A Troll-maid who marries a mortal brings as her dowry a multitude of copper vessels. The "dracae," or water-spirits, inveigle women and children to their subaqueous dwellings by floating cups. Fairy caldrons appear in many legends.

The story of the Sangreal, which it will be remembered was transmitted from Joseph of Arimathea to his descendants, till one of them forfeited the sacred trust, is a spiritualized form of the same myth. The custodians of this holy vessel enjoyed spiritual blessings, and it moreover supplied them with the meat and drink they most loved, and maintained them in perpetual youth.

IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

MR. BETTINGER left Wednesday for a month's trip in the East. The main object of his visit is to attend the convention of the Social Center Workers of the United States, October 25 to 28, in Madison, Wis.

Mr. Bettinger expects to take part in the programme and discussions, and stated that he considers social center work the vital, important part of education.

Parent-Teacher Association.

Mr. Lickley, supervisor of compulsory education, spoke at the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the First-street school on Tuesday, on changes in the school law, touching on the compulsory educational law, changing the limit from 14 to 15 years. He also spoke on the change in the vaccination law, and the new method of apportioning school money, urging the absolute necessity of every child being in school every day. When they stay out, their absence is a financial loss to the school district for every day or even quarter of a day of non-attendance. He also spoke of the change in the law requiring children between 15 and 16 years of age either to go to school, or work, so that there could be no idlers between those ages.

Washington-street School.

A school orchestra has been organized at Washington-street school, where Miss Vesta Olmstead is principal, with Miss Wenona Huntley, kindergarten director, as instructor. Following are its members: Lucile Pinneo, Evelyn Kerner, Beatrice Clendenning and Marjorie Smith, piano; LaNell Pierson, and George Hargrove, Henry Johnson, Virginia Darnell, Edith Fisher, Marion Granzim, Maurice Macurda and Arthur Jones, mandolin. The orchestra is a matter of pride to the school, as its performers are all in sixth grade or below, the youngest being Maurice Macurda, B3 class, and Edith Fisher and Marion Granzim, A3. The small musicians gave their initial performance on Wednesday, in presence of the school.

Hooper-avenue School Grows.

Hooper-avenue school, Mrs. Jennie Donahue, principal, has witnessed great growth within the last few months, there being 200 more pupils at present than when school closed last June, making the enrollment 1000. The school is full to capacity, and an open-air room is being constructed for the ungraded class. This is a building, open on all sides, except for a wire netting. This room will be in charge of Miss Emma Thornton, who is very enthusiastic in regard to it, stating that she believes the children will be able to remain in this out-door room during the whole of the winter.

Selma-avenue Holds Reception.

On Thursday, the Parent-Teacher Association of Selma-avenue school held a reception. The school orchestra played, the small musicians acquitting themselves in great style. Their names are as follows: Leah Brown, piano; Ruth Moles; piano. Bernard Brown, first violin; Donald Janes, second violin; William German, second violin; James Walton, second violin; Harland Hastlar, mandolin; Frank Wilson, mandolin; Virgil Winterer, mandolin; Frank Birely, mandolin; Rolland McCalla, mandolin; Corby Ten Eyck, mandolin; Orville Bergh, cello; Charles Young, drum. Two flute and clarinet numbers were furnished by pupils of the High School, and Rev. Dr. Myers delivered an address, after which refreshments and a social hour were enjoyed.

Drawing Department.

The drawing department, under Miss May Gearhart, supervisor, has received signed recognition from "The School Arts Book," an authority on the progress of art study in the schools, published in Boston. In the October number are copies of drawing by Los Angeles pupils, with comments as to their excellence, and the suggestion that children of different sections of the United States exchange drawings, with a view to giving each other clearer ideas of the fruits and flowers produced in the different sections. Among the children mentioned and whose drawings are reproduced are Edith Bergland, Bertha Anderson, Laura Robben, Martha Ross, Earl Bradley and Joseph Harris.

Intermediate Schools.

Interest and enthusiasm continue to grow in East Los Angeles, regarding the intermediate school, judging from the numbers which crowd the school to its capacty, and hold overflow meetings after regular school hours. The enrollment is 532, which means that even balconies and halls are utilized as class-rooms. Principal Kinne reports that every room is filled at 8:15, when classes begin work, that, precisely speaking, there is no regular lunch period for the whole school, as some classes are being held all the time, and many pupils remain until 5 oclock in order to do shop work, which otherwise must remain undone on account of there being no room in the shops at other times. An open-air study room is being built, in which work the woodworking vocational class is proudly assisting.

Vocational Talks for School Girls.

Vocational talks will be given every two weeks, on Friday at 4 o'clock. Persons who are engaged and successful in the various occupations that are open to girls and women will tell of the advantages and disadvantages and the chances of success in these occupations and the necessary qualifications of those who enter them. The object of these talks is to enable girls to choose their vocations with some practical knowledge of the kinds of work that are open to them. The first talk on the subject of "Social Service" will be given by Miss Mary I. Poulin, assistant secretary of the Associated Charities of Los Angeles, at the Y.W.C.A. building, Third and Hill streets, Friday, October 27, at 4 p.m. Others that will be presented soon are: Playground work, nursing, library work, stenography, advertising, social work, tea-room management, millinery, teaching, pastor's assistant, catering, salesmanship, entertainist, novelist, etc. All of these talks will be free to all girls.

Give Dramatic Cantata.

The dramatic cantata "Queen Esther" will be given under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Federation of the Los Angeles Public Schools at the Temple Auditorium, on the evenings of October 26 and 27 and matinee October 28. The character parts, Queen Esther, the King, Mordecai, Haman, etc., will be taken by prominent soloists of the city, and the three choruses, about five hundred voices, are composed of girls from the grammar and high schools and parents from the various parent-teacher associations. Queen Esther is being given to raise funds to carry on the numerous philanthropies of the Parent-Teacher Federation, the day nurseries, penny luncheons, hospital clinics, free scholarships, etc.

Los Angeles High School.

On next Wednesday morning, Miss Gertrude Cohan, a Los Angeles girl, who has gained fame abroad as a pianist, will give her first concert at Los Angeles High School Auditorium, to which only the pupils of that school will be admitted, as the capacity of the room will not permit of outsiders attending. The students are looking forward eagerly to the concert, as Miss Cohan was the great Leschetizky's favorite pupil, and she has gained credit and applause by her work in Wagner concerts in Berlin.

Her programme will be as follows: "Fantasie and Fugue," in G minor (Bach-Lizst;) "Scherzo," in B minor (Chopin;) "On the Wings of Song" (Mendelssohn-Lizst;) "Gardens in the Rain" (Debussy;) "Arabesque" (Leschetizky;) "Etude Heroique" (Leschetizky;) "Hungarian Rhapsodie, No. VIII" (Lizst.)

Miss Verna Blythe, head of the music department, states that the boys' chorus has more than doubled this year, being composed of seventy members. This chorus renders college and folk songs, and some of the popular operatic selections. Said Miss Blythe:

"Many of the boys are very bashful regarding singing, though in the end they qualify for the glee clubs and advanced study, and it is this class, who need encouragement, that the chorus is designed to help."

A military band is in process of formation, also.

In Miss De Gan's class room, some clever girls were taking up some of Schubert's music, when the writer entered the other day, and they sang without hesitation his difficult "Hark the Lark," and others.

In the art department, pupils are taking up color work, and I saw some idealized sketches of an old wall and steps near the high school.

The at classes will take trips to mountain and seashore, this year, and make sketches of the scenes that take their fancy.

The poster class is at present working on a series of pictures to illustrate a football story to be published later in a college magazine. All available material is being collected, in order that the "properties" of the picture may be correct. They are also working on designs for art glass, twenty of which will be enlarged and done in colors.

Later a competitive poster on the aqueduct will be produced, which will probably be used in the December school exhibit.

Miss Frances Sterrett's class in clay modelling is to do some work on models to be cast and set up in the various rooms. The subjects are to be in accordance with the nature of the subject taught, or the purpose for which the room was designed. For instance, the bulletin board will have an emblematic panel, with figures representing time, to be designed and executed, by the students. There is also to be a military tablet, with figures representing the student guard who officiated at the receptions of Roosevelt and Taft.

Prof. Rasmussen, of the department of physical education, Copenhagen public school system, visited the school on Thursday, and was delighted with the work of the girls at tennis and basketball. He said our High School athletics surpassed anything he had viewed in Europe.

On the steps at the lunch hour were still symptoms of B9-itis, for some loungers waited for the first tap of the bell to rush to their seats, though the self government committee has done away with most of this confusion.

Up in the zoology department, the big giant ground sloth, which some facetious pupil has nick-named "Fido" —is fastened to a tree trunk, and rapidly taking form, under the tuition of Prof. Gilbert, only his head and tail being now missing; but it looks as if, when he is ready to make his debut in the park museum he would have to be taken out of the window.

On Tuesday next, W. H. Tomlins, of Chicago, will address the students on music. Mr. Tomlins has been traveling in Europe during the past two years, absorbing her splendid concerts, organ and church music, and his lecture will doubtless be a brilliant one.

Miss Kibbey and Miss Parsons, deprived of their official home by the fire which detroyed the Huntington Park High School on Tuesday, took advantage of their enforced vacation Thursday, by visiting the Los Angeles High.

On Tuesday, Miss Maria Lopez, teacher of Spanish, celebrated her birthday, which the men gallantly declared to be her twenty-first. They offered to put an even less number of candles on her big cake, but she refused, as, having done valiant service for suffrage she insisted on being old enough to vote.

But there's one person at the High School that perhaps receives as much commendation as anybody for high class work, and who certainly succeeds under most trying conditions, and that's Mrs. Clapper, the cook. Mrs. Clapper builds cakes that are poems (I had a stanza yesterday,) and can fix up a thin veal stew so as to put it in the chicken class; and when, at the beginning of the year, it was suggested to Mrs. Clapper that, on account of the large number of students, she serve merely sandwhiches, she elevated her capable nose, and said: "No such thing! Don't you think them poor children want something to eat in their poor little stomachs when they have to study so hard?" So (presumably) she makes bread on top of the stove, and roasts potatoes in the ashes; but she certainly does manage to come through with the goods, as a student elegantly put it, as he devoured his roast beef and dressing.

The new cafeteria is being built, and will be a roomy and adequate affair, with well-equipped, white-tiled kitchen, and airy lunchrooms.

Mrs. Dorsey, vice-principal, states that there are about $400 which will shortly be spent in statuary and pictures to adorn the building, under the advice of a committee of students and teachers, and with the approval of Mr. Sterrett. No selections have as yet been made. Already the school has a handsome collection of pictures, the big Wachtel landscape being the most valuable, as it could not now be bought for $1000.

There are 258 students in the senior B class, which will graduate in June as the largest class ever coming out of the L.A. High.

On Friday, the Star and Crescent Society held its meeting, and the new senior Bs for the first time marched proudly in displaying their pennants.

Manual Arts High School.

The game of Wednesday with Hollywood was the best game of Rugby that has been played on the Manual Arts field this season. The score of 10-6, in favor of the visitors, is not a fair indication of the relative merits of the teams. Manual played every bit as good a game as their opponents and has nothing to be ashamed of in having lost. "We don't think that Hollywood won in skill alone," says Capt. Allen, "but we have no complaint to offer at that and know how to be good losers."

The debaters who will compete in December with Long Beach have been picked and will be represented by Earl Johnson, John Henry Russell, Harold Kiggins and Harold Morton. The teams have been picked without preliminaries, as there was actually no time for formal try-outs, but no one is afraid that the manual will not be creditably represented. "We feel a little raw and inexperienced," said one of the boys, "but we are ready to take the plunge anyway, and it doesn't make a great deal of difference whether we win our first debate or not, so long as we get a start and do our best."

Debating will get a new impetus this term if present plans are realized. Several of the girls are getting about energetically and in a fine spirit to organize a girls' debating club. In a short time the school will have the privilege of listening to some hotly-contested arguments among the societies, of which this new one of the girls will be the third to come into existence within a year. One debate between members of the "Senate" and the "Manual Arts Debating Club" will take place in two or three weeks in the Auditorium under the joint auspices of these societies.

Polytechnic High.

The debate with Los Angeles High will be held November 3. The question is, "Resolved, that a system of old-age pensions should be established in the United States." The debate will be a simultaneous one. Irl Brett, Hiram Hamer and Clement Randan will uphold the affirmative at Polytechnic, while Carl Randan, Harvey Magee and Elmo Fitch will uphold the negative at L. A. The L. A. debaters are: Affirmative, Lester Roth, Z. Barcowitz, Paul Howe; negative, Channing Follette, Irene Tomlinson, Geo. Cohen.

On November 29 there will be a debate with Santa Ana High.

At an Aud call on Tuesday, Wesley Holler, president of the Boys' Scholarship Committee, announced that there is a plan to establish a scholarship in the near future for the purpose of assisting those who wish to continue their education in college. This will be awarded to the member of the graduating class holding the highest standing in the four years' work; it applies only to those who have done all their work at the Polytechnic.

On Wednesday Harry Clifford Lott gave a recital in the Auditorium, accompanied by Mrs. Lott. The programme consisted of two classical selections, two negro songs and several of his own Kipling "Just So" songs. These latter were received with great enthusiasm by the audience. At the close Mr. Lott was presented with a Polytechnic pennant, and Mrs. Lott with a bouquet.

The Economics Club held its meeting on Tuesday evening. Owing to illness in his family, Judge McCormick was unable to speak. Officers were elected as follows: William Speed, president; Wilson Lockwood, vice-president; Frances McKee, secretary.

The Junior Ionian Society held its first meeting Friday.

The German Club also held its meeting Friday; the subject of the programme was, "German Peasant Costumes." Miss Meyer, who has just returned from Germany, exhibited the actual costumes of several German provinces.

Hollywood High.

W. H. Tomlins, the Chicago organist, visited Hollywood High School, Friday, and delivered an address before the student body. His subject was, "The Development of Personality Through Music," and for an hour he held the closest attention of the pupils.

A Deserted Garden.

She loved this spot; her tender grace
Belied a prosy name;
The pansies knew her smiling face
And smiled back when she came.

The travelers with brighter smiles,
Looked back as they passed by
The rendezvous for miles and miles
Of bird and butterfly.

She loved this spot; and every day
She watched the roses grow;
The scarlet poppies seemed so gay—
But that was long ago.

Today the flowers no one tends
Are here because of her;
A garden full of faithful friends,
Without a gardener.

—[Roscoe Brumbaugh in Scribner's Magazine.

HOW MUCH TO A BUSHEL?

Legal Weights Are Not Uniform Throughout the Country—Standards Also Differ.

[Youth's Companion:] The principal work of the Bureau of Standards in Washington is to establish scientifically accurate standards for the weights and measures used in the United States. Recently the bureau has been engaged in gathering statistics to show the legal weight of a bushel of different commodities, as fixed either by national legislation for the purposes of the customs, or by State Legislatures for the purposes of trade within the States.

In the case of a few commodities only, such as wheat, oats and peas, are the legal weights uniform throughout the country, and in many cases they differ widely. Neither do the legal weights which the bureau has listed represent a volume equal to the bushel of two thousand one hundred and fifty and forty-two hundredths cubic inches—the United States bushel, so-called.

On account of the variations in the densities of commodities in different localities and in different seasons, it is impossible to fix with any degree of certainty the weight of a given volume of any commodity, such as potatoes, apples, coal or corn. Since, therefore, the actual weight can be fixed only approximately, it is important that in transactions in which the bushel measure is used, it be distinctly understood which bushel is meant; that is, whether a volume of two thousand one hundred and fifty and forty-two hundredths cubic inches, or a certain number of pounds. Since these two definitions of the bushel are contradictory, the bureau recommends that all sales be made by weight, as is now the practice in all transactions in wheat.

There are eighty-four commodities for which legal weights in pounds to the bushel have been generally adopted by the States. The list begins with alfalfa seed and ends with wheat, both of which run sixty pounds to the bushel. Apples range between forty-five and fifty pounds to the bushel; dried apples, twenty-four to twenty-eight; barley, forty-seven and forty-eight, and so on.

The list includes vegetables, fresh and dried, seeds of many kinds, charcoal, coal, berries, meals, nuts, lime, fruits, salt and pop-corn.

In some cases the United States standard has been adopted; in other cases, where there is no United States standard, the States have had to fix their own. In some instances there is a considerable difference in the standards. For example, malt ranges from thirty to thirty-eight pounds to a bushel, and popcorn from forty-two in the ear in Ohio to seventy shelled in Iowa. When such great differences occur, however, there is usually a reason, such as the presence or absence of the cobs. Knowing this, traders make proper allowances. It is interesting to notice that peas, clover seed and wheat are all rated at sixty pounds to the bushel, and that in these commodities such States as have a standard make it conform to that of the Federal government.

Here is a list of the United States standard weights for all the commodities for which it has been established:

Barley, fifty; buckwheat, forty-two; bituminous coal, eighty; corn, fifty-six; cornmeal, forty-eight; flaxseed, (linseed,) fifty-six; malt, thirty-four; oats, thirty-two; peas, sixty; potatoes, sixty; rye, fifty-six; wheat, sixty.

The table published by the Bureau of Standards is valuable to the middle-man who deals with producers in various parts of the country. It is also valuable to the statistician who may want to ascertain, for example, the difference in the cost per bushel between certain localities. Without knowing accurately how much a bushel of given product there is in a locality, the ordinary man would be at a loss to know whether or not he was getting like quantity for like money.

If the time arrives when produce is sold by a universal standard throughout the Union, such a table as the one just described will become a necessary. Until then it is a valuable aid to the producer of produce and the consumer. Those who wish to pursue the matter farther should write to the Bureau of Standards for the complete circular.

PERSONAL—

PROF. C. IRVIN ALTHOUSE,

NOTED ASTROLOGER AND PALMIST OF NATIONAL FAME AND REPUTATION.

305½ S. SPRING, NEAR THIRD ST.

A RESIDENT OF LOS ANGELES 25 YEARS.

PROF. ALTHOUSE is an experienced practitioner in the science of modern ASTROLOGY, by which he has made many REMARKABLE PREDICTIONS. The horoscope shows the powerful influence of the planets in all affairs of life. It shows diseases, deaths, love and marriage, financial affairs, talents, environments, about children, relatives, when and where to travel, what to seek or to avoid, when in danger of losses, troubles, etc., etc.; also your good periods coming—GIVING DATES OF THESE EVENTS FOR THE FUTURE.

Your Horoscope is also a key to the character of others, and in this respect can be of the utmost use to you.

PROF. ALTHOUSE read E. H. Sothern, Nat Goodwin, Mary Mannering, Gadski, Admiral Schley, David Starr Jordan, ex-Gov. Pardee, ex-Senator Clark, Gen. Chaffee, Edison, Sousa, Modjeska, Julia Marlowe, Anna Held, Jefferson, Capt. Hobson, Lillian Russell, Calve, Admiral Evans, H. E. Huntington, De Wolf Hopper, Maxine Elliott, Ethel Barrymore, etc.

PROF. ALTHOUSE'S SKILLED WORK, with his trained judgment, must in no wise be classed with that of other readers. Therefore, do not waste your money on the idiotic advice and warning of HUMBUG astrologers, palmists, psychics—those doing dishonest work.

PROF. ALTHOUSE is an expert PALMIST, and WITH EACH PALM READING gives also an ASTROLOGICAL READING.

DR. J. A. LARSON writes: "I want to say that your reading was the most satisfactory thing I have ever had in my life. I know a great deal about these sciences, and I consider your work as the most THOROUGH and reliable of any reader in the United States."

FREDERICK WARDE says: "Your reading was most SATISFACTORY. Your knowledge of skill is REMARKABLE."

MME. SCHUMANN-HEINK says: "I was greatly surprised to find how many of your warnings were well founded. YOUR READING WAS MOST MARVELOUS."

MME. BALDWIN writes: "The Horoscope you wrote for me is absolutely CORRECT. My friend, MME. NORDICA, the singer, first showed me her Horoscope, and recommended your work to me. Inclosed find check for four more Horoscopes—all friends of mine."

The interpretation of a horoscope is a fine art; the percentage of "GENUINE" astrologers is exceedingly small. To know a little of astrology out of books, and to be a skilfully trained, EXPERIENCED ASTROLOGER, are two entirely different things. Therefore, in this work, it depends largely WHO it is that reads you, as to the RESULTS obtained.

PROF. ALTHOUSE'S wonderful proficiency in the casting of HOROSCOPES and hand reading has brought him a LARGE AND SUCCESSFUL PUBLIC PRACTICE. The most private confidences are reposed in him, and his advice is sought in the most difficult and critical circumstances. Personal attention. Strict privacy. HIGHEST GRADE OF WORK that skill and many years of experience can produce; there fore HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.
Daily and evenings; Sunday, 10 to 2.

IF SO, CONSULT

THE WORLD'S GREATEST PSYCHICS,

BYRON STANLEY,

247 S. HILL ST.

READINGS FOR THE NEXT 7 DAYS ONLY

50c. $1.00. 50c. $1.00.

Cut this adv. out for reference.

DO YOU WANT TO KNOW ABOUT YOUR BUSINESS, HEALTH, MARRIAGE, LOVE AFFAIRS, OR HOW TO IMPROVE YOUR CONDITION FINANCIALLY AND SOCIALLY?

ALWAYS CONSULT THE BEST. IT IS THE CHEAPEST IN THE END. IT IS BETTER TO CONSULT NO CLAIRVOYANT THAN ONE WHO IS NOT ABLE TO HELP YOU.

If you want the truth, with reliable advice, you will consult Stanley on past, present and future.

BYRON STANLEY

fully appreciates that in this day of sensational advertising there are more false claims and misrepresentations sharpened through the columns of the daily press than the most hypocrital tongue could utter in a lifetime, until one cannot be blamed for doubting almost everything they read. Therefore, he says to you—come to him this very day and let him give you a complete reading, telling you every hope, fear or ambition, better than you could explain yourself. He will tell you the bad as well as the good, keeping nothing hidden from you. He will tell you everything upon matters of love, marriage, divorce, business, health; in fact, he will read your life like an open book.

NO NEED TO TELL HIM.

There is no need to tell Byron Stanley your story. There will be no "quizzing" or asking of questions. His talent enables him to instinctively know your wants and troubles. Without any attempt at mystification, but with unerring sight into the inner nature of things, he reveals that which you most want to know.

To whom it may concern: We take great pleasure in recommending our brother, PROF. BYRON STANLEY, as a life reader of good standing, having to our knowledge been fully developed in all the various phases of mental mediumship. We cordially recommend him to any individual or society that may need his advice.

DR. JOHN WESTERFIELD,
President Indiana State Association of Spiritualists.
Chesterfield, Ind., Sept. 4, 1896.

Don't struggle with a burden you can divide. A troubled mind begets a morbid conscience. Sympathy, consolation and timely advice heal the worst of wounds. Be advised and relieved of anxiety.

Readings, 10 to 8, daily and Sundays.

Byron Stanley does not read by mail and has no time to wait on people who call through curiosity.

MRS. MASSON,

the noted palmist of London, Eng., may be consulted at 322 S. SPRING ST., (over Owl Drug Store)
by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.
The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigation along psychological lines that that which pertains to occult phenomena, proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.
PALMISTRY, HONESTLY PRACTICED, WILL NOT tell you your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in every-day life.
Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions, and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill luck into wide paths of success and prosperity can all be told you through scientific palmistry WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.
MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.
HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

GOOD LUCK AND PROSPERITY TO THOSE WHO DESIRE IT.
MAJJI RAJJI.
Dr. R. C. Pondexter, Ph.D., the greatest psychologist and psychic reader known upon the face of the globe. He can read your life—past, present and future—like an open book. He can also read your character over the telephone, if you do not believe it, call him up and if he is not busy he will give you a free test of what he can do. If you want luck and prosperity, call and get one of his Hindoo mascots or good luck charms. They are being worn by many prominent men and women in various parts of the world, the virtue of them is something wonderful. They guard you against serious accidents, ward off evil influence, make you prosperous and happy in life. Thousands can testify to the good they have received through the aid of the mascots.
NOTICE!
Dr. Pondexter is the talk of the town, and is loved by all for his noble ability, good work and square dealing. His mascots are going very fast. It brings you good luck, peace and happiness to all who have them.
HE
reunites the separated, even though thousands of miles apart. He can make speedy marriages with the one of your choice. If you make lots of money and have no luck in saving it. Consult the Doctor. He knows your exact cause and trouble. He is the champion of the world. He wears the Gold Medal of Honor.
BURIED TREASURES DISCOVERED.
I Can Help You
Locating buried treasures, oil and gas wells are other feats performed by this wonderful man. His SPIRIT POWERS aid him wonderfully in discovering the valuable treasures of the earth. A short time ago a resident of Los Angeles county consulted DR. PONDEXTER with regard to buried treasure which he thought was hidden on his little ranch. He paid the doctor for the necessary instructions. As a result, he obtained two treasures instead of one! ONE CONTAINED $16,000 AND THE OTHER $5000.
Another party had a small mining ledge he had worked on unsuccessfully and became discouraged. He was about ready to sell it out for most any price, but he was advised to consult DR. PONDEXTER, and the doctor told him he was about to make the biggest mistake of his life. He advised him not to sell, but to go back and get busy, for there was plenty of gold there. So after one week's further experience, in obedience to the doctor's advice, he came in contact with a rich ledge of gold, which will make him a rich man. And now the party has gone East, to secure money for the necessary equipment to commence mining development.
The large number of certificates and diplomas he has on exhibition gives him an official standing and places him in such a position where he can at once justly claim the confidence of the people. Consult him at once, for this wonderful knowledge can tell you what you wish to know. All business strictly confidential. Office hours, 1 to 5 p.m., 7 to 8:30 p.m. In forerooms by appointment. Permanently located in Pasadena, Calif. 12 E. FAIR OAKS AVE., in the heart of the city. Phone Sunset Main 4659. Home Phone 2354. Reserve this ad as it does not appear daily and bring it with you.

FACT AND COMMENT.

At the close of the highly successful Land Show held at Shrine Auditorium last spring it was urged in these columns that the Pacific Lands and Products Exposition should be made an annual occurrence. The first Land exposition, though organized and carried out in the short space of two months, so completely justified its existence, in fact, that the public announcement that the enterprise is to be repeated this year will not be hailed with general satisfaction.

Preparations for the Land Show of 1912 already runs high and it is safe to predict that the exposition to be held at Exposition Park next March will be the greatest and most comprehensive exhibition of the land resources of the West ever attempted. The signs predicts that it will also be the most successful advertisement Southern California ever had.

Fully Assured.

The complete success of the show is assured by the acceptance by H. Huntington of the active presidency of the enterprise. Huntington, the real builder of the Southwest, is a big man the biggest man for the job. His association with the show gives it a dignity which will rank among the events of national importance of the coming year.

Under the direct auspices of the Los Angeles Realty Board, the largest and most successful organization of its character in America, the second Land and Products Exposition will be broad and brilliant in its scope. Everything attempted will be on a big and impressive scale and will be representing the most important banking, railway, professional and business circles in the Southwest co-operate with the realty men in carrying out the plan to the letter. The project is one that should have the earnest and unflagging support of every citizen in the South-west.

The Land Show, arranged on a modest scale and viewed with only local approval by thousands who have hailed the plan with enthusiasm, was visited by no less than 100,000 persons from all parts of the United States. That Southern California profited immensely by this exposition of her soil resources to the world abroad can be attested by every dealer in this section.

Fine Call.

Enough in scope the Land Show planned to advertise to the greatest advantage the soil resources of the entire region west of the Mississippi, Los Angeles and its tributary country naturally have the first call upon capital's attention.

Los Angeles is closest to the greatest field of opportunity. Undeveloped natural resources localizable lie at the very door of this Southland metropolis. To the business of Los Angeles and the vast army of tourists who annually seek this clime acquainted with the paramount facts about these resources and advantages.

There is room for this kind of education that the value of the Land Show cannot be overestimated. Not only will the regular tourists, numbered by the thousands of potential investors, but the thousands upon thousands of homeseekers and landseeking people drawn here by the attention will be gathered at the Land Show here spring.

Plans to Los Angeles and Southern California to not only put forth every effort to make the exhibits from this section adequate, comprehensive and convincing, but to welcome the visitors within the gates with a hospitality which will win his heart and convince him that this indeed is the best place in the world to live.

Los Angeles in Lead.

A remarkable feature in connection with the phenomenal building activity for the month of September in this city has not previously received attention. This is a comparison between Los Angeles and other leading cities as regards the number of building permits issued for that month.

Thanks to Construction News, a live building publication of Chicago, the writer of Fact and Comment is enabled to present some exceedingly interesting statistics of this character. According to the Chicago periodical, Los Angeles issued in September a greater number of permits for all kinds of buildings than any other city in the United States including in this reckoning New York, Chicago and Philadelphia.

The figures for the cities named were: Los Angeles, 1230 permits; New York City (including Brooklyn,) 630 permits; Philadelphia, 1192 permits, and Chicago, 1009 permits. For the same month San Francisco issued 514 permits; Portland, 743; Detroit, 569 Milwaukee, 450; Cleveland, 619; Cincinnati, 914; Seattle, 1029, and Minneapolis, 553.

New York and Chicago exceeded Los Angeles in the actual money outlay for buildings, owing to the large number of structures of the skyscraper type constantly being erected in both of these vast places. Both cities, however, were in September eclipsed by the Southland metropolis in the actual number of new building enterprises launched. The number of permits issued too, rather than the cost of construction, is what is really indicative of construction activity.

Most of the permits issued in Los Angeles are for new houses, apartments, flats and small commercial buildings, forms of building activity which indicate even more than the construction of a great number of skyscrapers possibly could the tremendous rate of population advance in this city as compared with that of all other places. Los Angeles is of all cities the city of homes and as living in detached dwellings bids fair to continue in popular favor in this out-of-door land, it is altogether likely that this city will continue to lead all others in the number of permits issued from month to month. Nor is it likely that Los Angeles will long lag behind New York, Chicago and Philadelphia in the outlay of skyscrapers and other great commercial buildings, as the commercial and industrial development of Southern California, tremendous as it is, may be truthfully said to be as yet only in its infancy.

PAUMA RANCHO SOLD.

Huge Property in San Diego County to be Subdivided and Placed Upon the Market.

One of the most important of the acreage transfers of the past week was the sale by Charles Foreman to H. F. Cole of the famous Pauma Rancho in the San Luis Rey Valley in the northern part of San Diego county. The deal involved the transfer of about 12,000 acres and the consideration, though not stated, is rumored to have been in the neighborhood of $200,000. The sale was consumated through the office of the James R. H. Wagner Company.

The ranch lies west of Oceanside about thirty-five miles, and is fifteen miles northeast of Escondido. A great deal of it is exceedingly valuable as citrus land, and about 2000 acres of the tract will be offered to citrus growers at once. An additional 3000 acres of bottom land will also be placed on the market at an early date.

OPENS REALTY OFFICE.

An office for the transaction of a general real estate, mortgage and loan business has been opened by Victor H. Norman at room 507 Trust and Savings building. The business will be conducted under the name of the Norman Investment Company.

Beautiful Dwellings for Windsor Square and Hollywood Sites

Attractive homes designed and to be built by Milwaukee Building Company.

Charming.

FINE VILLA FOR WINDSOR SQUARE.

CAPITALIST PLANS AN ITALIAN HOME IN WEST END.

Dwelling to Be Wilshire Section Show Place—Attractive House of Old English Type to Be Erected by T. E. Gibbon on Sightly Lot in Hollywood.

To the long list of beautiful homes projected for the fashionable new Windsor Square tract at the western edge of the Wilshire district has been added another fine residence. Plans have just been completed by the Milwaukee Building Company for a fifteen-room dwelling of the Italian Renaissance type of architecture, which that company will build for William Crawford McKnight on the west side of Irving boulevard just north of Wilshire.

The place will be one of the finest in Los Angeles and will cost over $30,000. It will occupy a sightly lot with a frontage of 105 feet by a depth of 180 feet. The site will be beautifully laid out in keeping with the house itself.

The house will be reinforced concrete plaster exterior and will have a roof of Spanish clay tile. Its numerous balconies will be of wrought iron. French windows will pay an important part both in the decorative scheme and for purposes of practical utility and convenience.

The approach to the dwelling will be across a broad terrace upon which will open the main entrance. The hallway will be large and pretentious and will be finished in dull white enamel. A feature of the hall arrangement will be the wide stairways winding to the second floor. The head of this stairway will be surrounded by a spacious balcony to which all the seven upstairs sleeping rooms will have access.

A large and handsomely decorated music-room will open directly upon a patio and sunken garden at the rear. All of the rooms will be large and finished after special designs. The house will have two fine sleeping porches, and an open-air breakfast porch, off the breakfast room, will be a charming feature.

PLEASING ENGLISH HOUSE.

For T. E. Gibbon, the Milwaukee Building Company has designed and will build an attractive home of the old English type in Hollywood. The site of the place will be the Gibbon tract on El Camino Palermo, just off of Prospect avenue and on a sightly knoll.

The house will be of dull red tapestry brick construction on the first story and of plaster and half timber above. The chimneys will be unusualy large and will form a prominent architectural feature. A paved terrace twenty by seventy feet in size across the entire front of the house will lend charm to this beautiful home.

The dwelling will contain in all eleven rooms, most of which will have fine mantels.

BUY HISTORIC SITE.

Los Angeles Capitalists Acquire Title to Bernasconi Hot Springs Property—Extensive Improvements.

The Bernasconi Hot Springs, one of the historic landmarks of the Perris Valley, has been transferred by C. S. Prizer and C. B. Powell of Arbia, Iowa, to C. F. Goddard and C. E. Cooper of Los Angeles, the consideration involved being reported at $30,000. The tract comprises 284 acres located eight miles northeast of Perris, eighteen miles southeast of Riverside and about one and one quarter miles southwest of Lakeview.

The purchasers of the property are at the head of the Equitable Realty Company of Los Angeles, and their plans contemplate the subdivision and improvement of the entire holding. A hotel and bathhouse are to be maintained for the health seeker and tourist. A strip of orange land lying on both sides of the main road from Riverside to San Jacinto is to be placed on the market at once. Forty acres near the Santa Fe tracks are to be laid out in half-acre building sites.

The property was originally developed by Bernardino Bernasconi, who lived upon the place for forty years. Prizer and Powell bought the holding two years ago.

TEN TIMES AS MUCH.

Through an error in the compositing department the price reported in last Sunday's Times as having been paid by the Cross Land Company for the 2066 acres of the Rancho La Puente that is now being placed upon the market by Purcell, Grey & Gale was made to read $70,000. The figure should have been $700,000.

TO MARK OLD HOMESTEAD.

Site of Southwest Landmark to Be Improved With Substantial Business Block—Dryden Heirs Builders.

The four daughters of William Dryden will erect a substantial business block at the corner of Santa Barbara and Western avenues, in New Vermont Square. There is more to this item than a prosaic detail in the expansion of Los Angeles.

New Vermont Square, it will be recalled, was formerly the 160-acre ranch owned for many years by William Dryden. Mr. Dryden traded a horse for the entire holding, in the early days. After having sold $500,000 worth of products from it, he sold it to the Southwest Land Company for $500,000, as has already been exclusively reported in The Times.

Mr. Dryden's four daughters, Misses Ada and Josephine M. Dryden, Mrs. Emma Dryden Bohlinger and Mrs. L. Dryden Stevens, desired something that would be a substantial reminder of the old home place, where they spent the happy years of their childhood. With this idea in view they recently purchased, at a cost of about $40000, the corner mentioned and had plans drawn by C. E. Shattuck for a handsome business block.

The structure will be 55x72 feet, two stories in height, and with red pressed brick front. There will be four stores below, and four apartments above. The apartments will be of three rooms, bath and kitchen each. The building will cost between $30,00 and $32,000.

HILL AND SIXTEENTH.

Valuable Close-in Corner Changes Hands at High Frontage Rate—Site is Well Improved.

The sale of the northwest corner of Hill and Sixteenth streets for E. Rabin to C. E. French, is reported by W. B. Marwin & Co., the agents in the transaction. The consideration is reported at $52,500.

The site, which fronts sixty feet on Hill by 104 feet on Sixteenth, is improved with a two-story brick building containing stores and apartments. C. C. C. Tatum represented the seller in the deal.

LEASING LIST LARGE.

Leading Firm Handles Important Business Rental Transactions. $100,000 Involved in One Contract.

William C. Keim, manager of the business leasing department of the Wright & Callender Company, reports the following leases negotiated through his department during the past week: H. L. Stanton Company to the Pacific Engraving Company, entire fourth and fifth floors of the Iowa building at No. 527-31 South Broadway for a period of ten years at a total rental of $100,000.

Eisner, Johnston Company to the Cherry Clothing Company of San Francisco, entire second floor of the new Orpheum building for a term of years.

William McVay to the Knapp-Church Company, premises at No. 958 South Broadway for a term of years. The place will be used for the manufacture of pennants, banners, flags, pillows and souvenirs.

Wright & Callender Company, agents, to the Maier Brewing Company, room at No. 251 South Main.

Boaz Duncan to the Yamato, storeroom at No. 416 South Spring street for a Japanese store.

The northwest corner of Mercantile place and Spring street to the Kimono Shop. C. Wesley Roberts is the lessor. The storeroom will be occupied as a Japanese emporium.

ROOF TO BE THATCHED.

A pleasing house of the old English thatched roof type has been planned by G. B. Croner for H. E. Woolwine. The dwelling, which will be erected in Beverly Hills, will contain eight rooms and will be of plaster and shakes exterior. The cost of the improvement will be about $7000.

HELP THE HUMANE SOCIETY.

A card party for the benefit of the Humane Society for Children, will be given on next Thursday afternoon, at the Ebell Club House, and as the subscriptions to the society have been insufficient to meet the expenses of the 2000 cases handled during the past year, the members appeal to their friends to pay 50 cents for a ticket to this party. Checks for tickets may be sent to the office, No. 175 North Spring street, or obtained at the door.

Mt. Washington

"The Subdivision Select"

Look carefully at your present place of residence.

Is there not a chance, that inside a few years, the ever widening circle of second-rate hotels, boarding houses, garages, livery stables, etc., will cause you to look elsewhere for a homesite in a more exclusive neighborhood?

As a residence elevation, Mount Washington has no equal, its topography offering the refined and artistic home-builder endless opportunities for executing the most beautiful architectural effects—in Chalet and Villa designs particularly.

The character of this district and the quality of the residences already built, and of those in course of construction, will impress you.

Moreover, the peculiar isolation of Mt. Washington from the surrounding residence districts, together with its natural beauty and adequate protective building restrictions, will preserve for all time an individuality for exclusive homes, shared by no other subdivision.

YOU ARE LOOKING FOR A LOT. YOU WANT A BARGAIN. YOU WANT ONE THAT WILL INCREASE IN VALUE. YOU WANT YOUR MONEY'S WORTH AND A LITTLE MORE. WE ARE IN A POSITION TO GIVE YOU ALL THIS.

We have opened up a large tract of land only 15 minutes from business on a 5-cent yellow car line, which had for years been held off the market. Homes were built up thickly on all sides of it. All city conveniences had come to it. We have bought it as a acreage and can sell large level lots with cement walks and curbs—oiled streets, water, gas, etc., at about half the price of adjoining property. That is what you have been waiting for.

LOTS	$500. $25 cash, $10 per month.	$525.	$550.

The soil, climate, elevation, view and location are all good. We have no apologies to make for this property and the prices are low, because the tract is new. They will be raised. Get in now and make money with us.

Overlooking city, a magnificent elevation, southwest; close to proposed boulevard on Figueroa street; near three car lines and soon to have yellow car. Most beautiful view of any lots in city and well worth twice the price of today in comparison with other localities.

These lots will surely double in a comparatively short time. No, I didn't say "in a month or so," but they're the best lot buy on today's market without doubt in our opinion.

PIGMOND TRACT.

NOW IS THE TIME

TO BUY

PIGMOND TRACT ACRES.

In three or four years the price will have advanced beyond the reach of the average man working for a salary.

Start now and you can in a few years provide a competency for life.

THE ENTIRE

is under cultivation, averaging 14 sacks of wheat and barley per acre.

This is some of the most desirable and fertile land in Merced county, and some of the best fruit land in the State.

Any man who is actually looking for the best land in California for farming and fruit raising, land that will pay him a big annual profit on his investment, will look no further if he will go to Pigmond.

This land is on the railroad and the Yosemite Valley is its market, and can consume all that could be raised on Pigmond Acres.

The Land is Going Fast.

Go out there and we will show you with a crop of $100 to 1000 pounds.

CHESTNUT TREES

A FIG TREE

that has produced a ton of dried figs in one season.

8 PECAN TREES

with a crop of over three tons.

Extracts from the opinion of a Santa Clara fruit land expert:

"I find the soil on almost every acre of this tract of a free loam, sedimentary in nature; a soil that conserves the moisture of the winter and spring rains in the most remarkable manner, due to the perfect manner in which the soil mulches under cultivation, together with the unusual depth of the soil."

This condition will insure a perfect vine growth, without the aid of irrigation, of such varieties of deciduous trees as mature their fruit in the early months of the season.

At the price,

$25, $50 AND UP PER ACRE,

you cannot duplicate this land any place in the State for farming, fruit raising and investment purposes.

Call or write for literature and full particulars.

SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY—

FOR SALE—

DON'T HESITATE.

ACT AT ONCE.

For the next 40 days I am going to sell 10 twenty-acre farms at Raisin City, eleven miles southwest of Fresno, on our HALF-CROP PAYMENT PLAN.

I plow the land and install an electrical pumping plant on each 160 acres; every one of every farm is good, tillable land; the soil is a deep, rich, finely divided silt, mixed with sand.

The water for irrigation flies in inexhaustible quantities at a depth of from twelve to sixteen feet from the surface, and may be put on the soil at a minimum cost.

You will be required to make a small cash payment down, and plant at least 15 acres to alfalfa by March 1, 1912; you should be on the land by January 1 next, and have your land ready for seeding by February 15.

Interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum after next March 1st.

You can easily cut 50 tons of alfalfa the first year; others have done it; so can you; after the first year you can cut 140 tons annually off 15 acres. In four years, during the first year, you can raise $5000 net off 10 acres, or $5000. One-half of this amount will more than pay the balance due on your land.

Come to my office and let me show you the astonishing position Raisin City holds; it is a mystery to you in detail just what I offer. Or write me for my illustrated folder.

TEAR THIS OUT.

GOVERNMENT LANDS—
And Land Script.

IT IS UP TO YOU TO DECIDE WHERE you want the State Conservation Commission conserve for you by the bill they are preparing to withdraw all school land from sale until the price is advanced. Or, do you want to conserve for yourself and family by buying State school land. About 100 persons have filed on school land here in one week this year. Hundreds of pieces filed on many years ago when they had much choice have come back to State and are ready for you to file on. You have perfect right to file on land until the hired servants of us taxpayers pass a law and the Governor signs the bill to stop selling school land.

I honestly think that the Southern Pacific is urging the passage of this law to make money by carrying the appraisers all over our great State to appraise all this valuable school land. I think the price will not be less than $10 an acre, as in some other States you can buy now for $2.50 an acre on time. Write for my circulars free and decide whether you want to conserve for yourself or let others conserve for you. My charges are $10 with order for marked map of twenty pieces of school land nearest any town you mention in California and promise to pay me 25 cents an acre when you receive official notice of your filing. You must see the land before filing and take land for yourself. I have suited many. Will try to suit you. Do as you please about ordering. If you order soon there is time enough to see land, file and get papers on record under present law.

Some of the best pieces of level land that I have seen are still open. One map of some very fine stock ranches; one map of some land in timber belt; one map of some near the coast south of San Francisco; one north of San Francisco; one map of some on R.R. and permanent river; one county sectional map of over 40 pieces in San Diego, Riverside and Imperial; one county section map of San Bernardino county. Any of the above ten dollars with promise to pay 25 cents an acre when filing is recorded.

One special offer. I will furnish one U. S. water supply paper map of Southeastern California with all springs, towns, railroads and all the school land. I have searched out in Owens River country, Inyo, Kern, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside, Imperial and San Diego counties for $20, check, and promise to pay me 25 cents an acre for all land you file on or get others to file. Last call, fair warning. Write JOSEPH CLARK, Public Searcher, 320 M street, Sacramento, Cal.

WE HAVE LOCATED EVERY MAN taken to the lands being shown by us, which are open for filing under the ENLARGED HOMESTEAD ACT; domestic artesian and pumping wells there now; level land, rich, deep soil, close to main line S. P., towns, etc.; a nominal fee is charged by us for locating you and covers EVERY COST to you, including location of corners by a thoroughly COMPETENT and RELIABLE field man; 320 acres homestead, not desert entry, is what you get.

NO RESIDENCE REQUIRED.

Also 32,000 acres school lands, $3 to $3.50 an acre; you must act promptly; join our next excursion, Saturday, Oct. 28. Office open every day and evenings, 6:30 to 8, and Sunday, 9:30 to 12:30. Excursions weekly.

Contestants are especially cautioned to mark very plainly on every subscription slip whether the subscription is new or old, as in order to draw commissions it is necessary that this office should have the slips made out in detail by contestants.

On November 1 contestants whose net subscription scores do not total 4000 points each, will be temporarily dropped from the Contestant's Bulletin until such time as their scores reach the required amount.

But five weeks remain in The Times Greater Contest. Nearly five months have elapsed since the beginning, and instead of diminishing in results from week to week it has increased.

The contestants understand every phase of the work, and publication from day to day has been recently merely a matter of recording the progress made by the several participants who are piling up large scores.

So it is not necessary to urge contestants to do their utmost for the next five weeks. It is, however, appropriate at this time to say something to the public.

A great number of people have promised contestants their subscriptions in order to aid in the race for these prizes, and deferred giving the subscriptions until the closing date was announced.

Even under present circumstances, when the close of the contest has been known to the public for the past two weeks, a number of those who have promised subscriptions have delayed giving them, feeling that they would do just as much good to the contestant if they were given at the last hour.

This, however, is a mistake. It must be known to the public that every contestant has a great number of calls to make, and only five weeks in which to make them. Therefore, it will facilitate the work of all contestants and be to their prize-getting interests to receive subscriptions at this time. If all of those promises are delayed until the last week, the contestants are going to be handicapped by having too many people to see within a limited time.

The public is therefore urged to be prompt in its fulfillment of promises made to various contestants in order that their favorite candidates may make as fine a showing as possible.

This morning's bulletin speaks for itself.

Little Jack Bussell again scored one of his favorite tallies. This seems to be Jack's habit of late, as he is going after the three-year subscriptions instead of the smaller ones, and added 15,100 to his tab yesterday.

Mrs. Carlin ran her total up with an addition of 23,600, which places her in fifth position, just a shade ahead of Mrs. Tout of Calexico. The race between Mrs. Carlin and Mrs. Tout has been very interesting, and at no time have they been very far apart in their scores. What the future will bring forth for either of them is a matter yet to be developed, and as the ways of women are beyond male comprehension and especially those engaged in a contest of this character, therefore the Contest Manager, being a man, passes this up for future deliberation.

Well, we had one good sensation in yesterday's contest news. About a week ago we recorded the name of a new contestant, Mrs. J. M. Williams of Los Angeles, who made an initial score in one day of 38,500. Yesterday she added 47,500 more to this score, which advances her to eighteenth place in this contest.

In one week Mrs. Williams, with a start of 1000 points, which is given to all new contestants, has placed her name opposite a $1000 prize in the list. This is only her second report and she has five weeks in which to work. Just as is to be expected in all contests of this character, there are a few that bob up at the last moment and cover themselves with glory. Mrs. Williams is evidently in earnest.

When announcement was made October 1 that new contestants would be admitted until October 25, it was stated that these contestants must be bonafide participants and work for business—otherwise their names would be dropped at once. Mrs. Williams entered under those conditions and has shown herself to be, not only a bonafide contestant, but one of the most active that has developed in the history of the contest.

The benefit conducted by the Independent Order of Odd Fellows to advance the interests of the blind contestant, A. S. Burns, will be given tomorrow night at the Auditorium. A musical programme of real excellence has been prepared, and doubtless those who attend will receive the full value of the price of their tickets, in addition to any other sense of satisfaction coincident with their purchase of tickets.

CONTESTANTS' BULLETIN.
October 22, 1911.

NOTE: Names of contestants not having scored 4000 subscription points by November 1 will be omitted and only those whose names appear at the finish will be eligible to prizes in the Greater Contest.

NO HONORS FOR SUCCESSFUL TRAINER OF BALL CLUBS.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

FEW SIGHTS are more imposing or inspiring than that of a great ocean liner plowing its way proudly and unerringly across a trackless waste of water. Those whose lives have been spent in the Middle West far from ocean liners, can form some idea of the picture from the monster freighter finding its way from port to port on the Great Lakes. Few stop to think of the inconspicuous device, carefully housed and hidden from general view, which gives to the ocean liner and the lake freighter that unerring instinct and confident bearing. Without the modest mariner's compass and its slender needle of steel many a proud liner might be a mere shapeless hulk, a derelict of the sea.

All the sporting world admires a champion. The title embodies all that is best and fittest in the world of athletes, and its holder is looked up to, petted and feted on all sides. Few ever stop to think that the champion might be a stranger to fame, a mere physical hulk, perhaps a social derelict, but for the unseen, usually unknown deus ex machina, commonly called trainer. Like the big ship's compass, the champion trainer gets none of the credit for attaining the goal.

Chicago is the home of one of these trainers, born to live, "under a bushel," who has been associated with champions for the greater part of his life, and yet ninety-nine-one-aundredths of Chicago's population would not know him if they met him face to face on the streets. He is William Buckner, boss of the White Sox clubhouse for the last five years. Before that Buck, as he is best known, handled some of the most prominent men in the cycling world when that game was in its prime.

Starting his career as a doctor of muscles and sprains in 1883, at the old Missouri Bicycle and Athletic Club of St. Louis, Buckner grew up with that sport. When cycle racing became the rage he was in the thick of it. His start in the game was as trainer of the Syracuse racing team. When E. E. Anderson first performed the feat of riding a mile a minute on a wheel, paced by a railroad train, it was Buckner who prepared Anderson for the feat and watched all the preliminaries to see that every possible chance of accident was eliminated. Buckner developed George Leander, the amateur champion of whom all Chicago was proud, and he handled Charley Miller, at one time long distance champion of the world. Then he hooked up with Maj. Taylor and when the colored wonder went to Europe, Buckner was in charge of the tour. While in Europe, Buckner started the major in thirty-one races, of which he won twenty-nine. And when they came back they brought the scalps of the previous champions of England, Denmark, France, Belgium, and Italy.

Buck became identified with the White Sox in 1907, the year after they won the world's championship, and Big Ed Walsh of that team will tell you that he owes much of his success in the last five years to the care and advice that Buckner has given him. When Walsh pitched in sixty-four out of 154 games in 1908, or more than one-third of the games played, the pitcher handed Buckner much of the credit for his most successful year.

The White Sox themselves swear by their trainer and say that there is almost nothing in the way of muscular and medicinal lore of value to athletes that he has not picked up and stored away in his memory somewhere during his long career. Fear of injury or ugly spikings is minimized among the Sox by the knowledge that Buck is on the job watching for a chance to trot out old Mr. First Aid and that within the limited interior of his black leather grip there is some kind of remedy for almost anything that can happen to a ball player.

Possessed of the sunniest kind of disposition and a keen sense of humor, the Sox trainer is the instigator of many a prank played on a player, although he seldom participates. Not often do the players retaliate, but on one occasion they pulled one that threatened to reduce the trainer to the verge of starvation. Because he was not born with a white skin, Buck is his own quartermaster when on the road with the team and forages for his own lodging and meals. When the Sox were in Mineral Wells, Tex., last spring, a simple-minded colored groundkeeper was in charge of the ball park. Some of the players asked him why he did not learn to train athletes and get rich. They pointed to Buckner as an example and among other things told him that the trainer was one of the highest salaried men in baseball, drawing a stipend of not less than $25,000 for seven months' work.

Inside of twenty-four hours the whole colored section of Mineral Wells knew that they were entertaining a plutocrat. The kowtowing that followed was accompanied by increasing three or four times the prices of lodging, meals, and everything else that Buck needed. Protests did no good and the Sox trainer would have gone flat broke inside of a week in a strange land without knowing why if the players had not learned the result of their romancing.

TRUNK LINE MOTOR HIGHWAY.

NOTED AUTOMOBILE LEADER PROPOSES TURNPIKE.

Would Build New Road Across Delaware Which Would Provide a Pathway for Horse-drawn Vehicles in Order to Give Machines the Chance to Use Boulevard.

In deciding to give Delaware a 110-mile trunk line highway, Gen. T. Coleman du Pont recognized that such a road would be of some benefit to every inhabitant of the State. A hospital, college and manual training school were considered, but rejected in favor of the road, and so Gen. du Pont proposed to present to his home State the most finished road ever constructed in the world, with only one proviso, and that decidedly essential, for it related to the guarantee of State maintenance forever.

While in New York recently, Gen. du Pont visited national headquarters of the American Automobile Association on Fifth avenue, for he is one of the oldest members of the Delaware Automobile Association, which is a part of the national organization, and is a great believer in organized effort to secure the things that are worth while. Commenting upon the project which now absorbs the greater part of his attention, the general said:

"I want to build a road that will be a lasting one, and I am gradually collecting all engineering data obtainable in addition to engaging road engineers of experience, who understand thoroughly the conditions to be met with in this day of multiplied and varied traffic. Of course, this road will show to the people of Delaware the difference between a two-horse load over a bad road and a one-horse load over a good road. We have had inferior roads for a long enough period. I sincerely hope the people of Delaware will see the advantage when the road becomes an actuality.

"Every twenty miles I have in mind the establishment of agriculture experimental stations for the benefit of the farmer and development of the State, in charge of graduates from the agricultural colleges in the country. They will show the farmers of Delaware, and those of any other State, how two blade sof grass will grow where they have grown one before. Of course, there will be other representative adjuncts of farm life, live stock of the best breeds, for it is my belief that only healthy and the best cattle should serve the needs of the human race.

"As to the road itself, my idea involve a combination which would ultimately provide for both motor-driven vehicles and horse-drawn carriages and wagons. A forty-foot road should take care of the motor vehicles, and also permit of reasonable speed for ordinary vehicle

WAREHOUSE TO BE MONSTER.

West's Largest Storage Plant Is Latest Project.

Mammoth Fireproof Structure for East Sixth.

Elevators Will Lift Big Vans to Any Floor.

One of the most interesting and important building projects to be made public this month is that involving the construction of the West's largest fireproof storage warehouse at the corner of Sixth and Mateo streets, at an outlay of approximately $250,000. Plans for the structure, which is to be erected by a syndicate headed by W. E. Hampton, are being drawn by the Richards-Neustadt Company.

Los Angeles already has a number of fine storage warehouses, but none of these rank with the mammoth buildings devoted to storage purposes in the East. The East Sixth street structure, however, will compare favorably with any similar warehouse in the United States.

The building, which will be started within the next thirty days, will be five stories in height. It will be of reinforced concrete construction, the walls, floors, partitions, sills, doors and shutters being made absolutely fireproof. The structure will be built to fit the first of which will be 200 feet in size.

The warehouse will be thoroughly ventilated and will be kept at an even temperature and free from moisture. Provision will be made for the creation of hydrocyanic gas with which the whole interior can be at stated intervals filled, making it impossible for vermin of any kind to live in the place.

The building will be equipped with mammoth freight elevators capable of taking a van or wagon with a full load to any floor, from which it may be driven through spacious halls to discharge its burden at any desired compartment. This obviates the necessity for any extra handling of goods.

There will be a large number of private vaults for pictures, books and works of art.

MUSICALE POSTPONED.

The date of the first musicale in the series of membership privileges of the Young Women's Christian Association has been changed from the first inst. to Monday, October 30. The entertainment will be in the auditorium of the building at 8 o'clock in the evening.

LUMBER MEN JOLLIFY.

Foregather and Banquet at the Angelus and Discuss Question of Vital Interest to Their Association.

To get better acquainted and to secure greater harmony in business transactions, about 160 members of the Southern California Retail Lumber Dealers' Association met yesterday at the Angelus. The afternoon was devoted to an informal interchange of ideas and a get-together meeting of the dealers in a social way.

At 6:30 o'clock the lumbermen sat down to a banquet. A. J. Stoner of Sawtelle acted as toastmaster and introduced C. L. Hisbee of this city, who talked amusingly on sashes and doors as lumbermen and them. J. S. Billheimer stated some of the objects of the association and told what has been done in the year of its existence. W. W. Whitson spoke on the loyalty which should be a portion of every man's make-up to insure harmony among the dealers.

The officials of the association are Homer T. Hayward, president; A. B. Snow, vice-president; Henry Patten, treasurer; Peter Orban, secretary and C. P. Currah, associate secretary.

In the Parks.

COMES AN EXTRA BAG WITH THE PEANUTS.

When the peanut shells go into bags.

IF YOU buy peanuts in the parks today and do not get an extra paper bag in which to place the shells of the peanuts, you will not be getting your money's worth. Ask for the extra bag—THERE'S a Reason!

In fact there are several reasons in principal one of which is that Plant Wizard Burbank has ever yet arisen who has tried to grow peanuts without shells. That's the first reason, but the second reason is some reason itself—it is the Park Commission. The Park Commission can't exterminate peanuts, but it can regulate the concessionaire's business when the peanuts are sold.

This peanut nuisance has been a source of infinite annoyance to Commissioners Silent and Lippincott, and Secretary Herbert and Superintendent Scearce, have laid awake nights worrying about it. All day they have worried over it. They have gone out to the parks and watched the litter made by peanut shells everywhere along the walks and lawns. Next to the favorite form of nightmare of the four has been peanut shells and people who would insist on throwing them into the Park Commission's cafina many years hence. Then at last a happy thought! "Appeal to the people to protect their parks," said the Commission. "It's alliterative and it ought to prove a rallying cry."

Put it this way, was suggested:

"Protect Your Parks!"

"How?"

"Put peanut shells in paper bags."

"That is pretty good," said Secretary Herbert. "It ought to work satisfactorily. I can foresee little children growing up and using it as the slogan of a clean city."

So the Park Commission directed him to send a letter to everyone of the concession-holders at the parks, which he did. The new rule goes into effect today, for this is the letter the secretary wrote:

At a meeting of the Board of Park Commissioners I was directed to request you to provide yourself with sufficient empty peanut sacks to provide each customer with an empty peanut sack in addition to the filled peanut sack whenever you sell peanuts, and to request each customer to place all empty peanut shells in the extra empty peanut sack, and afterwards to place the sack full of empty peanut shells in one of the park rubbish baskets. It might be advisable for you to have peanut sacks printed with the following instruction:

Place your empty peanut shells in this sack and then place same in rubbish basket. Protect your park.

This is a small matter but it will save the city a great deal of money.

Takes Bait.

DETECTIVE'S NET HOLDS A QUARRY.

POLICE BELIEVE YOUNG MAN IS HORSE THIEF WANTED.

"Ad" for Gentle Equine Brings Reply, and When Detective and Would-be Seller Get Together It Is Found that Nag Was Stolen from Livery Stable.

A trap which the police set recently for the person believed to have stolen horses from livery stables to sell to those who advertise for "nice, gentle animals," has been sprung and as a result a young man who gives his name as James E. McLaughlin is in the City Jail awaiting a hearing in Police Court. Detectives said yesterday that they will ask for a complaint charging grand larceny.

McLaughlin was captured by Detective Beaumont, who posed as a prospective purchaser. McLaughlin made an effort to escape as soon as he saw the officer's star, but he was overtaken and placed in jail.

McLaughlin is declared by the detectives to have operated under five diffrent aliases, and fictitious bills of sale giving the different names have been found and are now in the hands of the detectives. Though notaries public state in writing on the parchment to which they affix their seals that they are personally acquainted with the persons securing the acknowledgements, McLaughlin arranged that technicality, J. M. Gaige, one of the notaries, stated, by appearing in the vicinity of his office a sufficient number of times to make his face familiar.

Reports were made by different livery stables during the past two weeks that a young man had hired a horse at each place and had not returned. Capt. Flammer believed that the animals were being sold in the city and that the man was probably still at work. Acting upon that supposition, he instructed Detective Beaumont to insert a want "ad" in the newspapers and see if the person responsible for the stables' losing horses would respond.

The detective received an answer. Arrangements were made to meet at the home of a friend of the detective on Sunset boulevard. McLaughlin appeared, driving an excellent horse which he offered to sell for $55. The detective said he was willing to pay but $50. McLaughlin held out for his original figure and finally they decided to ride together behind the animal and if the detective was satisfied he agreed to compromise on $52.50.

Beaumont took the reins and displayed his badge. McLaughlin jumped from the carriage and tried to escape, but the detective was fleeter of foot.

The young man was placed in jail and the horse was quartered in the police stables, where it was identified as one belonging to the Belmont Stables.

In talking to the detective while bargaining over the horse, McLaughlin made a mistake which strengthened the officer's belief that he had the man responsible for the thefts of the horses. McLaughlin first introduced himself as "Mr. Dewitt" and later referred to himself as "Baxter."

Before disclosing his identity, Beaumont asked if the would-be horse dealer could prove his ownership. "Very easily," McLaughlin answered. "Here is a bill of sale."

The bills of sale, all of which the police say are fictitious and were secured to aid in previous sales, were sworn to by notaries public whose signatures and seals were found attached.

CHURCH CIRCUS-BAZAAR.

Parishioners of St. Mary's Prepare for Week of Fun for Sweet Charity's Sake.

A circus-bazaar, something new in the way of entertainment, has been planned by the parishioners of St. Mary's Church at Fourth and Chicago streets for an entire week with the opening to be held tomorrow evening.

The bazaar will be held in a circus tent on a vacant lot adjacent to the church. A large exhibition stage has been erected and here will be displayed the freaks as well as the entertainment features which will be a number of vaudeville acts and orchestra interpolations.

tertainment features, which will be erected in front of the tent, a large descriptive and illuminated sign hung telling of the wonders within and other appurtenances of the circus will be on hand. The interior will be illuminated by 500 incandescent lights in addition to several arc lights. Music will be continuous, two electric pianos taking the place of the orchestra during intermissions.

Rev. Father Joseph McManus has had charge of all of the arrangements. There will be but six booths in the tent, these devoted to pink lemonade, peanuts, popcorn and souvenirs of the occasion. The proceeds of the affair will be used in educational work in the parish.

APPROVE FREE MUSIC.

Civic Bodies Endorse Los Angeles Band Association and Its Progressive Objects.

Letters of approval and endorsement have been received by the Los Angeles Band Association from the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, the Park Commissioners and the City Council, especially thanking the association for the music furnished on the occasion of the President's visit.

Andrew J. Copp, Jr., writing on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce said:

"This is a most worth and patriotic object and should receive the heartiest co-operation and assistance from the city of Los Angeles and all the people who live here, and I sincerely wish your organization a great future and that you may fully carry out the purpose for which you were organized."

C. T. Herbert, secretary of the Park Commission, writes:

"It is the opinion of the Park Commissioners that it is of the greatest advantage and benefit to the public to have opportunities hear good band music in the parks and public places. Your plan seems to be a step in this direction, and the commission trusts you will be entirely successful."

R. M. Lusk, president of the City Council, wrote:

"I have read the constitution and by-laws of the Los Angeles' Band Association and take great pleasure in saying that I heartily approve of the objects and purposes of your organization. You have my very best wishes."

FORMS NEW PARTNERSHIP.

Deputy District Attorney Steals a March on His Friends and With His Bride Goes on Honeymoon.

Michael Francis Shannon, Deputy District Attorney of Los Angeles county, and Miss Agnes Gonden Brown were quitely married in St. Vincent's Church, Grand avenue and Washington streets, at 6 o'clock yesterday morning. Only immediate relatives were present.

Almost as carefully as he had guarded the official secrets of the District Attorney's office did Michael conceal his wedding arrangements. Yesterday he did not appear and when inquiries were made it was quietly announced that he had "gone and got married."

Those of his friends who desired to see something of the festivities even at that late hour learned that efforts in that direction would be in vain, for, before leaving the young man and his bride had announced to friends and relatives that questioning would be futile for they would not disclose where they were going, when they would return, or where they will live when they do get back.

Michael is a fugitive. No one knows where he has gone or when he will be back, but they know the reason of his going. His brother deputies could learn nothing at the former home of Shannon, which was at Victoria Park, nor at the former home of the bride, which was at No. 126 West Twenty-fifth street.

Park; vice-presidents, Tom King and Franklin Boschke. The meeting on Tuesday evening will be addressed by W. C. Mushet, Miles Gregory and Job Harriman, and a week later, Mayor Alexander will address the league.

No Pipe Dream.

FINGERS ARE HIS FORTUNE.

Kubelik's Digits are Insured for Immense Sum.

"I Don't Wear Them in a Muff," Musician Declares.

Treats His Valuable Paws With Much Familiarity.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Kubelik's $235,000 fingers—insured for that amount—were twisting nervously when a reporter visited him the other day. The government had insisted on holding Jan's two violins, valued at $75,000, at the customhouse, and Kubelik had nothing on which to practice. Nothing, though Nahan Franko had brought in so many violins from his own collection that no one could sit down without danger of smashing some valuable fiddle.

Kubelik said he did not understand why the government had deprived him of his instruments. It had never been done here before, and he supposed the violins could be brought as tools of trade. Meantime, lest one of his $235,000 digits might get out of practice, he must borrow an intrumess.

The reporter gazed respectfully at the most valuable hands in the world. They appeared to be rather small, well manicured, strong hands. The fourth finger of the right one bore a plain gold band and another set with two rubies and a diamond.

"How do you take care of your hands?" Kubelik was asked.

"Well, I don't wear them in a muff," he answered.

The violinist added that he washed them in either hot or cold water, as was convenient, wore gloves when he pleased, and did not apply any lotion to keep them supple. In fact, he seemed to treat his valuable paws with a disconcerting familiarity.

The insurance is in two companies, the Oceanic of England and the National of Austria. It covers any accident that would keep him from appearing at a concert, and he pays about $1500 a year in premiums. In addition to this he carries $150,000 life insurance.

Kubelik looks as young as ever, even on close inspection. There are one or two threads of white in his long black mane, but not a line on his brown face. He is as simple and unpretentious as of old. He speaks excellent English and impresses one, aside from his art, as a modest, charming man who has not left boyhood far behind.

A picture of his wife and five children, among them the famous twins, making a ring-around-the-rosy, with him as the center, stood on the mantel.

"Are the women as crazy about you, now that you are a husband and father, as they used to be?" the reporter asked.

"Oh, I cannot tell you," Kubelik laughed; "that would be telling my secrets."

MOTOR CAR TIRES.

Handling motor car tires after they are discarded is a business of no mean proportions, which has grown up in the last two or three years. Three facts enter into it, the junk collector, the dealer in junk and the rubber reclaimer, and the most important of these is the last. For a tire which cost originally forty or fifty dollars the junk dealers give from 5 to 8 cents a pound, depending upon his and the owner's bargaining powers and the state of the market—just now 6 or 7 cents is the general price. In other words, the junk dealer gives the owner a couple of dollars for his old 840 tire. The junk collector sells to the dealer at a slight profit, and the dealer, who sorts out the different kinds of junk, sells the rubber tire to the reclaimer, who eats out the fabric with acid, extracts the rubber and uses it for making "rubber" boots and shoes, springs, valves and tubings.

TEN THOUSAND MARK PASSED.

THAT MANY PERMITS ISSUED TO DATE THIS YEAR.

Cost of Building Thus Far Over Nineteen Million Dollars—October Beats All Figures for that Month. Home Builders Play Big Part in Activities.

The total number of building permits issued to date by the chief inspector of buildings of this city is well over 10,000, the aggregate having reached 10,008 at the close of business on Friday. The valuation represented by these permits was $19,677,441, a figure greater than that for any other whole calendar year in the history of Los Angeles with the single exception of 1910, which boasted $21,654,100 for the year. With over a third of October and all of November and December yet to be heard from, there is no doubt whatever that the record total of last year will be eclipsed with a million or two to spare.

October to date has been a most remarkable month in point of the number of permits taken out, the building department having issued 898 permits, representing a construction outlay of $1,123,741, from October 1 to October 20, inclusively. The figures for the corresponding period of last year, which was the previous banner October in building, were 676 permits and $1,088,327 valuation.

The home builder has played the biggest part in the October construction activities to date, having taken out 380 permits representing houses of one, one and a half and two stories to cost a total of $766,145. There have, in fact, been no large single items so far for the month.

Following is the classified report of the building department for the first twenty days of October:

	Permits	Valuation Permits Val.
Class C	13	$141,640
Class D, 1-story frame	307	468,048
Class D, 1½-story frame	21	62,574

Class D, 3-story frame	3	57,000

HEAVY TRAFFIC THROUGH CANAL.

EUROPEAN MERCHANTS PLAN TO SHIP GOODS HERE.

Angeleno and Family Return Home With Pleased Impressions of the Continent—Fashion Displays in Paris and Clothing Industry in London Attract Attention.

"People of Holland and Belgium are much interested in our Panama Canal, and are getting ready to take advantage of its great shipping interests and handle our California fruits in large quantities," said Melville C. Adler of Harris & Frank, who reached Los Angeles yesterday morning after an extensive tour through Europe, accompanied by his wife, son and daughter.

"The big merchant marines at these great shipping ports are just now looking with a good deal of interest to this Pacific Coast, and are ready to seize the opportunity offered by our waterway connecting the two oceans the moment it is open."

The family left home last April and sailed on the Hamburg-American line, landing at Hamburg. They spent three weeks in Berlin and the same length of time at Dresden and Carlsbad, visiting Vienna, Budapest, Salzburg, Munich and thence down into the Engadine region, the Italian lakes, through the Simplon tunnel into Switzerland, to Zermatt, at the base of the Matterhorn, to Montreux, Geneva, through the Bernese Oberland, to Interlaken and up the Jungfrau, into Lucerne, to Baden Baden; motored through the Black Forest 130 miles, to Frankfort and down the Rhine to Cologne; then to Amsterdam; motored two days through Holland, spent a week at Ostend, visited Brussels, Antwepr, Paris and London.

Continuing, Mr. Adler said:

"We visited the old town of Ghent, where my son was particularly interested in the art and sculpture of the old Flemish school and we happened to visit the Louvre in Paris the very day that the famous painting of Mona Lisa disappeared. Next day we were there again, and saw a woman place a bunch of flowers reverently in the vacant place where Leonardo da Vinci's masterpiece had hung.

"We attended the fashion displays in Paris, which is the one place on earth to study women's apparel, but I found the men's merchandise is given scarcely any show at all there. London is the place for that. There we found stores run on the American principle. London is a leader in the overcoat industry.

"In the interests of my firm I made some connection there for the famous English Burbury coats, which Wanamaker and other big New York and Chicago merchants are making a specialty of this season. These coats stand for warmth without weight."

Mr. Adler, as vice-president of the Los Angeles Humane Society, was especially interested in the way neglected and deserted children are cared for in London and Paris. The National Humane Society in England is conducted much like ours, but it does not have the juvenile court. Both England and France are preparing, however, to introduce this judicial instution there. He brought back with him a good deal of literature and many new ideas on the subject, which he will later bring before the society here.

Mr. Adler played golf on the celebrated Samadan links, and motored out to Waterloo from Brussels, starting from the home of the duchess where the ball was going on just before the famous battle; saw the fountains play at Fontainebleau, and motored through rural England.

Landing in New York, the family proceeded to Washington and stopped at several cities on the trip across the continent. "I find San Francisco has taken a new lease of life," observed Mr. Adler, "and is regaining her old-time business push."

SPARING NOTHING FOR ITS SUCCESS.

HOUSEHOLD SHOW TO HAVE UNIQUE FEATURES.

Fresno Will Contribute Raisins in Dainty Packages—Society Women Volunteer Services to Run Grocery Store—Automobile Exhibit Promises an Eye-opener.

One of the latest and largest donations for the Shriners' Household Show has been tendered by Fresno. From the raisin center will come a large quantity of raisins put up in dainty packages, which will be retailed at the show. This will add quite a tidy sum to the amount realized for the entertainment of the Shriners at the May convention, and at the same time put before the people of Southern California in a most appealing way the attractions of the San Joaquin Valley.

Plans are progressing finely in all departments of the show, and there will probably be an over-subscription for space. It has been found necessary to place the big grocery store in a tent on the lawn, as there was not sufficient room for it inside. It will require 200 women clerks to take care of the grocery department alone. These will be recruited from the ranks of Southern California's society women.

The automobile show which will be the only exhibit to be held here this winter, will eclipse anything held before in the West, not in numbers, but in the high grade and beauty of the cars. Only the choicest will find a place, as the thirty-four firms represented are limited to one or two models each.

The beautiful colonial coupes and limousines will be a splendid feature, supplemented by the latest designs in runabouts and touring cars. In addition to the cars will be a large exhibit of the newest things in accessories and tires.

John Blackwood has arranged a most attractive bill of theatrical entertainers chosen from the companies that will be playing in local houses at the time. These will be supplemented by local talent.

An attractive feature will be handled by the various women's clubs of the city. Each club will decorate a table in competition for a prize. Another competition of more than ordinary interest is that of the chefs of the various clubs and hotels on the Coast. The finest cakes that the chefs can produce will be ranged side by side in an appealing way.

A great fashion show and a baby show have been arranged for, as well as numerous other attractions and novelties.

PROTECTING INDIANS' RIGHTS.

First Suit Starts to Recover Homestead Grants in Inyo County Reservation Illegally Parted With.

The first prosecution in the effort to recover for the use of certain Indian wards of the nation, the land that the government gave them, was begun in the United States Circuit Court yesterday by Assistant United States Dist.-Atty. Cryer.

Some time ago Cryer investigated at Bishop, Inyo county, the complaints of Piute Indians living on the reservation there, that they had disposed of their lands before they were allowed under the government grant. The result was that the foundation was laid for wholesale prosecution of the white men who have secured the Indian's allotment at almost nothing.

The first case of a number that are to follow was filed yesterday, the defendants being Alexander H. Hogue and wife, Carrie Hogue. Hogue is a government forester in the Inyo county reservation district.

It appears from the complaint that on June 12, 1882, Sherwin Jim, a Piute Indian, made a homestead entry of forty acres of the best land in the vicinity of Bishop. On October 25, 1890, a patent was issued to him, which was afterward recorded in Inyo county.

In 1905 Sherwin Jim died leaving a widow, Jessie Sherwin Jim, and a daughter, Mary Sherwin Jim Brown. In October, 1907, it is alleged by the prosecution thot Hogue secured a deed for land from the widow for $800. Now it is contended that the homestead entry is inalienable for twenty-five years from the date of the patent, and cannot be sold within that time.

MANY CASES PENDING.

District Court of Appeals Convenes Tomorrow for October Term—Appeal in Bank Issue Interesting.

Forty-four cases are on the calendar for the October term of the District Court of Appeals of the Second Appellate District, which will convene here tomorrow. These cases are: The People against Webb Edwards, Ed Harrison, George Martinez, J. Horace Sliger, W. J. O'Bryan, H. C. Lederer, George Barlow, Judson Moxley and B. Berecovitz, all separate actions; Andrew E. Broadbent against John M. Keith, H. P. Lanz against J. E. Fishburn and George Rheinschild.

Among the important cases is the appeal of the United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. against the First National Bank of Monrovia, an action growing out of a judgment secured by the bank on account of a robbery committed there about three years ago, the appellant having insured the respondent against loss by burglary.

The District Court yesterday ordered the release of Francis Sullivan, who had pleaded guilty to an ugly charge and had been fined by a police judge.

The famous Pauma Ranch, consisting of 12,000 acres, in San Diego County, in the San Luis Rey Valley, has ALWAYS been looked upon as one of the choicest agricultural lands in Southern California.

This property has never been cut up for the reason that it has been impossible to buy any portion of it.

This property has now changed hands.

The new owners are going to sell a portion of the citrus land and all the river bottom lands.

Surveyors are now on the property, dividing it into its natural parcels.

The large amount of water in the San Luis Rey River, which goes directly through this property for a distance of 4½ miles, makes it one of the most feasible irrigating propositions in the country.

The proposed railroad from Oceanside, through the ranch, for which the right of way has been sold, will open up this country, and make the land equal to anything in Southern California.

It is accepted by expert lemon growers that San Diego County is the choicest lemon land in the State.

And the fact that the Pauma Ranch is perfect lemon land is demonstrated beyond question by orchards on both sides and on the ranch itself.

The bottom lands are the choicest silt deposits, adapted to alfalfa, beans and vegetables.

We are able to sell any portion of this ranch in tracts suitable for subdivision, at fully 50 per cent. below wholesale market prices, or will make a further discount for the sale of the entire ranch, excepting 1000 acres, which the owners propose to withhold and develop for themselves.

We have maps and photographs in our office for your inspection. We invite your investigation.

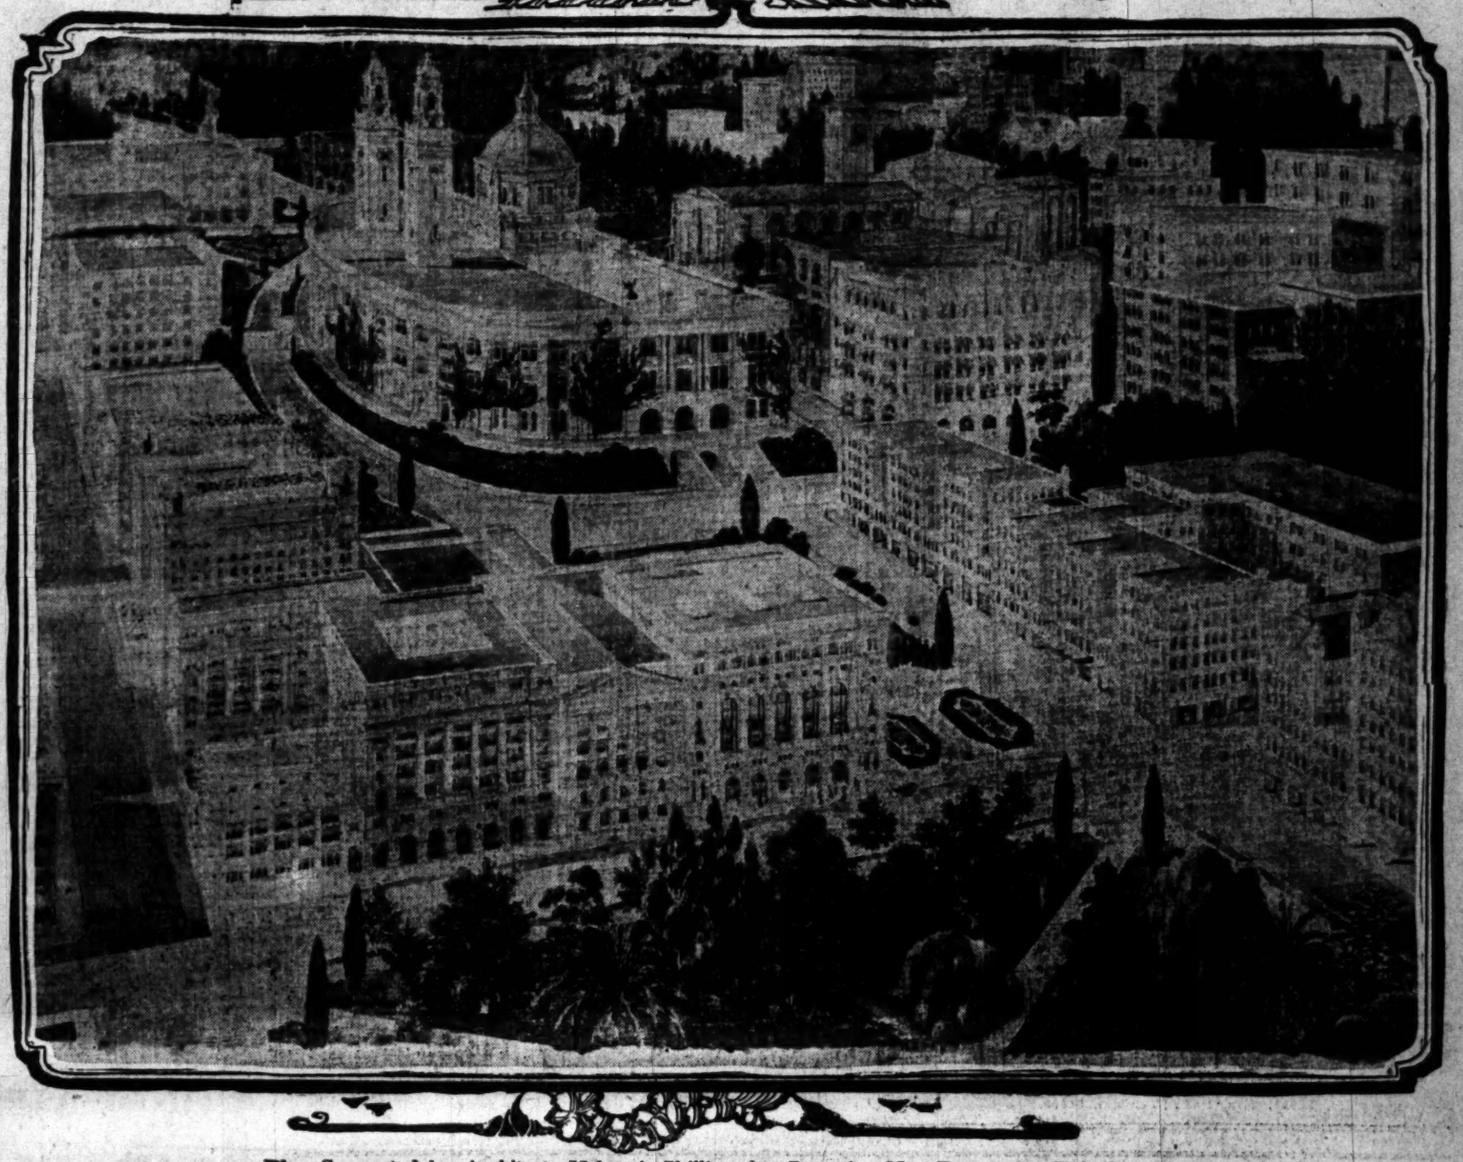
City Beautiful Idea as It Might Be Adapted to the Old Normal School Site.



Plan Suggested by Architects Neher & Skilling for Imposing New Downtown Civic Center.

The above design, based on the Charles Mulford Robinson plan, and prepared at the instance of a number of leading citizens and property holders, illustrates in a graphic and striking way the possibilities in the treatment of Normal Hill and its Fifth-street approach.

City Beautiful.

CIVIC CENTER PLAN IS BEING BOOSTED BY MANY.

It Is Urged that the City Buy the Normal School Property at Fifth Street and Grand Avenue and Form Nucleus of Splendid Group of Public Edifices—Robinson Plan Is Adapted.

THE APPROACH of the time when the Los Angeles School must settle upon a new and larger site from among the locations now being considered by the Normal trustees brings before the people anew the question as to what disposition should be made of the present site of the school at Fifth and Grand. It is a question that will soon have to be settled if the best interests of the city are to be conserved. Several plans are now being discussed.

The Normal School site, comprising approximately five acres in the very heart of Los Angeles, is probably the largest single piece of close-in property on the market today. The State has already set a minimum price of $500,000 on the holding and a State law provides that the property may not be sold excepting at public auction and after a due process of advertising.

The city's chances for acquiring the site of the Normal School are therefore just what the chances of any individual or syndicate are as things stand at present. Realty men are agreed that the State's minimum sale price is far under value. The question that is agitating many of those who are earnestly in favor of the city acquiring the Normal property concerns the possibility of there being a strong bid for the site from private sources.

THE ROBINSON PLAN.

The city beautiful plan of Charles Mulford Robinson, as outlined a number of years ago, contemplated the use of the site of the Normal School as the location of the public library, a scheme which would of course presuppose the purchase of the property by the city.

It was pointed out that this sightly elevation, close to the heart of Los Angeles, would lend itself admirably to library purposes and that here of all places is the best location for a truly monumental public structure.

Private individuals have cast longing eyes upon the property as an ideal location for a great tourist hotel, while others have held it to be best adapted to a group of fine apartment hotels. The property has been urged also as the proper site not only for a private hospital but for a public institution of the same character.

Again there are those who have maintained that the cutting through of Fifth street on grade is of supreme importance and that the whole elevation ought to be cut away with that end in view. The State long ago offered the city seventeen feet for the widening of Fifth street between Grand and Hope, this offer being made with the understanding that the present one-block jog of Fifth street should be maintained where it now is.

The whole question will soon be up to the public and to the private bidders. This being true, recent efforts of prominent citizens to revive and keep alive the idea of the municipal use of the old Normal site in some such manner as was contemplated in the Robinson plan, is of particular interest at this time.

FAVOR CITY OWNERSHIP.

The city's new Municipal Art Commission has come out strongly in favor of public ownership of the Normal site, and the Mayor and other city authorities have been urged to take steps looking to the acquisition of the property by the municipality. The members of the commission have held that the State should and probably would prefer to sell to the city and that the property is a splendid bargain for the public.

The commission has even gone so far as to outline tentative plans for a monumental building to crown the Normal site elevation. In this building they have agreed there should be housed the public library, a great art museum and a big convention hall. The space is ample for the entire scheme, they say, if only it can be properly utilized from an architectural point of view.

On this page of The Times is published a perspective prepared by Architects Neher & Skilling, in which is suggested a magnificent treatment of the entire Normal Hill layout. The design, which was yesterday submitted to several members of the Art Commission, has been carefully worked out upon the Charles Mulford Robinson plan as a basis.

In this perspective a great building on the site of the Normal School is shown. In this structure the east front is designed for a public library, with the art gallery portion facing the south and the convention hall occupying the rest of the space. The building would crown the entire top of the hill south of Fifth street, between Grand and Hope.

The feature of the scheme, however, is the plan suggested for making Fifth street a through thoroughfare from the business center to Figueroa street and beyond. At Fifth street and Grand avenue it is suggested that Fifth street be continued on a wide curve at the base of the present Normal grounds and passing the school buildings on the south. It is pointed out that the street grade throughout would be easy.

The architects suggesting the plan would also ask the Water Commission to abandon its plan to erect an office block at Fifth and Olive streets and to dedicate the site of that structure to park purposes. It is held that this plan would give much needed park space and at the same time create a truly dignified approach to the public buildings on the hill. To complete the parkway desired it would be necessary for the city to purchase the property between the water building site and Grand avenue.

In the perspective are shown all of the important buildings now in the vicinity of the Normal School site, as well as many other sketched-in structures in keeping with the character of the proposed new civic center.

The land will be sold in tracts of five to forty acres with water. This deal was closed by Mr. Rush personally.

New Laurels.

THIS CITY AT HEAD OF LIST.

Los Angeles First in Number of Permits Issued.

New York, Philadelphia and Chicago Eclipsed.

Homes, Flats and Apartments Make Up Total.

With nearly 900 building permits and approximately $1,200,000 valuation as a record of construction activity for the first twenty days of October, the present month already gives promise of eclipsing all previous October figures in the city's history. The highest previous figures were those of October, 1910, which boasted 957 permits and $1,890,788 valuation. The record for the number of permits issued is therefore already assured and there seems scarcely any doubt that the former valuation total, too, will be discounted.

When it comes to the actual number of new buildings started every month, Los Angeles has recently been leading all the cities of the United States. This city at least boasted such a proud achievement for the month of September, when even the figures of New York, Chicago and Philadelphia were eclipsed by those of the Southland metropolis.

New York, including both Manhattan and the Bronx, issued 620 permits for new buildings in September, as against 1230 permits for Los Angeles; while the best the Windy City could do was 1009 permits. Philadelphia, with 1192 permits, was about $500,000 behind Los Angeles in construction valuation as well.

The three great eastern cities, of course, generally lead Los Angeles in building outlay on account of their larger expenditure for the skyscraper type of buildings. The fact, however, that this city is actually erecting more structures of all classes than any other city is highly significant as showing the phenomenal rate of the advance of Los Angeles to a place among world cities.

Most of the permits issued here are for new homes, flats and apartments to accommodate the 30,000 to 40,000 persons who are annually added to the population. A great and ever-increasing number of permits also are taken out for small stores in the new and advancing sections, which are constantly being added to the city's area of development.

APARTMENTS AND FLATS.

Of the apartment and flat projects now on the boards of local architects and designers the following may be mentioned:

Plans are being drawn by S. Tilden Norton for a three-story brick apartment building to be erected by W. M. Gottschalk and A. Sieroty on a lot fronting on both Fifth and Sixth streets and lying between Hartford and Witmer streets. The building will contain sixty-six rooms for guests, together with a large amusement room and lobby. The improvement will cost about $35,000.

C. C. Rittenhouse is preparing plans for a three-story frame apartment-house to be erected by W. C. Elderton and W. L. Myers on West Tenth street, between Georgia and Francisco. The same architect is drawing plans for a two-story apartment building to be built by Daniel Fry at Moneta avenue and Forty-seventh street, and for a two-story addition to an apartment-house on Shatto street owned by J. A. Hill.

At 2 o'clock they left for Whittier in an automobile. The gentlemen are on an automobile trip through the citrus belt.

Thursday a permit was taken out by Architect Harrison Albright for a six-story reinforced concrete hotel and store building to be erected for John D. Spreckels and W. H. Hannom, the permit calling for an expenditure of $400,000.

This permit raised the total from January 1 to date to $4,467,315, which is $1,638,115 more than the figures for the corresponding period last year, and is $462,115 in excess of the total of the whole year 1910.

Other permits issued this week include a seven-room residence on C street, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth, for E. G. Dehm, to cost $4500; a five-room cottage at Elm and Granada, for C. P. Pritchard, to cost $2500; Pacific Building Company, ten-room residence on Seventh street, between Upas and Robinson, $10,000, and an eight-room residence on Thirtieth, between Cedar and Date, $3375; Mrs. E. J. Sawyer, eight-room residence on Third, between Redwood and Spruce, $4500; E. S. Shields, nine-room residence on Granada, between Grape and Hawthorn, $4000; San Diego Building Company, seven-room residence on Dale, between Ash and Beech, $3000; five-room cottage at Lincoln and Utah, $2000; five-room cottage on B, between Twenty-ninth and Thirtieth, $2000.

MODERN BLOCK BEGUN.

TROPICO, Oct. 21.—On San Fernando road, near Central avenue, construction has been begun upon a two-story brick store and lodge building for P. Gabaig. Plans for the structure, as drawn by Paul V. Tuttle, call for a building 90x60 feet in size to cost about $10,000.

The first floor of the block will be divided into five storerooms, while the second story will be devoted to the use of the Knights of Pythias Lodge. The exterior of the building will be faced with white enameled brick, trimmed with old gold.

The lodgeroom will be one of the finest equipped halls of its type in the section, and will have a heavy beamed ceiling. There will also be large ante-rooms, paraphanalia-rooms, parlors for ladies and banquet-room, with buffet kitchen.

Fine Pickings and Fancy Jobs for Lords in Old England.
Wave of Democracy Has Not Yet Engulfed Snug Billets and Fat Pensions.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Though the aristocratic fighting cocks of the House of Lords have had their spurs cut to some extent by the passage of the recent Parliament Bill, they are a long way from being out of the fight yet. In fact, notwithstanding the wave of democratic sentiment that has come upon the country, no less than 114 of the 625 Peers in the Upper House manage between them to extract nearly $1,050,000 from the public treasury every year. Some of them earn their cash, but when one considers the others "it is to laugh," as the French say.

Details have come out lately that have opened the eyes of thousands to the way the treasury acts as milch-cow to the descendants of famous men. Presently, when contentious legislation stirs less dust, it is very likely rude hands will be laid on this pension list. The exposure has startled a good many who thought themselves familiar with political conditions in England, for they were unaware of half the payments that are made for reasons centuries old or for jobs more picturesque than useful.

Reference books give little or no hint of it. In fact the information might never have come out at all in our time if the Right Honorable Henry Chaplin and some other good Conservatives had not opposed the Old Age Pensions Act so hotly on

Earl Nelson,

Grand-nephew of the famous Admiral of Trafalgar fame. He has drawn nearly two million dollars pension money from the British treasury.

the ground that it was "degenerating and demoralising." That set the defenders of the aged poor investigating the condition of Chaplin and his friends, with the result that they were able to show these very reactionaries were drawing fat pensions from the state for scanty services in the past.

Nobody complains of the payments to Peers who are Colonial Governors, or of the $100,000 paid to Lord Aberdeen as Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, for though it looks big, he has to entertain a whole lot and so is very likely a loser by the end of the year. So pretty much the same category is Lord Loreburn, who gets $30,000 a year as Lord Chancellor and $20,000 as president of the House of Lords—both dignified jobs with real duties.

But when it comes to the fancy jobs and the gilt-edged pensions there are more Gilbertian circumstances to be considered. Every Briton has hoarded the doughty deeds of the great Admiral Lord Nelson at Trafalgar and elsewhere. After that battle his nearest kinsman received an earldom, $450,000 for the purchase of a mansion and estate and $25,000 a year as a perpetual pension. Now the present Earl Nelson is not a direct descendant of the famous Admiral but a grandson of his sister, Mrs. Bolton. Nevertheless that perpetual pension has fallen to him and up to now his lifetime has brought him $1,900,000 out of the public purse without a lick of service of any kind whatever. Eighty-eight years of age, he has lived through three reigns in luxury and ease. Two other descendants of former fighters, Lord Raglan and Lord Napier of Magdala, both get $10,000 a year because their ancestors upheld the Union Jack with bravery and skill.

Compared with Nelson there are modern warriors who have done very well. Lord Roberts draws $10,000 a year as a retired Field Marshal, but besides that he was given $500,000 as the commander-in-chief who brought the Boer War to a close. A nice little "nest-egg" like that should make the descendants of the popular "Bobs" inclined to view the future complacently.

These pension drawers are long lived gentry. Viscount Cross is another 88-year-old Peer who has

Duke of Argyll,

Who married Queen Victoria's daughter, Princess Louise. He draws $5000 as governor of Windsor Castle, and is an uncommonly bad pest.

Earl of Granard,

Master of the horse, who looks after King George's stable equipment.

been drawing $10,000 a year for many years as an ex-Cabinet Minister. A much abler Conservative Peer in former Cabinets was Lord Balfour of Burleigh. He now has a pension of $5000 a year. There is even a gay old retired general in the Upper House, the Duke of Grafton, who goes on drawing a pension of $4250 a year at the age of 90. Everyone of these men voted against paying five shillings a week to the aged poor over 70 years of age. Most vigorous of them all is the veteran Lord Halsbury, 86 years of age, who is leading the Conservative "Die Hards" against the leadership of Lord Lansdowne and Arthur J. Balfour, because these two submitted to the inevitable and gave way to the Parliament Bill. Halsbury was a famous lawyer who became Lord Chancellor and he draws $25,000 a year pension on that account. In his time he has qualified a good many more for that easy outlook, for he was a tremendous "jobber" during his long tenure of office and loud was the outcry from time to time of the way he dealt out legal preferment on political lines.

Besides these, there are a good dozen Lords who draw pensions for early services in diplomacy or the army. America may have a pension roll of troublesome length, but it does not deal out gold quartz in such massive chunks as this titled bunch of Britishers manage to lay hold of.

Then we come to the fancy jobs. The Earl of Granard, who married Beatrice Ogden Mills, draws $10,000 a year for looking after the King's horses. His official title is Master of the Horse. He sees that all official visitors are adequately provided with royal carriages so, as a matter of fact, he renders some real service for his salary. So does the Earl of Chesterfield, who gets a like sum for being Lord Steward and checking the King's household expenses.

The Duke of Argyll's income is swollen by $5500 a year because he is called Governor of Windsor Castle. Captain of the Gentlemen at Arms Lord Colebrook gets $5000 for dressing up at court functions, and Viscount Allendale enjoys a similar sum for being Captain of that picturesque body, the Yeomen of the Guard. Seven other peers receive $2400 apiece as Lords in Waiting. Compared to these salaries, the Bishop of Ripon's trifle of $35 a year seems an insult to the episcopal bench. This dignitary of the Church of England is called Clerk of the Closet. Evidently he is not paid at trade union rates, for the Bishop of Oxford gets $506 for acting as Chancellor of the Order of the Garter.

Ordinary people haven't the least idea of the duties these titled lackeys are called on to fill, their work having as little reality in the sight of the man in the cars as the adventures of a musical comedy hero. Only on state occasions do they appear, clad in raiment such as Solomon in all his glory never wore. For filling the post of Usher of the Order of the Thistle the Earl of Mansfield receives $475, twice the sum paid to the Duke of Hamilton and Brandon for acting as Hereditary Keeper of Holyrood Palace. It is difficult to understand what principle rules the pay schedule of these aristocrats, as it shows such astonishing disparity. There seems to be plenty of room for grievances, so we may yet hear of a peer going on strike and refusing to carry the black rod of his office, because a brother peer is paid at a higher rate for carrying a white one. M. P.'s who are spurning $2000 a year for parliamentary attendance are really far better off.

Out of date offices are jealously guarded, for all that, from lapsing to the scrap heap. The Earl of Southest still calls himself the "King's cup bearer," though great church dignitaries have assured us King George practically belongs to the "dry" brigade. Sir Windham F. Carmichael Anstruther is known as the King's Carver, and Sir Alan Henry Seton-Steuart as his Armor Bearer. This, in spite of the fact that a mere butler carves the joint of Buckingham Palace, and the nearest approach to armor that covers the kingly bosom is a chest protector in winter. Nevertheless, when fresh court officials are appointed by a new monarch, there is keen rivalry and plenty of intrigue for the places among the titled aspirants.

Also there remain several jobs of an ornamental character, apart from the immediate service of the King, though the cash value of such posts is not published. Take the fifteen fortunate functionaries who run the College of Arms, or Heralds' College. They regulate the wearing of coats of arms, and supply the gaily decked heralds who make the royal proclamations at coronations in old-time fashion, on the sublime assumption that there are no newspapers through which to communicate obvious facts to modern people.

Incorporated and endowed in 1484, the College of Heralds consists of three Kings of Arms, six Heralds and four Pursuivants, and two other officials. In ordinary times they are supposed to be busy in their offices in Victoria street fixing up coats of arms for people who can afford such display. The Duke of Norfolk as Earl Marshal is chief of the college. Its best known officer is Garter King of Arms, Sir Alfred Scott Gatty, who also turns many an honest penny as a writer of lyrics for light opera.

Not to mention the well-known noble officials who figured as recently as the coronation, there are some desirable posts to be found in the government department of Woods and Forests. Six thousand dollars apiece go to Sir Edward Stafford Howard and George Granville Leveson Gower in this connection. They are called Commissioners of Woods. Why they are given that money, and what they do in return for it is carefully hidden from general knowledge. Similar mystery enshrouds the duties of Gaveller and Deputy Gaveller of the New Forest, and the Ranger of Windsor, which is held by no less a personage than Prince Christian, and the elective Verderers of the New Forest, chief of whom is Earl Normanton.

PEACH RANCHES ARE PROFITABLE! This is especially true if you own such a ranch, close in to the great Los Angeles market, as the

There are no heavy expenses necessary to ripen and protect the crop, for irrigation is unnecessary, and insect enemies are practically unknown. Frost protection and its attendant difficulties and worries is, therefore, a negligible quantity.

BOWSER, HE SUFFERS.

But He Is Game and Recovers from the Grip.

When Mr. Bowser had overslept his usual hour by fifteen minutes the other morning Mrs. Bowser went up to see what was wrong. He was awake, but he had just felt a shiver pass over him and had the quilts drawn up to his chin. He had made fun of the grip a hundred times over and had even asserted that only persons of weak intellect would give up to it, but now he had a feeling that he was in for it himself.

Mrs. Bowser scanned his flushed face and felt of his pulse and quietly said:

"It's a case of the grip and you'd better stay in bed today. Of course, the grip doesn't amount to anything, but you'd better take reasonable precautions."

"But it does amount to something," he contended as another shiver struck him. "I was reading last night that it carried off over 400 people in this town alone last year. I want a doctor at once."

"But it is a mild attack, and you know you have often said that no person with an ounce of brains——"

"It makes no difference what I have often said. I am all of a shiver one minute and burning up the next, and my mouth is as dry as chips. Telephone the doctor at once and tell him not to be all day getting around here."

That was the beginning of the day. At 9 o'clock Mrs. Bowser brought up some tea and toast, and Mr. Bowser took a few sips of one and nibbled at the other and said that he had a feeling that he was not long for this world. His voice was very plaintive as he said it.

At half-past 9 o'clock he called Mrs. Bowser up to say that he had a headache, his feet were cold and that he wanted a quiet funeral in case of death. She assured him that one day in bed would probably effect a cure, but he sighed and shook his head and hoped that he would have his senses to the last.

At 10 o'clock the doctor arrived. Having heard Mr. Bowser disparage the grip and the medical profession combined, he felt it his duty to assume a serious look and announce that it was an aggravated case and might terminate in pneumonia.

The patient was to take three kinds of medicine, summon up all his will power and remain in bed for at least two weeks. He also inquired if Mr. Bowser had his life insured and his house in order. In taking his leave he observed that nine out of ten cases of the grip were proving fatal and that fat men were being mowed down like grass.

At 10:10 o'clock Mr. Bowser felt hot flashes and cold shivers, and a dog howled dismally in front of the house. He didn't inquire as to the color of the dog, but he felt more shivers as he heard the howls. He acknowledged that he was a crank and a kicker and begged Mrs. Bowser to turn his pillow over and forgive a dying man. He said that he didn't want to be buried in Connecticut, but wouldn't raise a fuss about it.

At 11 o'clock there were more shivers, and he had a hot-water bag at his feet and a cup of hot tea; also held Mrs. Bowser's hand and said he was sorry for finding fault with the gas bill.

At 12 o'clock noon the patient complained of numbness in his knees and a buzzing in his ears. Had his pillow turned over and his feet tucked in, and Mrs. Bowser went down and chided the cook for singing "I Would Not Live Alway."

At 1 o'clock Mr. Bowser seemed to be asleep, but as Mrs. Bowser wiped a tear off his cheek he opened his eyes and said that if he were to live his life over again he'd never buy a fire escape or a new milch cow without her consent. He would like to live on for her sake, but felt that he was called to go. More toast and tea, and he ate heartily for a dying man. Pillow turned over and the cat turned out of the room.

At 3 o'clock the doctor came again. He looked more serious than before and sounded Mr. Bowser's lungs. Seemed to take a secret satisfaction in thumping him well. Announced that there was no sign of pneumonia yet, but advised the utmost caution against exposure or excitement. Said that most of his patients who died heard a dog howl a few hours before dissolution. It was just possible that he could pull the case through, but——

As soon as he had departed Mr. Bowser had four shivers in succession, and gave Mrs. Bowser a list of debts to be paid after he had become an angel.

At 4 o'clock the patient tried to sing a hymn, but gave it up in the middle of the first verse, and asked Mrs. Bowser if she could possibly forgive him for jawing around when the coal was out. She wiped the tears from his eyes and kissed him, and he whispered that he was sorry for calling his mother-in-law a human hyena.

At 5 o'clock the patient felt a crinkling of his toes, accompanied with a prickling of the ears, and he declared his belief that they were a sign of dissolution. He recalled the fact that he had once come home and raised a great row on finding a clothespin in the front yard, and he wanted to die knowing Mrs. Bowser had forgiven him. Forgiveness was extended, and he was assured that he had many years of life still before him. This cheered him for a moment, but a new buzzing in his ears admonished him that his stay in this world might be brief.

At 5 o'clock more toast and tea. While the patient ate and drank, he said he was leaving the best wife in all the world behind him and that he deserved booting for the way he had held her responsible for the broken windows and frozen water pipes. He spoke of the cat as if she were a human being, and wondered if she would miss him; wondered how he could ever have been so foolish as to try to ride a bike.

At 6 o'clock the patient felt that pneumonia had seized him in its deadly clutch and that two hours more would witness the end. He held Mrs. Bowser's hand and begged her forgiveness for saying that she had no system about housekeeping; referred to his mother-in-law again and left several farewell messages.

At 6:30 o'clock the patient weakly whispered that he wished to bid the family cat goodby. He had not been kind to her and his conscience was troubling him. On three occasions he had even sought to take her life. The cat was brought, and as she seemed to say, "Oh, forget it," tears rolled down his cheeks. He then closed his eyes and appeared to be resigned to the inevitable. Even the cook in the kitchen was weeping, and the umbrella menders passing the house were requested to lower their voices to a whisper.

At 7 o'clock as Mrs. Bowser sat downstairs and her patient was supposed to be asleep, Mr. Bowser suddenly appeared before her in his dressing-gown.

"Why, mercy gracious!" she exclaimed. "Are you——you——"

"Exactly, madam," he replied, as he looked around for a cigar. "You and the doctor have fondly imagined all day that I was booked for Jericho, but you see me here before you, and now why in thunder are you letting that blamed old cat scratch the cover off the lounge?"

"But you said—said ——"

"I said the grip didn't amount to shucks, and here's the proof of it. If you'd had it you would probably have died before noon, but it has only made me hungry. If there is any cold corned beef in the house you have the cook sling it on the table. After I've eaten I'm going out for a five-mile walk, and if the doctor comes while I'm gone advise him to drop medicine and go to building cement houses. Grip! Humph!!

Richest "Tule Lands" On Earth

$60 Per Acre

Best Alfalfa Land in the State

Free Natural Gas!

California will never again afford an alfalfa land-buying opportunity like this one. This will be absolutely your last chance to buy real sub-irrigated alfalfa land at $60 an acre—with several years' time to pay for it. These are rich "tule lands"—the luxuriant growth of tule plants thoroughly prove the land's sedimentary origin. Sedimentary soils are the richest in California, requiring no fertilizer. The infallible proof that this land is sub-irrigated is substantiated by the fact that it produces several crops of alfalfa without applying water. In addition to the sub-irrigation feature, these lands are abundantly supplied with the very finest quality of odorless natural gas, suitable for light, heat, fuel and power. Gas is obtainable by boring a well at moderate cost. This gas feature is of inestimable value. We will be glad to show you the gas wells on the ranches adjoining our lands. The ranchers of the valley would not part with their gas wells at any cost.

The land is all level and practically ready for the plow. In addition to alfalfa, the soil will produce all kinds of vegetables, berries, etc. Located in California's most famous valley—with excellent transportation facilities afforded to the best markets in the State. Good schools, churches, commercial and social advantages. Just a short trip from Los Angeles. We will run two personally-conducted excursions at low rates this week. If you are in the market for the last sub-irrigated gas-producing land in the State at $60 per acre—make reservations immediately for either of these excursions. We will refund your excursion money if you do not find conditions exactly as we claim them to be. Register at once, by phone, letter or in person, if you intend to go.

Fortunes in early Cantaloupes

Chandler Ranch

under ROOSEVELT DAM

SALT RIVER VALLEY ARIZONA

Chandler Ranch—cream of Salt River Valley, Arizona, offers unlimited opportunities in the production of early melons. Cantaloupes and all varieties of melons thrive to perfection here. The United States Government Bulletin says, in speaking of Salt River Valley: "There is no other known locality where melons will produce better or have a finer flavor. The early season and consequent high prices obtained make it an attractive industry. The popularity of Salt River Valley cantaloupes has been fully illustrated in the Eastern markets. Last year Arizona cantaloupes sold in New York for $3.25 to $4.60 per crate of 45 melons, against the Eastern product at 95c to $1.15 per crate. An average crop will yield from 175 to 200 crates per acre, but as many as 535 crates have been grown here on a single acre."

The foregoing was taken from a Government report—the careful investigations of Uncle Sam's agricultural experts. Salt River Valley cantaloupes command extra high prices in the local Arizona markets and in the East. Mr. F. Clendenen, a Mesa cantaloupe grower, last season harvested 3600 crates from 13 acres and cleared, above all expenses, $3636. From one and one-half acres of watermelons, Mr. J. W. Black, a local rancher, netted $638.36 last season. To the prospective melon grower, Chandler Ranch, with deep, rich, fertile soil at $100 per acre, with ten years to pay for it—offers the most remarkable opportunities and advantages obtainable in the United States—and for one-half the money required in less favorable districts.

Every acre is under the famous Roosevelt water system—the great Government irrigation project just completed at a cost of over $8,000,000.00. The United States Government will, in a few years, turn over the entire system—the great volume of water, hundreds of miles of canals, big electrical power plants, etc.—to the valley land owners, and our purchasers will all participate in this. Nearly $100,000 worth of Chandler Ranch lands were sold during the summer, with practically no advertising at all. Special low rates from Los Angeles to Chandler Ranch are now in effect. Why Angeles Mesa?

There are scores of good, solid, straight-from-the-shoulder answers to the question—"Why Angeles Mesa?"—and here are a few of them.

1. Angeles Mesa is the last high ground, "all-view" subdivision that is left in the rapidly-developing Southwest section of the city at UNDER THE MARKET PRICES.
2. Angeles Mesa is the center of more big commercial, educational and public utility projects than any four other subdivisions in the city.
3. Two new yellow carlines will be running direct to the property this month. This feature alone is an investment element that is attracting many shrewd home buyers.
4. Home-building development is hitting a vigorous pace — 30 handsome new homes are now under way.
5. Acreage adjoining Angeles Mesa without any improvements is being held at higher prices than we are asking for our improved property. Just last week, a big piece of acreage adjoining us sold for $3000 an acre. Now is the time to get in on Angeles Mesa.

Go out and see the greatest center of residence subdivision activity in Los Angeles. Take the Inglewood car on Spring, Seventh or Grand Avenue and get off at Slauson Avenue, or make an appointment and go via our automobiles.

In Notable International Peace Address at Los Angeles Banquet the President Hopes Examples of the Proposed Treaties Will Lead Other Nations to Take Similar Steps and Reach Joint Arrangements.

THE text of President Taft's notable international peace address, delivered at the Los Angeles banquet in the Alexandria last Monday night so late that but a small part of it could be published by the newspapers the next morning, follows in full:

As I bring to a close this most delightful visit to California, I wish to express to the Governor of the State, and to Senator Works, to the State officers and to everybody in California, whether they rejoice as private citizens [laughter] my heartfelt gratitude for my cordial reception. [Applause.]

I appreciate, none more so I think, what a burden the President of the United States is as a guest [laughter] and how much trouble to the Governor and the Mayor of a city, when he comes within their jurisdiction, and I appreciate in full the kindness that they have exhibited in this vicinity. It does not surprise me, because it fits with the tone of California, when she undertakes to do a thing, or when she realizes her duty, or when she feels the spirit of hospitality, that she always does. [Applause.]

I am glad to be here in Los Angeles and to find that she is not likely to lose in future growth by reason of a lack of appreciation on the part of her sons of her present condition. [Applause.] It is now twenty-one years since I had the pleasure of coming to Los Angeles, and, therefore, I feel as if I could look back over a very important part of her life. It may be wrong, but it seems to me, as I recollect it—for I looked at the thing from the slant of San Diego—there was talk of competition between San Diego and Los Angeles and that shows how old a man I am. [Laughter and applause.] Even Judge Works and my brother-in-law, Dr. Edwards, have reformed in that regard. [Laughter and applause.] Whether they would now be able to pass a civil service examination with reference to the bay and climate of San Diego, I do not know. [Applause.]

STORY WITH MORAL.

I am glad you have water in Los Angeles. I could tell a story about your getting it. San Francisco is still laboring on that subject and I think there is some hesitation growing out of the fact that there is a disposition to question motives. Well, the gentleman that filled that interval between one Senatorship and the other [laughter]—our friend Flint—came to me one day when I was in Washington and explained some difficulty he found—there was a very suspicious Secretary of the Interior who, when he was looking for water and for water for Los Angeles, put him in the category of the grafter and grabber, and if he had not been willing to occupy that position and take it calmly and not get excited, I doubt if he would have gotten the water claim through, but he stood it with humility and accepted the suggestion as to his necessarily dishonest motive with so much calmness that it really conquered the old man and he got the allowance. [Applause.] So that it is in that, as in any other thing, there are more ways of killing a cat than choking it with butter. [Laughter and applause.]

Now, I do want to commend all the pleasant procedure of transition between the gentlemen who maintained the interval and the gentleman who came with the title to the Senate, between Senator Flint and Senator Works. It was something we were glad to see in Washington because it was exceptional—it is generally contrary to human nature, that the predecessor shall look upon his successor with all that approval and all that feeling of concurrence in the event [laughter,] as was possible on this occasion. [Applause.] And I can verify it, for the two gentlemen came to the White House and Senator Flint presented Senator Works in much the same language that is used here tonight.

Now, gentlemen, I congratulate you on your great city. I congratulate you on its great growth. California is a wonderful State, but California is earning, as other States are, in the greater increase in her urban population, over that of her rural population; it may be that your farmers live in the city, and, therefore, that the rules do not apply to you that apply to other States. It is true with you, apparently, that your farmers are your millionaires—that is, that your millionaires are your farmers. But the growth in urban populations, if you will examine the statistics of California as compared with that of the rural growth, is exceptional. Perhaps, living in the country with you, if it is living in the desert in Southern California without settlements around making a city of 2500, is impossible. Perhaps, that is the reason.

PEACE TREATY.

But my own hope is through the country that the profits of rural life and comforts of rural life are increasing so rapidly as compared with those of the city, that we may look hereafter for a change, and that cities may not grow as rapidly as their inhabitants hope that the cities will grow.

Something has been said tonight with reference to peace. When I got into this trip the questions that I might discuss on the way during the forty-six days of it, were a little difficult to settle, but I had submitted to the Senate two treaties for ratification, which the majority of the Foreign Relations Committee had questioned the wisdom of, at least, in respect to one clause, perhaps, two, and had directed the publication of those treaties. Generally, they are kept in executive session and are not made public, but I assumed when the Senate published them abroad, it expected to receive the benefit of the public discussion and I have proceeded on that theory and have spoken on the subject as often as the occasion offered, because their ratification is very near to my heart, in the hope that if they are ratified it will be a substantial step toward an ideal that lawyers have formed with reference to the possibility of abolishing and getting rid of war. [Applause.]

That ideal is the establishment of an arbitral court, by joint agreement by all the powers of the world with power to pass on its own jurisdiction. Under those treaties the arrangement was that when one nation feels

HAS RUGGED SETTING.

6New Country Home of California's Lieutenant-Governor to Follow Tudor Castle Style of Architecture.

One of the most picturesque and attractive country estates in Southern California will be that planned by Arthur B. Benton for Lieut.-Gov. A. J. Wallace and to be erected on the mountain ranch of the latter at El Nido La Canada. The place will be designed after the plan of a Tudor castle and will be set on a shelf against the mountain side, a rugged setting that is admirable for this type of structure.

The house will be of reinforced concrete construction throughout and will cost about $25,000. It will contain fourteen large rooms, exclusive of baths and halls.

The front of the dwelling will be lower than the rear and one entrance will be through the vestibule on the ground floor and by wide stairs to the main story. The main hall on the first floor will be gnished after the Tudor style, with beamed ceilings and high carved panels. The living-room will be 32x20 feet in size and will have at one end a large stone mantel.

There will be a wide paved terrace across the entire front of the house and under this, on the level of the ground floor, will be the garage.

NO HOUSES FOR RENT.

BUILDING CONTINUES ACTIVE.

MONROVIA, Oct. 21.—Numerous sales of all classes of property are reported, but no large transfers have been recorded during the week. Building continues brisk and general. Permits show that an average of one residence a day has been maintained so far this month. The list of rental houses is approaching the vanishing point. Books of the rental agencies show an immigration of thirty families in the past thirty days.

Sales reported for the week ending Thursday are as follows: A. C. Brown, acting for E. D. Northup, to Mrs. Ludie Cross, six acres full bearing navels on Buena Vista avenue, Duarte, $11,000. There are no building improvements, but the property carries water rights.

Monroe & Evans, acting for F. M. Monroe, to R. C. Simpson, three acres on Magnolia avenue and also fronting on Melrose avenue, consideration $7500. Same firm, acting for Charles Mills, to Mrs. Harriet L. Snow, seven lots at the corner of Mayflower and Palm avenues, $3500. Same firm, acting for Mrs. W. H. Evans, to Mrs. Harriet L. Snow, lot on Palm avenue, $500. Same firm, acting for Mrs. Elizabeth McGee Bernett, to Richard C. Tumulty, 100x272 feet on East avenue, considertaion $1000. Same firm, acting for Lewis P. Frank, to Frederick Dreyar, 100x272 feet on East avenue, consideration $1000.

ARCADIA ACREAGE SALES.

Recent sales in the Arcadia Acreage Tract, a part of the old Baldwin ranch, are reported by M. M. Davison & Son, as follows: T. D. Powell and H. Clofford, two lots, $5600; L. P. Query, $975; Robert H. Lynn, $718; Hilma Albrin, $1375; D. G. Caswell, $2875; Ethel C. Hood, $3650; J. B. Duff, $2750; A. G. Barnell, $5750; P. S. Strong, Fannie S. Squire and L. C. Willis, consideration not named; James W. Barnes, $3550; L. S. Abel, $1150; Miss Mary Miller, $1125; Benedict Marti, $5750; Carl B. Marti, $2875; Elmer E. Fisher $1650; and Clifford M. Buck, $575. Most of these sites were purchased for immediate improvement. The Arcadia Acreage property comprises 360 acres of land in all and is cut up into pieces of from one to ten acres in size.

HOUSE OF SWISS TYPE.

At the corner of Oxford avenue and Washington street W. W. Atkinson is building an attractive eight-room house of the Swiss chalet type. The plans for the dwelling, as prepared by Frank M. Tyler, call for a house with shake exterior, with white stone chimney and porch. The finish will be in hardwood.

A beggar, named Sullivan, died the other day. In his hovel were found bank books aggregating deposits of $50,000. Ten years ago he was arrested as a vagrant and the police say that he was worth then $25,000. In the last ten years he has not been arrested and has been allowed to add another $25,000 to his hoard. If he had lived a while longer he might have collected all the loose change in the community.

Go out to Beverly Hills and see this cool, delightful water garden pictured above. Tourists and landscape gardeners have pronounced it to be one of the most artistic conceptions of aquatic gardening in the Southwest. This beautiful and fascinating water study is just a bit of the great half-million-dollar improvement plan that has been faithfully carried out at Beverly Hills.

Here is a stately residence district—a sheltered foothill suburb—a panorama of picturesque natural beauty—a center of fashionable homes—not a single 50-foot lot in sight—nothing but broad, rambling villa plots—homesites that possess character and individuality—no crowding—no shut-off views—everything just as free and natural as nature planned it. Over $500,000 worth of modern, value-giving improvements have not interfered in the least with the natural picturesqueness of Beverly Hills—they have only enhanced it.

Everything that the most highly improved residence district of the city has exists at Beverly Hills—gas, electricity, sewers, mountain water, telephones, stately boulevards of petrolithic construction, graceful parkings, a wealth of ornamental trees and shrubs, excellent car service via Sixteenth Street or through Hollywood. Beverly Hills homes are models of architectural originality. The great diversity of building sites here presents admirable opportunities for almost every style of architecture.

The new $100,000 Country Club House is comfortably adjacent—and the new $800,000 Beverly Hills Hotel, concerning which there has been much publicity in the daily papers, is now in course of construction.

PARTNERSHIP RECOMMENDED.

... Find It a Solution of Industrial War.

... Invested in the Mutual Companies.

... Sham System that Divides Producers.

[DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] How seriously responsible men are pondering the problem of improving the relations of employer and employees is indicated by a manifesto issued today, influential signed, declaring that industrial conditions are thoroughly unsatisfactory and recommending as a remedy what they resort to copartnership. Among the signatories are Lord Avebury, the Rt. Hon. Thomas Burt, the Rt. Hon. Charles Fenwick, Sir William H. Lever, Sir Benjamin C. Browne, Prof. Alfred Marshall, a number of others, all engaged in practical working cooperative enterprises.

"The industrial system which divides society into the production of wealth into two armies, "usually in a state of armed neutrality," toward each other, is condemned as unworthy of enlightenment and humanity of the age. Copartnership, it is asserted, is applicable in some form to every industry in which labor is employed. In its simplest form it is stated that the worker shall receive in addition to the standard wages of labor a share in the profit of the business or economy of production after the worker shall accumulate a share in the profit or a part thereof in the capital of the business, thus acquiring the ordinary rights and responsibilities of a shareholder.

Where labor is employed. It is declared, as in mere wage earners and between employers who are compelled to adopt the point of view of owners or masters. Copartnership assumes a share of wage before there can be any profit to divide and a share of wage assumes an organization to maintain it; in other words, collective forms of trade-unionism, collective bargaining and the meeting of capital and labor on equal terms.

Copartnership companies control about one-half the capital invested in companies in England. The profits of thethree London gas companies have accumulated $3,000,000 [illegible].

...OF TRADE UNIONS.

...ly a Benefit to Members, ...to Now Controlled for Selfish ...

[New York Tribune:] The inquest now being held by a Royal Commission in England into the differences between the railroad managers and their trade unionist employees has already resulted in some sug... declarations by witnesses of character and long services entitled to serious regard. It is of special note at the outset that the railroad magnates, who affect to speak for labor, in fact, number fewer than half of the employees of the roads. The demand which some unionists, therefore, for a "closed shop" and the employment of none but unionists would mean a discrimination against the majority at present of the minority.

More suggestive is the testimony of some veteran workmen as to reasons for not belonging to the unions or for withdrawing from them. They seem to agree that the unions were of advantage to the men. Formerly while they were controlled entirely for the men. But such, it is no longer the case. Extreme socialists, often from other countries, come into the unions and get control of them, and are now using and directing them for political purposes. That is the complaint and that is the purpose of a large part of the agitation and organizing which now occur. The unions are no longer mutual benefit associations, for the good of the rank and file of their members, but agencies for promoting the personal aims of unscrupulous politicians who seek the overthrow of the existing social and industrial order and who are ready to sacrifice the interests of the workmen and of the public to that end.

Those unionists who no doubt honestly fear that impeachment, and who have much to present in support of their theory view. The indisputable disorder, established by the testimony of the professions and boastings of the agitators themselves, is that in the main was to disorganize and discredit the government, and that in Great Britain and now in Spain the so-called "strikes" were admittedly based on the French principle and method, largely arranged by the leaders of the French General Federation of Labor, which had sought the overthrow of the republic. It would seem that for any right thinking man who sympathizes with the purposes of unions so long as they were confined to securing higher wages, shorter hours of labor, better protection of life and limb, and in general improved conditions of service, for which reforms are known to be needed. But when their purpose is the selfish advancement of certain politicians, or the control of industry through demoralization and the paralyzing of blackmail, it is difficult to see how right minded men can sympathize with them. Of course not all the trade unions in Great Britain have such aims in view, and perhaps not even one is wholly devoted to them to the exclusion of worthy aims. But the unmistakable indications are that the selfish purposes are gaining rapidly in influence.

...ssive German Laws.

[New York Tribune:] Berlin law certainly has far-reaching. Because a certain ironworker employed by Krupp, on the other day sent to his employer a weak. Going along the street he saw a merrymaker being carried particularly stout policeman. The sight tickled him. He was hailed before the court and fined. Another man attempted to board a moving train and fracture his leg. After six months in hospital he was discharged cured, but the state railway department has prosecuted him for breaking the law. The law and leg were mended. Stepping into an ant hill a man trod on the foot of the queen. She was so annoyed that she waddled like a hen. She was fined for using this term of opprobrium.

THE PRODUCTS OF LABOR.

[Editorial.]

All forms of visible property, from a hair pin to a locomotive, from a collar button to a skyscraper, from a spool of cotton to a summer gown, are the product of labor. The ultimate form into which the results of labor pass is money, and money is the convenient medium by which the produce of the labor of the field is exchanged for the product of the labor of the factory.

Potatoes and oranges, nails and overcoats, and all kinds of property are commodities. Money is a commodity which the banker buys with the labor of taking care of it, and he sells the use of it at a profit, which is called interest. Labor is a commodity that is bought and sold as flour and cloth are bought and sold, and the price of which is, equally with flour and cloth, subject to the inexorable laws of supply and demand. He who has anything to sell, whether it is his labor or a town lot, gets all that he can for it, and the purchaser of anything, whether it is of a day's work or an automobile, buys it as cheaply as he can. The laborer is an honorable man. So is the merchant. So is the banker. The sale of labor is an honorable transaction. So is the sale of flour, so is the sale of the use of money. The banker cannot force a loan upon a borrower, and a borrower cannot force a loan from a banker. The merchant cannot compel a customer to buy a stove and the customer cannot compel the merchant to sell one. The laborer cannot compel an employer to hire him, and the employer cannot compel a laborer to work for him.

Capitalists have endeavored—more or less successfully, to evade the operation of the laws of supply and demand, by co-operating in trusts to limit production and enhance prices. Labor has made similar efforts by co-operation in labor unions to increase wages and—by limiting the number of apprentices—to reduce the supply of labor.

The strike has usually been the remedy invoked by labor unions to guard its interests and redress its wrongs. It is a foolish remedy, and has seldom been a successful one. It is as if the farmer were to burn the corn in his crib in order to obtain a better price for next year's crop, or as if the merchant were to set fire to a part of his stock of goods in the hope of procuring a higher price for that which he did not destroy.

The bombastic, law-defying, grafting, foreign-born anarchists, who control the American Federation of Labor, ordered a strike a fortnight ago on the Harriman lines that compelled 30,000 men to leave employment in which they were well-treated and well paid.

If the strike had been ordered for the purpose of obtaining better wages or better conditions for the workers the sympathy of the public—which is not too kindly disposed toward railroad corporations—would have been with the strikers, and public sympathy is a powerful aid to any cause which secures it. But public sympathy in the present instance is not with the strikers, for the strike was ordered for the avowed purpose of aggrandizing the power and increasing the illicit revenues of the "labor leaders" who ordered it. Hitherto, if a worker in the shops had a grievance to redress or a demand to make, he submitted his case to his local union, and the delegate of the local union met a representative of the railroad company and the matter was adjusted. It is now demanded that if a worker in the railroad blacksmith shop in Los Angeles claims the use of a lighter striking hammer, and the railroad company declines to accede to his demand, the controversy must go past all local unions to New York, where Gompers sits in royal state. The Federated Council, at a cost of about $50.00 a day to the workmen of the land from Maine to California, will take the matter up, and make the job last a month if they can. They will decide against the railroad company—of course; that is what they are there for. If the company refuses to reduce the weight of its striking hammers, or, as in the present case, refuses to abandon its privilege of inquiring whether an applicant for employment learned his trade within or without the walls of the penitentiary, or whether he is or is not afflicted with a contagious disease, then a general strike is ordered and 30,000 men lose their jobs.

The $60,000 a day ($1,500,000 a month) that has been paid by the Harriman lines to their faithful workers, is now being paid to a new lot of men who have promptly taken the places of the strikers. The men who have left have lost their jobs. Some of them may return. The railroad company will not discriminate against them, but it will not discharge the new men to make room for the old ones.

Strikes have sometimes been successful because the employer was not able to stand out against boycotting, picketing and dynamiting. Such is not the case with the Southern Pacific Company. It cannot be boycotted, or picketed, or menaced into subjection to unreasonable demands that would deprive it of the control of its own business and the management of its own property. It has facilities for bringing workmen from all parts of the United States. It can stockade and garrison its shops, and feed and shelter its workmen. The members of its operating force have too much sense to be beguiled into a sympathetic strike, and if they were so beguiled, their places could be readily supplied.

A railroad company is peculiarly situated for it has resources not available to other corporations. In a dire exigency, and all other remedies failing, it can go into the hands of a receiver appointed by a Federal Court. Behind the receiver would be the United States Marshal and any number of special deputies, and behind these would be the United States army.

Will union labor never be governed by rudimentary common sense? Can it not see that in its attempt to control the business of its employers it is utterly, hopelessly, irremediably in the wrong? "Issacher is a strong ass," but all his braying about "wage slavery" and "subservience to special interests" and "predatory wealth" and the "domination of big business" will never take a pound from his load, or add a pound to his fodder, or enable him to eat without earning.

Capitalist and laborer, toiler and idler, seller and purchaser, are alike dominated by the law from whose inflexible rule there is no escape—the law of demand and supply. Inordinate demands of either labor or capital will lessen the supply of the other. Only in harmonious relations can the prosperity of both be secured.

REPORTS ON WAGES AND CONDITIONS.

Timely Bulletins from All Parts of the World.

In this column it was shown in detail last Sunday how valuable as a wages-producer is the American factory when not subjected to the purgatory of ill-advised tariff legislation and equally ill-advised and always unnecessary strikes, using as an illustration the great growth in recent protective-tariff years in our exports of factory-made goods.

The wages-producing value of the American factory under the conditions named is further and most convincingly shown in a preliminary statement (since received) of the combined status of our principal manufacturing industries in 1910 census year as compared with 1905 census year. The gains all round in that brief period of five years are remarkable.

Here are the comparative figures:

	—Census Years— 1910	1905
Number of factories	283,491	216,180
Increase in five years		52,311
(More than 10,000 new factories yearly.)
Capital invested therein	$18,428,270,000	$12,675,551,000
Increase in five years		5,752,689,000
(A gain of $1,150,000,000 yearly.)
Cost of materials used	$12,141,291,000	$8,500,208,000
Increase in five years		3,641,083,000
(A gain of over $700,000,000 yearly.)
Value of products	$20,672,052,000	$14,793,903,000
Increase in five years		5,878,149,000
(A gain of nearly $1,200,000,000 yearly.)
Employees	7,495,313	5,957,939
Increase in five years		1,417,374
(Nearly 300,000 more each year.)
Pay roll	$4,215,413,000	$3,184,884,000
Increase in five years		1,130,529,000

A gain to our tariff-protected factory employees in wages and salaries of $236,000,000 for each of the five years. That is a clear-cut, significant, and most satisfactory fact—one to be borne impressively in mind daily from now till voting day in November, 1912, and particularly, before voting, on that day.

During the five years named, the increase in wage-earners was 21 per cent., while the gain to them in wages was 10 per cent. more, or 31 per cent. Remember that fact also in November, 1912, and vote so as to secure its continuance and probable still further increase.

American Factories Over Seas.

The somewhat startling, but eminently satisfactory figures quoted above, do not include our factories in Alaska, Hawaii and Porto Rico. Their combined status as wages-producers in 1909 was:

Number of factories	1,591
Capital invested therein	$27,479,000
Cost of materials used	52,228,000
Value of products	95,494,000
Pay roll	10,021,000
Employees	78,685

Segregated, the employees and payrolls in 1909 were:

Porto Rico:
Employees	38,644
Pay roll	$4,598,000
Hawaii:
Employees	6,498
Pay roll	$2,795,000
Alaska:
Employees	3,344
Pay roll	$2,328,000

A quite nice showing for the Territories named. Labor union agitators have been sent down to Porto Rico by Gompers from time to time during the thirteen years of American occupancy but evidently with little, if any, harmful effect so far. If the writer's memory is not at fault the "apostle of business and wage-earning disturbance" went down there once himself. Of his official labor-disturbing travels one is tempted to say, "Ill fares the land to hastening ills a prey." When will American labor compel these agitators to leave it alone—leave it to go on doing its work and drawing its good pay? Strike time lost is wages lost and lost forever. What those of us who have to earn our living want is protection, work and wages, not strikes, idleness and empty pockets. The strike agitators can not give us the former, but they do cause us to suffer the latter, and not we only, but all those dependent upon us—the ultimate and main sufferers.

American Fishing Wages.

The fortunate (for us) rejection by Canada of our reciprocity (so-called) offer to that country, has preserved the following yearly wages paid in our fisheries:

	Wage-Earners.	Yearly Payroll
Atlantic Coast division	48,406	$9,720,000
Gulf of Mexico division	5,822	1,892,000
Pacific Coast division	4,813	2,215,000
Great Lakes division	4,108	1,227,000
Mississippi River division	2,647	806,000
Totals	71,801	$15,058,000

For which we may well be duly thankful. The census here quoted (1908) shows that California has 4100 persons engaged in her fisheries, or more than are so employed in all of the other States, except Maryland, Florida, Massachusetts, Illinois, Louisiana, Maine, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Oregon, Virginia and Washington. The best wages are paid in the Pacific, Atlantic and Great Lakes divisions, and the lowest in the Mississippi River division. Forty-two $3600.

millions of dollars capital is invested in the industry, of which $1,970,000 is California money.

British Workers and Wages.

A British Board of Trade (government) report gives the following data of British workers and wages—reported by Consul-General John L. Griffiths of London:

Trade—	Workers.	Average Weekly Wages.
Iron and steel	53,891	$ 8.75
Pig iron	15,966	8.10
Tin plate	30,921	7.79
Shipbuilding	109,285	7.43
Railway carriage building	45,329	6.62
Engineering	863,543	6.39
Light iron castings	12,383	5.97
Jewelry		9.23
Farriers and general smiths		8.74
Chains, anchors, etc., per year		404.00
Needles and fishing tackle, per year		204.00
Of 741,537 workers:		Weekly average.
577,861		$ 7.84
136,653 (lads and boys)		2.57
29,922 (women)		2.96
9,121 (girls)		1.74

Noting these last two segregations can we wonder at the great prevalence of female prostitution in British factory cities? It's hard for women and girls to "live" on $2.96 and $1.74 a week.

Increases in twenty years—adult males:

Tinplate, engineering and boiler-making	25 per cent.
Pig-iron making	20 per cent.
Shipbuilding	23 per cent.
Railway carriage building	22 per cent.

And yet the average weekly wages now are only as above stated.

Bonus for Hard Coal Miners.

The Sun of New York says: For their work in September, 1911, the mine workers in the anthracite region of Pennsylvania receive an increase of 6 per cent. on rate of wages fixed by the anthracite strike commission of 1902. The increase is applied to the October payroll. This bonus is in accordance with the commission's decision that in addition to the general advance of 10 per cent. in wages there should be a further increase of 1 per cent. for every advance of 5 cents above $4.50 in the average tidewater price of the domestic sizes of coal. As the average price was $4.84 in September this entitles the mine workers to 6 per cent. more pay for the month. This applies to all classes of employees.

Comparisons from the Census.

Study of the 1910 census reports on manufactures reveals the fact that generally the percentage of increase in total wages paid in 1909 as compared with 1904 is greater than the per cent. of increase in value of product, as given by Arthur J. Dodge, the Washington weekly correspondent of the American Economist of New York. The comparisons follow:

State—	Increase in Product. Per cent.	Increase in Total Wages. Per cent.
Pennsylvania	34	38
Delaware	23	29
Florida	45	51
Idaho	156	166
Louisiana	30	35
Massachusetts	33	34
Nebraska	29	36
Oklahoma	119	164
Oregon	63	76
South Dakota	68	69
Vermont	8	16

And so on.

Another census, 1899-1904 comparison:

State—	Increase in Wage-Earners. Per cent.	Increase in Total Wages. Per cent.
Pennsylvania	15	28
Michigan	32	56
Ohio	23	41
New Jersey	23	29
Massachusetts	20	34
Alabama	16	32
Connecticut	16	29
Delaware	15	29
Georgia	13	32
Indiana	21	40
Iowa	25	50
Kansas	22	45
Kentucky	9	24
Maryland	13	30
Maine	7	18
North Carolina	23	49
Utah	46	67

And so on. Everywhere the increase in wages is much greater (per cent.) than the increase in workers, due to the policy of keeping our own market for our own work people. Remember that also in November, 1912.

THE PEACEFUL STRIKER.

Union Men are Never Beaten Up Nor is Any Union Property Destroyed During a Strike.

[Portland Spectator:] When we have strikes we have violence. They are inseparable. In the present railroad strike, which is but a few days old, much property has been destroyed, many men have been maimed, and a number of men have been killed. The property destroyed belonged to the railroad; none of the men mauled or killed was a striker.

Why is it that when we have a strike no union property is destroyed and seldom if ever is a union man "beaten up" or killed, while it invariably happens that the property of the company against which the strike is called is damaged and the independent workmen clubbed or murdered? It is passing strange.

When the unions declare a strike against a company, one of the first things the company does is to apply to the authorities for police protection, and one of the first things the unions do is to wait on the authorities and demand that no police protection shall be given. Why? Because, say the walking delegates, the unions desire peace; their men are harmless; they will not touch a stick of the company's property, nor cut the air hose, nor destroy the brakes, nor remove coupling pins; nor will they maim or murder the men who are faithful to the company.

But if the unions are peaceful as doves and do not intend to destroy property or life, why do they object when the company asks for a police patrol? Would not the police assist in preserving that peace which the unions are so anxious to see maintained. When you go about your business, if the business is peaceful, do you care how many police are on the street? Are you not encouraged in the performance of your lawful business by the presence of the police? Is any decent, lawful, honorable calling interfered with because of the presence of police in the neighborhood?

During a strike the business of the strikers is to prevent others from doing what they have left undone. Today the business of the strikers is to prevent the repair of engines, so that the public may be annoyed and harrassed, and the equipment of the railroad crippled. That is not a legitimate, lawful business, because to accomplish it, the strikers "picket" the railroad property, accost, insult and not infrequently, beat men who are willing to work, and by every means that criminal ingenuity can devise try to prevent the railroad from giving to the public safe and proper service.

That is why the unions insist that the company against which a strike is called shall be denied police protection. Why the authorities yield to the insistence of the unions and deny police protection to property, and men menaced by the strikers is another question.

ABANDONS LABEL; NOW OPEN SHOP.

STARRET COMPANY FOUND PRODUCTION DECREASED.

Cost More to Manufacture Goods Under Union Conditions Than Under Open Shop Regulations—Employees Said to Have Shown the True Union Spirit.

[The Argonaut:] The L. S. Starret Company of Athol, Mass., has just issued a circular to explain why it will no longer use the union label, and why it has been forced to repudiate the labor agreement that it signed ten years ago and that it has loyally sustained ever since. It is hardly necessary to say that the Starret company has a world-wide reputation as tool makers and that its character for ethical dealing is of the highest. Its manufacturing importance is so great and its trouble with the union is so typical as to deserve attention.

First of all, the company points out that its sales have steadily fallen during its ten years' connection with the union, and this in spite of assurances of union support all over the country. But this alone might be attributed to the ordinary fluctuations of trade, and probably it would not have occasioned the present action but for other and unbearable incidents that the circular goes on to enumerate. It might be supposed that so important an adhesion to the union cause would be welcomed with cordiality and co-operation. Not at all. Such words are not in the union vocabulary. A new adherent is looked upon not as a friend, but as a conquered enemy to be insulted, robbed and ruined. No sooner was the agreement signed than the whole horde of union iniquities was let loose upon the unfortunate victim. Among the more obnoxious of these was the "limitation of production," and we all know what that means. It means that the deliberate theft of labor becomes the order of the day throughout the works, that every man deducts a certain percentage from his own capacity, that he works slowly instead of quickly, that he consciously lessens the speed of his hands and of the machine that he controls. Scamps and rascals have done these things from time immemorial, but until now they have been recognized as scampish and rascally. Labor unionism makes of them its cardinal virtues. Therefore the Starret company finds that it cannot continue its business under a closed shop agreement that compels it to weed out the honest men and employ only the rogues. In its own words, "the cost of manufacture of goods has been greater in a marked degree under the closed shop system than it was before."

But that was not the worst. The company found that it must abdicate the control of its own business. The walking delegate must take the place of the foreman, and the local union must decide whether the company should be allowed to exist or not. A clause of the agreement specifically stated that all grievances should be adjusted in accordance with certain general rules and regulations. But when a workman was discharged the local union ordered that he be reinstated under penalty of a strike. The order was defied and the strike occurred. It was a distinct violation of the agreement, but what is an agreement to an exhilarated unionism when once it has its foot upon the neck of an employer, or thinks it has? The company appealed to the grand lodge for an observance of the agreement, but it might as well have appealed to the Sultan of Turkey. The international vice-president did indeed visit the scene of the trouble, but it was only to encourage the strikers. He made no effort to defend the illegality of the thing, and indeed he could not do so in face of the explicit terms of the agreement. But he wrote a report to the official journal commending the strike and the "true union spirit displayed." In this respect at least he was right. The men had displayed the "true union spirit" of a truculent brutality. It is a spirit inconsistent with the preservation of civilization and intolerable to a free people.

There is no need to dwell upon this particular instance. It is one out of hundreds. It can be matched in every city in the country. It is the manifestation of a temper that regards every kind of work as an evil and every kind of employer as an enemy, that exalts laziness into a virtue and incompetence into a recommendation. And yet the incident may have its value. The faster we go the more quickly we shall get there, and the day cannot be far off when communities as a whole will brush away this festering incubus that raises the cost of living to the point of destitution and that embroils the whole nation in a perpetual civil war. Either it must be brushed away or we must give up the pretense of being a self-governing and a free people.

THE TWO SHOPS.

One Means Fair Wages for a Day's Work; the Other Stands for Crowding the Employer.

[Portland Spectator:] The open shop stands for a fair and square platform upon which the employer and employee may stand together. It means a fair wage for a fair day's work, based upon the skill and ability of the worker and not upon the dead level of a union scale, which forces the good men down to the level of the lazy, unambitious man who holds back the more skillful and painstaking workman. It stands for efficiency—for unrestricted output—for a fair day of at least nine hours, and for the unhampered employment of young men who desire to learn a trade and thus become self-respecting, self-supporting members of society. It stands for the sacredness of contracts on both sides, and for good business based on broad lines of fellowship between employer and employee at all times, and in all ways.

THE CLOSED SHOP.

The closed shop means unreasonable demands for shorter hours and higher wages than the market will allow, based on the dead level of the union scale which forces an employer to pay a poor workman the same rate that he does the good man. It means restriction of output—the production being dictated by the union and not by the manufacturer. It hampers the employment of young men who wish to enter the trades as a means of livelihood and advancement. It means strikes, lockouts, boycotts. It means dictation by the trouble-maker, the "walking delegate." It means uncertainty all along the line. It means unfairness—with no common meeting ground or common purpose. It means bad business—it spells failure to the manufacturing interests and in consequence to the best interests of labor.

A Mistake.

RAILWAY MEN DENOUNCE STRIKE

WAS ORDERED TO SAVE LOSS OF PRESTIGE.

Official Railroad Organ Says the Failure of the Strike Will Be Good for the Railways, the Public and in the Long Run Good for the Employees Themselves.

Here is how the Railway Age-Gazette feels over the Harriman strike order:

It was not the unexpected that happened when the officers of the federations of shop employees of the Harriman lines and the Illinois Central last week ordered their members to strike. By their demands, and especially by their way of making them, the leaders of these organizations had committed themselves so far that when the railway managers refused to grant anything that they asked for they had no choice except either to order a strike or to ignominiously back down and suffer incurable loss of prestige.

That the stand the railway managers have taken is right is conceded, we think, by almost all fair-minded persons who know the facts.

However, it is not true that the refusal of recognition of the federations was the sole cause of the strikes. The federations have formulated numerous demands which they proposed to make on the railways and which they undoubtedly would have pressed immediately if they had been recognized. These demands included reductions in hours of work; increases in pay, abolition of the requirements regarding physical examination of, and the furnishing of personal records by candidates for employment, the closed shop, the abolition of the piece, premium and bonus methods of compensation whether they exist and their new establishment where they do not obtain, etc. When the railway managers refused to recognize the federations they were largely influenced by the fact that they saw these other demands in the background, and perceived that if they did recognize the federations, they would thereby greatly increase the power of the unions and render themselves much less able to resist these other demands; and when the employees struck, they did so not so much because their federations were not recognized, as because they saw that only after compelling such recognition could they hope to coerce the railway managers into granting their unreasonable demands regarding wages, and conditions of employment.

Victory for the strikers would mean unreasonable conditions of employment, unreasonable advances in wages, and a dangerous addition to the power of the leaders of the unions. Victory for the railways will mean that those chosen to manage them and held responsible for their management by both the owners and the public, will be allowed to continue to manage them. It probably will not mean lower wages or worse conditions of employment, but it may—and let us hope that it will—mean a practical recognition of the fact that railways have the same right as other industries, and, because of the public nature of their service, a much clearer duty to so adjust the compensation of their employees and to so fix their conditions of employment as to conduct their operations with reasonable efficiency and economy.

The strike comes at a time that is peculiarly favorable to the roads.

WOULD ABOLISH WAR.

aggrieved it may go into court and summon the offending nation, may adduce evidence as an individual would in court, may have the issue framed, then may adduce evidence and then abide the judgment of the court. [Applause.]

If you have such an arbitral court the execution of its judgment will generally be through the force of international public opinion, but even if that is not enough, we may summon a police force to execute the decree of that court, that would be a great deal better than having every nation maintain a police force, as it does now, for the purpose of defending itself or invading somebody else's territory or rights. [Applause.]

I am awae that there is a sharp criticism of this desire to get rid of war by arbitration. I think it grows out of the feeling on the part of many men that war is essential in the history of the world, and the making of progress in the world and in the development of human character, so that we shall not be all enervated by the absence of the sacrifices that war entails. I agree that in the past war has been necessary in human progress. We won our independence by war; we eliminnated the cancer of slavery by war, but there have been a great many wars that might have been settled by arbitration without the awful suffering that accompanied them, and on the whole, accounting of the ledger up and down, we must recognize that side of the picture which shows the horror and demoralization, the bloody cruelties and low ambition and the corruption that follow in the trail of every war, I do not care how justified its beginning. [Applause.]

AS TO ARBITRATION.

Now, we have arbitration treaties today with a number of nations and they cover and they are an agreement to arbitrate all questions arising between us and the other nation which do not involve national honor or vital interests. Now, gentlemen, so far as that kind of a treaty helps to avoid war is concerned, except as a general declaration in favor of arbitration, it might just as well never have been written, because no question is likely to involve war that is not of vital interest and does not involve national honor, or at least whether it does or not, as we leave it to the parties to decide, at least it will be a question which the parties may say and say with considerable plausibility that it does involve their vital interests and national honor.

What I would like to bring about is something that really means something in the way of arbitration, because if you do not have that you are making no step towards peace and the solution of the question of war. It is said, would you arbitrate a question of national honor when they are firing on you? Would arbitrate? Of course I would not when they are firing on me; when they are firing on you it is time to begin firing yourself; but there is always a time before that begins, there is always a locus penitentiae; if it is a question of national honor I would rather arbitrate it than have it fought out on the field of battle, and for this reason; When it is fought out on the field of battle it does not decide anything except that the nation that wins has a better army or better generals or better guns and the larger forces. [Applause.]

In arbitration the question which arises is decided, if the arbitration is impartial, as it ought to be and as it practically well may be—the question is then decided on the principles of law and equity, whether our honor has been infringed and if it has the decree gives us reparation and furnishes us a remedy.

It is a little more than a hundred years ago since we had on the field of honor under the code duello and lost one of the greatest constructive statesmen, I think, this country has ever had, Alexander Hamilton. [Applause.]

If a man under that code insulted you, the one thing, if you called yourself a gentleman, was for you to go out on the field of honor and make yourself a target for his bullets, because he had insulted you. Of course, if you were a better marksman and you hit him, you went back to your breakfast and took your breakfast with a feeling that this code duello is a pretty good idea to wipe out the sting he had put on your honor; if you got his bullets in your body and had three or four months in the hospital and you went back, I defy anybody to suggest the logic which you could apply to yourself to settle that argument as a means of wiping out that sting on your honor. [Applause.]

MISSIONARY WORK.

At common law—the lawyers who hear me know—and it is not more than 200 years since the plea was made in court, if a man sued you on a promissory note or a bond—I don't recollect the technicalities, but I think if he sued you on a tort on the grounds you had called him a liar, you might come into court and when he proposed to call witnesses say: "No, I demand the wager of battle," and then the judge brought out two long swords and a twenty-four foot ring was made and the defendant and the complainant went at it, and if the defendant cut off the plaintiff's head or his arm, that proved that he never signed that note or that he had paid. [Laughter.] In the same way with respect to the bond, or if it was a slander case, it proved that the defendant was a liar because his head was cut off. [Laughter.]

And yet, gentlemen, ridiculous and monstrous and comic as that is, I would like to have somebody suggest to me any difference in analogy between that method of deciding an issue in common law and the present method of settling international controversies when they arise between nations. [Applause and cheers.]

I do not think we are going to lack in this world for sacrifices and tests of character sufficient to improve human nature. There are other tests of character. If you don't believe me, just try to be President of the United States. [Laughter.] Every position of responsibility, the head of the family—everybody who labors in the world to get on and make a useful citizen, has sacrifices that he has to make that tend to strengthen his character, or if they do not, then he goes downward like the brute, any like a coward. And we ought to be able to get along without war in order to develop human character, if we can.

Now, these treaties ought to be clearly understood and that is the kind of missionary work that I am trying to do, so that I may state just what the point of the distinction is between the majority of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations and the minority.

In two speeches I intimated a desire to eliminate from arbitration treaties as an exception, questions of vital interest and national honor, and then said that if we could only make a treaty which would cover all questions with some prominent nation of Europe that would be a long step towards the ideal I have already described. And as I sat down the French Ambassador, who sat next to me, said: "We will make such a treaty with you," and I said, "very well, we will do it," and it was done. And so, in the British Parliament Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Affairs Minister, in speaking on the naval appropriations, the size and increasing size of which he deplored, referred to this remark of mine and said, speaking for His Majesty's government: "They would be delighted to make such a treaty," and Mr. Balfour, speaking for the opposition, concurred in that view. Those two statements, with my own, were what led to these treaties.

I am glad to say that the expression of Sir Edward Gray found response all over the British nation [applause] and especially with what Lincoln called the plain people, the working people, the yeomanry, the farmer, the people who realize—and that is one more significant fact that encourages me—they realize that in these wars it is the plain people that have to bear the burden. [Applause.] It is they who are food for powder, it is they who have to pay the taxes, and it is not your gentlemen who wear the feathers and gather the glory after the war is over. [Applause.]

WHAT IT COVERS.

Well, we went ahead and we made this treaty. I say this treaty, because I will speak of the English treaty—the French treaty is just like it—it recites, we have had peace with England for nearly a hundred years, that we do not intend to have any more war at all, and we intend to make an agreement which shall make war impossible; that we have already arbitration treaties, but they have the exceptions of vital interests, and national honor and those exceptions we want to wipe out; therefore, we aim first to arbitrate all justiciable questions before the local tribunal or by special agreement before some other tribunal, all justiciable issues of national character in which one nation shall make a claim against the other which can be decided on principles of law and equity. And then, there is a question how the issues shall be submitted by the concurrence of the Senate, and so on. And the second clause is that if a question whether justiciable or not that makes any trouble between the countries and is not settled by the arbitral court shall be settled by a joint high commission, of which there shall be three Americans and taree Englishmen. There is a clause there, I believe, that if they agree they can have somebody else, but there is nothing said as to who shall appoint.

Now, some gentlemen have been anxious lest I appoint—not I, not I—but the Executive might appoint some improper person, miat go and appoint somebody other than our own people. Well, that difficulty is easily overcome. The method of appointment is not settled in the treaty, Congress can settle it or I think, the Senate might settle it as a condition to its ratification, which would not affect its ratification, so far as the other countries are concerned, because the country does not care, and it would still require a confirmation by the Senate, if that is taought wise, of the men who constituted our representatives on this joint high commission.

The joint high commission is to take up every question of any kind that creates any ill-feeling, and either nation is entitled to ask that joint high commission to hear evidence and to consider and make recommendation as to the settlement, and neither nation is entitled to ask that commission to delay its answer for a year. Now, it has been said by the majority of the Foreign Relations Committee that that, instead of being a help to peace, is a breeder of war, and right there I beg respectfully to take issue with the co-ordinate branch of the government—at least the committees, because I hope it is not the co-ordinate branch.

TIME AS HEALER.

There is nothing that cures passion or momentary heat, like time. We know it in our families. We know sometimes, something happens that makes anger—I am putting us all in, which is a confession [laughter,] and we make an exhibition of our anger, and our wife tip-toes around to avoid an outbreak, and the children are told "Papa is not very well—leave him alone." [Laughter and aplause.] There is nothing that cures that state of mind like a little time with possibly an opportunity to look in the glass so that you may fully realize what an ineffable ass you are making of yourself. [Applause and laughter.] And what is true of an individual is true of a nation of individuals.

There is nothing that will lead to a solution of an ugly question, like that without war, so much as time in which the people are able to realize what war really means, and to look about to see if there is not some method of getting rid of its burden and avoiding its horrors. The truth is, this clause was suggested by William Jennings Bryan, pending the consideration of the treaty [applause,] and it seemed to me a good thing, and I recommended it to Mr. Knox and it was embpaced in the treaty, and I think it really helps along toward the solution of all questions that may lead to war in a possible way, as much as any provision could. But, that is a criticism by the way, of the majority of the committee. The only objection that they have to the amendment they recommend is as to the third clause.

The third clause provides that where the two parties shall disagree as to whether a question which arises in the future is justifiable; that is whether it comes within the first clause so that it must be arbitrated, then it is left to that commission to say either by unanimous vote or by a vote of five to one whether it is or it is not arbitral. If it is decided it is by that vote then both parties go on. Then they have to go on and arbitrate it whether the parties desire to or not; if they do not so desire then, of course, there is no arbitration. Now, I would much prefer to—it seemed wiser and more politic possibly—to refer the question to the joint high commission upon which we had three Americans, than to leave that question to the board of arbitration. That is what we finally have got to come to. We have to say to the board of arbitration: "Here is a treaty, this treaty settles the law of jurisdiction of the court. You are the court of superior jurisdiction, you determine the jurisdiction when the question arises and we will abide, not only by your decision on the merits, but we will abide your decision as to the question whether what arises comes within your power to decide as defined by that first clause in the treaty. Now, that is what Norway and Sweden have already done with reference to the treaty, which provides for the arbitration of certain questions or classes of questions, and I do not see why we should not do it. But we are told that that this is a breech of the prerogatives of the Senate.

PRESERVE ITS POWER.

Now, in the presence of three or four gentlemen who have sat in that party—and I speak with due respect and reverence for it—it is a great part of the structure of our national government, and I think it is of the highest importance that it should preserve its power, and I think that the sensitiveness with respect to the preservation of their power is a good thing, because vested government by divisions or branches is the one thing we can count on to continue the powers as they were originally intended, as the interest with whom is vested with that power for the time being is the trustee for the interest which he shall maintain.

I do not object to the sensitiveness of the Senate at all, and what I say about the Senate and its view is with entire respect, but I do want to call attention to the fact that the term prerogative does not make what the Senate exercises as a power derived from the Constitution any more sacred than if you didn't call it a prerogative. You might as well talk about my prerogative—prerogative is something that was handed down from royalty and there are certain gentlemen of the Senate—they are are not here—[laughter] they cherish that name and they cherish the idea of letting nothing go that belongs to the Senate as if it would entirely destroy all of the government if we did, and I am willing to agree, if it really belongs to the Senate, it possibly would sap the foundation—but that makes them a little conservative—I do not want to say a little narrow, but conservative. [Laughter.]

Now, I want to submit this plain, legal proposition and cite the precedents of the Senate itself to establish its power to consent to this treaty. They have, in times past, time and time again, agreed to arbitrate questions, not now arising, but questions hereafter arising, before a board of arbitration. Those are international questions and those include, necessarily, questions of the construction of the treaty.

Now, all they are asked to do here is to consent to a board of arbitration, or a joint high commission which shall decide in the future the construction of that treaty—that is all. It is true it goes to the jurisdiction of the board of arbitration, but it is exactly the same question as if it arose on the merits of the case, and I fail for the life of me to see any distinction between the two, and I am willing to submit them. Of course, I realize there are great lawyers in the Senate and I always realize it is not wise to pledge your professional reputation on any question of law [laughter] because it is said at home: "He never was sure of but one case in his life and that one he lost"—but to me it seems as plain as A B C—if the Senate has a right to arbitrate anything in the future that has not arisen, within all classes of cases, then it has the right to submit to an impartial tribunal the question whether the question when it does arise comes within the class of questions described in the treaty. If it has, then it has the power and its prerogative has not been infringed.

AS AN EXAMPLE.

But the example of making these treaties will lead other nations, as we know, by what other nations have intimated to us, to make similar treaties, and if we can make it the fashion to enter into such treaties the world over we will get that joint arrangement that I pointed out in the first place as the ideal—that joint arrangement of the arbitral court with power to decide its own jurisdiction and enforce its decree. Then we can offer to Europe, which is an armed camp now, a substitute which shall justify them in disarming, in cutting down the protection which they think they need, because if they do not have it now there is danger to their integrity as nations. Then we can substitute something that is real, something that practical men can look to as a means of settling international controversies, and then the burden that the poor people of all the countries are now carrying because of the weight of the cost of armament will be cast off, and we can look to the dispersion of that at least, and the improvement of the individual among all the people of the world wherever they may be. I am sorry to have occupied you so long a time. [Applause and cheers.]

This situation accentuates the demand for the early completion of the Guaranty Pipe Line Company's line.

The vice-president of a large refinery says: "We certainly need a line to Southern California at the present time and that necessity is constantly becoming more urgent." The general manager of the largest consumer of oil in Southern California says: "Southern California is now using between 35,000 and 40,000 barrels of oil daily and we certainly hope that the Guaranty Line will be pushed to completion at the earliest possible date."

NEW OIL COMPANY. BAKERSFIELD PEOPLE.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 20.—The Missouri Oil Company, just organized by Bakersfield people, has acquired 480 acres of land in section 34 of the Bellridge district, and expects to put down a well this winter. The company is capitalized at $200,000, and the directors are James W. Briscoe, a well-known operator in the West Side fields, former Sheriff J. W. Kelly, former City Engineer J. L. Evans, former City Trustee A. F. Stoner, and W. T. Davis. The company has cash enough in sight to thoroughly test its property, which is in the vicinity of present development in the district.

Although numerous reports have been in circulation recently to the effect that the town of Lost Hills is to be moved to a new location farther west, the moving process has not yet shown signs of materialising, and on the other hand new improvements are being made in the old location. C. R. Cutten has taken over the hotel of J. D. Lowbey and has given the contract to a Visalia firm to furnish the fifteen rooms which are to be available for guest chambers. The lower floor is to be remodeled for a general merchandise store, and Mr. Cutten will put in a $6000 stock of merchandise.

G. T. Nichbert has bought another lot adjoining the two he previously owned and is preparing to build and stock a general store. Plans for the building are now being drawn.

J. G. Lucas, manager of the Lost Hills Telephone Company, is putting up a substantial telephone exchange and office, and will do a real estate business in connection. The telephone service has been extended six miles to Hart Station, at the west end of the grade on which the county road crosses the swamp, where Mr. Hart is preparing to enlarge his present business by erecting a slaughter-house and ice plant for the purpose of furnishing Lost Hills field with meat. The slaughter-house and ice plant will occupy a new building, forty by fifty feet.

Joseph Goodrich has taken a contract to build several derricks for the Dover Oil Company on the Mojave desert near Barstow. Materials for the rigs is being delivered, and it is stated that drilling will begin on at least one well in the near future.

The Chicago Oil Company, which is drilling near Barstow, is reported to be making good progress. The Kramer Oil Company, which has been having some difficulty in shutting off water, expects to be pumping oil shortly.

A number of Bakersfield men are doing assessment work on oil claims in the Barstow district.

CENTRAL OIL COMPANY. PRESIDENT'S STATEMENT.

At the last meeting of the directors of the Central Oil Company the president, W. W. Neuer, was requested to prepare a statement showing the physical condition of the big Whittier property. This statement is now in type and a copy will be mailed to the stockholders with the next dividend payment, on October 24. The statement shows that about October 1 the company finished perforating wells Nos. 12, 53 and 34.

Although well 53 has been producing for the past five months, it was not up to expectations. Since it was perforated the production has been largely increased. It is located about 600 feet from No. 52, which was finished two years ago and is now doing 200 barrels a day. The production of Nos. 12 and 34 was also largely increased by perforation, and the oil is of a lighter gravity. Present indications are that the three wells will add about 8000 barrels to the Central's monthly production.

The Central is now operating eight strings of tools in the drilling of eight new wells, and all are progressing satisfactorily, says President Neuer. He believes that the new wells will increase the present production from 60 to 80 per cent. The company is capitalized at 3,000,000 shares, but only 1,950,000 shares are outstanding, the remainder being in the treasury. The company's output is contracted to the Standard.

Mexican Petroleum Bonds.

Stockholders of the Mexican Petroleum Company will hold a special meeting at the offices in the Security building tomorrow for the purpose of authorizing a bond issue of $12,000,000. It is the purpose to issue the bonds in series as needed. The company will try to sell $6,000,000 of the bonds at the start. They are to be secured by a trust deed covering all of the Mexican properties of the syndicate.

THE CUBAN LOTTERY.

Twenty-Cent Ticket Drew Thousand-Dollar Prize and Court Must Decide Ownership.

[Havana Post:] Judge Pinero has a case to decide which makes him long for the wisdom of Solomon, especially that wisdom displayed when he was called upon to decide the parentage of a child claimed by two women. The bone of contention before the Havana judge, however, is not a child, but a lottery ticket.

Josefina Martinez, of Muralla seventy-four, says she bought a 20-cent lottery ticket last week in the milk store of Agustin Baez of Villegas seventy-three. As she owed Baez 10 cents, she says, she agreed that the two should play the ticket together and thus liquidate her indebtedness. She allowed Baez to keep the ticket.

The ticket won the first prize in the last drawing, and became worth $1000. Baez says Josefina gave him the whole ticket. She says she only gave him half. There are no witnesses to the deal.

In the meantime the judge has given Josefina the benefit of the doubt to the extent of ordering Baez to jail while he thinks the knotty problem over and sighs for the wisdom of the great judge of days gone by.

Activity Shifts.

LIGHT OIL IS NOW DEMANDED.

Causes Greater Activity in Southern Fields.

Higher Price of Product Is Very Appealing.

Central and Other Companies Drilling Wells.

In the Northern California oil fields, with but few exceptions, work is being curtailed, not many new wells being started and a number of drilling wells being shut down. Some of the men interested in the northern fields are giving considerable attention to the oil fields in the southern part of the State just now, owing to the fact that within the past two years wells producing from 300 to 1500 barrels daily have been brought in, the oil being from 28 to 32 gravity and excellent for refining purposes.

Light oil being in demand and bringing a much higher price than the product of the northern fields, makes the southern product very attractive. This is evidenced by the fact that in the territory lying between the Santa Ana River and the Whittier field there are about fifty wells drilling by the following companies: Standard, five; Amalgamated, four; Menges, three; Fullerton Oil Company, two; Graham & Loftus, six; Industrial, six; Shafer Oil Company, one; Brea Canyon Company, three; Murphy Oil Company, three; Union, two; Olinda Land, three; Santa Fe, eight; Columbia Oil Company, two; Fisher Oil Company, one, and Orange Oil Company, one.

In the Whittier field there are nineteen drilling wells by the following companies: Canadian-Pacific, one; Home, one; Anchor Oil Company, one; La Habra Oil Company, one; Murphy Oil Company, two; Richards-Granger Oil Company, one; Fullerton Oil Company, one; Union, two, and Central Oil Company, nine. No doubt, development work would be more active in this territory were it not for the fact that the land is largely controlled by three companies, the Union, the Murphy and the Central. The latter company controls the largest territory, holding 2200 acres in fee simple. The Central is also the only concern in the Whittier field that is producing the light oil. Its first light oil well was finished about two years ago and produced nearly 100,000 barrels the first year of 32 gravity oil, and is now doing about 200 barrels daily. Of the nine wells this company is now drilling, four will probably be completed within sixty days.

With the completion of the other wells in the Whittier field and the wells drilling between Whittier and the Santa Ana River, the production of this section will be largely increased. However, light oil is in great demand, and upon the completion of the Standard's El Segundo refinery that company will have a capacity of 40,000 barrels a day. The Standard expects to be able to handle 5000 barrels daily by January 1, 1912.

TOO MUCH PREACHING?

The Worshippers Should Do a Larger Share of the Sunday Service Work.

[Atlantic Monthly:] Is it not true that we have too much preching? asks George P. Atwater, in the Atlantic. An oversupply of ministers accomplishes this. The exaltation of the sermon into the chief place in public worship has given to it an undue prominence. Nothing would be so beneficial as to have our pulpits silenced for a year. I mean by that complete abstinence from the usual type of hortatory or argumentative sermon. Instruction, wise, sound, consecutive, might well take their place for a time. It would accomplish the same thing for the church that a reasonable period of fasting does for the individual. The other phases of worship would be restored—the worship of prayer, confession, praise and enlightened faith. Some of them are entirely gone from the churches. The people no longer pray, but listen to the minister as he prays. Worship has become a passive matter. The congregation has become an audience—a body of listeners. The people with quiet reverence observe the worship of the minister and then listen to a sermon. Worship should be an active matter. The people should come with each faculty alive, with a controlled, but positive inner impulse toward expression in outer act. Worship should be the united act of the congregation.

The Coming Warship.

[Pall Mall Gazette:] What will be the ultimate outcome of the admiralty's recent order for a destroyer to be fitted with internal combustion engines, it is difficult to determine, but should the experiment prove a success, it is possible to foresee an alteration of great magnitude in warship construction. The saving in weight, space and labor by the use of this class of engines is enormous when compared with the ordinary marine steam engine. It is estimated that 50 per cent. of the space at present utilized by the main engines would be saved, and as much as 90 per cent. on bunker space. At present it is necessary to provide storage for the great quantity of coal fuel in order that ships shall have an effective radius of action, but with the internal combustion engine oil fuel only would be required. The same horsepower would be obtained from about one-third of the weight of fuel at present consumed per hour. The saving in weight of an engine of 2000-horsepower would be about one-half, while 75 per cent. would be saved in labor. Another point to be noted is that with internal combustion engines funnels, as we know them, would become things of the past. This would be a distinct gain to the destroyer, whose whereabouts is at present often betrayed by that flare from its funnels or the volume of smoke emitted.

Grow Sugar Beets on Van Nuys-Lankershim Lands—No Irrigation

Big Caterpillar Engine and Plow Breaking the Land

Preparing 8000 Acres for Sugar Beets on

Van Nuys-Lankershim Lands

After experimenting on a few hundred acres of Van Nuys-Lankershim Lands last season, the American Beet Sugar Company secured 8000 acres to be planted at once to sugar beets. The test proved the wonderful fertility of the rich Van Nuys-Lankershim soil. The yield was big, the beets large in size and high in sugar. This soil is a fine sandy loam, easy to work and remarkably retentive of moisture, producing money-making crops of deciduous fruits, vegetables and nuts, absolutely without irrigation.

Mr. Beet Grower, Mr. Rancher, Mr. Homeseeker think of the opportunity this rich land affords, only 4½ miles from Los Angeles, the greatest and fastest growing food market in the United States.

Plant sugar beets, beans, peas or melons, each one returns splendid profits to the acre, or set your land to peach, apricot or walnut trees and grow vegetables between the trees, while they are reaching maturity. Surrounding peach orchards have averaged $250 per acre net annually for the past five years.

One owner of Van Nuys-Lankershim Lands has a crop of nearly 200,000 pounds of melons and squash grown between the trees of his young eight-acre peach orchard.

Come out with us and see the immense caterpillar engines breaking the land for sugar beets, see the sturdy young peach and apricot orchards growing without irrigation, see the magnificent wells just finished and the scores of handsome homes building.

Buy now—before the big improvements are completed, the $500,000 boulevard and the new electric railroad.

Do not overlook this opportunity.

DENOUNCE STRIKE.

Many men are out of employment who are glad to take the places of those who have quit. T equipment of the railways involved is in good repair, and there is a good deal of it out of service which can be put into service as fasis as that in use needs repair. Prompted by the consideration of their own self-interest, as well as by loyalty to the roads, many of those ordered to quit work, have refused. The indicati-ns are, therefore, that the losses that will be incurred by railway corporations and the inconvenience that will be suffered by the public will for a considerable time, at least, be small, and that if the managers are properly backed up by those whose battles they are fighting, the strike will be a failure, a result which will be good for th railways, good for the public and, in the long run, good for the employees themselves.

In each class, in the case of those women living at home, the weekly outlay scheduled as "Cost of food and shelter" is really the weekly contribution to the family, and doubtless incindes clothes and some other items (heat, light and laundry, "for instance) which the woman worker has to pay in addition to the bare cost of her food and shelter.

The investigation brought out the fact that in the three largest cities of New York, Chicago and Philadelphia, the rates of wages paid to women in the department stores were decidedly higher than the rates paid in the small retail stores. This proves, as also has been proved in the case of men workers' wages, that in spite of all the wild talk we hear about "business monopoly" and "trusts" the big concerns are really the best to work for—that "business concentration" has created better wages for men and women alike. In some of these big stores there are women (some 275 in all) who, while not buyers or assistant buyers, are earning from $25 to $102 a week. In Boston, the women working in the 5 and 10-cent stores earn less than in the regular department stores of that city.

Evidently the working women (or girls, as applied to all of this article) who "live at home" have the best of it. In Chicago, for instance, the women workers who do not live at home earn an average of $8.17 weekly, out of which they pay $3.40 a week for food, shelter, heat, light and laundry, and 59 cents for car fares. This leaves them only $3.81 a week for clothes, recreation, possible illness or other emergencies, and incidental expenses, while those living at home earn an average of $8.05 a week, and are practically taken full care of for an average weekly contribution to the family of $6.49, leaving them $1.56 a week for "spending money."

In this investigation the great army of women stenographers, book-keepers, general office work girls, teachers, trained nurses, etc., are not included. It is particularly important to keep this fact in mind when considering, says Charles P. Neill, United States Commissioner of Labor, the service rendered the "working girl" by the various branches of the Young Women's Christian Association and other similar organizations maintaining working women's homes and other agencies for the improvement of the condition of women wage earners.

Working Women Helping the Home.

Nothing in the whole report is more significant than the large percentage of the women wage-earners living in home who are turning into the family fund practically all their earnings. Of the women reported in New York stores, 84.3 per cent., and of those in factories 88.1 per cent contributed all their earnings; and in Chicago and St. Louis the per cents were only slightly smaller. This is particularly true of the foreign element. But in this connection, says the report, it is also significant that among the women in the department and other retail stores, where the foreign element enters but slightly, the percent turning their entire earnings into the family fund is not much smaller than among the factory and mill workers. This is shown to be the case in each city investigated, and, indeed, in St. Louis a larger proportion of store women than of factory women contribute their entire earnings to the family fund.

This condition refutes the faith current among so many employers and accepted by the public that the girls who have homes work only for "pin money." On the contrary, our working women and girls living at home are large contributors to the cost of the family and the home, and as such are "good American citizens," though that does not mean, in the writer's opinion, that the right to vote is necessary or would prove of value to them, in these days of perplexed politics.

Col. Mosby's Memory.

[Popular Magazine:] Col. John S. Mosby, the fire-eating guerrilla chieftain of the Confederacy, walked into a Washington bank one morning, slapped down a check in front of the aged cashier, and demanded the money for it.

"I will have to find someone to identify you," said the cashier. "This check is made out to John S. Mosby, but identification is a rule which we must observe."

About 3,000,000 shafts of blue lightning were darting from the colonel's one eye, when another employee of the bank hurried up and said he knew Mosby.

"That old man should have known you, colonel," said the acquaintance, while the old fighter was counting his coin. "He was an officer in the Union army."

"Now that he stands with his back to me, I recognize him perfectly," said Mosby, hotly. "I remember having seen it twice—during the war."

Unique.

TWO BISHOPS IN FAMILY, ECCLESIASTICAL RECORD.

Honor Gained by the Ridgeway Family, One Brother Being Bishop of Chichester, While Another Just Appointed Bishop of Salisbury—A Third a Distinguished Diplomat—How Two of Them Got Into Hot Water.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Whole families of soldiers, footballers and common or garden parsons are to be found in many parts of the world, but a unique distinction has been won by the recent appointment of the Right Rev. Frederic Edward Ridgeway to be Bishop of Salisbury, for that makes the second bishop in the family at the same time and a record in ecclesiastical annals. His brother, Charles John, is Bishop of Chichester. Moreover the third brother also is a person of note, for he is a prominent diplomat and at one time was Governor of Ceylon.

Salisbury's gain will be London's loss, for the new bishop has been a well-known and popular ecclesiastical figure in the metropolis for over twenty years. He was vicar of a large parish in the west of London for ten years, and was then appointed Suffragan (i.e. assistant) Bishop of Kensington. The Bishop of London, though his territory is not large in acres, has more than he can attend to in that busy crowded area and his suffragans take some of it off his shoulders. With the suffragan bishopric, Dr. Ridgeway was made at the same time rector of St. Botolph's Bishopsgate, which is one of those old churches right in the heart of the business district of London, now without any Sunday congregation and with practically no resident population. This church might provide a maintenance for his bishopric. The new incumbent quickly got himself into hot water with lots of people by putting the ancient city rectory up for sale. Of course it was interesting to a certain degree on account of its age, but it had no particular architectural beauty, and as a residence it was at once inconvenient and unsanitary. It lay so far from his Kensington bishopric that he said he spent three hours a day in the underground railway traveling from east to west in pursuit of his work. In the end the bishop proved himself to be in the right and the rectory was sold.

He is an ardent temperance advocate and came much into public notice during the debates on the licensing bill three years ago. In one of his speeches he said that all barmaids should be over the age of 35. He is adored by his poor parishioners and a real insight into the gentleness of his character is given by the fact that for several years he made a practice of spending Good Friday with the prisoners at Wormwood Scrubbs, one of London's large prisons within his diocese. He used to visit every cell and also conduct a service. He is an emotional preacher, having a shrill but convincing voice.

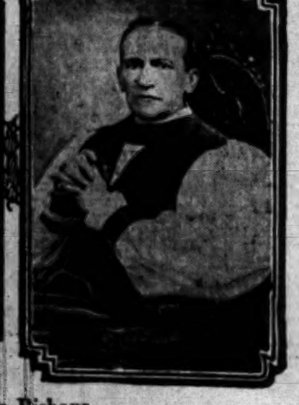
He is, unlike many parsons, business-like and methodical, and as a natural consequence, a punctual man. On one occasion, however, he was unavoidably detained and arrived late at an induction and so fined himself $5. Also—an unusual accomplishment for a parson—he is a brilliant billiard player.

Luck—or the finger of Providence—according to how you look at it—combined with ability, helped to hoist his brother Charles, now Bishop of Chichester, up the clerical ladder. While vicar of St. Paul's Edinburgh, it happened that Gladstone attended the church one Sunday and heard him preach. He was so struck with his eloquence that shortly after he appointed him to Christ Church, Lancaster Gate, the richest living in London, and here his parishioners became so fond of him that they built him a new vicarage. He was on the London School Board for three years, and took a leading part in the violent controversy which raged throughout England for some time on religious education. He has published several works on education and other matters. He was appointed Bishop of Chichester in 1907.

Just before he went to college, where he gained a small scholarship, he was offered a commission in the army, but he preferred holy orders. While at college he was fond of rowing, a recreation which he still follows sometimes even now. He is a splendid host, and invitations for his social functions are much sought after in his diocese.

The third of this clever trio of brothers, Sir Joseph West Ridgeway, has gained distinction in quite a different way. He entered the army and first saw active service in the Afghan war. He was appointed British commissioner for the fixing of the frontier between Afghanistan and Russia, and after this, entered the diplomatic service. He became Governor and commander-in-chief of Ceylon in 1896, and gained some rather unpleasant notoriety on one occasion. When coming to England on leave, he wished to bring home a favorite dog, but the P. & O., on which ultra-British line all officials are expected to travel, refused to allow him to have it on board. So, like his brother, the Bishop of Salisbury, he pleased himself and came home by a foreign line. Much dust was kicked up by some of the people in England who spend their time splitting hairs and writing letters to the newspapers at the idea of a British official traveling on a foreign ship. Nobody had ever done it before, so why should he?

These three clever brothers are the sons of the late Rev. Joseph Ridgeway, just a country clergyman.



Brother Bishops.

COPPER PLANTS SEEK ACTIVITY.

Extensive Experiments Are Now Being Made.

Some Ideas May Be Borrowed from Germany.

New Mill of Tightner Has Been Installed.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

REDDING, Oct. 19.—Reports from Delamar and Coram indicate extensive experiments by the copper-smelting companies in an endeavor to perfect methods for the operation of their plants. The Bully Hill Copper Company has conducted a series of comprehensive tests for several months, including the smelting of copper ore by electric furnaces, and a method for recovering zinc values, treating the copper ore as a by-product. It is understood that some satisfactory results have been obtained, but it is probable that considerable work remains to be done before anything like a really satisfactory method can be evolved. General Manager Riordan recently stated that the company is experimenting along several lines, and anticipates a partial solution of the problem. The Bully Hill plant has been idle for nearly two years, following the action of the Federal government in charging the smelter with damaging government timber.

The Balaklala Copper Company is also seeking to perfect its fume-handling equipment, according to advices from Coram. The Cottrell system proved satisfactory to a certain point, but was unable to reduce the percentage of harmful fume required by law. Leading fume experts assert that the dissipation of smelter fumes will be finally accomplished by the employment of mechanical and chemical devices; the one to remove the solid particles carried by the smoke, and the second to arrest the invisible gases that are principal injury to vegetation.

The most destructive agency given off by the fumes is sulphur dioxide. It consists of an invisible gas, which the baghouse and other mechanical devices are unable to arrest. This gas, however, is readily combined by contact with sea salt and fog, and upon passing into water assumes the form of sulphuric acid, a valuable product of commerce. The new regulating smelting provides that only 0.7 per cent. of this gas may escape to the outer atmosphere, and the mechanical devices have proven unable to maintain a sufficiently high percentage of extraction. Therefore, it is probable that efforts will be largely made to effect a complete recovery by reinforcing the controllers with chemical auxiliaries.

In Germany sulphur dioxide is not only removed from the smelter fumes, but is employed in ice-making, the making of dainty fabrics and other manufacturing pursuits. It also forms a powerful fire extinguisher, a small quantity of the gas suffocating to smother a hot fire. When thus employed the gas is stored in a metal cylinder, with a fusible stopper. When the fire grows fairly hot the stopper automatically dissolves, liberating the gas. So powerful is the agent that the blaze is almost instantly destroyed, provided its activity is confined to narrow limits. Consequently, the destructive gas that has closed so many smelting establishments may be transformed into a valuable article of commerce, provided ample equipment is installed for its complete recovery. With the fumes effectually controlled the objections against the copper smelter would be removed, permitting such plants to be operated in most localities.

May Close for Winter.

According to advices from Quincy, the Neocene Mining Company has decided to suspend operations for some time, owing to the impossibility of completing the new restraining dam before the advent of the rainy season. Work will be pressed on the latter while natural conditions permit, and it is hoped to have it largely constructed before the winter rains set in. With the coming of spring, operations will be conducted along lines never before attempted in the district. The Neocene is operating on a gigantic, and the escape of debris into the rivers would mean the closing of the property by the anti-debrites. Consequently the company will suspend work until such time as the retaining dams may be completed.

Rich Ore In New Albany.

The United Mines Corporation reports the uncovering of high-grade ore in the New Albany mine, one of the properties operated near Tuolumne. On the 830-foot level the vein is five feet wide with some of the ore averaging $100 per ton. The entire vein is said to carry excellent milling value, with the ore steadily improving.

Tightner Mill Starts.

The new 10-stamp mill at the Tightner mine, near Alleghany, went into action October 15. The preliminary run was particularly satisfactory and it is planned to keep the mill in continuous operation throughout the winter. It is estimated that from $50,000 to $60,000 in ore is stored on the dumps with a corresponding quantity in the mine workings. Developments in the mine are progressing rapidly and there will be no difficulty in keeping the plant supplied.

Rich Ore From Twenty-One.

The Twenty-one mine, adjoining the Oliver, is sending out rich ore. Sacks of quartz, valued at about $60 each, were shipped to San Francisco last week, and the management reports the vein showing up splendidly with more of the bonanza in sight. The ledge runs about eighteen inches wide and has been opened at a point 100 feet below the lower adit of the Oliver, indicating the persistent nature of the Alleghany veins. Driving on the vein is under way. F. M. Young is manager.

Striking Uncle Sam Vein.

Encouraged by the recent intersection of the Uncle Sam ledge by the Oliver tunnel, the North Fork Company has started driving for the vein. The tunnel is expected to intersect the vein within 200 feet and will be extended at the rate of thirty-five feet per week, power drills being employed to speed the work. The North Fork mine lies in the Forest district, but is distant from the Red Star mine, Alleghany field, by the Amedee canal, recently acquired by Los Angeles mining men. The Uncle Sam lode is believed by many to be a continuation of the Alleghany gold-belt, and to carry ore rivalling in richness the Tightner and Red Star deposits. The vein was mined to some extent in early days, and yielded rich ore, according to the testimony of pioneer miners. The North Fork Company includes Angelenos among its members.

Natomas Consolidated's Gold Dredge.

Work has been started at Natomas on the new 15-cubic foot dredge of the Natomas Consolidated of California. The new dredge will be known as Natomas No. 10 and will be the third 15-cubic foot boat to go into commission under the Natomas banner. But unlike the other dredges, it will be provided with a steel hull. By substituting steel for wood the weight of the boat will be reduced nearly 50 per cent. The boat will be 150 feet long by 58 feet wide with a draught of 10.5 feet. Like the two 15-cubic feet dredges operating near Folsom, the newcomer will handle from 350,000 to 450,000 cubic yards of gravel per month. It will be operated throughout by electricity, over 1700 horsepower being employed to drive the machinery.

Amador Coal Mine Opened.

After a period of idleness, the Buena Vista coal mine, near Jackson, has been reopened and several men put to work. A new hoisting engine has been installed, and the company plans to market its product to near-by towns at an approximate cost of $7 per ton. The product is claimed to be of fair grade, and particularly suitable for domestic purposes. It is not known at this time whether any effort will be made to supply local mining companies, which employ California fuel oil largely. Coal mining was a profitable industry in Amador county several years ago, but of late little attention has been paid to the deposits. The use of oil has naturally militated against the development of coal to any extent.

BILLY MACK MINE.

WILL BE OPERATED.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) Oct. 20.—The famous old Billy Mack mine, near Parker, is to be operated again within a few months. Last week it was visited by Dr. J. H. Fiske of Pasadena and Frank H. Jackson, a Los Angeles mining engineer, the gentlemen representing a number of Pasadena capitalists who are negotiating for the property. A closer investigation is to be made later, with a full sampling of all the workings. The mine was a notable gold producer in the early days when high-grade ore only could be treated at a profit. With improved machinery many thousand tons can be treated at a profit and there seems little doubt among mining men but that the property can be made an extremely valuable one.

At Jerome connection will be made this week between the workings of the 1888 property and the long Dillon tunnel, thus giving the best of connection with the surface. A large amount of work has been done on these properties by the Hull Copper Company.

New concentrating machinery is being installed at the Tiptop mine by the Tiptop-Heath Mining Company. The new plant has especially been designed for the treatment of a large quantity of wolframite, which has been on the dumps for several years past.

Mining men lately returned from the East tell that mining development in Arizona contingent upon eastern capital, will have to wait to a very large extent until after the December election, when it may be demonstrated whether Arizona will give proper protection to capital or not.

GLOBE DISTRICT.

SALE OF ELECTRIC POWER.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

GLOBE (Ariz.) Oct. 20.—A trip through the Globe mining district has just been made by Supervising Engineer L. C. Hill of the Reclamation Service, which is understood to be looking particularly to this locality for the sale of electric power. It is known that for several years past the Miami Copper Company has been in the market for several thousand horsepower from the Roosevelt dam. The Roosevelt power, however, was needed in the construction of the dam and for agricultural and lighting purposes around Phoenix. Now the dam is finished and the country around Phoenix is to be supplied by other power works nearer home. So it is probable that within a year about 8000-horsepower may be available at Roosevelt for use in the mines of this camp, less than forty miles distant from the point of generation. It is understood that the Miami Company has offered to erect its own transmission line and pay about $100 per horse-power for the current. At present power costs about 50 per cent. more than that in this vicinity.

The Miami Company now is milling about 1800 tons of ore a day, producing eighty-two tons of concentrates averaging 42 per cent. copper, with a mill recovery of 76 per cent. Four sections of the mill are in use. The pay roll embraces about 600 names, one-half being those of miners.

Very little is being done by the Arizona Commercial property on Copper Hill, where work on the 1200-level was discontinued about a month ago. The pumps are being operated with a steady lift of about 100 miners' inches. While plans are understood to be under way for the company's giant concentrator, exact details of the treatment have not yet been determined upon. The company is said to have about 4,500,000 tons of ore available for stoping above the level of the main tunnel, besides a vast amount of developed ore below that level, to be extracted through large working shafts.

It Was the Archbishop.

[San Francisco Star:] St. Thomas College at St. Paul, Minn., is one of the largest military schools in the United States. It is a Catholic institution and is the pride and hope of Archbishop Ireland. One of the pupils is a Filipino boy.

One day not long ago the Archbishop wished to speak to one of the professors and called the college on the telephone. The Filipino boy answered the ring.

"Is this St. Thomas?" inquired the Archbishop.

"No; it's Pedro," replied the youth.

"Is this St. Thomas College I am speaking to?" demanded the Archbishop.

"No; it is Pedro," the youth explained.

The Archbishop sighed and then slowly and distinctly said to the youth: "This is the Archbishop. I wish to speak to Prof. Jamieson."

"Who you say you are?" asked the Filipino.

"The Archbishop, the Archbishop," the churchman repeated with rising voice.

There was a short pause and then Pedro said: "Spell it."

Bisbee.

HORN SILVER IN QUANTITY.

It Is Discovered in the Old Toughnut Property.

Men Employed on Leases in Tombstone Mines.

Great Western Copper Company's Shipments.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) Oct. 20.—Wonderful rich horn silver ore is being brought out of the new workings in the old Toughnut mine by John Rainey, a leaser, though the ore has been found in only a knife-blade seam. Rainey has brought out about two tons to sack and ship to a smelter. The ore is strikingly like that found in the early days of the camp, when Tombstone was the liveliest settlement in the Southwest.

A large number of men are finding employment in the Tombstone mines, mainly under leases. A company of Colorado miners is negotiating for a very extensive lease, which will involve employment of at least twice as many men as now underground. The Tombstone Consolidated Mines, Company, though passing through bankruptcy, is still a producer. Two carloads a day of low-grade ores are being shipped from the company's Contention mine under the direction of Superintendent Douglas Gray. The ore is being sent to the El Paso smelter, and to the Copper Queen and Calumet, and Arizona smelters at Douglas. It is understood that special treatment is being given at each of the three reduction plants, in order to demonstrate the best and most economical process of treatment. When this has been determined upon, it is probable that a large addition will be made to the shipments, for thousands of tons of such ore are available. Plans are already being made for resumption of work by the Tombstone company. It has an immense mill and concentrator. The company's pumping plant is the most powerful in the Southwest, capable of handling up to 3,000,000 gallons of water in twenty-four hours from a depth of 1000 feet. At present the lower levels are flooded and it would take at least a month of steady pumping to clear the main shaft down to the sump.

Work has been resumed at Middlemarch camp in Dragoon mining district, where sulphide ore in large quantities was lately struck. The ore is said to run as high as 20 per cent. copper with half an ounce in gold and some silver.

Arrangements are being made in the East for resumption of work on the property of the Black Diamond Mining Company. The property has upon it a good smelter and the underground workings are very extensive. The mine is generally considered one of the best in Arizona, the only disadvantage being the large percentage of garnet found in the ore.

About two carloads of ore a day are being shipped from the Copper Belle at Gleason to the smelter of the Shannon company at Clifton. The Shannon company bought the mine a couple of years ago from Martin Costello, the Arizona capitalist who committed suicide in Los Angeles a short time ago.

Shipments of several carloads of ore a day are being made from Courtland by the Great Western Copper Company, under the direction of W. J. Young, one of the principal stockholders of the corporation. Courtland is very quiet, however, and has not quite fulfilled the expectations of its original settlers. While the boom lasted, however, it secured the best of railroad accommodations, being favored with branches of both the Southern Pacific and the El Paso and Southwestern railroad systems.

Preston & Johnson have acquired ownership of twenty-five claims in the Dragoon Mountains, formerly held by the Dragoon Mountain Mining Company. This corporation was unique through the fact that its stockholders are almost entirely wealthy Chinese merchants of San Francisco. They quarreled among themselves, however, and little has been done lately on the property, which is considered of considerable merit.

The Parrott copper mines in the Dragoon Mountains have been purchased by the Tedd Hydro-Electric Mining Company, which is proposing to supply itself with both water and power by novel means. Large windmills are to be established in the well-watered plains of the Sulphur Springs Valley and from this wind power, electrical power is to be wired to the mines in the mountains beyond.

The Chiapas mine in Northern Sonora has been forced to close down, owing to the loss by flood of the company's pumping plant near Arispe.

A number of Bisbee people have joined in the sinking of a 2000-foot oil well a few miles from Fairbanks, where the geological evidences are said to be wholly favorable to the finding of petroleum.

Orange and Lemon Groves

Good orange groves have been and are netting from $250 to $1000 per acre. Based on earning capacity, citrus property is the most under-priced of anything in Southern California.

One of the most conservative and best posted men in the State ventured the prediction the other day that inside of three years the price of first-class orange and lemon groves would be $5000 per acre. Just what they will go to no one can say. One thing is certain, however, good orchards will steadily advance over present asking value.

We are admittedly the largest dealers in orange and lemon groves and undoubtedly have the largest list to select from. Our listings in this department alone amount to over one million dollars. We are prepared to quote you good orchards in size from 5 to 300 acres at prices ranging from $5000 to $280,000. You owe it to yourself to look at what we have to offer below before buying elsewhere.

No. 1.
A 15 Per Cent Investment.
$9000.
7.25 acres 14-year-old Washington Navels in good condition.
No frost. Very good crop on the trees. Fine foothill slope.
Disintegrated granite soil.
Gage Canal water. Costs $8.00 per acre per year.
This is a snap! Groves adjacent are selling for $1500 per acre.
Terms—$9000 cash.

No. 2.
A 20 Per Cent. Investment.
$9800.
9.44 acres, full bearing orange orchard at Corona.
Principally Washington Navels, with a few Bloods and Sweets.
Grove in good condition and well located. Ample water stock.
NOTE:—This orchard is not a run-down grove,
Poorly located and subject to frost!
On the contrary, my Corona correspondent,
Who personally investigated it,
Informs me that it is in good condition,
Located in the frostless belt
And a most decided bargain.
How any man looking for a money-making snap
Can afford to pass this up
Is more than I can understand.
Expenses back if not as represented.

No. 3.
A 30 Per Cent. Investment.
$22,473.
12.82 acres 14-year old Washington Navels. Located above Victoria Avenue, Riverside, Gage Canal water.
This is the only grove with a Southerly exposure in all the Arlington Heights district, and has been one of the best producers in this famous district for some years. As estimated by conservative men, the present crop will run over 7000 boxes, which would mean a net income of over 30 per cent. on asking price.
The grove has just been heavily fertilized and is in first-class condition in every way. According to my judgment, this would be one of the most profitable and substantial investments a man could possibly make.
Terms—One-half cash, balance 1, 2, 3 years at 7 per cent.

No. 4.
A 23 Per Cent. Investment.
$25,720.
12.86 acres full bearing orange orchard. ½ navels.
½ Valencias—150 Citron and grapefruit trees.
Gage Canal water.
Terms—One-half cash, balance 1, 2, 3 years at 7 per cent.
This grove has produced $30,000 net to owner in the last five years. Is absolutely frostless, lying above Victoria Avenue, Riverside. The 150 citron and grapefruit trees have been bringing in $1000 per year.
Based on actual returns, this grove is paying 23 per cent. net on the actual investment.
It would be an ideal residence grove as it touches Harwarden Drive, where there are some of the finest Orange Growers' homes in Southern California.

No. 5.
A 23 Per Cent. Investment.
$27,750.
18½ acres, 14-year-old Washington Navel orange orchard.
Located in fashionable Arlington Heights, Near Victoria Avenue, Riverside.
Gage canal water—1-4 inch to an acre.
NOTE:—This is an A-1 grove in an A-1 district.
Estimated crop now on trees, 7000 boxes.
Has just been heavily fertilized.
And is in first-class condition in every way.
This is the cheapest offering in the Riverside district.
And will pay good interest on double the asking price.
Terms—½ cash, balance 2 and 3 years at 7 per cent.

No. 6.
A 25 Per Cent. Investment.
$40,000.
20 acres full bearing lemon orchard.
Above Victoria Avenue, Riverside.
Gage canal water—one of the best rights in So. Cal.
This grove is absolutely frostless, lying on the foothill slopes. Last year paid 25 per cent. on present asking price.
Good crop now on trees.
The lemon groves in this district are considered by experts to be the finest in Southern California, and they have certainly proved this by the returns they have been and are paying.

No. 7.
A 29 Per Cent. Investment.
$82,500.
184½ acres Washington Navels in Duarte district.
1478 trees, 22 years old—300 trees 8 and 9 years old.
Good house, barn, etc.
20 shares of Duarte water. Cost $1100 last year.
Terms—$25,000 cash, balance 1, 2, 3 years at 7 per cent.
This is probably the best and finest grove in the whole foothill district. Paid $13,000 net to owner last year—over 15 per cent. on asking price—and has averaged $10,000 net for the past five years. The water right is first-class, and in a few years, when the bonds are taken up, the water will cost virtually nothing. Anyone looking for a beautiful foothill residence, combined with a first-class income property could not do better.

No. 8.
$100,000.
104 acres young navel and Valencia orchard.
84 acres 3 and 4-year-old Valencias.
40 acres 4-year-old Navels.
10 acres 3-year-old Lemons.
On high lying foothill slopes.
Southerly exposure—absolutely frostless.
Terms—$30,000 cash, balance terms.
This is the finest young orchard I know of. And will pay handsomely as an investment. In addition, any man with sufficient money looking for the one spot where he could create a home impossible to duplicate anywhere else, would buy on sight.
There are some high hills immediately in the rear of the orchard which could be acquired at a low price, and which would lend themselves readily to scenic landscape gardening effects.
Taking everything—including view and location—into consideration, it is a property of endless possibilities, and should be seen to be appreciated. Once bought by the right man it will never be re-sold. While I would hate to do it, would subdivide and sell in 10 and 20-acre tracts.

West Riverside Estate

"Hoeing Weeds on West Riverside Estate"

Any of the following described orchards, or, in fact, any of the West Riverside Estate Orange Groves, can be purchased on the unprecedented terms of 1-5 cash, balance eight equal annual installments; which gives the purchaser an opportunity of securing income property out of its own earnings inside the purchase time.

No. 1.
$12,780.
12.78 acres 4-year old Valencias.
Light disintegrated granite soil.
Ample water.
These are large trees, have a good crop for their age, and are in first-class condition.
In looking over this grove with a prominent and successful orange grower a few days ago, he stated that after fifteen years' experience, that this was one of the finest young groves he had ever seen.

No. 2.
$10,270.
10.27 acres 3-year old Eureka lemons.
Ample water. Costs only $3.00 per acre per year.
High-lying, frostless foothill slope. These trees grow all the year round.
Planted on the contour, with first-class irrigating system.

No. 3.
$22,800.
20 acres Eureka lemons.
Planted last June. Very fine, thrifty trees.
All selected buds on first-class stock.
Submerged irrigation flume.
Surrounded by 10-year old groves.
Lying in the heart of the estate.
Just north of the townsite.

No. 4.
$24,021.
24 acres total acreage.
16.36 acres 10-year old navels.
6 acres 6-year old Valencias.
5.90 acres 2-year old Valencias.
5.74 acres building site.
Water costs only $2.20 per acre per year.
While at the present time, taken as a whole, this may not be a first-class grove, with very little money and attention it can be made one, and when you consider the price—$850 per acre—and the terms—1-5 down, balance 8 equal annual installments at 6 per cent—it is very, very cheap. Lies high, is frostless, has three very fine building sites amounting to about six acres, which are not charged for. This would be an ideal investment for a man who would be willing to spend the small amount of money necessary to make this a first-class property, worth from $2000 to $2500 per acre. In the history of the orange industry, this has been done many times and can be done again. All it requires is a little nerve and some sense. Who has it?

FIVE thousand enthusiastic automobile fans saw the greatest automobile race meet ever pulled off on the Los Angeles Motordrome. When Starter Fred Wagner sent the first cars away at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon the crowd knew at once that the pie-pan board track had come into its own.

Once more the fastest race course on earth proved itself. The time was sensational and the events closely contested. Not an accident marred the meet, and the cars were wedged in hood-to-hood in five, ten and twenty-five-mile dashes.

Bert Dingley, on the Pope-Hartford, and Teddy Tetzlaff on the Fiat, fought a duel in the five-mile race that brought the throng to its feet. The two fast cars raced for five miles with less than ten feet between them, and last night Dingley went to work on his swift car to get it into jig time for a race today that should be exciting and close.

Harris Hanshue shot into the limelight in style. He drove the Mercer into first place in the five and the twenty-five-mile events and showed the speed of his car as well as his own skill as a driver. Hanshue took the lead early in the race, and showed his rear tires to every other driver in the battle.

One of the exciting races of the day came in the first event. Roscoe Anthony surprised the fans and drove the Regal into an easy victory. The Regal finished ahead of the Maxwell in 4m. 29 1-5s., the fastest time made in its class yesterday. And incidentally Anthony jumped into the limelight as a driver.

ANTHONY'S GREAT RACE.

When the cars left the tape Clarence Smith on the Maxwell was the favorite. The fast little red car looked to have the first place in its grasp. Anthony and the Maxwell got away together and for three miles the fight was hard and fierce. On the fourth mile the Regal took the lead in earnest and kept the pace.

Until the finish of the five miles the result was in doubt, but Anthony raced across the tape at least a length in the lead, and with the crowd yelling lustily for the boy who had made such a gallant fight against more experienced and older drivers.

Roscoe Anthony is the son of C. S. Anthony, the Regal agent, and drove for the first time in a race meet on the Motordrome. He will be out today with his car in splendid shape for a great fight.

When Harvey Herrick in the National No. 11, the car that won the Santa Monica road race, came on the boards, he was given an ovation that echoed over the field. The handsome blue car looked wonderfully well with the number in white showing against the baby blue background of the body. Herrick was sent away at a fast clip, and turned the mile in 44s flat.

While Herrick was making his fast mile Earle T. Boothe, the National agent, was in the timers' stand watching his fast machine. He saw the car tear off a lap in record time and was satisfied. Herrick will appear on the boards again today, with the same car he drove yesterday, and it is expected he will make even faster time.

The twenty-five-mile race proved a hot number. In the lead of the long motor battle Rupert Jeffkins took the pace early in the race, and for a time looked like a winner. It proved too fierce a fight and Jeffkins dropped back. W. H. Carlson, on the Cole thirty then took the pace and made a superb scrap for position. The Cole finished well up, in second place.

Again in the long race Anthony on the Regal showed his class. He won in his class handily and took third place against the larger cars. He was a contender for every mile and while Hanshue was hitting a fast pace he was compelled to keep his eyes on the Regal as it shot round the boards faster and faster.

QUARTETTE OF WINNERS.

Four cars came to the tape for the free-for-all.

This quartette proved to be hummers from the second the starting gun was fired until the checkered flag was dropped. Dingley, with the Pope, singled out Tetzlaff and went after the bright red car. The spectators yelled their encouragement as the Pope Jarea to shove its hood

GREAT TENNIS AT PASADENA.

Five-Set Doubles Match Was the Feature.

Bacon and Young and Nat Brown and Duncan.

May Sutton Won as Easily as Usual.

BY R. A. WYNNE.

The finals in the third annual tennis tournament given by the Pasadena Tennis Club yesterday on the Hotel Maryland courts produced perhaps the most brilliant tennis seen on any court in Southern California, not excepting the championship games on the Long Beach courts when Bundy and McLoughlin qualified to go East as representatives of the Pacific Coast.

In the doubles match between Bacon and Young, an dNat Browne and Duncan, it required five sets to bring out he result, and the greater portion of the afternoon was eaten up by the match. Duncan and Browne won, but only after perhaps the hardest fight they have ever been in.

They won the first set by the score of 6-3, but were completely carried off their feet in the second set by the fierce attack of Young and Bacon. They lost this set, 6-2, and before they could gather themselves together, the younger pair tore into them again for the third set, and took it away neatly by the score of 6-4. The battle royal occurred in the fourth set. Browne and Duncan had taken a brace and annexed the first three games. Then Young and Bacon became aggressive and won the next three games after one of the hardest battles ever seen on Southern California courts. From that time on the score see-sawed back and forth with first one side in the lead and then the other, until the score for the set had run up to nine games each.

THE TANTALIZING LOB.

The pace was telling on the older pair of players, and they had dropped into the back portion of the court and were playing their famous lobbying game, which is peculiarly tantalizing. The afternoon sun was in the eyes of Young and Bacon, and the high lobs were lost many times in the glare. This was one factor in Browne and Duncan taking the set, 11-9. This made the

U. S. C. LOST A TERRIFIC RUGBY GAME TO STANFORD

Southern Bulldogs, Green at the Game, Astonished All the Dopesters by Almost Sweeping the Stanford Veterans Off Their Feet—U.S.C. Will Now Be in a Class With the Big Northern Universities.

BY OWEN R. BIRD.

STANFORD, 6; U.S.C., 0.

The Stanford Rugby team caught a tarter yesterday and the said Tartar nearly cost the famous northern intercollegiate team its reputation. For one hour the University of Southern California warriors fought the northerners to a standstill. At times the play was terrific, but the local team never stopped and was going just as strong at the end as Stanford.

The game marks an epoch in football history of the South. For the first time a southern college has met one of the big northern institutions on even terms and then played them off their feet. U.S.C. will now be in a class with Stanford and Berkeley. The showing made yesterday was little short of wonderful in view of the fact that the U.S.C. team was pitted against a team of veterans, while the local fifteen were going out for the first time.

The U.S.C. team was a great fighting machine yesterday and the forwards had the best of the northern cracks at almost every stage of the game. In fact, it was the work of these forwards that spilled the beans for Stanford. Before the game started, many were saying the score should be 40 to 0, putting the game on a par with the Nevada affair one week ago. The U.S.C. aggregation was not conceded a chance. For the first three minutes of play it looked as though it was about true, as Stanford rushed the ball to the five-yard line then the U.S.C. scrum came to the front and the rush stopped. Just ten times during the first half the scrum saved the day during the initial period and toward the latter part of the first half the U.S.C. team was rushing the Stanford squad up the field.

When the whistle blew for the end of the first half the score was 0 to 0, and the U.S.C. bleachers went wild while a great cloud of gloom settled on the Stanford team. The Stanford followers could not understand it.

"We should win," they said; but they were not winning; the dope was all wrong.

"What is the matter with Stanford?" was passed from lip to lip.

Many were saying they were not playing up to their usual form, but the answer was that there were eight heroes in the U.S.C. scrum, and they were backed up by seven fighting demons in the backfield. Every time a Stanford man got away, there were ten gray-suited men on top of him. The U.S.C. team was desperate and played better than it knew how.

HATS OFF TO HIGGINS.

Pat Higgins has developed a team and we take off our hats to Pat; he is a great man and has a great team.

In the second half the terrible pace began to tell on both teams and men were taken out left and right. The game was fierce every minute, and none of the players spared an ounce of energy. Each play was executed with a desperate dash, which showed that U.S.C. was fighting for its life, while Stanford was trying to retrieve the lost prestige.

In the second half, after about ten minutes' play, the kicking of the Stanford backs worked the ball to within a few yards of the goal. Here Stanford started a wing rush instead of trying to rush the ball over for a score. The backs got away and Resling took the sphere to the line. Here the old fight took place again. Finally Schaup went over the line out of the mad scramble. Brown missed the goal. Score: Stanford, 5; U.S.C., 0.

Capt. Benny Erb went over for the second try after a great battle down inside of the twenty-yard line. Resling took the ball to the line and Erb went over. Brown again missed the goal. This was all for the northerners, as the U.S.C. bulldogs came back a million and rushed the pill to the Stanford side of the field and held it there. Time for the game was called with the ball in the middle of the field.

This game has made U.S.C. a live factor in the intercollegiate race in this State, and we hope she will stay there, where the Cardinal and Gold belongs.

SLOW AT START.

The game was slow in starting, but the time was taken up by the U.S.C. rooters' club with songs and yells. At 2:35, Coach Higgins and Capt. Manning walked on the field and met Erb, the Stanford captain, and tossed for sides. Stanford won and took the shady end of the field. A great roar went up from the 3000 people crowded in the stands a few minutes later, when the Stanford team trotted on the field and fell to passing the ball around. They were watched for a while; then there was a hush as the door to the U.S.C. training quarters burst open and the field was flooded with gray jerseys. Then a mighty shout went up as the men formed in a line and passed the ball back and forth. The bleachers were a mass of confetti in the U.S.C. colors. The yell leaders were covered and the drummer of the band could not hit the mark till he had cleared away the wreckage.

The Stanford team looked in a patronizing way at their rivals, the

KNIGHT MAN GIVES REASONS.

Tells Why He Purchased Sleeve-Valve Motor.

Shows He Is Not Afraid to Look for Defects.

Gives His Views of the Trend of Industry.

An interesting interview on the Knight motor is given by F. E. Small, a local mechanical engineer, who has just purchased a Stearns-Knight car. He explains some of his reasons for buying the machine and tells what he believes to be the trend in motor car building. He gives the automobile industry a good boost and is willing to search for defects in the machines now on the market and is not afraid to use the microscope on the Knight. His reason for buying the car follows:

"In reply to your question as to why I ordered a Stearns car with a Knight sleeve valve type of engine instead of a car having the conventional type of poppet valve engine, I have to advise that I have given the matter considerable thought. After studying the various articles which have appeared from time to time, which discussed relative advantages and disadvantages of both types of engines, I came to the conclusion that as I expected my machine to last a considerable length of time, it would be to my advantage to eliminate from consideration all discussions bearing on the subject, and to consider the matter entirely from the standpoint of a mechanical man, one who is responsible for the designing or building of railway motive power equipment. These three propositions were considered, maximum element of safety in operation, reliability of operation in service and cost of maintenance.

"Working along these lines by the process of elimination, I finally brought the problem down to the consideration of three cars, including the Stearns-Knight, and finally decided upon it, as I found the Knight design something new in gas engines. I was impressed with the general adoption of up-to-date steam engine practice. The power plant has fewer moving parts that are each positive driven as against the multiplicity springs. The last mentioned device has long since been eliminated by good designers from every type of motive power, except the gas engine design.

"The best arguments against the design of the Knight type of engine, which I carefully considered, are as follows: The probability of sleeves sticking or binding in each other and in the cylinder walls, due to the alleged difference in temperature which it is claimed would cause an unequal expansion in the different parts mentioned. In my opinion there will be a difference in temperature, and, therefore, a difference in relative diameters of the sleeves and cylinder walls.

"However, I do not think, were we to take a temperature reading of the temperature of the cylinder walls and the sleeves, that we would find any practical variation, and as the difference in diameters would only be changed less than seven-one thousandth of an inch for a difference of 200 degs. Fahr. temperature, I figure that it is entirely practical to eliminate this as a negligible quantity.

THE REASON.

"It is also contended that when the sleeves and piston are both at the bottom, and are commencing the compression stroke, that the resultant force on sleeves, due to angularity of piston rod and compression pressure, would tend to break the sleeve, which at this part of the stroke is down below the wall of the cylinder, or, at least, would cause considerable wear or cutting of the sleeve. I am inclined to believe that after laying out the positions as stated, that it will be found that the angularity of the piston rod, due to its length, will reduce the supposed lateral resultant to practically a straight upward force.

"Another question raised is that of excessive wear of sleeves on each other and on the cylinder wall, and of the proper lubrication of these parts. In considering this, I am reminded of the time when the piston valves were first applied to locomotives some years ago, which, instead of working vertically as in the case of the sleeves, had the additional disadvantage of moving horizontally. Contrary to the general consensus of opinion at that time, the wear was not at all excessive. From my observations and experience with the piston valves of steam engines, I can see no good reason for expecting any trouble with the sleeves in the Knight engine, due to excessive wear, inasmuch as the bearing area of each is sufficient to eliminate this item from the list of troubles anticipated in sleeve valve design.

"The system of lubrication appears to be efficient, and I believe it will properly take care of all parts, particularly the sleeves, which, I understand, have a spiral groove around their circumference, which method has given satisfaction in general use for years. I not only believe the sleeve valve type of engine will come into general use, but anticipate that the next few years will develop other types of engines along the same lines, such as the rotary valve and slide valve types.

"The majority of large capacity gas engines manufactured here and abroad are equipped with positive actuated valves instead of the cam and spring operated poppet valves, because they are more reliable, and I firmly believe the development in automobile motors will be along the same lines."

FRESNO AUTOMOBILE SHOW.

Manager of United States Tire Company Scores Signal Victory at First Motor Salon.

The first of the season's automobile shows was held in Fresno last week and United States tires scored another victory. This time it was in the Fresno automobile show, the official count of the cars showing that 50 per cent. of the equipment was the United States product.

Twenty-eight cars were shown and of these twice as many were equipped with Morgan and Wrights as of any other make. These cars had Hartfords and three were G. & J. tires.

The count was made on the opening day and John Wiese, manager of the local branch, was highly elated. According to information received by Wiese, the show was a big success. It was held in connection with the County Fair and no other section of the fair attracted more attention than the motor cars. Sixteen makes were represented. Three was the largest number of cars of any one make shown.

RAPID TRUCK SELLER.

Special Service to be Given Commercial Cars, When Installed for City Use.

T. P. Myers, who for a number of years was the sales manager for the Rapid trucks, has been installed as the general service manager of the General Motors Truck Company, taking full charge of the service department. Announcement was made recently of the formation of this company as a selling organization for commercial vehicles.

The matter of service will have an important place in the selling plans of the General Motors Truck Company. Myers is especially well adapted to this line of the work. His factory experience, with his knowledge of selling conditions, equip him to approach the service end of the business from all the angles of the manufacturer, seller and user.

The plan of operation of the service department will keep Myers in the field a greater part of the time, as he will have direct supervision over this department, not only in all of the branches of the company, but also the agencies and the dealers.

No dealer will be allowed to handle the General Motors Service trucks until they have satisfied the service department of their ability and equipment to render service to the purchaser. Especial attention will be given to the stock of spare parts, so that all delays in ordering parts from the factory may be obviated.

Wrong Somewhere.

PITCHING SYSTEM IN NEED OF CHANGES.

EVERYWHERE one hears the question, "What's the matter with the pitchers?" This applies to the general run of slabmen, for there are individual pitchers with whom there is nothing in particular the matter. These individuals are fewer than usual this year, and some of them have been unable to keep up consistent work, writes Sanborn in the Chicago Tribune.

Many explanations of the waywardness of pitchers have been exploited, the most general excuse being that in some mysterious way the new cork-core ball affects the control of the hurlers. The nearest to a sensible reason why the new ball should make any difference is that it is necessary to wind the yarn tighter about the core, consequently the cover is sewed on more tightly and does not give the pitcher's fingers as firm a grip as formerly. If that is true, how is it that the few successful pitchers are not similarly affected?

The real reason probably is the growing size of pitching staffs. That naturally makes less work for the individual men on each staff, and lack of work is bound to affect the control and the endurance of any athlete. With eight or ten pitchers at his disposal, a manager sometimes will not call upon a pitcher for a whole month, and the put him into a tight hole, as likely as not. Some pitchers work so seldom that regular patrons of the team do not know them by sight.

In these modern days of strenuosity it is necessary, of course, to be well protected in the pitching department against accident or illness, but most managers of club owners carry this too far. Nowadays ball players, as a rule, are such pampered pets that they dislike to work outside the limelight, and the practice indulged in, except in the presence of a crowd, is dull work, usually of benefit only when players are constantly under the whip.

More work is a cure worth trying. It ought to be possible for a good manager to select four pitchers after three weeks or a month of a season have passed, upon whom he can rely to work in turn, or nearly so. That is the ideal after which the best managers strive, but sometimes they do not hold to their system with enough consistency to get the best results. It might be necessary to lose a game or two which possibly could be won by emergency methods, but, in the long run, the pitchers would profit by regular and steady work.

Frequently accident or other cause will knock out the rotation of pitchers, but nothing else ought to. When it is necessary to replace one of the first string, the pitchers on the second string ought to be ready, so that any one of them can be promoted temporarily to the first quartette and take his regular turn. How to keep the slabmen who are on the bench in shape for immediate duty is a hard problem to solve, but it can be partially worked out by making the substitute pitchers do all the work in batting practice in the morning and in advance of each game.

At present this batting practice is perfunctory, both for pitchers and batters. The pitcher delivers nothing but straight balls, occasionally varying his speed in an attempt to help the batsman's eye. No effort is made to curve the balls or to put any "stuff" on them. Occasionally an ambitious youngster will try something of the sort and get a quick calldown from the veteran batsmen whom he is facing.

The batsmen do not want to be kept guessing as to what is being pitched. They say they have enough of that to do in the games, and take enough chances of getting hit when the battle is on, without undergoing the same risks in practice. The men at bat want to hit the ball, and hit it squarely. They like to get their hits in practice almost as well as in a game, particularly if there is a crowd watching them. This system is all wrong. The batsman would get far better practice if he were compelled to match his wits against a pitcher's in practice. And the substitute pitchers would profit because it would help them keep control of their curves and at the same time give them practice in studying how to fool a batsman, even if a friendly one.

The frequency with which pitchers are changed during games also militates against their getting regular work and enough of it. Often a man is yanked out of a game, when he is pitching steadily and effectively, merely to let a pinch hitter replace him at bat. Then a half warmed-up pitcher is put in to work against an opponent who is thoroughly loosened up and going at top speed. There is no place for a pinch hitter until near the end of a game, unless the pitcher is going badly and has to be taken out on that account.

MADISON SQUARE SHOW.

While it will seem strange to many New Yorkers and other eastern automobilists to have no Madison Square Garden show to go to in 1912 the consolidation of both shows in the Grand Central Palace will have many advantages. It will be a great time saver for men and women interested in automobiles to be able to examine all the cars in one building, and it will be a money saver for accessory exhibitors, as they will not be put to the necessity of going into two shows or of missing the chance of interesting the visitors who attend only the other show.

Desert Sand Battle.

PHOENIX RACERS FACE GILA RIVER, WHICH IS BANK FULL

Hamlin and the Franklin Back from the Lonely Desert—Stearns and the Stoddard Out on the Sands of the Wilderness—Colorado More Dangerous Than Ever Before and Course Is the Fiercest Ever.

BY BERT C. SMITH.

TWENTY fast motor cars in a battle royal over the roughest course ever planned is the prospect for the Los Angeles-Phoenix road race, which starts Saturday night, November 4. Already a long list of cars and a large number of fearless drivers have entered the lists. J. S. Mitchell is in charge of affairs at this end and George Purdy Bullard is referee at Phoenix.

This race is held under the auspices of the Maricopa Automobile Club. The course is 562.9 miles and the cars will race through Mexico to Yuma and back into the United States at the Arizona line. There is a ten-mile stretch of deep sand from Andrade to Yuma, which will mean the fiercest fight ever planned in any road race.

Men from the East who have looked over the course pronounce it the worst they have seen anywhere. They say it is foolhardy to plan a race over such a country. For 100 miles the cars will be out of communication with telephone, telegraph or railway. The racers will shoot across the wilderness and will leave all hope behind if the cars break down.

Drivers who are out on the course face a lonely fight on the desert at the worst season of the year. The Colorado River is flooding its banks and the Gila River is a raging torrent. When the race was planned the Gila was dry.

The latest reports from Yuma are to the effect that the Gila is dangerous. If the waters continue to rise, a ferry will be established and a night control will be made at this point. The race will take three days at least. The cars will leave here Saturday night and should reach Phoenix Monday afternoon.

OVER THE LINE.

The racers will cross the Mexican line at Mexicala and then will be driven to Andrade, where the line will be recrossed. The sandy wastes in Mexico are fierce and there are places where no roads whatever exist. From Mexicala to Cocopah, about twenty-two miles, the road is so rough that low gear work is necessary almost all the way.

Once out of the sand the cars will race across a smooth stretch for nearly 100 miles. Here some fast work will give the Fiat and the National a chance to fight out the argument. The lighter cars may have a chance on the rougher road, though this question is not settled, but the big giants will certainly have the advantage on the straightaway.

Ralph Hamlin has just returned from a run to Phoenix in his Franklin. He found the road from Andrade to Yuma in fierce shape and the road from Mexicala to Cocopah almost impassable. The Gila River was a posse for the man who took second place last year. The Franklin was entirely covered with water and Hamlin fought his way through the swollen river and finally reached the opposite bank, after risking his life.

On the run Hamlin will be accompanied by Guy Irwin, who rode with him last year. These two are the favorites in the big desert argument and the Franklin is first choice with the men who have watched the events which have led up to the big race.

STEARNS STARTS.

E. Roger Stearns left The Times office Thursday night for Phoenix. He has entered a fifty-horse-power Stoddard-Dayton in the big race, and this car, one of the highest-powered Stearns has ever driven, will be started for Phoenix in a fight for the big cash prize.

This will be the first time Stearns has started with a good chance for first place. He is a great road driver and will have Bill Pratt, the mechanician who rode with him in the two previous races, ready to lend a helping hand. Stearns expects to drive all the way. This is an almost superhuman task.

W. D. Tremaine, who won third place in a Pope-Hartford last year, is coming this way from Phoenix and should reach this city tomorrow. He expects to enter the car in the desert grind and will be a fierce contender. Tremaine knows the road perfectly. His home is in Phoenix and last year much money was placed on Tremaine by the autoists of Arizona, who expected him to win.

Tom Carrigan and Frank Siefert are on their way to Phoenix. Carrigan will enter a Midland in the big race and Siefert will drive. Carrigan will ride on the car and the Midland is picked by a number as a possible first place winner. It has the speed and is a great road car.

COLE-CADILLAC.

Johnny Jenkins will drive a Cole "thirty" in the big race. This will be the first desert fight in which Jenkins has figured. He is a driver known all over this country for his grit and vigor. He has the strength and the head to win this race.

George Adair may be seen at the wheel of a Cadillac. The fight between the Cadillac and the Cole will be of special interest, as these two thirty-horse-power cars were locked in a road race duel for more than a month, each breaking in turn the Los Angeles-San Diego road record. Both are excellent road cars and will start with honors even.

W. E. Ferguson, driving the Buick "forty," reached Los Angeles Friday after a fierce run over the Phoenix course. Ferguson enters his own car, which he drove from Phoenix in an effort to learn the course thoroughly.

The course is carefully signed from Yuma to Phoenix, according to Ferguson. There are no signs this side of Yuma, says the Arizona autoist. He says the course is rough and fierce but he has hopes of winning the big sand battle with his fast Buick stock car.

Bill La Casse is in Phoenix today with the E.M.F. This car, stripped for the sand grind, turned the course after a fast run to the race finish. The E.M.F. looks good to a large number and La Casse is in line for a first place if his car dies as well as it did on the trial trip.

THAT UNDERSLUNG REGAL.

So pleased with the underslung construction is S. A. Foster, a leading automobile dealer of Hartford, Ct., that he has made himself an exclusive "underslung" agent. Foster states that he is a firm believer in the future of the underslung frame and is greatly pleased with the efforts of such companies as the Regal Motor Car Company of Detroit to place a moderate-priced underslung touring car before the American and foreign buyer. "The moderate-priced underslung is here to stay," asserts Mr. Foster. "At first I was skeptical of the popular-priced car with an underslung frame, but I have since tested the new line to my complete satisfaction. It may be a new venture, but from now on I shall maintain an 'underslung agency.'"

In attaching a speed-indicating instrument to a car it is quite necessary to have the driving gears, which are mounted on one of the road wheels, exactly centered on the latter, otherwise the gears will wear quickly and will also be noisy.

We Apologize

In our advertising following Santa Monica race we said the winning National was equipped with Martin shock absorbers, but it was HARVEY HERRICK'S PHOENIX RACER we equipped instead of the car he entered at Santa Monica.

The Aftermath of the Great Race.

Watching the Fiat Fight the Great Motor Battle at Santa Monica.

On the extreme right F. S. Hodson, who owns the big ninety-horse-power Fiat which he shipped here for the race and which did not arrive in time. Next to him is Lee Oldfield, who was to drive the big ninety-horse-power giant. In the center is Sydney Smith, smiling as the Fiat leads all other cars. He has the Fiat smile and beside him is Mrs. Smith, who was sure the big car would win.

WAGNER TELLS RACE STORY.

Hughes in the Mercer Is Boosted Right.

Hints at Several Changes in A.A.A. Rules.

Famous Starter Talks All About Lee Oldfield.

BY F. J. WAGNER,

[Official starter A. A. A.]

After such a great road race contest as the Santa Monica motor battle the starter's "thinks" are somewhat scattered. Several interesting points have occurred to me while enjoying myself in this Land of Sunshine and Flowers. Some of these were in connection with the Fairmont Park race at Philadelphia a week from last Monday.

Judging from what I read and what Louis Disbrow tells me it must have been a very fine contest. Louis left Philadelphia for California a few minutes after he crossed the line a winner in his class—the 361-450-inch category. I made the trip to the Quaker City expecting to see the race on Saturday, October 7, merely as a spectator, and not in an official capacity. When the referee decided to postpone the event I was as sorry as the rest of the thousands, for it was necessary for me to leave for the Coast that night.

I should like to have seen that youngster, Erwin Bergdoll, send his giant car thundering around the course to victory; I should have liked to have seen Mulford capture the 451-600-inch class, Disbrow the division, under that and Hughes, who, by the by, I say Old Top, is some Britisher of a driver, b'jove! Eh! what? With his teammate, DePalma, eliminated it was like a taxicab driver taking money from an ossified man the way Hughes bagged the light-car prize.

That Spencer Wishart, after driving such a brilliant race should have been disqualified, is indeed unfortunate, although the contest committee did the right thing absolutely in upholding Mulford's protest.

BUMPED OUT.

Wishart violated A.A.A. rule No. 109, which says two persons must ride in a car side by side at all times in road races. The fact that the youngster was unfortunate in bouncing out his mechanician cannot change the rule. Wishart should have stopped and picked up his mechanician instead of driving around to his pits alone. Mulford lost his mechanician once, I am told, but Mulford took the trouble to pause and regain his helper. Any other person carried than a regular mechanician would have answered the purpose in Wishart's case and would have fulfilled the ruling.

Right here, however, a point comes up which I believe would warrant changing Rule 109. Stop for a moment and consider that if a mechanician thrown from a car is injured so that it would be a crime to carry him in this race again the driver is up against a severe snag. How many persons in the crowd are willing to ride with him to the pits? Would you take the chance? I wouldn't. The driver may be a very skillful, amiable person, but all drivers take chances—the sort of chances that you and I don't take.

I believe, and I know of others who agree with me, that in a case such as Wishart's, where a mechanician is thrown the driver should be permitted to drive alone as far as his pit. That is less than one lap. This is a thing that so seldom occurs that no injustice would be done if it applied to all. Even were this condition to be made the driver would be at a disadvantage because of his losing time at the pits in securing another man to ride with him. Rule 109 could be revised for the better.

OLDFIELD ANGRY.

Lee Oldfield, the driver who was with our party on the trip across the continent last week, is about to start lawsuits by the wholesale against certain newspapers which libeled him in connection with the Syracuse accident. He is also leveling a load of legal action at an outlawed ex-race driver who is writing for certain newspapers at present.

It seems that many newspapers, upon inaccurate information, stated, or intimated, that Lee Oldfield was not this driver's real name, but was merely a stage name. The truth of the matter is that his right name is Leonidas Oldfield, "Lee" being the abbreviation. He has had his mother look up his birth certificate to prove this. It is only fair in view of the injustice done this boy that the real facts be made public. He declares he never claimed relationship to Barney Oldfield, and that if the public was made to believe he was the latter's brother through misleading advertising and press stories the deception was without Lees' direction or consent. Incidentally Lee says he has a splendid opinion of managers who leave their drivers while under contract stranded, ill and delirious in a hospital with only $4, some change and unpaid hotel and physicians' bills, and then forget to come back.

BE "KEERFUL."

When you are riding in an automobile beside the driver it is not good form to keep saying "Look out!" every time a vehicle or pedestrian is approached. If you are with a competent driver he probably sees what is before him before you do, and if he is not competent you will do better to walk rather than ride. Few things annoy a good driver as much as the nervous or too-ready-with-warning passenger who keeps shooting advice. Sudden warnings distract a motorist's attention from his steering, causing him to look suddenly to the right or left with sometimes bad results. Excepting in rare cases drivers of automobiles look where they are going and instinctively watch out for other vehicles, dangerous turns, bad hills, etc.

This puts me in mind of a recent court decision which was about the most absurd decision connected with an automobile accident that I ever heard of. Charles B. Henderson of Philadelphia is now endeavoring to get the United States Supreme Court to review his case in which this most remarkable decision was handed down. He sued the Pennsylvania Railroad for damages after sustaining injuries when his car was struck by a Pennsylvania Railroad train at Camden, N. J., some time ago. Mr. Henderson was not driving at the time, but was riding on the front seat with the driver. Strange as it may sound to relate, the court decided that as he was sitting on the said front seat he was under duty to warn the driver of approaching danger, and not having done so was guilty of contributory negligence and could not recover damages. What do you think of—that?

But a guest who was riding in the rear seat of that car was awarded damages because, in the opinion of the court, sitting where she was she was not supposed to give warning. In other words, the fact that she was about two feet away from the driver made all the difference.

According to this line of reasoning guests of motorists would be better off when riding in the tonneau in cases of accident, with the chances of recovering damages as the inducement.

MAKES LARGE PLANS FOR CARS.

OVERLANDS TO BE TURNED OUT IN GREATER NUMBERS.

Willys Company Arranges for Large Output During Coming Season and Cars Are to Be Shipped to Pacific Coast, Where Two Distributing Points Will Be Kept.

Sales Manager W. J. Higgins of the newly-formed Willys-Garford Sales Company, at whose head is John N. Willys, maker of Overland cars, is responsible for the statement that a comparison of the Garford "forty" with any other high-grade car will reveal the fact that it is probably the only car of its type which is specifically designed for a particular purpose. The Garford is a family car, designed to meet the requirements of the man who requires the best for his family.

"All steels, wood, upholstering, leather and other materials," said Higgins, which are used in the manufacture of the Garford cars, are the best that can be purchased, because the markets of the world do not produce anything better than those used in our product. There is not an automobile built, regardless of cost, either American or European, that contains the superior materials used in the Garford car.

"Garford cars are the ultimate outcome of nine years' manufacturing experience. The company has no desire to be big producers. The only goal which they strive to reach is perfection, longevity, quality and to give Garford owners entire satisfaction. It is our belief that there is no other concern so nearly accomplishing these attainments."

Realizing the growing popularity of the coupe, John N. Willys caused to be built for 1912 two types of coupe styles. One is mounted on a thirty-horse-power chassis, selling at $1250, while the larger one has a horse-power rating of forty-five and will sell for $2000. Both designs, like the Overland touring cars, are of high quality and lowest price.

The coupe is an ideal car for every-day use in all kinds of weather. For the society woman it is perfect, affording protection from dust and inclement weather. For the business and professional man the coupe has no equal. Physicians, especially those living in northern and western territory, are purchasing coupes.

RUESS LEAVES FOR EAST; POPE PROTECTS VENICE.

WILD BILL RUESS is on his way to the Pope-Hartford factory. The man who has made a hit with the handsome line of high-powered cars expects to make arrangements for shipping a larger number of Popes this year than ever before. Ruess is accompanied by his wife. During his absence Manager Harmon D. Ryus will be in charge.

One of the first things Ryus did after Ruess left town was to sell a big Pope-Hartford fire engine to the city of Venice. This machine, with the same motor with which the car Bert Dingley drove at Santa Monica is equipped, made a great demonstration and was the choice of the men of affairs at the beach town.

When the Pope sale was closed, C. S. Thatcher, the City Clerk of Venice, made the following statement.

"I was very sorry to see you miss your chance to make a new world's record at the Santa Monica road race. I realize what a great advertisement it would have been to have your Pope-Hartford declared the winner of the great free-for-all with an average of about ninety miles an hour. Now I believe that your grief will be quickly dispelled and that you will receive a much greater advertisement when your friends realize that you have been officially notified that on October 16, 1911, the city of Venice purchased from you a Pope-Hartford combination chemical and hose auto fire truck, fitted with an engine that ought to be holding the world's record today.

There is one Venice of America, known all over the world whose existence and protection will soon be credited to this great machine, thus the advertisement. The above is as I see it on the morning after the night before."

The Story of a Hub Cap

Straws Show Which Way the Wind Blows

A Hub-cap is a small affair, and is the last thing to be placed on a car before leaving the factory, but the Garford Hub-cap is notable because it is a suggestion of Mr. Garford's own, and also his love of complete finish and his constant seeking for the best in a very striking manner.

This hub-cap carries a letter "G," on the outer end of its octagon nut, and has the legend "The Garford Company, Elyria, Ohio," in a circle surrounding the nut.

In its first form this hub-cap was all in one piece of broze casting, which it was impossible to finish without somewhat changing the outlines of the letters, and thereby working injury to the finished appearance of the hub-cap as a whole.

To obviate this fault, the hub-cap is now made in three pieces, the two pieces bearing the letters are die-cast bronze, with letters of perfectly sharp and correct outlines and these two pieces are finished on the back side to fit respectively, a ring groove and a circular recess. The ring with inscription is retained in its seat by spinning the metal body over on it, while the nut cap "G" is retained by flowing soft solder through the two holes seen in the cap-blank nut-end at the left.

The result is a beautiful piece of work, which protects the axle perfectly, and at the same time advertises the Garford Company of Elyria, and also bears witness to the passionate desire for mechanical finish and perfection which dominates the Garford Company's president.

The Garford is the most complete line of pleasure and commercial cars in the United States. The commercial cars are made in five models, 2000 pounds, 3000 pounds, 4000 pounds, 6000 pounds, 10,000 pounds, and employ the most highly successful driving mechanism yet devised for trucks, the double disc friction drive.

An appeal to the aesthetic is found in each feature of the pleasure cars and the line comprises Roadsters, Touring Cars, Limousines and Landaulettes in "fours" and "sixes."

A high tribute to Garford service has been paid by Raymond and Whitcomb, touring agents. Their purchase of ten seven-passenger Garfords for touring purposes, which are now en route to Los Angeles from New York City, was made after many years' experience with all makes of high grade cars.

Send for illustrated booklet "G," containing 100 views of the Garford factory.

PORTLAND STARS AGAIN SHINE IN FRONT RANK.

McCredie's Experts Have the Skill and Luck to Win Coast League Pennant Second Time—Team Is Strong One and Few Men Were Out of Game During Season. Brief History of Men.

BY GREY OLIVER.

With the long Coast League season of seven months at an end today, the fans can cheerfully say that they have had a summer of baseball this year. As a matter of fact there have been practically eight months of continuous baseball for the local fans, counting the preliminary series of the Boston Red Sox here last March. And eight months is a long term.

The six clubs that started out that early last March are to play their last games today, and however the fans may consider them as a whole, it must be admitted that the most consistent of the best team won the pennant. It was captured this year by Portland team, winner of last year's pennant, and the statement that it is lucky to win the glad rag is not repeating the declaration of Walter McCredie himself. He declares that any team that wins a pennant must have the largest part of luck and any team that gets the banner must have all the luck the latter part of the season.

This does not mean that Portland won by luck alone, for Manager McCredie finishes the season with a corps of ball players that any minor league manager can be proud of. His team has the strongest pitching staff in the league, the best outfielders and a fast infield and best of all he has had the luck to keep his team intact for all year. Other teams, notably Vernon, have been badly handicapped by injuries and lack of harmony in the ranks, but McCredie was able to keep almost all of his men in harness all the time.

This has been the real reason for success and while stating this as a fact no less credit is due him for the way he is bringing his team to the front. He has played to hostile fans almost every trip to the State, for his team to the big leagues than all the other managers on the Coast combined. Since he has had the team in 1903 he has sent twenty-five men to the big leagues, including the three that were taken this year by Cleveland.

Big Mac was born in Dubuque, Iowa, in 1877 and is 43 years old. His professional career began in 1896, when Cal Pete Lohman signed him to pitch for the Des Moines team in the Western League. He remained there two years and in 1898 played center field for the Quincy, (Ill.) club. He went to Johnstown, Pa., as an outfielder in 1899 and in 1900-1 played right field for the Minneapolis club.

In 1902, not liking things there, he went to the Oakland team, which with other California teams was playing ragtime ball at that time. In 1903 he played right field for the Brooklyn Nationals and the following year played an outfield for the Baltimore team. He went to Portland in 1905, joining forces with his uncle, Judge W. W. McCredie, to buy the Beaver team.

There McCredie has been ever since making good money, for Portland is not only the best ball town on the Coast, but the club has added much to its financial prosperity by the sale of good ball players.

The players McCredie has sent to the big leagues are as follows: Mitchell, McLean, Raftery, Schafly, Atz, Donahue, Madden, Sweeney, Lister, Danzig, McHale, Graney, Harkness, Essick, Groom, Klusella, Pernoll, Hartman, Ole Johnson, Olsen, Krapp, Gregg, Fisher, Ryan, Perkinpaugh and Steen.

Last year he shipped Gregg, Krapp, Fisher and Olsen to the Cleveland team and all of them made regular positions on the club this year.

WILLIAM RAPPS.

Bill Rapps, first baseman, is from the "show me" State of Missouri, and first began to do the "hawl" business in 1885, when he was born. He played outfield for the Leavenworth (Kan.) team in 1905-6, and for the next three years played first base and the outfield for the Oklahoma City team, but wound up the season with Kansas City at first base.

Rapps belonged to Portland at that time, for he had been drafted by McCredie from Oklahoma. Rapps is not only a good hitter, but is always on the job, full of ginger, and does not suffer by comparison with any other member of the team.

WILLIAM STEEN.

Bill Steen, pitcher, is another native of Pittsburgh, and is 23 years old. He did his first pitching of any importance with the County League in Pittsburgh in 1905, and the next year went to the Oil City team of the Interstate League.

In 1907 Steen was with the Newcastle team in the O. and P. League, and the following year pitched for Toledo in the American Association. He was with Grand Rapids and Bloomington last year, and was drafted by Portland. He has done very well this year and McCredie figures that he will be one of the Beavers' best flingers next season.

CHESTER CHADBOURNE.

Chester Chadbourne, left fielder, is 26 years old and a native of Guilford, Me. His first real professional ball was played with the Boston Americans in 1906. The next year he went to the Virginia League; in 1908 he was with Jersey City, and in 1909 the White Sox got him. Last year he was turned over to the Indianapolis club and at the end of the year was made a free agent and this year signed with Portland. He is a fine fielder and a good hitter and fit to be on the champion team.

FRED HARKNESS.

Fred Harkness, the crack pitcher, was born in Arroyo Grande, Cal., in 1889, and blossomed out as a ball-player with the Butte team in 1908 and the next year was drafted by McCredie. Last year he was taken by the Cleveland Americans and pitched there a part of this year and then returned to Portland. He is one of the really sure beavers in the league, and is always hard to beat.

WALTER KUHN.

Walter Kuhn, the promising young catcher, is 23 years old and was born in Fresno county, California. He played the semi-brand of ball there for several years and was grabbed this spring by Portland. While a catcher, he can sub acceptably at any infield position, and can play the outfield, for he is fast and full of pep. He is a valuable man to the champions and may develop into something real good.

BUDDY RYAN.

Buddy Ryan, center fielder, is a native of Swansea, Colo., and 25 years old. He began real ball in the Nebraska league five years ago. In 1907 he went to the Pueblo team and was sold to the Boston Americans. Later he was traded to Portland for catcher Tom Madden and has been with Portland ever since. He not only leads the league in hitting but is a sure and speedy hitter, his only weakness being on long throws to the infield. Next year he goes to Cleveland to which team he has been sold.

MICKEY LALONGE.

Mickey LaLonge, the catcher was born in Toledo, O., twenty-five years ago, and played his first professional ball with the Canton team, where he was in 1903-4. In 1905-6-7 he was with the Akron team and in the latter part of 1907 he went to the Washington Americans. The next year he played with the San Francisco team and in 1909 was with Oakland. Last year he caught for Sacramento and this year he joined the Champions.

His work with Sacramento was indifferent because he was on a weak team, but immediately after joining Portland he improved wonderfully and is now one of the star catchers in the league. He is a very accurate thrower and is strong as a pinch hitter and is a valuable man for the team.

ROGER PECKINPAUGH.

Roger Peckinpaugh, the best shortstop in the league, is 20 years old, and was born at Wooster, O. This is his second year in baseball. He was picked up by a Cleveland scout in the bushes last year and sent to New Haven. He played there last year, hitting .255 and finishing second in the shortstops' list. Portland got him this year for further polishing and next year he is to go to Cleveland.

He is the best shortstop in the league, according to the fans, a good hitter and a swell all-around ball player.

TOM SEATON.

Pitcher Tom Seaton is 25 years old and was born in Grand Island, Neb. He was discovered by a baseball scout playing in a team at Point Richmond, Cal., in 1908. He was grabbed by Portland that year and has been there ever since. This shows what kind of a pitcher he must be, for big Mac would not keep him if he was a dead one.

Tom is not one of those two-shit phenoms. He is a steady flinger, good with the stick and under ordinary conditions any team that beats him must have the luck.

BEN HENDERSON.

Bennie Henderson, 26 years old, is from Council Bluffs, Iowa. He began with Omaha in 1905 and also played with the Oklahoma team part of that year. In 1906 he went to Portland and the next year jumped his contract and for the next four years was with the California Outlaw League, and returned to Portland this year. He is a fine heaver when he is right but is a hard boy to control.

ELMER KOESTNER.

Elmer Koestner, one of the best flingers in the league, is 24 years old and a native of Roberts, Ill. He began with Bloomington in 1907, and the next two years was with the Los Angeles team. In 1910 he went to Cleveland and at the end of the year was traded to Portland for Gregg. Elmer's health was not good enough for him to stand a trying season in the big league, but when he is himself, he is one of the hardest nuts in the league to crack. He has everything a pitcher needs and is a slashing good hitter.

ARTHUR KRUEGER.

Art Krueger, the Flying Dutchman, is a native of Fredericksburg, Tex., and 28 years old. He started in professional ball in 1902 at Rockford, Ill., and for the next three years played with the Oakland team of the Coast League. In 1906 he was taken by Cincinnati and in 1907-8 was with Columbus. Cleveland had him in 1909-1910. In the latter part of last year he went to Portland and has remained there since.

He is a very dangerous batter and not only leads the league in two-base hits, but has long since been known as the most graceful fielder in the league. He does not make spectacular catches, but is always under the ball. In addition to these things he is said to be the highest priced outfielder in the league, which helps a lot.

THOMAS SHEEHAN.

Tommy Sheehan, third baseman, was born in Sacramento 23 years ago. His career began in the California State League in 1838 and for seven years he was with the Sacramento and Tacoma teams under the Mike Fisher regime. In 1906 he played third base for the Pittsburgh team of the National League and in 1907 was with both Pittsburgh and Brooklyn. He turned outlaw in 1908 and for two years was a free lance with the San Francisco and Stockton teams. He went to Portland last year and has been there since. He is an old experienced player who knows the game thoroughly; a man who hits and fields well and is worth the money. This cannot be said of thousands of ball players.

JACK BARRY.

Jack Barry, utility man, is from Newberg, N. Y., and is 35 years old. He started in baseball as an outfielder for the Washington National League team in 1898 and the next year was with the Boston Nationals. In 1900-1-2-3 he played the outfield for the Philadelphia Nationals and in 1904-5 was with the Chicago Nationals. In 1906-7 he was with Cincinnati and the New York Giants had him in 1908. In 1909-10 he played with Milwaukee, and this year went to Portland.

Barry has not had to show much this year for he had few chances to fill in, but he can play any infield or outfield position in a finished manner. In addition to his knowledge of the game and his ability as a player he is one of the most amiable and intelligent men in the league. It is such traits that make for high class baseball.

WILBUR RODGERS.

Second-baseman Wilbur Rodgers is 22 years old and a native of Cincinnati. Two years ago he began playing professional ball with the Rochester, N. Y., team as a shortstop. During the latter part of that year and last year he was with the Waterbury team, which won the pennant in the Connecticut league. He went to Portland this season and has made so good that he will be retained as the regular second-baseman. He is a good hitter and a fine all-around player. His work here in the recent Vernon series was all to the fancy and he can hold his own in any Class A company.

OTTO MOORE.

Catcher Otto Moore, the recruit of the team, is a brother of Charley Moore of the Los Angeles team, is 24 years old and a native of Kansas. After his try-out in semi-professional ball he joined the Portland team of the Northwest League this year, where he did fine work. He came South to be with the Beavers in their two weeks' series in Los Angeles after Kuhn's hand was hurt. Young Moore did not have a chance here to work, but he is said to be a very promising baseball fan is jealous of the ... and his team must be given ... for the manner in which it ... real baseball under trying ... circumstances.

McCredie has gathered around him a bunch of men that seemed to be born to win every game, and this fighting spirit has had much to do with the success of the Beavers. The other part of this success, however, has been due to the uniform good work of the pitchers.

McCredie is not the most popular manager in the league because he is aggressive and wants all that is coming to him, and while some of the fans may not like him for this, they must hand it to him as a manager who has pulled himself to the front year by year by sending out a team of players that this home town fans are proud of. All hail to them. They have done this year has been an open book to all the fans and the way they performed in the past will prove just as interesting as a chapter in the history of the pennant winners this year.

An army is as army without a leader, so it might be said that the Portland team would not be the same without Walter McCredie as a leader. Great Game.

TAN-TO MOTOR GAME IS NEXT.

Cars and Players Ready for Ascot Park Tourney.

Late Model Machines to Be Lined on Courts.

Two Fast Teams to Fight for the Goals.

Now for a real novelty. The game of Tan-To is to be played. Two teams of athletes, on fast roadsters, the latest 1912 models in the market, are lined up for the game. The practice stunts have shown the possibilities of this sport. There is a chance to break an arm or make a field goal all within an hour.

This sport, perfected after much thought by Willis Lord Moore, has made a hit with the automobile men. At least twice as many cars could have been secured as entrants. The field will allow teams of from three to five cars to play against each other.

This big two-foot ball is to be bounced from court to court by the players endeavoring to score. There will be a referee on each side line and fouls will be noted and the players who fail to live up to the rules will be disqualified. There seems to be no reason why this game should not become as popular as polo or hockey.

The rubber ball can be kept in the air for several minutes. While the ball is in play the skill of an automobile driver can be thoroughly tested. Some of the self-starting automobiles are also demonstrated thoroughly, and it shows their effectiveness to a marked degree.

THE ENTRANTS.

Cars entered are the Cadillac driven by George Adair; the National, driven by Bob Stanton; the Oakland, with Gilbert Woodill at the helm; the Overland, driven by Johnny Widren; the Stoddard-Dayton, driven by Roger Stearns, and the Warren-Detroit.

Practice at Ascot will begin Monday afternoon under the direction of Willis L. Moore, inventor of the new sport, the game having progressed enough to have outgrown Praeger Park, where former practices have been held.

The skepticism with which it was viewed by automobile men when first brought to their attention is being replaced to a great extent by enthusiasm over the possibilities of Tan-To, brought about by a better acquaintance with it. That a number of changes will have to be made, though of a minor nature, there seems to be no doubt, but undoubtedly it will prove both exciting and interesting, according to those who have followed the first few trials. The mere fact that six high-powered cars will be in action on the field at the same time, each car containing two athletes bent on getting hold of an elusive rubber ball is bound to prove entertaining.

The automobile owners who have entered their cars in the new game are of the opinion that it will prove an excellent sport in which to demonstrate the ease with which their cars can be handled. This opinion is borne out by the fact that Tan-To requires rapid starts and stops, and the ability in a car to back up rapidly. The danger feature which would naturally follow where cars were backing and shooting forward rapidly has been eliminated to a certain extent by the introduction of roadways into the field. These roadways are ten feet wide, and between each is a protection space of two feet.

TWO TEAMS.

The teams which will take part in the game have been selected from among the best athletes in the Los Angeles Athletic Club and the University of Southern California. "Lee" Henry, handball champion of the former organization, will direct the efforts of the team representing the club, while Sammy Dick, former yell leader at the Methodist school, and an all-around athlete, will be in charge of the latter's team. The players have taken to Tan-To with a will and promise to make it as exciting and full of daring plays as possible.

As far as it is possible to tell at the present time, the teams will play up and down the course eight times, and the game will last about one hour and forty-five minutes. At the end of each five courts, the length of the field, however, a three-minute interval will be allowed to give the players breathing space.

PRIZES FOR PHOENIX RACE.

Remy People Ready to Reward Winners of Fierce Desert Sand Battle.

The Remy Electric Company, makers of Remy magnetos, have followed close their custom of awarding cash prizes to the winning drivers in leading automobile contest events by the announcement that $400 will be given to the drivers taking first, second and third places in the Los Angeles-Phoenix road race, November 4 and 6. As usual the prizes will be paid in gold, the only condition being that the cars are equipped with the Remy ignition devices.

"Our policy in offering prizes in automobile contests has been to make awards which would go to the drivers," said Fred Muskovics, sales manager of the Remy company. "We firmly believe that the best way to encourage good clean racing is by making cash awards to the winning drivers. We have just completed our prize list for the various events in the fall of 1911, and a total of $7700 is awaiting the winners at the Fairmont Park, Santa Monica, Savannah and in the Los Angeles-Phoenix race.

CHALMERS WINS AGAIN.

A Chalmers "30" has again proved its worth at the Interstate Fair races held in Spokane, Wash., on October 8. Taken from the stock of a dealer of Chalmers cars in Spokane the "30" Torpedo Roadster made the speed of one mile in one minute and fifteen seconds. This was done on a half-mile flat track and the same car made five miles in 6m. 22 2-5s., and ten miles in 12m. and 43 2-5s. The Chalmers "30" was an easy winner in a flying start straightaway mile race defeating an Abbott-Detroit special racer, an Everitt and others, making the distance in 51 1-5 seconds. This is the third year in which the Chalmers has defeated the field at the Spokane Interstate Fair.

APPERSON MAN RETURNS HOME.

BABY JACK AND RABBIT ARE TO BE HUMMERS.

Curtis Tells All He Knows About the New Line for This Coming Season and Speaks Well After Having Driven Car More Than Four Hundred Miles in Middle West.

H. W. Curtis, sales manager for Leon T. Shettler, has just returned from a two weeks' visit to the Apperson factory. This trip was taken for the purpose of familiarizing himself with the 1912 Apperson line. Curtis says he was agreeably surprised with the new Apperson "Rabbit," which is the lowest price car the Apperson brothers have ever manufactured. He drove one of these cars five or six hundred miles in the Middle West, and says that if any purchaser of one of these machines can break it up they are welcome to do so. This car, of course, will be the leader for 1912, although the Apperson "Baby Jack" has been so well established in the western country that it will probably continue to be a popular model.

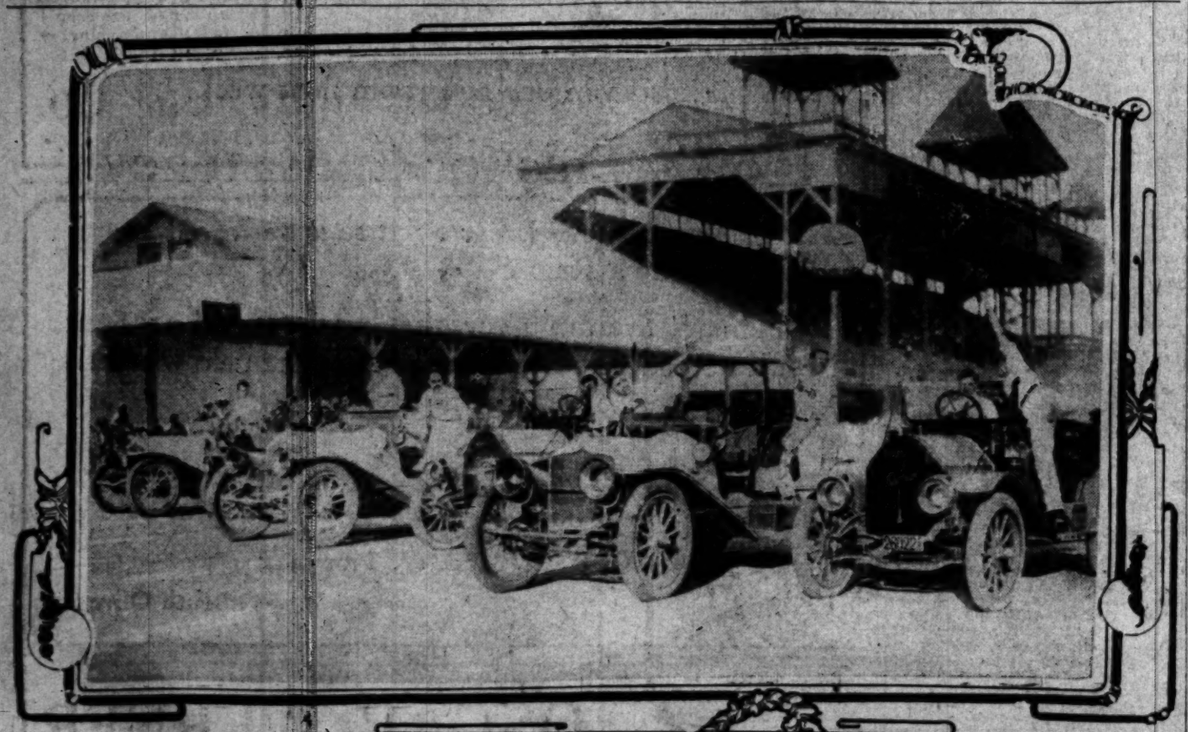
The sales manager also states that the Apperson factory does not purpose to build the higher powered cars except on special order. In other words they expect to devote almost all their attention to the Apperson "Rabbit" and the Apperson "Baby Jack," in order to increase their output.

While it is a well known fact that the Apperson plant is large enough to build from three to five thousand cars a year, the Apperson brothers have refused time and again to manufacture a big output, preferring to give each car their personal attention. Last year the factory turned out but 800 cars, and the output for 1912 will be increased to 1000. Of these Shettler has been allotted 200 for the Southern California territory; 150 for the Northern California territory, and fifty for the State of Utah.

Shettler says the Apperson will be withdrawn from all races and hill-climbs on the Pacific Coast this coming year. He gives as his reasons for this the fact that he considers the Apperson well enough advertised without going into an enormously expensive racing campaign for the coming season. He further feels that he has done his share towards furnishing amusement for the general public along these lines.

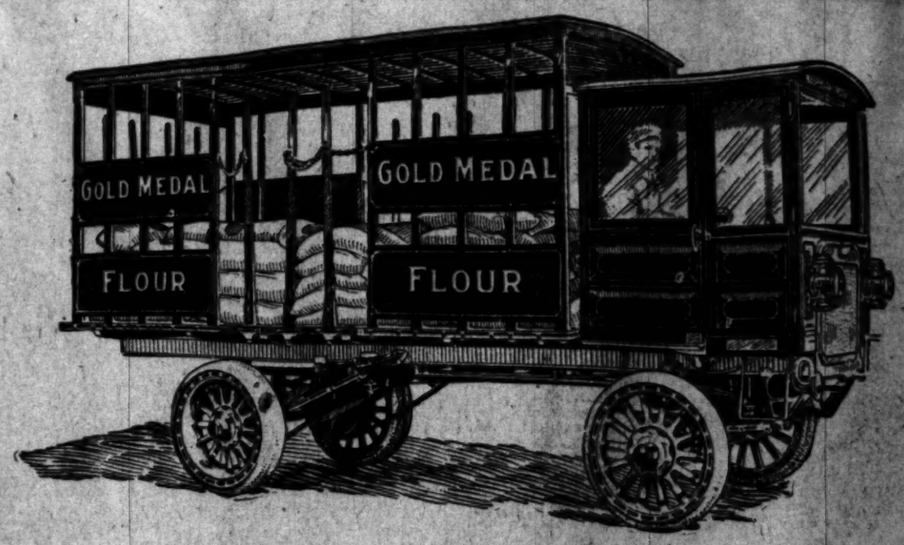
READY FOR REAL RUN.

Irving D. Stern, the United States representative of the German Opel car, has decided to equip his machines with the Dorian remountable rim. The 300 horse-power racing car, which is now being built and which in all probability will be piloted by Bob Burman, will use the Dorian rim, while the special racing car now in this country and Stern's private Opel car are both equipped with the remountable rim of this make. Several of the cars in the Fairmount Park race were fitted with Dorian rims and made good records by the use of this time-saving invention. The Dorian Remountable Company will have a special staff of mechanics at the Grand Prize and Vanderbilt Cup races at Atlanta.



Tan-To Skirmish on the Opening Day of Practice With the Ball in the Air and the Players Ready to Bunt.

This shows an important play with every driver and every player watching for an opening. The ball is bouncing from one machine to another. Motor cars entered are the Stoddard-Dayton, Warren-Detroit, National, Oakland, Overland and Cadillac.



Special Announcement

After a very careful investigation of all commercial trucks on the market, we have selected and are fortunate in securing the agency for

WILCOX TRUX

That Always "Deliver the Goods"

There are many good reasons for our selection, the first of which is that they have demonstrated by several years of satisfactory service to hundreds of large concerns that they invariably "Deliver the Goods." They have many exclusive features which we have found to be especially desirable in a motor truck and which put the "Wilcox" in a decided class by itself. A few of these features are enumerated below:

ACCESSIBILITY OF MOTOR—No other truck on the market has anywhere near the same degree of accessibility to its vital parts as the Wilcox. The motor is in the cab with the driver. By raising the hood the driver can see all parts of the engine, the carburetor, magneto or spark-plugs from his seat. These parts can easily be reached, and examined from the cab. Nothing but the transmission is under the body of the car.

MOTOR—All sizes of "WILCOX TRUX" are equipped with a thirty-horse power, four-cylinder, four-cycle engine made on standard automobile lines for us, by the largest exclusive automobile engine manufacturer in the United States. These engines have proven their reliability and efficiency under the most trying conditions, and proven themselves equal to even uneasonable demands. We find that a good many owners of "WILCOX TRUX" are constantly exceeding the maximum capacity for which they are built. One firm going so far as to haul 5½ tons on our 3-ton model with power to spare.

APPLICATION OF POWER—The advantageous application of power is just as important as the development of power in a truck. We use a selective sliding gear, three speeds forward, and one reverse. The gears are extra heavy, hardened nickel steel, mounted on full Timken bearings. The power is applied through a chain drive, which is recognized as the best means of applying motive power without waste.

WILCOX "A" BRACKET and radius rod is an exclusive construction which holds the front axle in its correct relative position, allowing the use of full elliptic springs, which take up all jar without interference. It avoids wrenching and weakening of the springs, and gives perfect rigidity to the steering gear and perfect resiliency to the load.

SPROCKET BRACES—Instead of putting the sprockets on the extreme ends of the jack-shaft, this shaft is extended far enough to permit bracing the ends with a solid bracket, so that the sprocket runs between two bearings. This absolutely does away with any possibility of straining the jack-shaft, and throwing the chains out of alignment or breaking them.

BRAKES—The brakes operated by the foot pedal, or service brakes, are external contracting cast iron lined, which are applied to the jack shaft. This brake is strong enough to stop the loaded truck, and hold it on any grade. This feature is very important, as a safeguard against accident on grades, and for quick stops through congested traffic.

The emergency brakes are contracting and Thermoid lined. They work on extra large drums on the rear wheels, and are operated by the hand lever, which has a self-locking quadrant. This brake will stop the car within a few feet.

STANDARD EQUIPMENT— All "WILCOX TRUX" are equipped with Bosch magneto, Bennett Carburetor, Timken Roller Bearings, all of which are standard and thoroughly tested in both touring car and truck service.

All models for immediate Delivery. One ton Chassis $2435.00. 1½ ton chassis $2650.00. 3 ton chassis $3200.00. Prices F.O.B. Los Angeles.

Sayers was never beaten afterward. He reversed the horse racing dictum that "a good big 'un will always beat a good little 'un." He beat the enormous fellow in the 109th round when he himself was dropping. Another defeated and chagrined opponent wanted to commit suicide when beaten—but it was no disgrace after all.

To give an idea of Sayer's endurance, one of his fights was undecided at the end of three hours, and when renewed a few weeks later Sayers won after two hours. One of his most notable victories was against a giant called the "Tipton Slasher." He was finished in forty-two minutes. They all of them went down, and then came the great preliminary for the fight with Heenan. The latter was not champion of America, but was recognized as the best fighter. He was 6 feet, 2 inches in height and weighed nearly 200 pounds.

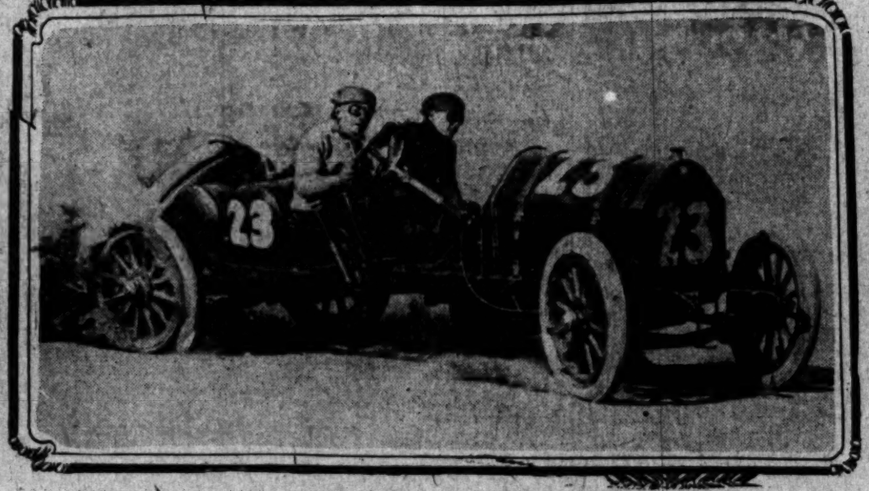
On another occasion I may have some stories I have heard about Heenan to repeat, but now only attend to this the most celebrated fight in the history of the game.

There was an enormous gamble on the event, which took place on April 17, 1860, in the presence, perhaps, of the most aristocratic assemblage ever gathered to see a match. It may not be necessary to recall the fact that forty-two rounds were fought, lasting two hours and twenty minutes, and it was a draw. Sayers' right arm was powerless after the sixth round, and he fought all the rest of the time with his left.

After this, Sayers laid himself out to blind his opponent, which he succeeded in doing. The ropes were cut when Sayers was almost out and the ending consequently was unsatisfactory, but so great was the enthusiasm for both that it was decided that it would be against international honor to fight it out afterwards, so the men shared the title. It was after this Sayers retired.

Old timers frequently exaggerate about the "good old days," but whatever they ever said about Sayers was right as regards the comparison of then and now. My friend, Eugene Corri, has said that men now possess science and brain power unknown in those days, but adds that undoubtedly in the era of Sayers and other old hands they may have possessed a greater asset—undoubted courage. Further, he thinks that few of the Sayers period would have lasted twenty three-minute rounds. The method of training, perhaps, was not so thorough, but that must remain a question of opinion.

I saw the contest in Australia, but lost sight of him afterwards. He was "Tom," too, and even racing, making a book at Flemington (Melbourne.) He was a handsome young fellow then. I don't know where or whether he lives. He would now be about 50. In any case, fame will keep alive the name of Sayers.



Frank Siefert Flirting With Death on Dead Man's Turn at Santa Monica.

This is one of the most remarkable automobile photographs ever taken at a big road race and shows the Cole car, with the rear tire almost off, and with Siefert fighting to keep the swiftly-moving car from turning turtle.

Did he bet the Fiat would win the race? Well, I don't know about that, but he was real reckless regarding the car that would make the fastest lap and somehow he always picked the right car.

F. S. Hodson, who owns that big Fiat "ninety," is one of the handsomest millionaires we have in our midst. Just tell him how handsome he is and then watch him blush. It is quite becoming. He likes us and likes our country and he thinks he will stay for awhile. Well, F. S., we will be glad to have you.

Little Johnny Jenkins is the man after my own heart. That unassuming, fat little rascal has made a host of friends for himself and his Cole car. He will stay here for the Phoenix race and we will get better acquainted. Welcome to our city, Johnny.

Guy West is just as fat as ever. Business at the Western Rubber and Supply Company is booming and Guy is on deck all the time. When Bert West is not away hunting ducks, note that I said "hunting," he is also ready for big business. Well, Bert, bring us in a brace or two and we will believe those Hunt stories you are telling.

What do you know about Ed Featherstone? He admits that he only shot the limit once this season.

Just think of it. Last year every time Ed went out he bagged twenty-five. This year he is using a No. 8 bore with No. 2 buckshot and he bags a duck every once in a while.

Miss Sybel Geary, secretary of the Automobile Club, is planning a campaign whereby she hopes to raise $3500 for that Rincon road fund. She has more than half of the money in sight already. Let's all get in and help her. How much did you say you would give? Don't all speak at once. This is a big business and we should all get into line.

Did you shake George Fowler's hand before he left? He is the kind of man who makes good on the ground or in the air. Fearless and yet a bundle of nerves. He made many friends among the automobile dealers and we all hope he makes that flight from sea to sea. The death of Ely unnerved him, but Fowler said little. He was sorry the aviator was killed but he flew into the air just the same and took a chance.

C. Fred Grundy will watch Fowler as he flies over the mountains with the Cole motor. Grundy has become an aeroplanist though I notice it is not hard to keep the Cole, Thomas and Paige-Detroit man on earth. Try a lift into the blue, Fred. We will watch you and will applaud as you go over.

Charles Cotton is managing something today. He is busy counting the proceeds of the Motordrome meet. Yes, it was a success and will be a hummer today, I believe, but then leave it to Charley to figure. He is a worker even with that big $1000 overcoat on. The Locomobile man watched the Loco spinning around the boards.

Poor old Roger. He is the real "Desert Rat." This time he has a Stoddard-Dayton under him and he has a chance to win. What will happen this year? Will he tear a front wheel off, rip off all four tires, or just wreck the machine? Roger is trying to fry some of the fat off his hide out on that desert plain. Hope he comes back twenty pounds lighter. Then he might have a chance to win.

This seems to be a fat man's race. Bill La Casse is chugging over the desert. He is rendering himself into leaf lard in preparation for the fight. Bill weighs 220 stripped for the Phoenix race. With that E.M.F. in condition Bill should make a great hit at the wheel in a pair of blue tights. He expects to drive the race with a bathing suit as a uniform.

Leon T. Shettler thinks he is in the race, but he has another think coming. If you want a lower berth don't ask the Apperson magnate to favor you. Take your money and buy a private car of your own. That's the only chance you have unless you take a gatling gun and present it at the fat Apperson agent's bread-basket.

There has been so much racing of late that the supply of specially made oil and gasoline tanks received recently by Chanslor and Lyon is almost exhausted. The fitting of cars for the Santa Monica and the Phoenix races has caused this rush. This question of an extra large tank is a very important one, as it is necessary to carry a large supply of both gasoline and oil. Stops could be made but when it is possible to go from one control to another without stopping, to refill the tank, it is desirous to do so as much time is saved. And another point to be considered is the stability of the tank. A poorly made tank will flatten out under hard usage and this is one of the worst things that can happen to a car in a race. The steel tanks properly made will not flatten and while they may cost more than the poorer made articles, they are far the safest.

AT STANFORD AND CALIFORNIA

STANFORD freshmen already have started to gather materials for the big bonfire that will light the campus two nights before the intercollegiate football game. Last year the pile covered a base thirty-six feet square and the wood reached fifty feet into the air. This year's freshmen are anxious to outdo last season's "babies."

"Shook" Cerf, former 'varsity captain, has joined the coaching staff at California, and will assist Schaeffer until after the big game, November 11.

Schaeffer has permitted eleven members of the freshmen team to join the 'varsity Rugby squad. The entire "baby" scrum will practice with the regulars, while three backfield men, Canfield, half-back; Bogardus, captain and fullback, and Driver, five-eights, have been retained. The freshman forwards who are now working with the 'varsity are Miller, Crane, Newell, McKim, Chapman, Hoskins, Hunt and Holden.

The Stanford freshman fifteen closed its season yesterday with a game with Berkeley High, which was defeated, 13 to 0. Ten freshman performers have been ordered to join the 'varsity squad. They are Wines, Soper, Dutton, Bloeser, Haley, Wilson, Black, Sim, Erb and Templeton.

The total gate receipts at the California freshmen-U.S.C. game at Berkeley last week were $1035. U.S.C. received $600.

Watts and Part seem to have the wing positions on the California 'varsity cinched, but Hale and Evans are giving them a hard run. Evans can play any position in the backfield.

Dave Brandt, formerly of Los Angeles High, is among the candidates for scrum positions at California. Including Brandt, there are seven strong men trying to make the three rear rank berths. Ulery, Swartz, Hollister, Fleming, Hunt and Holden are the men who are engaging in the merry war. Seven men also are after the front rank berths. Carpenter, Pauly and C. Phieger are the veterans in the positions, but H. Phieger, Kestler, Malatesta and McKim are putting up a great game, and one or more of the "vets" may be ousted.

Hardy and Hansen seem to have the middle-row berths cinched. There are other competitors, but they are outclassed by the two veterans.

The track squad at California is pulling off an interclass meet on the instalment plan. The affair has been running two weeks and will be concluded Thursday.

National "40"

Breaks World's Road Race Record Santa Monica, Oct. 14th

202.5 miles, 162 minutes, 24.6 seconds; average 74.63 miles per hr.

The fastest time ever made regardless of price or power since January 1, 1911, up to date, the National has won in competition of every kind. 73 firsts, 42 seconds, 30 thirds; 13 firsts out of 18 races of 100 miles and over. Total 145 places. No car in America or Europe has a record of equal merits and consistency.

It is absolutely unparalleled.

The world's long distance champion.

It will interest National owners to know that both the cars driven by Merz and Herrick are stripped speedway models, and are strictly stock, except that high second speed gears are used in the transmissions.

This demonstrates the superiority of the National "40" in both design and materials over special racing cars.

It's a comfort to know that you'll never have to avoid a hill, no matter how steep, nor mud, nor sand, no matter how deep—that you have ample reserve power to go up anything, or through anything without straining your car.

LOS ANGELES HOCKEY.

The Los Angeles hockey team put in their first practice for the season at Vineyard grounds yesterday.

The players were all in fine shape and expressed themselves as anxious for the arrival of November 1, when the real play of the season commences.

Although practically all members of the Los Angeles team have played star parts in different sections of the British Isles, they have not, as yet, had sufficient associate play to obtain the best results of combination work.

But practice brings perfection, and "enthusiasm" seems to be the watchword of these sporty sons and daughters of Britain.

Much interest is shown in preparing the "pitch" for the long season ahead; and the team is certainly fortunate in having the finest hockey pitch in Southern California. A meeting is called for Wednesday, October 18, for the purpose of fully organizing the club, election of officers, etc.

The club desires to have at least two full teams this year, this means twenty-two players, when it would be possible to put on the field at all men's, all women's, or a mixed team, as the occasion demands.

The club invites anyone who has played, or would like to learn the game, to attend the meeting on Wednesday evening at 5671 Hub street, Highland Park, when their names will be submitted for membership.

GOLF NEWS NOTES.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

Mr. C. B. MacDonald of the United States Rules of Golf Committee has made a proposal for an International contest, which is receiving the most favorable comment in the European golfing world.

Mr. MacDonald is a Scott by birth, but in golfing matters is exclusively indentified with America. The establishment of the National Golf Course on Long Island was largely due to his activity—as course that was to comprise copies of the best eighteen holes in the world.

It is in connection with this course that his new suggestion for the international contest is made—to celebrate its opening.

The contest is to take the form of a team match, four players on a side representing each country. Play to be thirty-six holes match play, in singles, counting two points; eighteen holes four ball matches counting one point; and eighteen hole foursome play counting one point. The side winning the largest aggregate of points holds the trophy, after which it will be played for in the country that won it.

The United States Golfing Association to be the custodian of the cup in America, and the first match to be played over the new Long Island links.

The Royal and Ancient Golf Club would have custody of the cup for Great Britain and the first match there to be played at St. Andrews. After that the United States Golf Association would dictate where the match should be played in America, and the Royal and Ancient where it should be played in Great Britain.

The scheme sounds inviting and already receives the indorsement of Harold Hilton. But while the European papers acclaim the idea they do not think it will prove so simple a matter to get the teams together to make the journeys necessary. As they point out, it ha. taken seven years to get an English amateur to come over and arrange Mr. Travis's victory of try has justified itself so far, for at the beginning he did the Deal Beach links in 71, thus equalling the record score of M'Dermott, the American open champion. Again at Pelham Bay he made a 68, the best yet accomplished on that course.

There is some talk of his coming west, and it will be interesting to see how the sand greens affect his play.

At the Scottish golf exhibition now being held, the old fashioned clubs and feather ball used by His late Majesty, King Edward, in 1859, while still a very young Prince of Wales, on the Musselburgh links outside Edinburgh, are being shown in just a position with those of the Morris family. The King of England and the King of Golf side by side. The Morris family, whose whole lives were interwoven with golf, accounted for no less than eight open championships of the world between them. The exhibit includes "Old Tom's" favorite approaching cleek, used by him throughout the years. Young Tom's favorite driver and spoon are there, as well as the old wooden putter which he used when he won his four famous championships in 1868, 1869, 1870 and 1872.

That exhibition must be absolutely fascinating to ardent golfers—it is in fact attracting them from all parts of the world. Just a frowsy collection of dirty sticks and balls—but oh, how throllingly interesting!

England certainly has our goat this year, what with Hilton, and now the professional Nicholls beating M'Dermott, the open champion. Still we cannot comfort ourselves that Dilbert Nicholls has been in this country several years and probably learned his prowess at Delaware, for which club he is the professional.

The Australian open championship was won by Carnegie Clark for the second time, with a score of 321 for the four rounds. Golf has taken a brisk turn in the Antipodes and clubs are opening up throughout the country. Indeed, it is regarded with grave suspicion by the labor government, who see in it a serious "class distinction."

QUESTION OF WEIGHT WORRIES JOE RIVERS.

The question of the Conley-Rivers fight rests on a matter of two pounds and $250. Manager Levy of Rivers said yesterday that his man could not make 122 at 10 o'clock in the morning any more and for the Conley fight he wanted a leeway of two pounds.

This settles the question which has been troubling many of the fight fans in the South for some time. Rivers is soon to be a regular lightweight and will have to fight as such. Many think he will be no good as a fighter in this division, but it does not mean anything like this necessarily. Rivers has been cramped in the past two fights to make the weight, and in the lightweight class will have an easy time making weight with the matter of pounds, and for this reason should put up some fast work in the division.

But, to get back to the Rivers-Conley thing. Harry Gilmore wants $250 to cover his training expenses and he doesn't care where it comes from. Either McCarey can put it up or Levy, but he thinks it is only a fair proposition in view of the fact that Conley is giving away two pounds.

McCarey wants this fight the worst way, now that the Langford-Jeannette fight is off, for the November 11 date. And when Uncle Tom goes after a fight there is generally something doing in the line of action before the smoke clears away.

If he gets the $250 concession Gilmore is ready to split the purse any way and then is willing to back Conley to the limit.

Unless the fight is settled before Sunday night, Conley and his manager will hit the road for New Orleans, where they have two good fights offered them.

speaking no golfer should be allowed to have a wife and children.

The championship of Savoy does not sound very important, but as a matter of fact it usually attracts a peculiarly aristocratic crowd. This year it was played at Evian-les-bains and won by an American, James Parrish, Jr., with a score of 162. Peter Gannon, the far-famed clerical golfer, came second, with 167, and another American, H. Bryan Ousley was third with 189.

Evian-les-bains is one of the smart continental "cure" resorts, patronized exclusively by the wealthy. So that this Savoy championship carries a sort of patrician eclat with it.

George Duncan's tour in this country has justified itself so far, for at the beginning he did the Deal Beach links in 71, thus equalling the record score of M'Dermott, the American open champion. Again at Pelham Bay he made a 68, the best yet accomplished on that course.

There is some talk of his coming west, and it will be interesting to see how the sand greens affect his play.

You can make the feed-box pay for your Brush—here's how one salesman did it.

He figured out that he could double his earning capacity with a Brush and asked his employer to get one for him, but his employer, who owned a big car, laughed at him—told him it would cost too much.

So the salesman offered to buy and maintain a Brush at his own expense, if his employer would continue to give him the usual livery allowance. His employer agreed. At the end of eighteen months he had saved the cost of his Brush car out of the livery allowance—and greatly increased his value to his firm. Now his employer equips all his salesmen with Brush cars.

REDLANDS WORKING HARD TO MAKE A FOOTBALL TEAM

BY B. C. HAINES.

THEY may be somewhat shy on numbers up at Redlands University, but they are most certainly long on spirit.

The amount of the rah-rah stuff that is exhibited around the campus of the baby university of Southern California is remarkable.

They had a class rush there the other day, and every one in college from their honored president down to the janitor's dog was on hand.

And it wasn't a silent assemblage by any manner of means. The sophomores had tied their colors on top of everything that might once have been a telephone pole, but which had the appearance of a huge stick of grease.

The idea was for the freshmen to get the flag down from its perch, and the freshmen certainly grabbed the pole quick and they jumped on the sophs like a horde of kids after the last piece of pie in the world.

In fifteen minutes of the allotted time they had thrown several of their more experienced opponents in the cement creek, and tied the remainder to the various college shade trees. Then, with the aid of some neighbor's garden hose, a young gentleman named Jones waked the greased pole and removed the hated gold and black of the sophomores down to earth. Here endeth the co-eds had their innings. They led the freshman serpentine around the campus with an enthusiasm that would put a militant suffragette to shame. It sure was some rush.

After the joy fest had sort of quieted down every one, including the aforementioned dignitaries and the dog, gathered over to the football field.

It looks like they are going to have a good football team at Redlands, and by the way I mean a good football team.

In the first place, there is Prof. Jones. There is a college, Dennison by name, where they still sing songs about what Jones did on the football field. This is almost enough in itself to commend Jones, but in addition he has red hair, and ever since the days when Eric the Red led his bunch of horse rovers out in quest of lands unknown, red hair and a fighting spirit have gone hand in hand. But even with these advantages, Jones has a hard job cut out for him.

He has only six of last year's team back, and he has many big holes to fill up both in the line and back field.

Hentschke, last year's captain, is on deck looking better and stronger than ever. Also there is fast little Bonnell, who is a good quarter-back, and Matteson out at end.

Gerber, a tackle, Fowler, who held down the pivot point last season, and Holt, a good back field man, are also on the squad again. Of the new men perhaps the most promising is Echeverria of Redlands High, who was a star on last year's champion Rugby team.

Then there is Hoagland, of San Bernardino, the heaviest man on the squad. Kypf of Riverside, a half-back, Blowers, a quarter from Madera, Beebe, a back-field aspirant from Corona; Newton, a lineman from Berkeley; Edwards and Brown, both guards, from Redlands; Beardsley and Smith of San Bernardino, and Sykes from Pasadena.

It will be a light team, the heaviest man stripping at 170. But the day of the big heavy team is gone from modern football, and with the large quantities of pep that Jones is capable of injecting into them this Redlands bunch should be as fast as the proverbial streak of lightning.

They have a hard schedule before them, hooking up with Occidental on the 28th, Whittier State School on November 4, Pomona on the 11th and winding up with Santa Monica on the 25th.

As mentioned before, they are going to have a football team out there in the foothills, but if they don't it won't be because they haven't every man, woman and child, and dog, in Redlands University behind them.

Brilliant Players.

BERKELEY FRESHIES MAY LAND ON THE VARSITY.

BERKELEY (Cal.) Oct. 21.—Now that the Rugby season for the freshman team has been closed with the game in which the "babies" defeated the varsity of the University of Southern California so decisively, the aspirants for the Blue and Gold varsity fifteen, including eleven of the freshman team, have been put on strict training.

Coach J. G. Schaeffer, after cutting the squad until it now contains only about fifty men, gave orders that strict training rules will obtain from now till the end of the season.

Because of the remarkable showing made by several freshmen in their final game last Saturday, eleven of the first-year men have been put on the varsity squad and will try out with the other men in their practise.

Previous to the game Saturday with the U.S.C. varsity, which was the big game for the freshmen, the showing of the baby team was anything but satisfactory and many watchers of the work of the freshman team practically conceded the victory to the southern team because of their weight and strength even though they were, as a team, sadly lacking in Rugby experience.

The Blue and Gold freshmen, contrary to every one's expectations, played one of the fastest games ever seen on California field. Their speed was wonderful, considering the slowness of their previous playing.

From the present outlook the Blue and Gold varsity will probably come out as well as the freshmen did for the backs, all but one of whom are veterans, are working better than ever, and there are two very good men trying for Jay Dwiggin's old place at fullback. Price, who has taken two trips to Victoria with the team and played in Dwiggin's position and considered by the northerners to be at least the equal of Dwiggins, has a strong rival in Bogartus, fullback and captain of this year's baby team, who is one of the coolest and surest men ever seen here.

Because of the loss of Markwart, who played on the front rank in the last three big games, there is a great deal of rivalry among some good men for the vacant place with Malatesta, stroke of the last two varsity crews, and Herman Phleger, brother of "Cap" Phleger, one of the other front rankers, show up among the strongest contenders.

In the second rank the places are almost sure to go to Dave Hardy, who played there last year, and to George Hansen, substitute last year and a very good man. The places in the rear rank are being striven for by Dave Brant, who played such a fast game as right end on the Los Angeles High team in the American football a few years ago, and Ulery, a husky and fast player from Pomona High.

Larry Dolan, one of the University of Nevada's best men two years ago and ineligible here last year because of transfer, and a hard fighter, broke his collar bone in a game against the U. S. Marines two weeks ago and is at present out of the running, but will probably be back on the field before very long.

The coaching department, which has been recently augmented by the addition of "Skook" Cerf, captain of the victorious 1909 team, and assistant coach last year, is going to start the hard part of the season immediately.

The Beta Theta Pi fraternity house is to be used as the training house this year and the training table will be started there under the direction of the coaches and trainers the latter part of this week. A squad of about twenty will be picked at first and will be changed from time to time as the coaches see fit.

The annual plug ugly show and rush is to take place at Stanford next Saturday night.

Morris, the California 'varsity halfback, has not yet reached his form of last year, but is coming along. Freshman Canfield is making a hard fight for the half-back berth.

The California soccer team was defeated by the Pastime Club, 9 to 2, last week.

An exhibit of motoring accessories will be a feature of the annual meeting of the Gasoline Engine Trades Association at Cleveland, O., from December 5th to 8th. There will be more than 100 exhibitors.

MOTORDROME RACES.

ahead of the Fiat. The fight was a battle royal and with the tread stripped from his tires, but with his car moving at a terrific pace, Dingley fought to the finish and too, lost by only a few feet.

When the five-mile handicap was announced the crowd knew what to expect. The Pope-Hartford had showed such speed that Dingley was placed on scratch position. The Mercer, which also had shown great speed, was given only fifteen seconds over the Pope. Just ahead of the Mercer the Cole was sent away with thirty-five seconds start and following W. H. Carlson on the Cole "Thirty" was the Regal.

Though he had driven carefully and had endeavored not to show the speed of his Regal, Anthony was only able to draw a handicap of 45s. over the big Pope-Hartford. Had he been more fortunate another result might have been carded.

As it was, Dingley did not pass the lad on the little thirty horse power car until the last mile of the handicap race and then Anthony hung on grimly to the finish.

OLDFIELD-TETZLAFF.

That the meet yesterday was an immense success was shown by the large number of automobiles packed into the parking spaces. The grand stand never held such a crowd even for Barney Oldfield. The race was a hummer and the throng went away satisfied. It is estimated that the attendance today will reach the 10,000 mark. The crowd yesterday was twice as large as the estimate. This afternoon a contest is promised which will eclipse anything ever held on the Motordrome.

Lee Oldfield, in a ninety horse power Fiat belonging to F. S. Hodson of New York, will race against Teddy Tetzlaff, in a ninety horse power Fiat belonging to E. E. Hewlitt, the local Fiat agent.

READY FOR TODAY.

This match race is to be decided in two-mile heats best two in three. The drivers will nip a coin for place and will be sent away to a flying or a standing start just as they choose when the cars are ready.

Last night Oldfield's Fiat was stripped and is ready for the big match event this afternoon. The betting odds favor Oldfield though Tetzlaff showed great speed yesterday.

These cars are the fastest machines now on the boards and there is reason to believe that the races today will be the best ever arranged for the fast pie-pan course. The first race will be started promty at 2:30 o'clock and the other ten events will follow in rapid succession.

MERKLE AN OVERLAND MAN.

Popular Baseball Player Making Great Hit With Men of the Big Factory, Who Cheer Giants.

The Overland baseball team, composed entirely of those men connected with the Willys-Overland plant at Toledo, are among the fans watching the world's championship series between the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Athletics.

A contest during the summer for the most popular amateur and semi-professional baseball team in Northern Ohio resulted in the Overland organization receiving a great majority by popular vote. Besides winning the trip East to attend the series, the team received a cash prize of $500.

Because Fred Merkle, the star New York player, is a Toledo boy and in the winter season is employed in the Overland factory, the Overland team is backing the Giants to win. They will present Merkle with a remembrance of some sort for his brilliant playing.

BANISH AUTO HORNS.

The Police Commissioner of London is threatening to have the automobile horn abolished unless motorists stop making so much noise. A bill has been introduced into Parliament to amend the law in respect to the warning instruments on motor cars. With the concurrence of the local government board the Commissioner of the metropolitan police has issued a circular pointing out that while drivers are bound to give audible warning with a view to preventing accidents, they go far beyond this and at nights in streets where there is no hidden danger, and the only danger is reckless speed, they endeavor to prevent the possible consequences of this by continuously and obnoxiously sounding their horns, disturbing the rest of residents.

3 Tire Troubles Ended

No Skidding—No Rim-Cutting —No Overloading

The Ideal Tire
The No-Rim-Cut Tire
10 Per Cent Oversize
With a Double Thick, Non-Skid Tread

Our patented tire—the most popular tire on the market—is fitted now with a perfect non-skid tread.

So this one tire combines now the three greatest features that were ever devised for tires.

Sales to date on No-Rim-Cut Tires exceed 700,000.

Three in One

Every man who knows now wants tires which can't rim-cut.

He wants tires which are over the rated size, to take care of his extras. A 10% oversize adds 25% to the average mileage.

And he wants tires that don't skid, especially in wet, wintry weather. He wants to get rid of the ruinous chains.

All three of these features, in the highest perfection, are now combined in Goodyear No-Rim-Cut tires.

Our Patent Type

We control by patent the only practical tire which gets rid of rim-cutting forever. These tires are 10% over the rated size, adding 10% to the carrying capacity without any extra cost.

The control of this feature has increased our tire sales by 500% in two years.

Now we add to this tire a double-thick, non-skid tread, on which our experts have worked for three years.

It consists of a thick extra tread, immensely wear-resisting, vulcanized onto our regular tread. The extra tread consists of deep-cut blocks, grasping the road surface by countless edges and angles.

The blocks widen out at the base, thus distributing the strain. The grooves can't fill up. The tread remains efficient a great deal longer than any other non-skid tread. When it does wear off, there's our regular tread below it.

Tire Bills Cut

Each one of these features cuts tire bills. The No-Rim-Cut feature and oversize feature usually save one-half. Now this double tread is added if you want it. Before you again buy tires it will pay you to learn what these features mean.

AMATEURS IN TOURNEY MADE POOR SHOWING.

De Witt Van Court Says that No White Hopes Were Developed in the Big Box Fest Just Finished at the Athletic Club—The Most Promising Ones Were Ernie Clark and Purtell.

BY DE WITT VAN COURT.

THE Southern California amateur championship boxing tournament finished Friday night at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, was the largest in number of entries, the best conducted and one of the most entertaining but, with a few exceptions, productive of about the poorest class of amateurs that ever boxed in this city.

At the same time the boxers and members of the club were given one of the best lessons in the finer points of boxing and enforcements of the rules, that we have ever had. All of which will be of great benefit to amateur boxing. The decisions given by the judges were the best I have ever seen, and without a single exception, were correct.

Two decisions given by the referee in the stopping of bouts on technical fouls, while they were not satisfactory to some of the audience, did no particular harm. The referee might have been a little more lenient and warned the boys once, before disqualifying them; at the same time it taught them that rough work of any kind is against the rules and will not be allowed in the future.

There has been in the past too much of this so-called infighting, that is nothing but roughing and wrestling, added nothing to the finer points of the art, and was never intended to be allowed in the rules.

The orderly crowd and the absence of noisy coaching in the corners was one of the features of the tournament and was greatly appreciated by the members and their friends.

ERNIE CLARK A STAR

The Columbia Athletic Club sent several entries that showed good material for champion boxers, but made the mistake in entering their boys too light for their class. Al Bertell should have entered in the 125-pound class and Ed Patten, the winner of the welterweight class, was only two pounds over the lightweight limit. Bertell possessed a good hard punch but was handicapped in height when he met Ernie Clark, who proved to be the classiest boxer of the tournament, and in fact one of the best amateur boxers in America today.

In the 115-pound class Earl Neville, the winner, and Victor Barsante were evenly matched for the finals. While Barsante showed more experience, this was offset by Neville's strength and hitting. The first round was about even. In the second round Neville began to force Barsante, and while he was getting some good hard punches, he was gradually outgaming Barsante and would have probably won the decision if the referee had not disqualified Barsante in the third round on a technical foul.

The 125-pound class proved to be the most interesting of the tournament, and William Purtell was the shining star. Purtell was a very slender chap and only weighed 120 pounds and resembled Johnny Kilhane so much that he was called "Old Man Kilbane."

Purtell was a perfect judge of time and caused much amusement for the crowd by easily avoiding the wild swings of his opponents, and giving the best exhibition of real clever work of the tournament. If he had a punch, he would easily have won the class.

PURTELL'S SPONGE.

Purtell bought his own sponge and was so elated when he won the first night that he placed it to my care with instructions that no one be allowed to use it, and that no one was to use it on him but myself during the tournament. I took charge of that precious sponge, tucked it in his shoe and hid the shoe for the second night. The first thing he asked for after weighing in was about the sponge. When he won the second night I had to carry the sponge in my pocket until the final bout, which he lost. I then resolved never again to be manager of a sponge. It took an extra round to decide in favor of Frank Lober of the Southern California Athletic Club, the winner of this class.

The fastest and hardest boxing was in the lightweight class, between Emil Becker of the L.A.A.C. and J. Lardner, unattached. This was a slugging match from start to finish. The boys set a terrific pace from the start and the superb condtion of both was a fine example for all amateurs to follow. It clearly proved that good condition is the principal thing in all athletic contests.

Becker, the winner of this contest, met Ernie Clark, the classiest man of the tournament in the finals. Clark disposed of three opponents during the meet in less than three rounds of boxing. Ernie is a tall lightweight with a terrific punch in either hand, very fast, and sets a terrible pace from the start. He easily out-classed all in his class and is without a doubt one of the best amateurs ever seen in this city.

Ed Patten, the welterweight from the Columbia Athletic Club, won the title in his class from Jimmie Hayes of the L.A.A.C. Patten is a strong, rugged fellow and with a little more cleverness will hold his title for a long time. He is a steady boxer with a good hard punch, very cool and pays no attention to punishment.

Charles McAleer, who lost to Jack Clark in the middleweight class, was the fiercest man in the tournament while he lasted. When Mac got started his arms resembled one of the wheels of Bert Dingley's Pope-Hartford racing machine, he swung them so fast and hard; and the surprise of it all was that he kept it up for nearly a round, when Clark got a line on his jaw and let go a hard one that Mac stopped with his face and settled his aspirations for the night, at least.

Mac's brother, who was one of his seconds, nearly fainted with surprise and showed his disappointment by bursting out crying in his corner. McAleer showed his gameness by saying that he will try again and will keep cooler and lick some one to square things.

J. Frantz, the winner of the heavyweight class, was the luckiest man in the tournament. Bill McClain peppered his ribs until it looked as though he would break them. He was chasing Frantz all over the ring until finally Frantz clinched to save himself from a knockout, and as Bill pushed him away to take another punch at him, Frantz accidentally slipped down, and his seconds; seeing a chance to start something, began to holler, "foul."

A GAME LOSER.

John Brink, in his anxiety to do the right and square thing by all, gave the decision to Frantz on a foul. McClain showed his good sportsmanship by never making a protest and walking over and shaking hands with Frantz.

Several contests were lost by boxers using the crouch and covering up style, which was another good lesson to all. Los Angeles has plenty of good material for high-class amateur boxers, and the Los Angeles Athletic Club intends to hold these tournaments from time to time and try and develop and create a high standard in amateur boxing. Cliff Reuman, Benny Brain and Force Parker, the Boxing Committee, are working hard along these lines and with the support of the members and proper encouragement to outside clubs to enter these tournaments, amateur boxing will soon be the most popular of all indoor sports.

Aviator.

FOWLER LIGHTS NEAR RIVERSIDE.

COMES DOWN VOLUNTARILY BY SHUTTING OFF POWER.

Mistook the Salt Lake for the Southern Pacific Tracks and Made a Wide Detour from the Right Route—Will Make Another Try Today, Going to Colton.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Aviator Fowler landed on a barley covered plateau just northeast of this city at 11:38 today after completing his flight from Pasadena, a distance of fifty-five miles in sixty-eight minutes. He traveled further than that distance, as he mistook the Salt Lake for the Southern Pacific tracks at Ontario and detoured several miles before he again struck the trail he had mapped out. He said:

"I flew at an altitude averaging 4000 feet, but while over Pomona my engine stopped and I descended several hundred feet, turning on the gasoline from the second tank as I did so, and soon the engine again started and I arose to the greater altitude. The mountain currents as I approached Riverside were hard to fly against, so I determined I had better descend, which I did with the greatest ease on the smooth, sandy soil of the little high plain near the cement works."

Fowler stated he will leave here at 6 o'clock tomorrow, flying over Colton and on to Banning, thence to Yuma and on towards El Paso.

MACK TRUCKS IN NUMBERS.

Commercial Cars to be Carried in Series and Big Business Is Planned.

H. A. Seller, who seems to have the right kind of a name, is here to handle the Mack line of trucks. He expects to place the agency and will be associated with Samuel Wixon, who will probably be the district manager. The trucks are turned out in one, one and one-half, two, three, four, five, six, seven and eight-chassis and are said to be among the most high-powered commercial cars built.

The line appears to be particularly interesting. One of the first big deals which Seller has closed is an order from the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company for five Mack trucks. These cars are to be delivered with a special winch attachment. The trucks are fully equipped for outside work of the roughest kind.

It is the purpose of Seller to keep in stock a large assortment of machines. He expects to handle the trucks in sufficient numbers to make the business one of the most important on automobile row. He will remain here for about a month and then will return to San Francisco. It is his purpose to make the Bay City and Los Angeles his two distributing points for the Pacific Coast.

TAIL LIGHTS ARE RIGHT.

Changes Made in Twenty-five E.M.F. Cars to Abide by Rule of the Road in Force in Foreign Countries.

An order requiring the location of the tail lights on the right instead of the left side of twenty-five E.M.F. "30" and Flanders "20" cars in every production, which recently went into effect in the Studebaker corporation's factories at Detroit, illustrates the attention given to the expert trade by the American manufacturers. The order is a concession to the rules of the road in force in foreign lands, where meeting cars turn to the left and passing cars go by on the right—the opposite of the American system.

Aside from this change, and the fact that the tires for the cars must be selected on the metric system, instead of by the inches, the twenty-five cars of these makes turned out daily for the foreign dealers are exactly the same types of cars as those which form the regular run of the home trade.

Transcontinental Highways.

Transcontinental highways will receive particular attention at the trans-Mississippi Congress, which meets in Kansas City, Mo., from November 14 to 17. The route said to be most favored, in a general way, is from Los Angeles to San Diego, Cal., thence to Yuma, Phoenix and Globe, Ariz., through the northern part of New Mexico by way of Albuquerque to Trinidad, Colo., connecting there with the Denver road and the Santa Fe trail leading through Kansas to Kansas City, up the Missouri River by way of St. Joseph to Omaha, across Iowa to Keokuk, thence to Decatur, Ill., thence to Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo and New York City.

LONG TOUR IN E.M.F.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Kingman of Spokane, in their E.M.F. "30," drove from their home to Atlantic City early in the summer. After using their car steadily while in the southern part, they motored home again. Their speedometer now shows 10,470 miles. This winter they have planned to tour through Southern California.

U. S. C. STANFORD GAME.

picture of confidence, while on the other hand the U.S.C. men were quiet and a little pale.

At seven minutes to three Benny Erb planted his toe in the ball and the great game was on.

THE KICK-OFF.

After the kick-off the Stanford team rushed the ball to the goal line almost at once and it looked bad for U.S.C. Then the old fighting spirit came up and the local scrum tore the Stanford attack to ribbons. Tod Wright came to the front with some nice boots out of danger. Davis was working like a horse on the line outs, while Schwartz and Millikan charged like bulls. Truck Manning was very much in every scrimmage. The work of the local scrum was offset by the kicking of Brown, the Stanford full-back, and the great running of Geissler and Harrigan through the scattered field.

Time after time during the first twenty minutes of this half Stanford was on the point of scoring, only to be driven back by the great defense of the U.S.C. men.

When Stanford had so many times failed to score, the local Cards took the offensive, and drove the ball to the middle of the field, where some fierce scrums were in order. The timer blew his blast just as Manning fell on the ball, where, thirty minutes before, Erb had booted the ball.

CO-EDS LED YELLS.

There were terrible times after this half. The U.S.C. bleachers went wild, and a fair co-ed got on the yell leaders' stand and led the songs for a while. Excitement was rife. Gloom had settled over the Stanford followers as the two teams were rushed to their respective quarters.

In the U.S.C. gym Higgins was pleading with his men to keep up the pace while the battle-scarred heroes were being rubbed down. In the Stanford quarters Coach Presley was calling down the wrath of the gods on the devoted heads of his slaves. He ripped them up first one way, then another, during the whole time between the halves.

Stanford was on the field first for the second half, and was greeted by a few scattering cheers. When the U. S.C. team came on the scene of battle the bleachers rose to a man and one of the greatest ovations ever accorded a team in the south was given to the gritty U.S.C. fighters.

PACE BEGINS TO TELL.

The two teams went at it just as hard in this frame as in the first canto, but the pace began to tell at once. Foss was laid out time after time. Finally he was forced to leave the game, as he was out of his head. Reeves was taken out soon after and Reisling, who took Reeves's place, was carried out with a bad rib. The new men fell into the empty holes and the game went on at the same terrible pace.

In this half the Stanford team grew more and more desperate as the U.S.C. men were foiling attempt after attempt at the goal line. The defense of the local men was a wonder, but finally Geissler got away for a thirty-yard run on a passing rush and kicked across field. With the ball on the 12-yard line, a terrible scrimmage took place, and finally Schaup fell on the ball as it was dribbled over the line. Brown was all in and missed the goal. This made the first three points for Stanford, and the northern rooters woke up a little.

THE FIGHT BEGINS.

U.S.C. kicked off after the first try and began a fight for their lives. However, Brown came through with another of his long sixty-yard spirals, and the ball was once more on the U.S.C. goal line. Here Don Wallace, who had taken Wright's place at full when the latter moved up to fill the hole made by Foss, came to the fore with some fast kicks into touch. The scrum and Wallace saved a score here, and once more the ball was in the middle of the field.

Finally Brown got off another of his famous boots, and the ball was worked to the one-yard line by a passing rush. The Stanford men tried to push it over in dribbling, but there was too much U.S.C. stone wall scrum so a pack was formed and Stanford heeled the ball out, and the backs were away in the first good rush of the day. Geissler sent most of the way after getting the pass from Harrigan, and just as Manning fell on his neck heaved the bladder to Reisling, who went to the one-yard line. Just as Wallace was bringing him to earth, Erb came tearing up and took the ball over. Brown again failed at the goal. Score 6 to 0 in Stanford's favor.

This ended the scoring of the game as U.S.C. started a great rush for the enemy's goal. The Stanford team was swept off its feet for a moment, but U.S.C. is weak on a definite attack, and bull strength would not work in the end against Stanford, so the game came to an end on the Stanford 55-yard line.

After the game Coach Presley said: "I can't see where these fellows lost to Berkeley, they played a wonderful defensive game this afternoon, and for the first year out made a great showing. Our men were off, and I did not like their style, but we will be in shape for the Berkeley game, as this contest has done the boys good."

BASKET BALL; OXY LOSES.

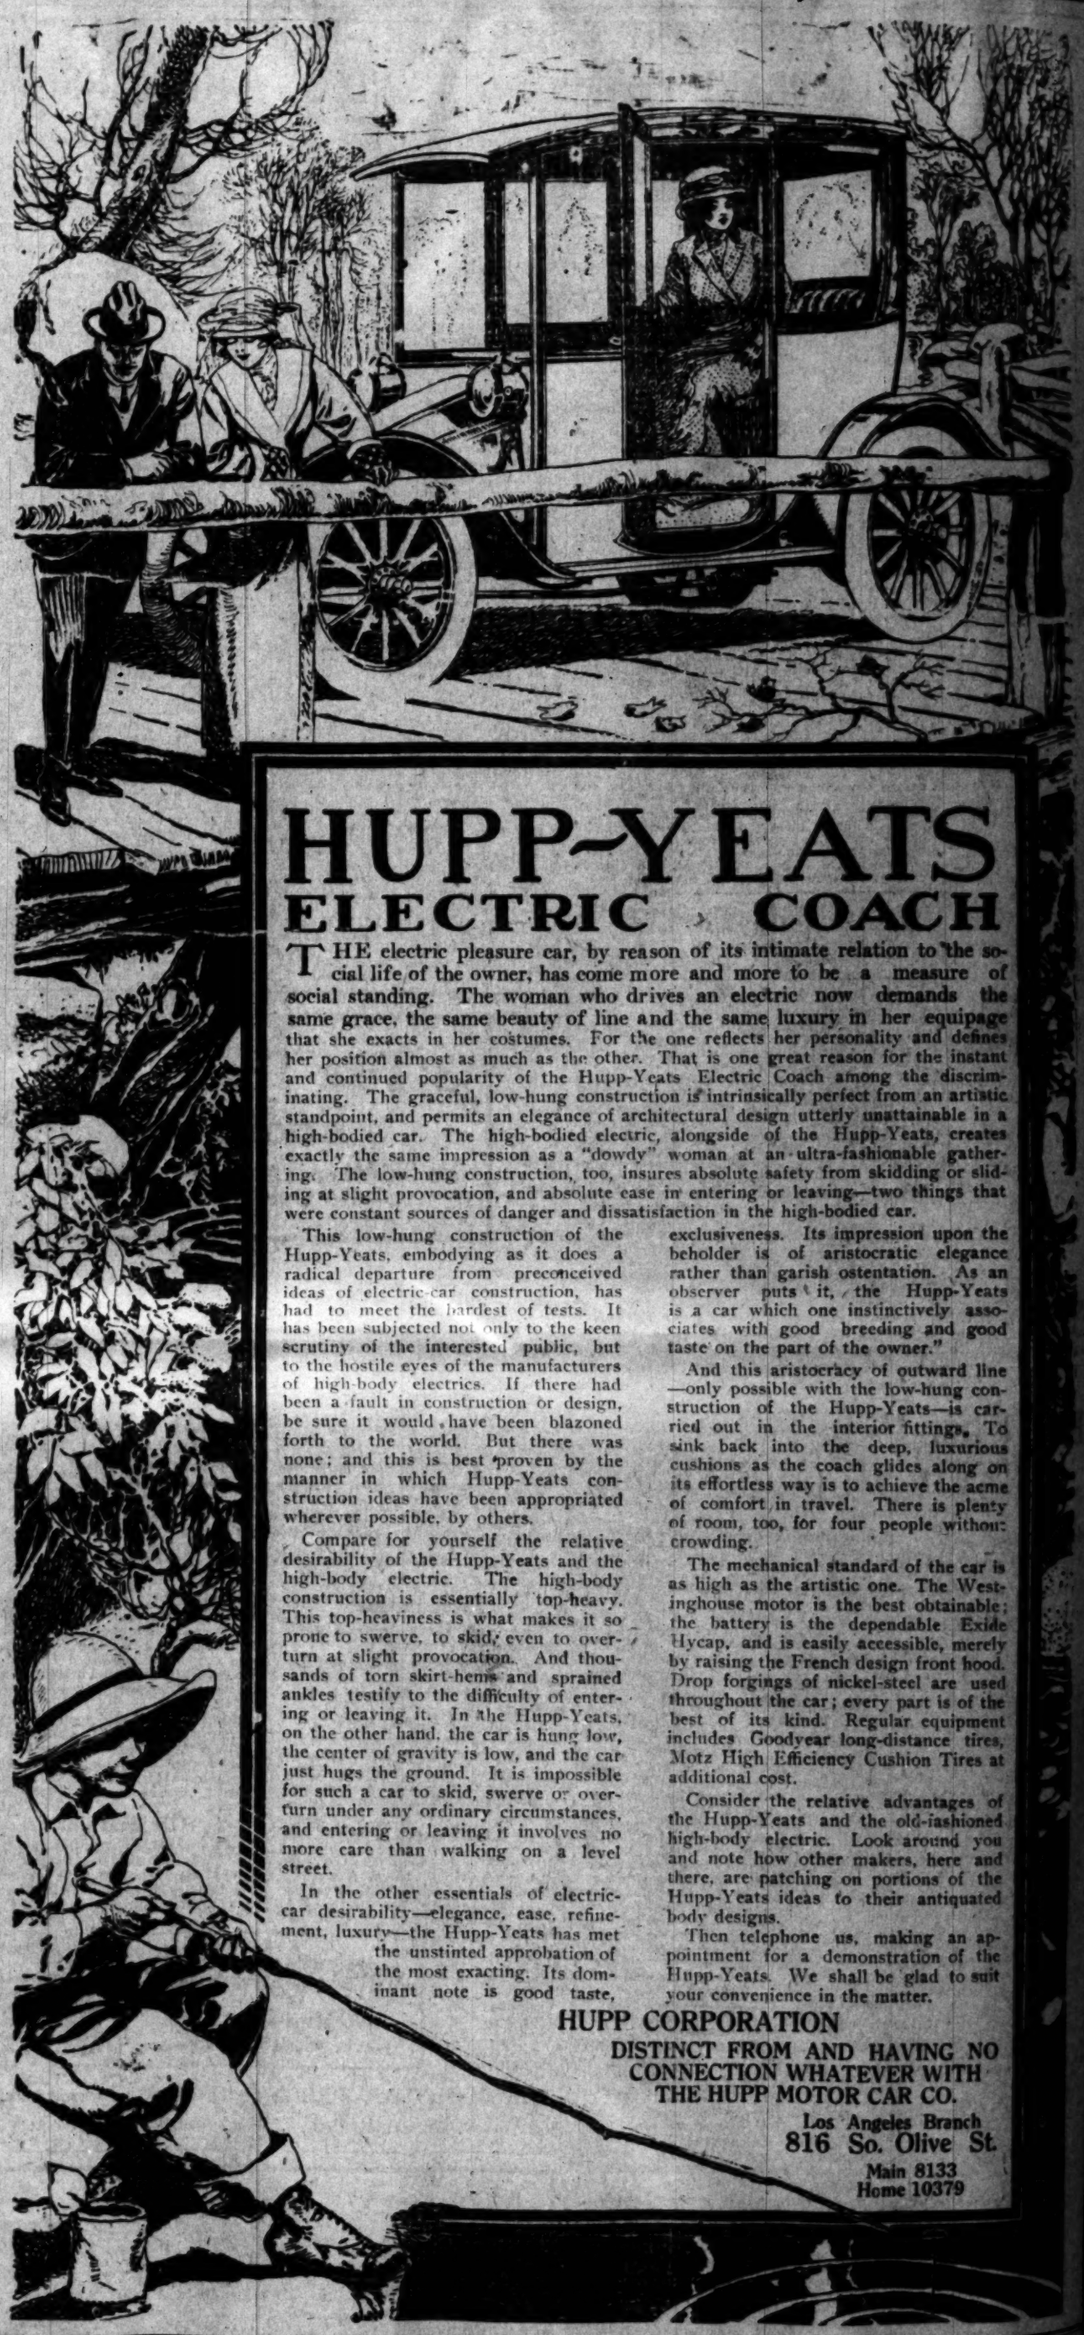
The South Pasadena five defeated the Oxy Academy boys in a fast, snappy game on the former's court, 43 to 16. The line-up was as follows:

S.P.H.S.		Oxy
Stockman	right guard	Wing
Brown	left guard	Smith
Cope	center	Stewart
Gutman	right forward	Hunter
Wyche	left forward	Stearns

Stockman threw eleven baskets for the S.P.H.S. team while Stewart starred for Oxy. The game was very well played considering that it was the first in this season.

FLANDERS MAN STRUCK.

E. G. Roberts, who recently drove a Flanders "20" from Detroit to Tampa, Fla., averaging more than two hundred miles a day, sustained his only delay from the fact that a house in which he took refuge near Smyrna, Fla., was struck by lightning. It took a day to get over the effects of the shock he himself received at the time.



HUPP-YEATS ELECTRIC COACH

THE electric pleasure car, by reason of its intimate relation to the social life of the owner, has come more and more to be a measure of social standing. The woman who drives an electric now demands the same grace, the same beauty of line and the same luxury in her equipage that she exacts in her costumes. For the one reflects her personality and defines her position almost as much as the other. That is one great reason for the instant and continued popularity of the Hupp-Yeats Electric Coach among the discriminating. The graceful, low-hung construction is intrinsically perfect from an artistic standpoint, and permits an elegance of architectural design utterly unattainable in a high-bodied car. The high-bodied electric, alongside of the Hupp-Yeats, creates exactly the same impression as a "dowdy" woman at an ultra-fashionable gathering. The low-hung construction, too, insures absolute safety from skidding or sliding at slight provocation, and absolute ease in entering or leaving—two things that were constant sources of danger and dissatisfaction in the high-bodied car.

This low-hung construction of the Hupp-Yeats, embodying as it does a radical departure from preconceived ideas of electric-car construction, has had to meet the hardest of tests. It has been subjected not only to the keen scrutiny of the interested public, but to the hostile eyes of the manufacturers of high-body electrics. If there had been a fault in construction or design, be sure it would have been blazoned forth to the world. But there was none; and this is best proven by the manner in which Hupp-Yeats construction ideas have been appropriated wherever possible, by others.

Compare for yourself the relative desirability of the Hupp-Yeats and the high-body electric. The high-body construction is essentially top-heavy. This top-heaviness is what makes it so prone to swerve, to skid, even to overturn at slight provocation. And thousands of torn skirt-hems and sprained ankles testify to the difficulty of entering or leaving it. In the Hupp-Yeats, on the other hand, the car is hung low, the center of gravity is low, and the car just hugs the ground. It is impossible for such a car to skid, swerve or overturn under any ordinary circumstances, and entering or leaving it involves no more care than walking on a level street.

In the other essentials of electric-car desirability—elegance, ease, refinement, luxury—the Hupp-Yeats has met the unstinted approbation of the most exacting. Its dominant note is good taste, exclusiveness. Its impression upon the beholder is of aristocratic elegance rather than garish ostentation. As an observer puts it, "the Hupp-Yeats is a car which one instinctively associates with good breeding and good taste on the part of the owner."

And this aristocracy of outward line—only possible with the low-hung construction of the Hupp-Yeats—is carried out in the interior fittings. To sink back into the deep, luxurious cushions as the coach glides along on its effortless way is to achieve the acme of comfort in travel. There is plenty of room, too, for four people without crowding.

The mechanical standard of the car is as high as the artistic one. The Westinghouse motor is the best obtainable; the battery is the dependable Exide Hycap, and is easily accessible, merely by raising the French design front hood. Drop forgings of nickel-steel are used throughout the car; every part is of the best of its kind. Regular equipment includes Goodyear long-distance tires, Motz High Efficiency Cushion Tires at additional cost.

Consider the relative advantages of the Hupp-Yeats and the old-fashioned high-body electric. Look around you and note how other makers, here and there, are patching on portions of the Hupp-Yeats ideas to their antiquated body designs.

Then telephone us, making an appointment for a demonstration of the Hupp-Yeats. We shall be glad to suit your convenience in the matter.

The Deadly Baseball Spike.

Showing How Baker of the Athletics Was Spiked.

Large picture shows the ordinary baseball shoe in use by nearly all players with its murderous spikes. The smaller picture above illustrates the way a player slides spikes first into a baseman. It was posed yesterday for The Times by Hap Hogan and Walter Carlisle. The portrait is that of "Bunny" Burrell, the third baseman of Vernon, who explains to the readers of the Pink the merits and demerits of spikes.

Keep Your Eyes Open.

GREAT RISK IN BEING SPIKED AT THIRD BASE.

Only Way to Avoid Danger Is in Keeping Your Feet Out of the Way of the Plunging Runner—Hook Slide Never Injure Basemen, but Nevertheless Caution Is Always Necessary.

BY "LENNIE" BURRELL,
Third baseman Vernon club.

BASE BAD PLACE.

...is the most dangerous ...ening to play when you ...are in attempt to make ...second, on a hit and ...a man on second, the ...man must play far off to...ward the shortstop's position in order to get a grounder that may be knocked toward left field. He must not only watch whether or not the ball is hit, but must watch if the runner on second starts to third. If he does he must beat him there if it is the right play at the right time and take the throw from either the catcher, if the batsman misses the ball or from the shortstop if the runner starts to third.

The danger of spiking comes when the baseman tries to catch the ball at the bag and make the out. Of course, this is not always the play for half the time the ball is thrown to first base. This third-baseman must, however, be ready for anything that comes up and consequently in going to third he goes into the danger of being spiked. When he is waiting at third to take the ball on a double steal he has more time to take the ball and can generally keep away from the spikes.

These days up to date basemen not only wear an asbestos or leather pad around each foot and ankle, but have white stockings under their colored ones. If their uniforms call for colored stockings. White stockings prevent blood poisoning if a man is spiked.

I think spikes are necessary to keep a player from slipping while running, and I do not see how occasional spiking can be prevented. The only way is for every ball player to be very careful, for spike wounds are painful and dangerous things.

Of course, I do not know, but I would not be surprised if someone did not put Snodgrass up to spiking Baker of the Athletics, for all have heard of Baker's weakness in touching runners at third. If it was a put-up job, McGraw showed his astuteness in getting an outfielder to do the trick, for he has some extra men he can use in the outfield if Snodgrass was put out of the game or injured in any way by irate fans. Such charges are always hard to prove, however. McGraw has a bad reputation as a roughhouse ball player and might have told Snodgrass about Baker's weakness.

Still Hopeful.

HAP AFTER NEW PLAYERS.

Next Season Team Will Be A Winner.

Says Luck Was Against Him This Year.

Team Was Weak In Utility Infielders.

Hap Hogan's plans are all made.

Immediately after the last game he intends going hunting until time to leave for the baseball conference in San Antonio, early in November.

He will be a prominent figure at that conference in the fight against big league drafting.

From San Antonio he will go East to look for new players. Hap says he has three major leaguers in sight. One as a shortstop.

Hap says before the opening of another season, the Washington street grounds will be improved by extending the bleachers around the entire field.

"It will never again be necessary to have the crowd all over the field," said Hap yesterday. "The crowd did a lot toward costing us the pennant. We were unlucky in having so many easy flies go into the crowd. Furthermore, the noise spoiled our signals, many of which are delivered by word of mouth."

Hap continued:

I realized all summer that the team we had to beat for the pennant was the Portland team and I believe we would have won the pennant if we had had the luck I think was coming to us.

I give McCredie credit for having a very strong team, but I have no doubt about the outcome for the Tigers if we had had the luck Credie had.

The Tigers were weak at short. Hosp started out to play grand ball and then hurt his arm. When he got into shape again he hurt it again and then Kane and Brown were hurt and some of the pitchers got sore arms. It was simply a case where we could not keep our team together and naturally we could not beat Portland which was practically one team all season. One of our weak spots was that we had no utility men, but we will look out for this next year.

I do not think Portland was any better team than the others in the league, but McCredie was lucky in being able to keep his line-up practically intact. This was the principal cause of his success.

I am glad to have the opportunity to thank the fans and the press of the coast for the uniform encouragement the Tigers got all season. This shows that our efforts were appreciated and that is half the pleasure of playing baseball. The club probably did as well as it could under the circumstances and the players join me in sincere thanks to the fans for their support.

We will do even better next year. Just watch the Tigers.

According to one expert, 190,000 cars have been sold in this country in the past twelve months and 210,000 pleasure cars are scheduled for the next twelve months.

A number of automobiles and motor trucks are being transported into Tripoli with the Italian army, for service in desert regions, where they are superior to horses in many cases.

In these days when races are won by less than two seconds, it is not surprising that the A.A.A. Contest Board insists that none but experienced men officiate as race officials.

Quail Hunt.

FINANCIERS ON HOLIDAY.

Farmers' and Merchants' President Tells Story.

Great Sport in Preserve Below Perris.

Good Bags of Rabbits and Birds Secured.

BY J. A. GRAVES.

[President Farmers and Merchants' Bank.]

Six of us, Henry W. Keller, Joseph Chanslor, Jud Saeger, Edward Strasburg, William Lacy and myself, own all the stock of the Quail Valley Land Company, a corporation which owns a couple of thousand acres of hill land some miles south of Perris. We are using this land, with some additional land leased in the neighborhood, as a quail preserve. It is well watered, has plenty of cover, is ideally located, has plenty of level and plenty of hilly land, and in fact is a great quail pasture. It is fenced, posted, and in season patroled, so that we are normally free from poachers.

Mr. Strasburg and myself were the only members of the club who could shoot there on opening day, and we invited Duffy Schwartz and Karl Klokke to accompany us. Schwartz was to take us out in his Packard, and they were to be at my house at 1:30 p.m. Saturday. They did not show up until 3 o'clock p.m.

We picked up Mr. Strasburg, who now lives near my Alhambra home, and were soon whirling along for the Perris Valley. As work is being done on the upper road, through Lamanda Park, we took the lower road until we reached Monrovia. Beyond Monrovia the roads are fairly good, until we struck some new road work this side of the San Gabriel River. Not finding the road enclosed, and not seeing any sign that it was not open, we followed the regular road, but soon had to take to the brush and sand along the margin of an unfinished highway.

An irate road builder halted us, and with some asperity wanted to know what we were doing in that locality. We overcame him, however, by our excessive politeness and regret at having followed his unfinished highway. Somewhat mollified he allowed us to run very slowly over the freshly rolled and unfinished section of new road, and across the San Gabriel River bridge. Here we again took to the brush until we reached the city limits of Azusa. Two of the leading streets of this city, which cross each other at right angles, are being improved, and their status compelled a long detour on our part to the right.

Finally getting back into the main highway, we found several miles of completed good roads, now really good, but unfortunately, those portions of it first finished are showing rapid disintegration. The engineer who invented and foisted upon this community this kind of a road ought to be severely punished, or confined in a lunatic asylum where he could do the world no more harm.

For miles we saw evidence of extensive citrus industry. We passed acres of young groves in flourishing condition. Acres of nursery stock, large seed beds of orange and lemon trees nearly ready to set out in nursery form, and numerous pumping plants with which this section of the country is largely supplied with water.

FLAT TIRE

After passing Glendora we had a flat front tire. The car was equipped with clincher tires. The automobilist who has stood in the hot sun to remove one of these infamous inventions, knows what this means. After considerable difficulty, the wrecked inner tube was removed, and a new one put in place. Then in readjusting the clincher, Duffy punched a hole in the new inner tube.

Here was grief for the party. This inner tube was taken out, and to our consternation we found that there wasn't another inner tube in the car for a front tire. There were several inners for the rear tire, and of course, they are considerably larger than the inner tube which goes into the front tire. Nevertheless, Duffy put one in. We inflated it and started on. On reaching North Ontario, we ran down to the main town, then took the road from Ontario to the Riverside Vineyard Company's land, which we found in very excellent condition, and from there on whirled along the main road into Riverside, which we reached a little before 6 o'clock. We left the two injured inner tubes there to be repaired, and started on down the valley. About half a mile beyond the upper end of the Box Springs grade, biff! went the inner tube on the same front wheel. It was now getting dark, but by removing the lamps from the car, and holding them we removed this inner tube and replaced it with another one, several sizes too large for the space it was to occupy.

We again made a start, and had a rattling fine ride until we were within a mile and a quarter of Perris, when, bang! away went the last tube we had inserted. Things were now desperate. We had no more tubes of any size so we removed the clincher tire and the lugs, and ran into Perris on the rim. We went to a garage, and found the sole occupant of it to be a rather bright boy of not more than 12 years of age. He rummaged through every car in the shop, and under the seat of one of them, which was a complete wreck, and could not possibly have gotten out of the shop inside of two weeks, he found a new inner tube of the size we desired, so we paid him for it and put it on, replacing the lugs and clincher and again bravely started on our way.

We arrived at William Newport's house, where we stayed all night, at 9 o'clock, and notwithstanding the hours, Mrs. Newport had for us a bountiful, well-cooked supper. We did not sit around long after eating, being tired and mad, we went to bed early.

At 6 o'clock next morning I aroused Schwartz and Klokke, who were sleeping as if they never had any intention of looking along a gun barrel again.

After a hearty breakfast we proceeded, with Mr. Newport and a couple of his sons, in two machines, to our quail lands. It was a delightful morning. There was a twinge of autumn in the early morning air, which nevertheless was soft and balmy. The sun was up, red and defiant looking, and his powerful rays gave proof of ample temperature as the day advanced.

There is an everlasting charm to me in the appearance of the Perris Valley. Never did it appeal more strongly to me than it did this quiet Sunday morning.

As we ascended some hills, forming the western rim of the valley, the floor of all that portion of it visible to us was a charming picture. Here and there clumps of timber, mostly eucalyptus and orchard growths, here and there alfalfa fields, luxuriantly green, broke the monotony of the brown lands, now barren of all crops, some already plowed for grain, others awaiting our winter rains to give them new life.

The rugged mountains to the east, always beautiful, were bathed in a bluish, purple light. I could not help saying to myself: "As time proceeds no grain will be raised in this immense valley. Every inch of desirable land within the vision of my eye, under the magic influence of irrigation, will yield other and more remunerative crops. Every ten acres will afford a home to a contented family. There is water underneath all of this valley ample for its needs. Pumping plants already have converted barren desert wastes into the most verdant and productive alfalfa fields. A great future is ahead of Perris Valley." Mark what I tell you and see if I have not guessed it rightly.

HUNT BEGINS.

We reached our grounds and soon found quail. It took but a short time to get into action. Bing! on the left, and a crumpled mass of blue feathers fell in a lifeless heap. Bang! to the right, and another fleet winged beauty yielded up its life to a high powered gun. My own gun was in action. Soon I had five birds. There were six guns all told. Of course, we would miss some birds, more than we like to tell of, but we kept adding to the score.

A hen quail with a frightened cackle and humming wings, scurried across the firing line. Every gun was emptied at her, but still she flew, unscathed and unharmed, and lit twittering in some friendly cover on a nearby hillside. Klokke looked at her in wide-eyed astonishment, and then cried, "Did you see that old suffragette fly?"

Soon this band of birds was widely scattered. We worked over the ground again carefully, getting many of the stragglers missed in the first advance. We went to the machines, compared notes, drew our birds, and tied them up in bunches of ten, and took a cooling drink of water or beer, as fancy dictated.

By this time it was red hot. The air was so dry, so pure, so electric, that it was actually stimulating instead of enervating. The perspiration rolled off of one, but our undergarments dried out as rapidly as moistened. We got into our machines and a short drive brought us to another fine band of birds. They scattered to the four winds of heaven, and lay very close in the rather thick grass and weed cover. We worked the ground carefully, got a bird here and there, and before 11 o'clock each gun had the limit.

With his usual good luck, Klokke fell in with a flock of doves and killed ten straight wing shots, thus adding to his string that many of those toothsome birds. For my own use I prefer them to quail.

During the shoot I witnessed a sight which aroused my highest admiration. Remington, that great painter of western life of the plains, would have made a royal picture of Lloyd Newport, a son of William Newport, a fine young man of about 19 years of age, tall, straight as an Indian, well built, was riding a handsome saddle horse with the ease and grace of our western outdoor boys, carrying a shotgun with him. He went up a rather steep hill and flushed a band of quail. Never dismounting, but shooting from the saddle, I saw him bowl over quail after quail as they got up in startled haste.

Twice he got doubles. His horse never flinched, but stood the fire like a veteran in the cavalry service. In all my sporting days I never saw this thing performed before, and I believe that the sporting fraternity of California can produce but few men who could even tie the performance.

GOOD BAG OF RABBITS.

Our quail shoot over, we withdrew to a corner of Mr. Newport's land where we would not disturb the quail, and in a short time, killed some fifty jack and cotton-tail rabbits. We selected the largest and fattest ones, and brought them home with us, and if I mistake not there will be brewing in Los Angeles and vicinity several savory "Hasenpfeffer," during the week.

We returned to Mr. Newport's at about 11 o'clock, and after a bath and change of linen, enjoyed an excellent luncheon. The day was pretty hot, but the atmosphere was so dry that we did not suffer.

At 2 o'clock we pulled out for home. The road through the Perris Valley is superb. We made excellent time. At the head of the Box Spring Grade, near where we had changed an inner tube, going out, we had a blow-out on the left rear wheel. The tire was an old one and very badly demolished. As we had no inner tubes, Duffy concluded to run on the flat tire into Riverside, arguing that the casing would, to some extent, protect his rim. We got along very nicely, spilling a portion of the inner tube occasionally, with considerable noise, until we were on one of the principal streets of Riverside, when the outer casing, in which the blow-out occured, came off entirely, and rolled along by the side of us for a hundred yards or two, and then curled itself up on the sidewalk and went to sleep.

We reached the garage in Riverside, where we had left the two inner tubes. They had been repaired. We put one of them in, but when the air was applied, we found that it leaked. It had to come out, and we put the other one in. When the air was applied to it, we found that it leaked worse than the first one, so it had to come out. Duffy then purchased a new inner tube.

It was put in place and we stood with bated breath, while it was being inflated, fearing that it too would prove a weakling. But it held its own, and a little after 4 o'clock, we headed for home. Nothing further in the auto line occurred to disturb our progress.

In making these little tours, I never hesitate to tell about the troubles of my own machine, so the other fellow mustn't kick when I detail his automobile delinquencies.

HAP GOING EAST AFTER NEW PLAYERS.

"I'm going East soon after the season closes for two very important reasons," declared Hap Hogan yesterday.

"One is to attend the annual meeting of the National Commission at San Antonio, Tex., the first week in November, but the most important one is to scout around for new ball players for the Vernon team next year.

"I want a good right-handed pitcher, a catcher, infielder, outfielder and a utility man and I'm going to get them if money will buy them. Two or three of these will be major league stars for we do not think we are too good for the Vernon club to not give the names of the men after for the deals now on foot, but the fans will see a different team next year.

The Automobile Club of Southern California claims the distinction of having the largest motoring organization in the country, with the exception of the Automobile Club of America, which has a membership of more than 3000.

I HAVE thoroughly examined every type of self-starter for gasoline motors. Tests covering every device of merit have been made. With the exception of the Self-Starter furnished free on the new HUDSON "33," all seem to me to be too complicated—too intricate—too heavy and too uncertain in their performance. The one we use weighs but 4½ pounds. It has only 12 parts. In thousands of tests it started the motor 98 times out of 100. Any woman can operate it.

HOWARD E. COFFIN

Unless You Buy the New Self-Starting HUDSON "33" You Do Not Get the Latest

Three years ago the magneto was sold as extra equipment on most cars.

Today it is regularly furnished with all first class automobiles. It is now considered as essential as the carburetor.

Next year, or as soon thereafter as the change can be made, all automobiles will have self-starters. It will be just as difficult two years hence to sell a second-hand car not equipped with Self-starter and Demountable rims as it now is to dispose of a car not equipped with a good magneto.

What other makers cannot furnish before next year you get now in the new HUDSON "33."

Don't overlook this feature in buying a motor car. You may want to sell it in two or three years. The features that all will want then you get now if you choose the new HUDSON "33."

And Don't Buy a Make-Shift

The new HUDSON "33" is a brand-new car—the creation of the foremost engineer in the industry. Howard E. Coffin is its builder. He worked from the ground up. His were all original designs. He was not compelled to utilize old stock. We had nothing that had to be used up.

The bodies were designed for the "33." Every unit is as it was originally planned. Therefore the HUDSON "33" is all new. It is not an old model at a new price—not an old design with a new name.

And best of all, Howard E. Coffin designed it. That in itself establishes its worth. The ablest engineers and the leading specialists in the business gave their aid to him in its building, for they are his assistants.

The automobile world is always on the alert to know what new short-cut to simplicity Howard E. Coffin makes. He is the great constructive builder—the man who, more than any other, has brought about the present high standard of motor cars.

For years he has led. He establishes the trend of engineering practice as certainly as Paris makes the styles and as Edison drives the new mile posts of electrical advancement.

That's the type of car you get in the HUDSON "33" with its almost 1000 fewer parts than are used on the average car—with its dust-proof features, the entirely enclosed motor and its practically noiseless operation—to say nothing of the car's great beauty—the high degree of refinement, soft cushions, easy riding qualities and all the new features not known on any car at its price one year ago. By examining the new HUDSON "33" you get an idea of what types of cars will prevail next year and the year after.

The Ideal Is Possible Now

There is no need to wait to buy the ideal car. Under any other name than the HUDSON "33" you cannot get these features earlier than two years.

Many good cars are offered now. Many are the result of the most painstaking, skilled workmanship, but they are not so modern. The usual defects experienced in automobiles of three and four years ago have in a measure been corrected by good workmanship—but the cumbersome design still prevails.

In the HUDSON "33" is combined the skill, experience and ingenuity of Howard E. Coffin and his corps of the ablest engineers to be had.

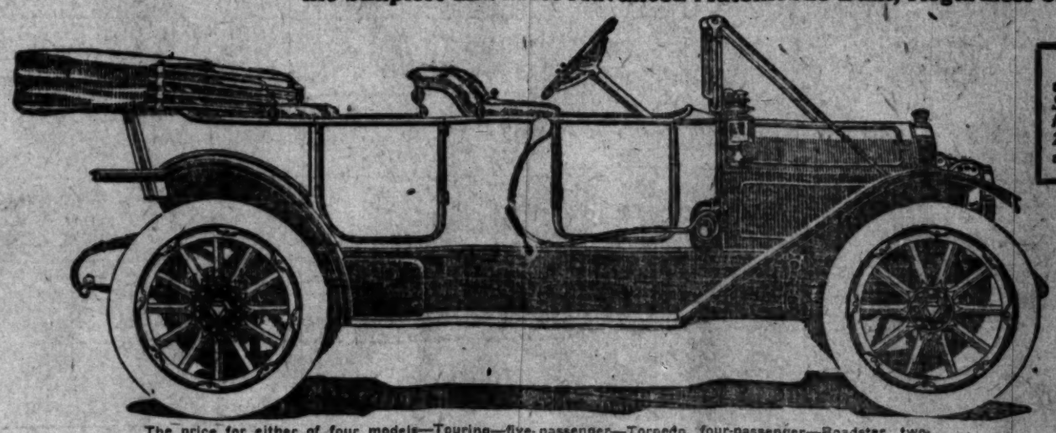
Read Automobile Advertisements In City Newspapers

The classified advertisements in the Sunday newspapers will give you a true insight into the value which second-hand cars are held. There are thousands of HUDSONS in use. Yet you never see a HUDSON offered at the low prices at which many other cars are advertised.

The HUDSON "33" is distinctly advanced. It is as modern three years after its delivery to the user as is the then current models of other cars. It has always been thus.

Isn't it worth while to insure yourself against loss by a big price sacrifice by buying a HUDSON "33"? If you think any other automobile is quite as certain to have a market value when you are ready to sell it in order to get the then latest HUDSON?

This Big, Handsome, Noiseless, Self-Starting, Fully Equipped Automobile is Howard E. Coffin's Latest Car—the Simplest and Most Advanced Automobile Built, Regardless of Price



The price for either of four models—Touring—five-passenger—Torpedo, four-passenger—Roadster, two-passenger, or Mile-a-Minute Speedster—is $1750. Not a cent more is needed to equip it before it is ready for use, for top, Disco Self-Starter, Demountable rims, BIG tires, ventilated fore-doors, windshield, large gas tank, magneto—dual system—and all things usually listed as extras are included. Write for illustrations showing how the new HUDSON "33" is simpler than any other car.

See the Triangle on the Radiator.

Send your name right now so that we can demonstrate the new Self-Starting HUDSON "33" to you before all these cars are sold. Last year 2000 were disappointed because we were unable to fill their orders.

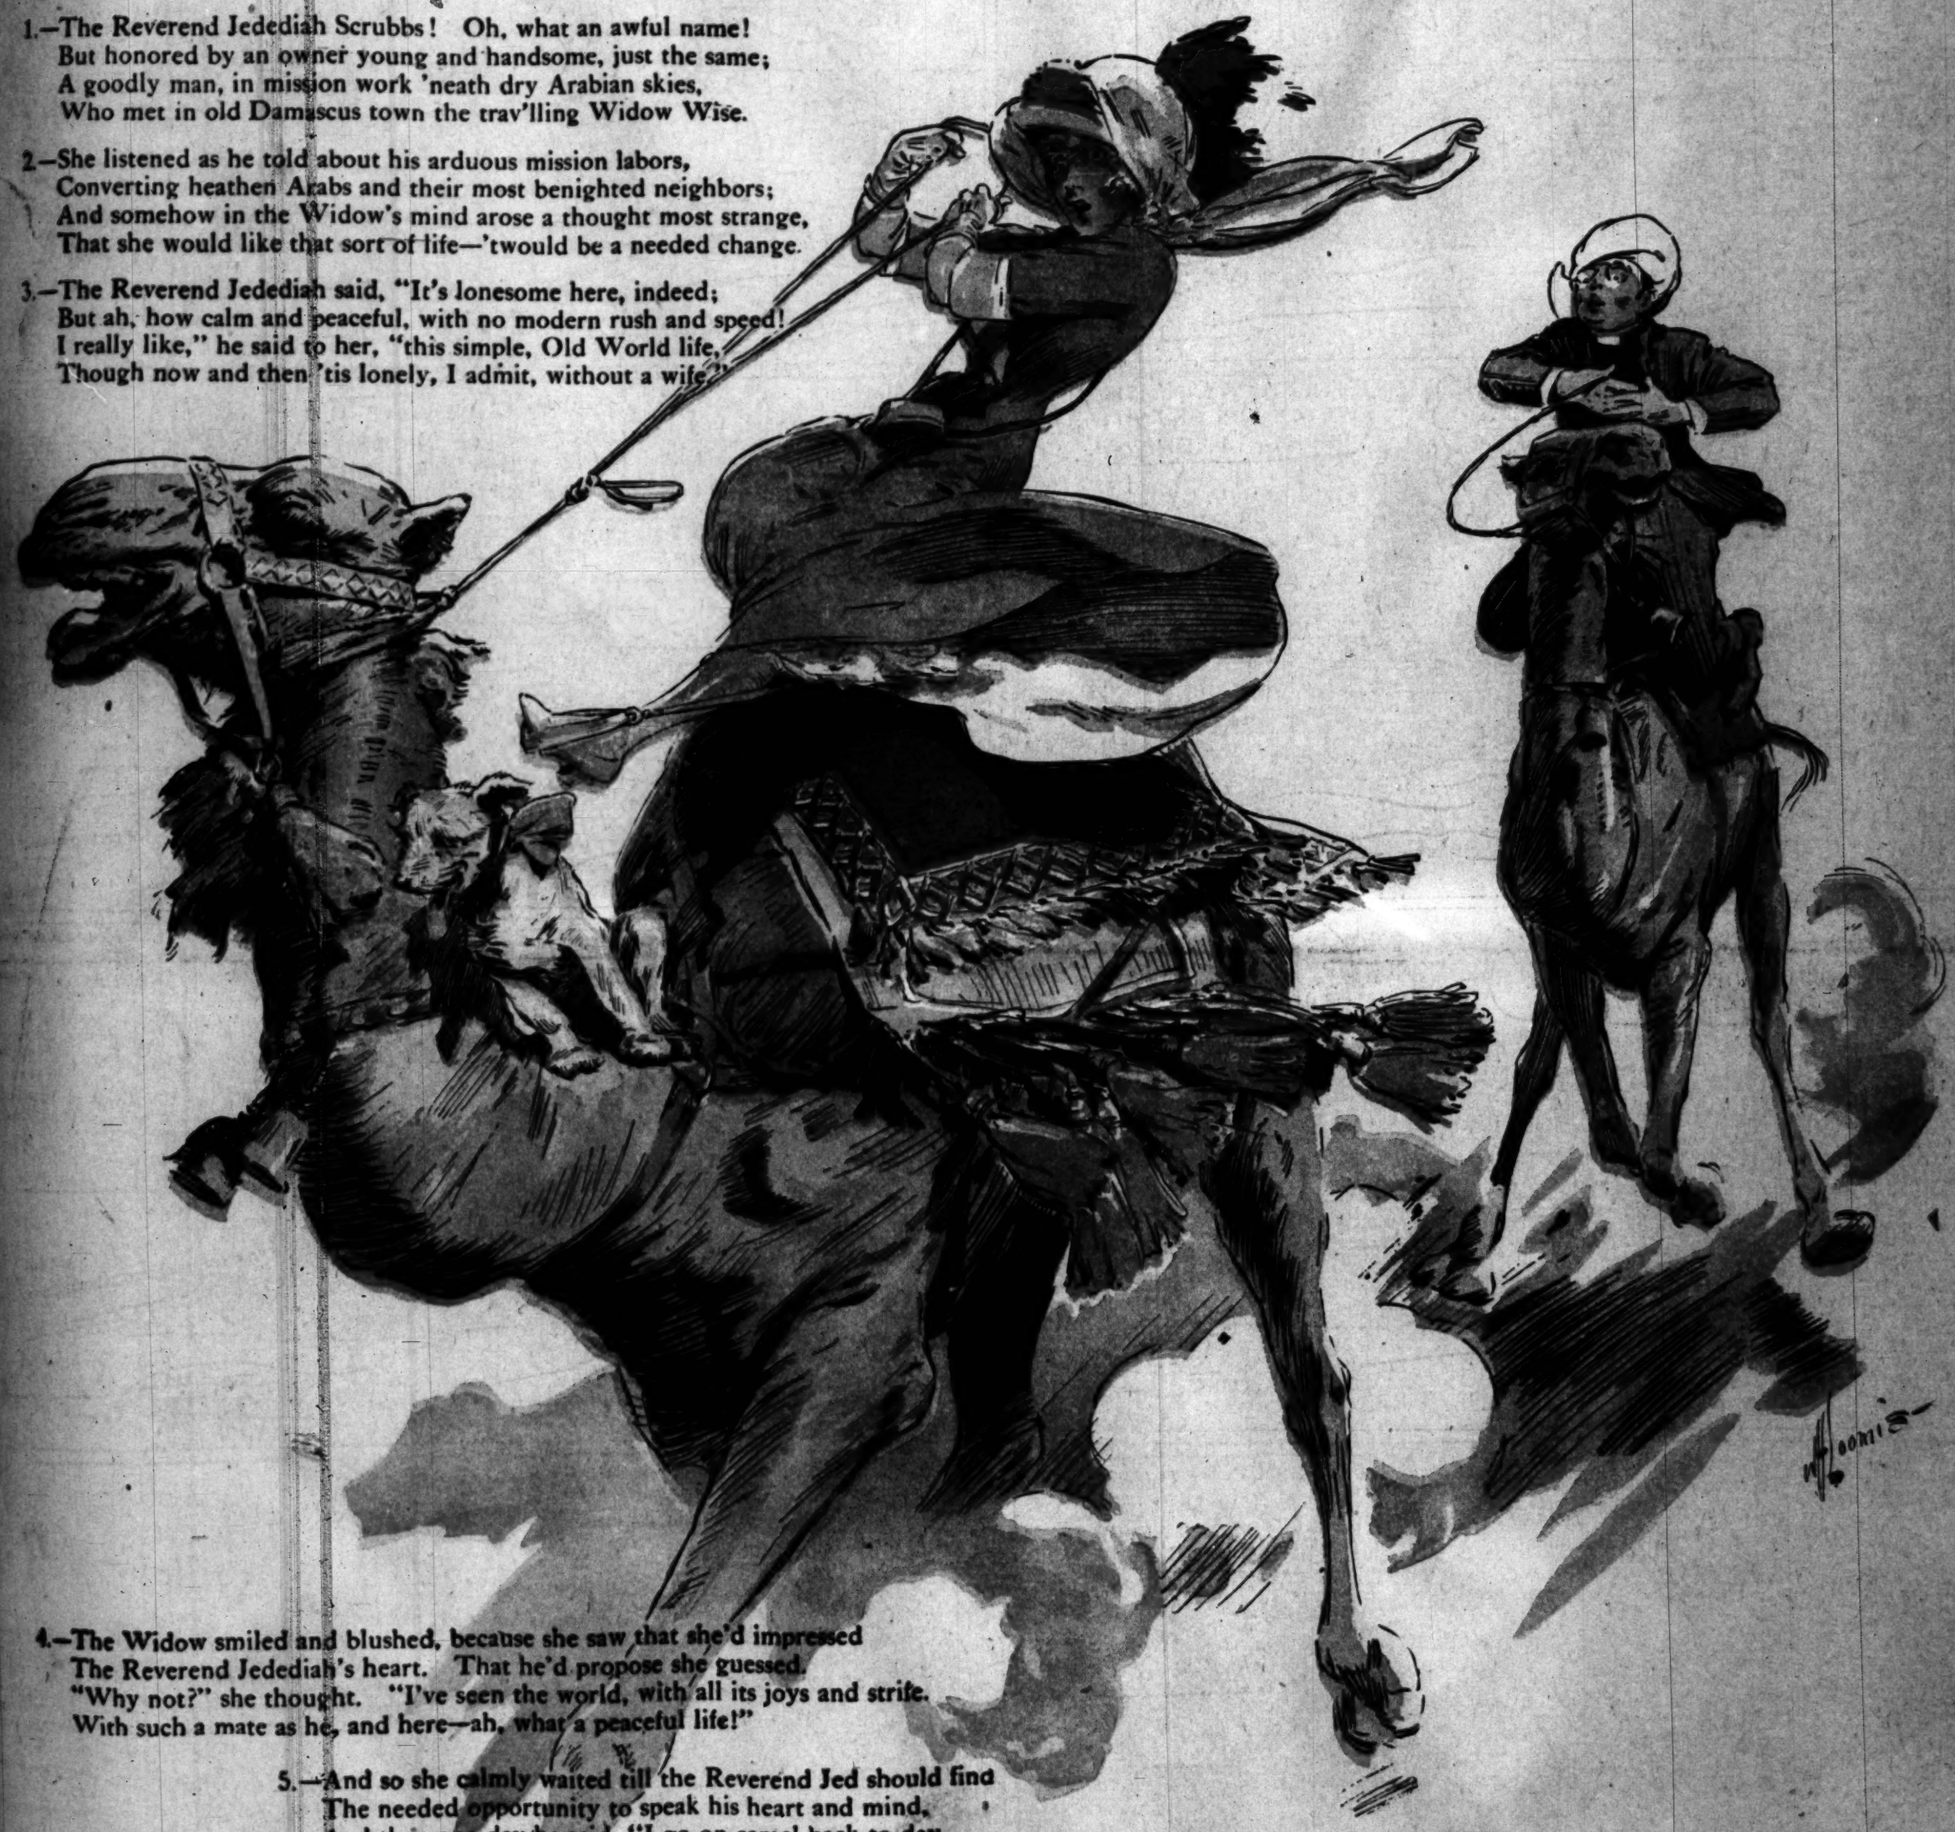
THE WIDOW WISE

Verses by Paul West • Drawings by W. H. Loomis

1.—The Reverend Jedediah Scrubbs! Oh, what an awful name!
But honored by an owner young and handsome, just the same;
A goodly man, in mission work 'neath dry Arabian skies,
Who met in old Damascus town the trav'lling Widow Wise.

2.—She listened as he told about his arduous mission labors,
Converting heathen Arabs and their most benighted neighbors;
And somehow in the Widow's mind arose a thought most strange,
That she would like that sort of life—'twould be a needed change.

3.—The Reverend Jedediah said, "It's lonesome here, indeed;
But ah, how calm and peaceful, with no modern rush and speed!
I really like," he said to her, "this simple, Old World life,
Though now and then 'tis lonely, I admit, without a wife."



4.—The Widow smiled and blushed, because she saw that she'd impressed
The Reverend Jedediah's heart. That he'd propose she guessed.
"Why not?" she thought. "I've seen the world, with all its joys and strife.
With such a mate as he, and here—ah, what a peaceful life!"

5.—And so she calmly waited till the Reverend Jed should find
The needed opportunity to speak his heart and mind,
And then one day he said, "I go on camel back to-day
Out to an Arab village. Won't you join me? Don't say nay!"

6.—The Widow guessed his meaning by the way he looked and spoke,
So on her camel she was raised, with many a laugh and joke,
And off they started, side by side, each clinging to a hump,
But as the beasts increased in speed the ride was one grand bump!

7.—"Help! Let me down!" the Widow cried, as on her camel sped.
But Jedediah heard her not. He rode toward her instead,
And shouted, "Dearest (bump!), oh (bump!), will you (bump!) marry me?"
"No; stop this beast!" the Widow shrieked, and downward clambered she.

8.—Lame, bruised and sore she staggered home and into bed she got
To nurse her injured feelings and to soothe her anger hot.
"The simple life!" she thought. "Oh, no!" and closed her aching eyes.
"THE SUBWAY CRUSH I MUCH PREFER!" exclaimed the Widow Wise.

Separate Tunics Favored Fashion

A Coral Apron

White Chiffon and Net Side and Back View.

Orange with Silver Bands.

TODAY it is the tunic that makes the gown for afternoon and evening wear. So important a position do these transparent garments occupy in the scale of fashion, that designers have supplied the demand by models of exquisite color, line and decoration. Separate tunics are now in order. And what does that mean? It means that a last year's silk or satin dress can be used for a foundation over which a net, chiffon or mousseline tunic can be placed. The result is a gown of modish charm, of simplicity of construction and of comparatively little cost.

The bright-blue tunic is placed over a dull-gray silk dress. The bodice is cut with a round low top, the front curving down in a bolero line over a beaded chemisette. The little pointed caps form the sleeves. Over the chiffon are ribbon roses in blue and green. Ball fringe finishes the sleeves and gives the touch of the season.

White chiffon is given a prominent place in the story of the separate tunics. It is combined with black net inset in little squares, and here and there are patches of black silk embroidery. White hand embroidery completes the design on the tunic. The bodice, you will notice, drops down below the waist line at the front and curves up in back. There are a front and a back panel, and the side lines between are pointed down. There are half-sleeves that fall over the sleeves of the bodice. White over black satin will be a favorite color alliance this year.

Brilliant orange chiffon combined with silver fringe and bead embroidery forms the exquisite tunic with the crossed lines on bodice and skirt. A wall-of-troy pattern of beads outlines the edge. Pointed caps drop over the sleeves and fringe edges the skirt. The lines of the tunic in front diverge and show much of the underskirt. This is an excellent design for an underdress with a trimmed skirt.

There is a decided preference for coral in the season's colors. It is shown in the "apron" tunic. This is made with straps over the shoulders, a pointed bib effect on the bodice and a long straight skirt. The decoration depends upon exquisite bead embroidery in coral and silver. This entirely covers the bodice and forms a deep hem on the skirt. Over gray or pink satin the tunic is compellingly lovely.

Last is the black net tunic with an iris design in silver and iridescent lavender. It is slashed at one side and has half-length sleeves. There are fine lines of silk embroidery radiating from the shoulders and from the edge of the skirt. At the front a large motif of iris flowers forms the main decoration. Over pale-lavender satin this tunic is to be worn.

Some tunics are of Grecian simplicity. Others show the decoration that hints of oriental colors and gorgeous designs. But all are unquestionably beautiful. They will solve the problem of how to make an old dress appear in a new guise. Allied with harmonious colors, they give emphatic proof that fashions are just as lovely as last year—only more so!

SAUCES FOR MEAT AND FISH

IMPRIMIS: "Gravy" and "sauce" are not interchangeable terms.

It ought not to be necessary to write that preamble. That it is essential to a clear comprehension of our subject is apparent to one who has observed the inclination of the average American housewife to regard sauces as sweet accompaniments to puddings, etc. Once in a while one serves mint sauce with roast lamb, but with an air which shows her consciousness of the innovation upon long-established custom. Usually, when she speaks of "sauces" she associates them with sugarless puddings, fruit dumplings and the like.

On the other hand, the housewife who has traveled and made herself passably familiar with foreign cookery goes to the extreme of calling her gravies "sauces." One asked a guest the other day if he preferred "dish sauce to the made sauce," meaning the red juice oozing from the cut roast beef and the brown thickened gravy in the boat.

I have already quoted in this Corner the sarcasm of the Frenchman who said that he had found forty-seven religions in Presbyterian Scotland and but one gravy. He might have added, "And not one sauce!" The like may be affirmed of many a rural neighborhood in these United States.

Before going further, let me give a distinctive definition of the two, subject, however, to a few exceptions of slight importance.

A gravy generally owes being and character to the dish with which it is served. For example, when a made gravy goes with beef, it is based upon the juices that have exuded from the meat in cooking. When we direct that egg sauce be passed with boiled mutton, it is usually drawn butter made with liquor in which the meat is cooked, with chopped hard-boiled eggs stirred into it. This is one of the sometimes referred to, Moody calls drawn butter "gravy." Corned beef is never accompanied by gravy, although some cooks who know no better may thus name the drawn butter or "white sauce" baked upon a little of the liquor from the pot, strained, skimmed, seasoned with onion juice and thickened with a roux of flour and butter, sometimes made piquant by stirring in minced pickles. Wher roast chicken is attended by liquor from the dripping pan, thickened with browned flour and finely minced giblets, it is clearly gravy. Boiled chickens are served with bread sauce which never saw the dripping pan.

I do not now recollect the name of a single gravy that belongs of right to fish. The liquor in which fish is boiled for the table is too strongly flavored with rank oils to be palatable. It follows that whatever is poured about fish in the dish or sent around with it in a boat is unmistakably a sauce.

As was to be expected, we look to the French for sauce recipes. Hence the numbers of French names by which we are learning to know these accessories to properly cooked meat and fish dishes. The directions for the preparations of them which succeed this preface are, in the main, so simple that the novice need not fear to attempt them. A plain roast, boiled or fried may take on a touch of elegance if flanked and accentuated by a well-made sauce.

FISH SAUCES

Sauce Hollandaise

Into a cup of good drawn butter beat the yolk of an egg freed from the white entirely. Beat for a minute and add, drop by drop, as for mayonnaise dressing, a dessertspoonful of the best salad oil. After another minute's beating the sauce should have the appearance of mayonnaise. Now drop in two teaspoonfuls of lemon juice; a pinch of paprika or, if you prefer, a smaller dust of cayenne, half a saltspoonful of salt and as much sugar. Do all this in a bowl set in hot water and serve immediately.

Plain Egg Sauce

Heat a cupful of milk (adding a bit of soda) in a farina boiler. Put into a frying pan a tablespoonful of butter, and when it bubbles stir in a tablespoonful (all at once) of sifted flour. Stir steadily from the sides toward the center of the pan until the mixture is smooth. Then stir in the hot milk. Beat the yolks of two eggs into the thickened milk, with the yolk and the white of a hard-boiled egg, minced very fine; lastly, a teaspoonful of minced green parsley. Stir vigorously for half a minute and serve.

This goes well with boiled fish.

Sauce Tartare

Make a coffeecupful of mayonnaise dressing. Stir into it a teaspoonful (scant) of French mustard, and the same of chopped parsley, a more liberal teaspoonful of chopped cucumber pickle and ½ of chopped capers, and ½ teaspoonful of onion juice.

You may omit the last ingredient if the fish be very delicate in flesh and flavor. The sauce without the onion is particularly nice for soft-shell crabs.

Sauce de Maitre d'Hotel

Stir 2 tablespoonfuls of butter to a soft cream and beat in the juice of ½ lemon and a full tablespoonful of finely minced parsley. Beat until it is of a pleasing pale green in color. Serve cold with fried fish of any kind.

If a larger quantity be made, preserving these proportions, and the emptied rinds of halved lemons be filled level with the sauce, one to be served with each portion of fish or crabs, the effect is very pretty.

Bearnaise Sauce

Drain all the whites from the yolks of 2 fresh eggs; beat them light and smooth; turn into a round-bottomed saucepan or fireproof bowl and set in a pan of boiling water. Stir into it as for mayonnaise, one drop at a time, 2 tablespoonfuls of salad oil, keeping the water in the outer vessel boiling, and stirring steadily. The oil all in, and the mixture "thick and slab," put in, still by the drop, 3 tablespoonfuls of boiling water, slightly salted, a tablespoonful of lemon juice and a dainty dust of cayenne.

This is one of the most useful of French sauces and, although more elaborate than some, it will repay the time and care requisite to gain proficiency in the manufacture.

It accords with all manner of fish dishes, also with chops and steaks.

Cucumber Sauce (Plain)

Pare the cucumbers, slice and lay in salted and iced water for half an hour to draw out the rank greenish juice, which imparts an unpleasant herby taste. Drain and wash in fresh iced water, and dry by laying upon one napkin and covering with another. Then mince quickly with a sharp silver knife; drain off the watery juice and turn into a chilled bowl, you have put well with a cut clove of garlic. Have ready a dressing made of 3 tablespoonfuls of salad oil, 1 tablespoonful of lemon juice, a pinch of salt and a smaller pinch of cayenne.

If you prefer, or if it is more convenient, you may substitute a tablespoonful of finely minced chives for the garlic in this and in the following recipe.

Serve cold with fish, and at once, as the cucumbers have a bruised taste if left standing until they are warm.

I have described this process at what may seem to the casual reader unnecessary length. It is, in fact, a simple affair, and attention to details will make all the difference between a good and an indifferent condiment.

Cream Cucumber Sauce

Pare and slice the cucumbers and lay in cold salted water, as directed in the last recipe. Wash and drain, drying as before instructed, and mince. When the chilled bowl is ready, rub with garlic or substitute chives. (I keep chives growing in my kitchen window all winter to be "handy" for sauces and salad dressing.)

Season the minced cucumbers with paprika, salt, a teaspoonful of onion juice and 6 generous tablespoonfuls of lemon juice. Do this with a silver fork and lightly tossing as you mix. With the same motion mix in, at the very last, a cupful of whipped cream into which you have beaten a tiny pinch of soda.

Serve ice cold with broiled lobster, soft-shell crabs and shad.

Shrimp Sauce

Make a cupful of good drawn butter (with boiling milk). Stir into it when smooth and bubbling hot a teaspoonful of anchovy sauce, the juice of half a lemon and half the contents of a can of shrimps, drained, minced fine and cooked for one minute in a tablespoonful of sizzling hot butter, but not enough to brown them. Stir to a boil and simmer for two minutes.

Serve hot. This is excellent for boiled cod or baked halibut.

Anchovy Sauce

Have a cupful of drawn butter very hot in a double boiler; season with the juice of half a lemon and a dash of cayenne, and beat into it a great spoonful of anchovy paste.

Lobster Sauce

As with the preceding recipes, make a cupful of good drawn butter, rather richer than usual. Rub the coral of a boiled lobster to a smooth paste with a tablespoonful of butter, using for the purpose the back of a silver tablespoon. Add 2 teaspoonfuls of lemon juice and a dash of cayenne, with salt to taste. Beat this paste into the drawn butter, and when it is thoroughly mixed, work in half a cupful of lobster meat, finely minced. It should be as fine as the coral, and the two color the sauce a fine salmon pink. Heat by setting in boiling water and serve.

SAUCES FOR MEAT

Bechamel Sauce (Brown)

Make brown roux by heating 2 tablespoonfuls of butter in a frying pan and stirring into it the like quantity of browned flour. Add to this, stirring all the time, a cupful of chicken or veal stock, strained and freed from fat. Season with a teaspoonful of onion sauce; salt and pepper to taste. Bring to a boil and serve.

Bechamel Sauce (White)

Make as directed in the last recipe, but do not brown the flour, and when the thickened sauce with the addition of the stock is bubbling hot, have at hand a cupful of half cream, half milk, heated—dropping in a pinch of soda to prevent curdling; take the hot sauce from the fire and stir in the scalding milk.

This is nice with boiled chicken or braised veal.

Mint Sauce

Mix a cupful of finely chopped mint with half a cupful of cider vinegar in which have been dissolved 2 tablespoonfuls of white sugar and a pinch of white pepper. Stir well and serve cold with roast lamb. Send a ladle with the sauce-boat, that each person may dip the mint from the bottom.

Caper Sauce

Mince two tablespoonfuls of capers fine and stir into a cupful of drawn butter. If it is to be eaten with corned beef, add a teaspoonful of onion juice. It generally accompanies boiled mutton.

Bread Sauce

This favorite English accompaniment of boiled and roast fowls is comparatively little known and used in our country.

Crumb enough of a stale loaf to make a scant cupful of dried crumbs. Dry them by spreading upon a pan and setting for an hour in the open oven. Stir repeatedly to prevent clotting, and do not let them color in the least. They should look like coarse flour when done. Scald a cupful of rich milk, not forgetting the bit of soda; stir in a full tablespoonful of butter, salt and white pepper to taste and a teaspoonful of onion juice. Bring to a boil and stir, and toss into it the dried crumbs. Beat up a few times to mix all thoroughly, but do not make a poultice of the sauce.

Sauce a la Bordelaise

Make a brown roux, as directed a while ago, and season, when smooth, with a teaspoonful of kitchen bouquet, the same of onion juice, with salt and paprika to taste. Bring to a boil, pour in a wineglassful of claret; heat for half a minute (covered) and serve at once.

Serve with roast mutton, young roast pork and poultry of any kind.

Sauce a l'Espagnole

Make a brown roux by cooking together 2 tablespoonfuls of butter and the same quantity of browned flour. When smooth, stir into it a cupful of stock browned with caramel and a tablespoonful of Worcestershire sauce, with salt and pepper to your liking. Boil for one minute and serve. A teaspoonful of onion juice is an improvement.

This is fine for a dish of beefsteak and mushrooms or for English chops, rolled, each inclosing a lamb's kidney. A glass of sherry makes it still better.

New Jersey Sauce

Make a roux with white flour and butter; add a cupful of what old Virginia cooks used to call "pot liquor" in which a ham has been cooked. The liquor should be strained and set in cold water to throw up the fat. Skim this off, season with onion juice and paprika; no salt! The ham will have supplied that. Cook for five minutes; add a cupful of cider, and when it has boiled up once more serve.

It goes well with boiled ham or salt pork.

Jelly Sauce

Make a brown roux, and if not richly colored, add a teaspoonful of caramel. Bring to a boil and stir in 4 spoonfuls of currant or other tart jelly, with a glass of brown sherry.

This is served with lamb, roast mutton, venison, wild duck and other game.

Apple Sauce

Pare and slice tart apples into cold water to prevent discoloration. Drain and put, dripping wet, into a saucepan with no more water than that clinging to them from the washing. Cover closely and simmer slowly until they are soft and broken. Stir up well from the bottom several times and cover again. Rub while hot through the colander; stir in a tablespoonful of butter and sweeten to taste. Set away when you have beaten up sharply for a minute and keep covered until cold.

Apple sauce made in this way is far superior in flavor and color to that with the sugar cooked in it.

Serve with roast fresh pork, pork chops and roast duck; also with a sucking pig roasted whole.

Cranberry Sauce

Wash and pick over the berries and in the inner vessel of a double boiler, adding no water. Keep the water in the outer vessel at a hard boil and the inner covered until the berries are broken and soft all through. Rub through the vegetable press and sweeten to taste while hot. Serve cold with roast turkey.

Tomato Sauce

Cook peeled and sliced tomatoes twenty minutes and strain through coarse cheesecloth, pressing hard. Set over the fire and season with a teaspoonful of onion juice, the same of sugar, salt and pepper to taste. Bring to a boil, stir in a tablespoonful of butter cooked to a roux with a teaspoonful of flour and cook for one minute.

This useful sauce goes comfortably with a variety of dishes—roast poultry, fish and such entrees as are made of baked eggs, stuffed cabbage, etc. It may safely claim rank as the most convenient, as it is one of the cheapest and best, of the sauce tribe.

THE HOUSEMOTHERS' EXCHANGE

IMPORTANT NOTICE

BECAUSE of the enormous number of letters sent to the Exchange, I must ask contributors to limit their communications to 200 words, except in cases of formulas or recipes which require greater space. I must ask my correspondents to have a showing in the Corner, and if my request in this respect is complied with it will be possible to print many more letters.

Attention is called to the fact that Marion Harland cannot receive money for patterns, as she has no connection with any department that sells them.

To Clean a French Coffee Pot

I HAVE been using a French coffee pot for some time. I mean one in which "drip" coffee is made. Lately the coffee made in it has a queer metallic taste. I have cleaned the pot and strainer in every way I know of, such as boiling it with soda, and the taste is still unpleasant.

Can you suggest a different method?

Mrs. F. J. C. (Chicago).

Have you tried airing and sunning the pot? Leave it in scalding water to which you have added a little baking soda for an hour or so. Then, with a stiff brush, cleanse the strainer thoroughly. Next, thrust a fine knitting needle or the point of a new hatpin through each hole in the strainer. This, cleared of the fine grounds, should be as clean as when it was new. Pour boiling water through, and hang it up in the sun for some hours.

Perhaps the "queer taste" may be in consequence of boiling the coffee while it is supposed to be dripping. Some cooks are careless in this respect. Coffee should either be boiled and cleared with white of egg or isinglass, or not allowed to boil upon the grounds in the French pot. The rule holds good with every kind of "drip" coffee.

Potato Yeast

Can you tell me of a way of making light bread with potato yeast; that is, how to make a "starter," as it is called? I have made bread in this way, but it was started with "stillhouse" yeast. I cannot procure that here. Could it be begun with any yeast you buy from the grocer? In making this bread one has to set a sponge, the sponge each time for the next raising.

I have read a recipe in the Exchange for dandelion wine. What kind of yeast is used in that? And how is it made?

M. H. F. (Glensboro, Ky.).

Potato Yeast or Sponge

Boil and mash while they are hot 4 fine mealy potatoes. Beat into them a tablespoonful, each, of lard or other fat and of white sugar.

Stir and beat to a smooth cream, adding gradually 2 cupfuls of lukewarm water. Have 2 cupfuls of sifted and dried flour in a bowl and strain the mixture through a colander upon the flour. Beat to a smooth batter and add half a cake of compressed yeast dissolved in 4 tablespoonfuls of warm water.

This is your sponge. You may use it as a "starter" to your day's baking. If you would be independent of the yeast cakes, etc., why not keep on hand a supply of what the Kentucky housemother of a generation ago made and used with perfect satisfaction?

Potato Yeast

Pare and boil 6 mealy potatoes. Leaving the water simmering on the fire, take out the potatoes and mash into 3 tablespoonfuls of white sugar and ½ of flour, wetting to a paste little by little, with 2 quarts of boiling potato water from the kettle. Let all get lukewarm; add ½ cupful (a gill) of good yeast and set aside in an open vessel in a warm place to ferment. When it ceases to "work," put into scalded bottles and set in the refrigerator.

In making this for the first time you may use half a cake of patent yeast (compressed) for the starter. Afterward, you need only a cupful of the old brew.

Dandelion wine may be made with this, or with hop yeast, or, best of all, with brewer's yeast. You may buy this at any brewery.

For Bronchial Cough

Mention is made in the Exchange for a simple cure for a bronchial cough.

My son has suffered all his life with such a cough that in the spring and winter. This old-time recipe cured him: One pint of pure old rye whisky, one pint of rainwater, 4 cents' worth of rock candy.

Put candy and water upon the stove and let them get hot, in order to dissolve the candy. Don't let it boil. When the candy is melted entirely, pour in the whisky. Drink whenever the cough is troublesome. A tablespoonful at a dose.

I hope our member will try this, and with good results.

"PERCY" (Louisville, Ky.).

Our esteemed member has given us the prescription for what our forbears knew as "Rock 'n' Rye." They reckoned it as first among cough medicines. Believing in the efficacy of it in many cases, I yet venture a modest protest against the administration of this or any other medicine containing ardent spirits to young persons. It is a well-established fact that there is little or no danger of one becoming addicted to the use of spirituous liquors after he or she has attained the age of 50. Indeed, the use of stimulants in moderation is recommended to aged patients by judicious physicians, who would never prescribe the same for one under 40 years of age. "Rock-and-Rye" is an excellent cough medicine, if taken in moderation and by those of mature age and settled habits.

Our well-beloved "Percy's" son may be (he doubtless is) beyond the reach of temptation. Or it may be with him, as with myself, who, when advised to take a tablespoonful of "pure old" whisky after dinner daily, and again at bedtime, when my lungs were believed to be diseased, took so strong a dislike to the stuff that the smell today makes me sick.

All the same, take no risks with young invalids. Better the great white plague than the red demon of drink!

Tried and True Recipes

I note requests for "conserves," also for "marshmallow pudding."

These have been answered, but I have the vanity to believe that the recipes I inclose, and which I know to be "tried and true," are a trifle better than any I have read in the Exchange. At any rate, they offer a pleasing variety.

Conserves

One quart of rhubarb, cut into inch bits, but not peeled. One pint of red raspberries. 1 pint of currants, 1 pound of cleaned raisins, 1 pound of English walnuts, 2 oranges and 2 lemons—peeled and cut into bits.

Allow a pound of sugar for each pound of fruit. Cook all together until you have a thick jelly and put up in jelly glasses.

It is very rich.

Marshmallow Pudding

One heaping teaspoonful of soaked granulated gelatine, half a cupful of boiling water, scant half cupful of sugar, whites of 2 eggs, a teaspoonful of vanilla or other flavoring, a pinch of salt.

Have all the ingredients ready before you begin operations. Pour the boiling water upon the gelatine, and begin at once to beat the eggs, using an egg whip and not a regular beater. When the whites are stiff, sift in the sugar and pour in the dissolved gelatine, beating all the time. Add salt and flavoring and beat well until it is quite stiff, then put into the mold. An agate loaf pan is good for this purpose, as it makes nice slices. Put the pudding where it will chill suddenly.

Sauce for Marshmallow Pudding

One cup of sweet milk, the beaten yolks of 2 eggs, 2 tablespoonfuls of sugar, a pinch of salt, flavoring to taste.

Cook until it is like thick cream.

The pudding may be varied well with half a cupful of orange juice or the juice of half a lemon, with water added to make up the half cupful.

Either is delicious. Add to the boiling point to pour over the gelatine. This quantity is quite enough for five persons. Pour slices of banana over the pudding, or make a fine addition. Or use bananas, large strawberries, halved, red raspberries or slices of ripe peaches.

From the same delightful correspondent, to whom our indebtedness is already so great, we have a brief and satisfactory recipe for the ever-popular

Coffee Cake

One pint of bread sponge, 1 egg, ½ cupful of milk, ½ cupful of sugar, a teaspoonful of salt, ½ cupful of cleaned raisins, ¼ cupful of lard or butter.

Add flour to the rest of the ingredients until you have a stiff batter which may not be beaten with a spoon. Beat well, but do not knead or touch with the hands.

Set to rise, and when it is light put into two pans and let it rise again. With bits of butter, sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Bake slowly, as it is likely to scorch if baked fast.

Remedy for Gall Stones

The question of "Rose O'C." has attracted my attention. I know of a remedy for the disease of which she writes, which has proved successful in many cases. It is simply olive oil taken in its large quantities and as often as the patient can take it without inconvenience.

A tablespoonful four times a day is the proper dose. In a short time the oil softens the parts so that the stones will pass. It has brought relief in cases where all other remedies have failed.

Mrs. A. A. (Los Angeles, Cal.).

It is not practicable for us to publish all the letters of advice and encouragement to "Rose O'C." which have been committed to us for her benefit. Five prescribe olive oil; one, the waters of a sulphur spring; four name as many different patent medicines as "certain cures."

A correspondent in Paterson, N. J., writes that one of her friends was cured by taking olive oil and a second by eating freely of carrots and drinking as freely of the water in which they were boiled. "This dissolved the stones."

Another has, likewise, a simple vegetable remedy to propose.

The doctors confessed that this saved the life of a woman who had serious kidney trouble. Ah, did physicians prescribed a diet of asparagus eaten freely. You know that asparagus imparts a decided odor to the urine.

A. N. C. (Farmer, Mass.).

Neither of these experiments can harm the patient in any way. They may be a decided advantage to her. Believing, as I do, in the curative simples lying to our hand by nature, I incline to faith in diet for all manner of fleshly ills. In the name of our afflicted member, I thank those who have responded promptly and sympathizingly to her appeal.

A thoughtful and judicial reply to the question is supplied by a scientific man —a physician of repute.

I am requested by a friend to answer the article referring to gall stones lately published in your paper.

I would remark that there is a vast difference between "gall stones" and uric acid stones, in composition, origin and treatment.

Gall stones are composed chemically of cholesterine, bilirubin, pigment, bilipruhin, bilhumin, with or without salts, such as sodium glycocholate, earthy sulphates and phosphates, etc.

Uric acid stones, as their name indicates, are composed of uric acid and some of the salts of uric acid—such as sodium, calcium urate and potassium urate.

I would suggest that the sufferer drink plenty of cold water (filtered water is the best) and to cut out meats from the diet.

L. H., M. D. (Utica, N. Y.).

Melton-Mowbray Pies

In a late number of the Exchange, "Mrs. W." (Los Angeles, Cal.) asks for a recipe for Melton-Mowbray pies. I inclose a copy of a recipe sent in by "M. T." (Chicago), some time ago. You thought it the real simon pure then. Perhaps this will do until a better is offered.

A. S. E. (Mahanoy City, Pa.).

Pork Pies a la Mowbray

One pound of nice, fat fresh pork cut from the shoulder. Chop it fine and season with red and black pepper and with ground sage. Use the latter generously.

Line a deep baking dish, or a tin pan with a detachable rim, with a good pie paste or dough, not rolled too thin and not too short, as the contents of the pie are rich. After lining the dish or pan all with chopped pork, but do not pack it hard. Cover with the paste, in which you have cut five or six holes with a thimble. Do not put a drop of water into the minced pan, or a drop of stock. Bake in a moderate oven for one hour.

Meanwhile, dissolve a teaspoonful of powdered gelatine in a little sherry and a dessertspoonful of Worcestershire sauce. Bring to a boil a cupful of soup stock and pour it over the gelatine. Strain through a fine sieve or cloth; season to taste, and when nearly cold pour the cooling aspic jelly through the thimble holes in the pastry.

I use a funnel and a good-sized cup for measuring the soup stock.

Set the pie away until it is cold and until the jelly solidifies. It is eaten cold. It will keep for weeks in a cold place, and is an inexpensive dish in these extravagant times.

M. L. F. (Chicago).

These celebrated pies are in great request at the railway station restaurants in the British Isles and popular with picnic parties. They are a trifle heavy and coarse to those who do not affect cold fresh pork as an article of diet. When I received one in response to my eager call for what much reading of English stories had prepared me to accept as a delicacy, I was chagrined to disgust. It was, to my fancy, nothing more nor better than cold sausage meat done up in greasy pastry and disguised with wine jelly.

I never tasted the national dish again. It may be that I had an indifferent specimen. Yet it was bought—and tasted—in Mowbray!

I thank you for the simon pure formula.

Timely Explanations

I will try to explain why water is added to the lard in which "dampfnoodles" are cooked. "Dampf" means steam. That is where they get their name. They would burn on the outside before the inside is done if the water were not added.

In reply to your second query, one may quickly tell by the sound when the water is gone. There is an entirely different bubble when water and steam have evaporated.

Thirdly, one rarely has a cover that fits so tightly as to prevent the escape of steam entirely. One must try to keep in all the steam one can sensibly retain. When the oar detects a peculiar and continuous hissing bubbling—once heard never afterward to be mistaken—the noodles are of a nice brown, and done through and through.

Mrs. J. H. W. (Peru, Ill.).

I thank you cordially for your courteous and sufficient response to my request for an explanation of certain points in your recipe which were not altogether clear to me.

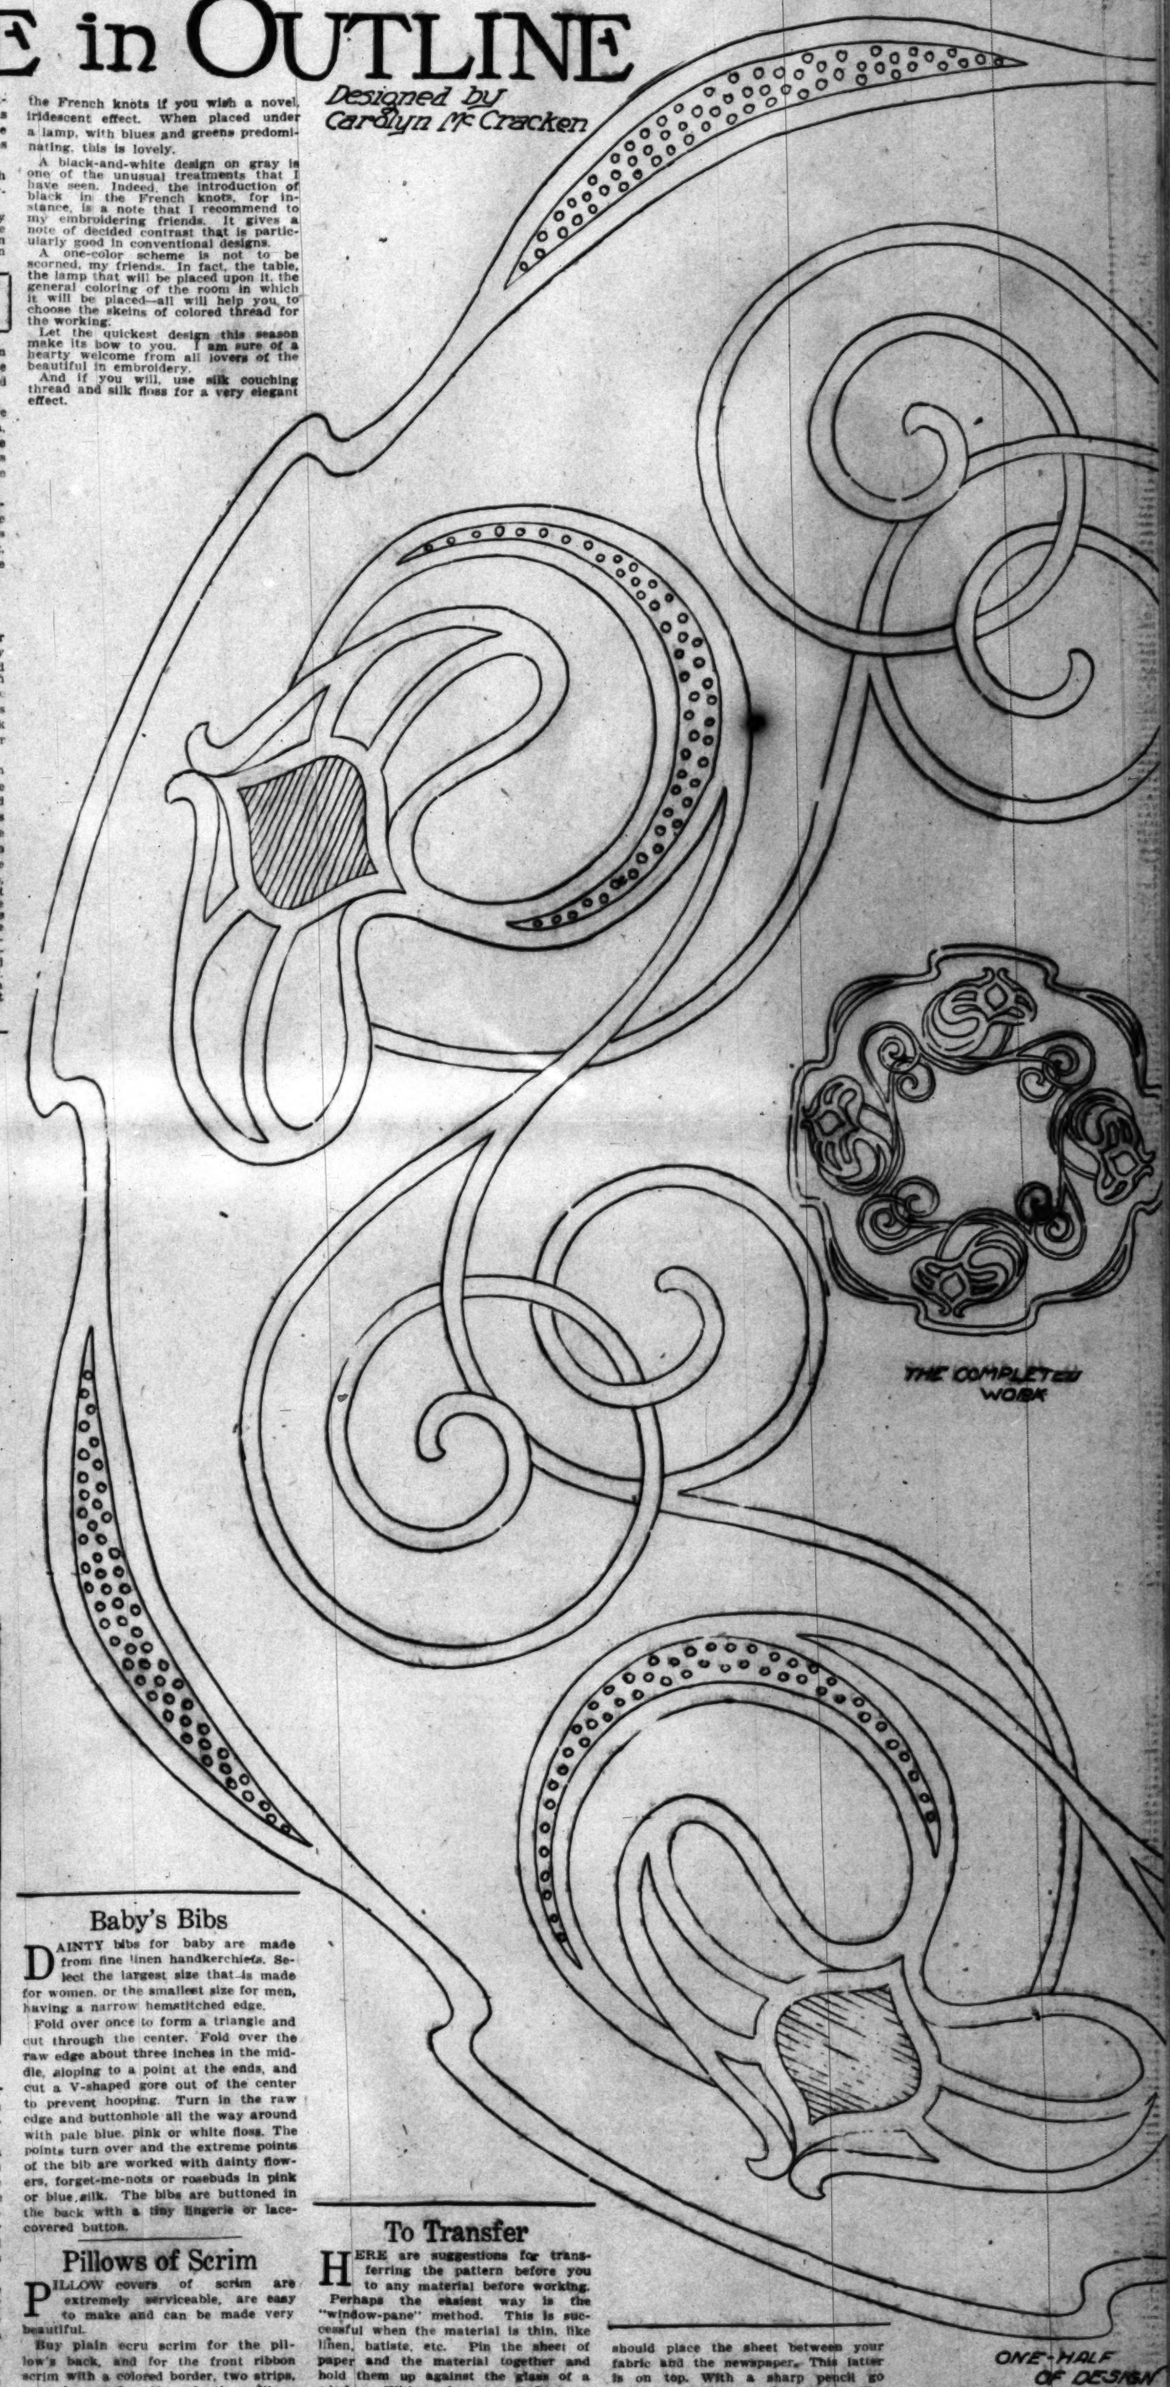
For the INDUSTRIOUS NEEDLEWOMAN

By ADELAIDE BYRD

A CENTERPIECE in OUTLINE

Designed by Carolyn McCracken



THINK of it! All in outline, so that before you know it the design has worked itself into a lasting exclusive piece of fancy work!

One-half of the design is shown. It is a "swing" pattern. By that I mean that after you have traced one-half of the design upon the material, you lift up the paper and place the lower edge of the design at the upper part of the new half. The diagonal, of course, coincides with the one of the first tracing.

A white effect is very good for a table centerpiece. A colored treatment looks well on tan, blue or gray. Any shades of one color make up very well. Three shades of blue, of yellow, of green, can be used at your own discretion. Make the outer line in any case of the darker tone.

Use a coarse thread for this. Outline the scroll and the double line with the heavy cotton; this will give a sufficiently heavy effect. The little medallions can be worked solid, as shown in the design. Pad lengthwise of the shapes and work as the lines are indicated.

Fill in the crescent-shaped spaces with French knots, and presto! your centerpiece is finished.

A peacock color scheme is a lovely one to follow. On tan linen you can use green, blue and old gold, with a golden brown for the edge. Mix the colors in the French knots if you wish a novel, iridescent effect. When placed under a lamp, with blues and greens predominating, this is lovely.

A black-and-white design on gray is one of the unusual treatments that I have seen. Indeed, the introduction of black in the French knots, for instance, is a note that I recommend to my embroidering friends. It gives a note of decided contrast that is particularly good in conventional designs.

A one-color scheme is not to be scorned, my friends. In fact, the table, the lamp that will be placed upon it, the general coloring of the room in which it will be placed—all will help you to choose the skeins of colored thread for the working.

Let the quickest design this season make its bow to you. I am sure of a hearty welcome from all lovers of the beautiful in embroidery.

And if you will, use silk couching thread and silk floss for a very elegant effect.

NAPKINS AND THEIR PRIMITIVE USE

IN EUROPE, in the fifteenth century, napkins and plates were unknown. Neither kings nor emperors possessed them; neither were they to be found among the nobility, much less among those of lower rank.

The treasure room of Charles V could not boast of such luxuries. An energetic weaver in Reims started to manufacture the first napkins. The first dozen woven were presented to King Charles VII for crowning festivals.

During the sixteenth century table service made rapid changes, so that weavers were forced to work day and night to supply the enormous demand for napkins. At this time plates also came into use, and the leaders of social functions became so infatuated with the new idea that at each course the plates, and napkins as well, were changed.

The changing of the plates and napkins, to serve the guests in regular courses (what we now call French breakfast, lunch or dinner), was in reality originated by the Chinese. We must give credit to whom it belongs and acknowledge that in China stands the cradle of our modern table service of today.

Some of our readers will remark that in this part of the world, the orient, the table was unknown. True, but the tabourets, trays, bowls and earthen platters were handled at that time with napkins. To pass napkins and sticks was a separate course. Hence comes our phrase, "Handle it with napkins."

To this nation we owe thanks for the traditions of our decoration, ornamental as well as ceremonial, and for the root of our modern service. During this period all travelers of note, such as representatives of different courts and countries, even the clergy, were so impressed with this new luxury that they in reality were the first importers.

Napkins were then woven in many varieties, sizes and colors; large white ones predominated, then the small colored, followed. They were first in use in all parts of Europe and Russian Asia for the tea and coffee service. The English named the small napkins "doilies," and to this day the doily plays a prominent part in our table service. Today the napkin is to be found in use by all who make any pretension of housekeeping, at hotels, restaurants and all places where refreshments are served.

We also get our table decorations from this early advanced nation. Up to this day, even in the poorest Chinese families, you will find flowers on their tabourets in the corners of halls and rooms. A pretty custom of the Chinese is, when serving guests while they sit in groups on the floor, you will find a vase of flowers in the center and the serving maid wearing the same flower as those she is attending. This custom is neat and practical. At our social functions, where more small tables are used, the attending maid wears the same flowers in her belt that her table is decorated with. Hence also came the button or badge that our waiters of today wear, with the numbers corresponding to their tables.

As already said, the napkin, in its primitive state, found its origin in China. During the Man-Dshu dynasty (4000 years ago) the napkins were already in general use; they were of silk on certain kind of linen and canvas; later came the paper napkin.

This was, and is until today, an industry in itself. Even the poorest man, likewise the beggar, possesses a napkin under his blouse, so that if he were offered something to eat he could hold the bowl with his napkin.

The Chinese paper industries were brought over from Korea to Japan, where the Prince Shotoku founded the first state paper factory (in the years 806-807, ninth century), and named the paper according to the material used.

The use of napkins and doilies in serving on trays is not only to refine the service, but it is practical. It prevents the glass, china and silver from sliding, and at the same time deadens the noise caused by the changing of silver.

Artistic Scarf

AN ARTISTIC scarf for a table or piano can very easily be made by having an oriental design stamped on Bulgarian linen. Outline the pattern with heavy black floss and fill in the centers with various rich colors, such as are seen in all handsome needlework that is made by the women of the far east.

Terra cotta, green and old blue, with tracings of gold and silver, are the colors most commonly used. Burnished copper, with insets of imitation precious stones, make the richest filler for the solid embroidery. In this work you can use all kinds of fancy stitches for the outline work—cat stitch, herringbone, darning, birdseye, satin stitch, wheat and the daisy loop. Finish the edge with heavy linen lace about four inches wide, in which you can run some of the shades that you have used in the embroidery. If the lace has circular centers in the design, set a bright-colored bead or glass nailhead in the center. For very little expense you can make a scarf that if bought would cost a great deal.

Ribbon Novelties

A DRESDEN GIRDLE

CAP OF GAUZE

THE RIBBON ROSE BANDEAU

OF PINK SATIN WITH A POCKET

A CHAIN AND BLOSSOMS

TO WHAT better or prettier use can ribbon be put than to supply dainty accessories for milady's toilette? And what charming novelties there are nowadays, that set off the plainest frock and give it the air of an elaborate costume!

I am happy to be able to give you a number of charming and very dainty ways in which to use ribbon in the making of these pretty trifles.

Three yards of broad Dresden ribbon in shades of pink go to make up the sash girdle here pictured. Three-quarters of a yard is laid in folds, boned at each end and fastened with hooks and eyes. This is for the waistband.

The rest of the ribbon is divided into three equal parts and each end is cut into a blunt point, around which is folded many rows of plain pale pink satin ribbon.

Two of these ends are then caught in about six inches from the bottom with a short filling of ribbon. The other piece is folded into two broad loops and a loose knot, which form the bow to conceal the fastening point. The girdle can be made any size.

A delightful little theater cap is fashioned of violet gauze ribbon thickly covered with transparent yellow dots. Four strips five inches wide are sewed together at the edges and drawn up to form a narrow frill.

Then a heavy silk thread is run all the way around the edge and drawn up to the head size, completing the fascinating little cap.

Gold beads and canary-colored satin are used for the girdle, which is more useful than would appear at a first glance.

The three overlapping ends are made of double strips of satin stitched together, and in the pointed end of each is concealed a small pocket—one for the powder chamois, one for the lace handkerchief, and into the other is slipped the tiny rouge pad which some women find so necessary an adjunct to their toilet.

Strings of beads are applied in a fancy design, and a long string of them is wound around and around to make the center ornamentation. Narrow pale blue ribbon wrapped about fine milliner's wire, tied in a loose knot on either side and having a cluster of twists and fancy knots at the joining point, makes a pretty ornament for the hair.

Another bandeau for the hair is made by simply twisting two long pieces of ribbon and tying them together in loose knots at regular intervals, making a filet that circles the head.

A dainty cluster of buds made of ribbon, and interspersed with foliage is placed so that it can be worn at the most becoming angle.

Any one of these attractive articles can be made at home, if you are clever with your needle, and they will cost far less than they would if purchased already made.

Baby's Bibs

DAINTY bibs for baby are made from fine linen handkerchiefs. Select the largest size that is made for women, or the smallest size for men, having a narrow hemstitched edge.

Fold over once to form a triangle and cut through the center. Fold over the raw edge about three inches in the middle, sloping to a point at the ends, and cut a V-shaped gore out of the center to prevent hooping. Turn in the raw edge and buttonhole all the way around with pale blue, pink or white floss. The points turn over and the extreme points of the bib are worked with dainty flowers, forget-me-nots or rosebuds in pink or blue silk. The bibs are buttoned in the back with a tiny lingerie or lace-covered button.

Pillows of Scrim

PILLOW covers of scrim are extremely serviceable, are easy to make and can be made very beautiful.

Buy plain ecru scrim for the pillow's back, and for the front ribbon scrim with a colored border, two strips, one for each side of the pillow, with a strip of plain scrim for the center. This is to be embroidered with a conventional design in mercerized cotton or brightly colored wool yarn. A flat hem border of the colored ribbon scrim is sewed all the way around the pillow.

To Transfer

HERE are suggestions for transferring the pattern before you to any material before working.

Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc. Pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the glass of a window. With a sharp pencil draw on the material the design, which can be easily seen through the goods. If one-half of the design only be given, unpin the paper and turn the other side to the fabric. The strong light behind will make it plain.

If you have carbon paper, you should place the sheet between your fabric and the newspaper. This latter is on top. With a sharp pencil go over the outline of the design. The impression will be left in fine lines and will last until worked. This method is successful on heavy material.

The last way is also easy. On wax paper or ordinary tissue paper trace the pattern before you. When the design is completed, turn over the paper and outline the pattern with a hard lead pencil. Then place the design down on the fabric and retrace the outline, pressing hard with the pencil. The pattern will be transferred without difficulty.

The Smartest Fashions of Well-Dressed Folk

"October Gave a Party"

MADGE DEAR:

Do you remember the little song we children used to sing when out chestnutting in late October?

October gave a party.
The leaves by hundreds came;
The chestnut, oak and maple
And leaves of every name.

The kiddies had an autumn-leaf party yesterday. From the woods they brought leaves of every hue: bright scarlet, brown, yellow and green.

We had a merry time wearing wreaths and garlands, singing songs and playing games.

Bess Hayes came over to help entertain the youngsters. She had on a nice, sensible gown of Havana-brown serge braided with black soutache. It was made with a sailor collar which formed deep square revers in front. Braiding ran about the edge. The skirt was cut plain, excepting for the front panel, which opened from the knees and was held in place by a square buttoned tab. The cuffs of the half-length sleeves showed the same trimming.

Mildred wore a cunning little frock of white serge, made with three box-pleats in front and also in the back, which fell straight from the shoulders. Fancy blue silk formed the broad shawl sailor collar, which had around it a frill of white embroidery. Cuffs were the same, and a black patent leather belt was worn about her waist.

Jennie's mother always dresses her in the most becoming and stylish clothes. She wore a one-piece frock of pumpkin-yellow linen. Collar, cuffs and skirt border were of eyelet embroidery on the linen, and under the arms was set a panel of this attractive work. A soft black silk sash was run through straps of linen and knotted loosely in front. A Spanish note was given the costume by bright scarlet ribbons on her dark-brown hair.

May's frock was pink-and-white plaid gingham, made with a deep V both front and back and trimmed with a graduated flounce of white embroidery. It was worn over a white guimpe with lace trimmings.

Nellie wore a dainty frock of buff challis, which was perfectly plain, the only trimming being a lace frill at neck and sleeves and little frills around the hem of the skirt.

My own precious baby was dressed in blue Lansdowne, made with short kimono sleeves and a round neck opening over a guimpe of fine white lawn.

It is made with a broad panel front trimmed with buttons. A belt of blue buttons over on the left side.

My gown? It was violet voile, cut with a surplice bodice showing a V front. The now fashionable one-sided effect is obtained by a band of cream-colored embroidery on the left side of the bodice, while the right side folds over the underblouse of tucked net and into the narrow girdle. This is thick cord, covered with the material and knotted on the side, finishing with tasseled ends. The short kimono sleeves were bordered with embroidery and opened over a tucked undersleeve.

The party ended with a frolic and light refreshment, the kiddies begging me to have another party soon again. Let me hear from you very soon, dear.

Affectionately, ELEANOR.
